Fun Class Activities
Book 2
GAMES AND ACTIVITIES for Teachers
Learning with Laughter
Peter Watcyn-Jones
Fun Class Activities 2 is an indispensable resource book for teachers who wish to inject some fun and laughter into their lessons. It contains 50 photocopiable activities drawn from Peter Watcyn-Jones' years of experience in using humour to teach language more effectively. The activities include jigsaw-reading, tongue-twisters, correcting misprints, acting out sketches and role-plays, re-telling jokes and anecdotes, and playing charades and consequences. As so much humour is based in language, these activities are ideal for practising, for example, reading and speaking skills, correct pronunciation, grammar and vocabulary.

Fun Class Activities 2 is divided into two parts. Part 1 has an Introduction and detailed teaching notes for each activity, including an answer key. Part 2 contains all the activities and games for photocopying. There are activities for all levels, from elementary to advanced, and this is clearly indicated in the teaching notes.

All the activities are quick to prepare and easy to use, and will motivate students to learn and enjoy the language.

INTRODUCTION

Since I started writing I have always tried to include in my books the occasional exercise based on humour in one form or another – especially in my Test Your Vocabulary series (also published by Penguin). As a result, over the years I have built up a large collection of jokes, humorous stories, and so on, which, up until now, I have largely used as ‘light relief’ during talks and workshops. But so many teachers came up to me afterwards asking whether the material I had shown them was available in book form that it got me thinking that perhaps such a book full of humorous and fun activities could be a very useful resource book for teachers. Fortunately, Michael Nation at Penguin agreed, so here at last is the book so many teachers have asked me for.

Fun Class Activities consists of two books – Fun Class Activities: Book 1 and Fun Class Activities: Book 2. Both books form part of Penguin’s growing series of photocopiable resource books for teachers. Although there are two books, they are to be thought of rather as two parts of the same book – one that would otherwise have been too bulky and cumbersome to use on its own. For this reason, whether you start with Book 1 or Book 2 is quite immaterial since both books contain activities at all levels, from Elementary to Advanced.

Fun Class Activities: Book 2 contains a selection of activities, the majority of which are based on humour in various forms, especially jokes and humorous stories. Most of them are designed for pair work, group work and, occasionally, whole class activities. Most of the activity types found in this book are not really new but by using jokes, etc. instead of the more traditional and ‘serious’ types of texts, it is hoped that learning will be more fun and more stimulating for the students.

The organisation of Fun Class Activities: Book 2

The activities in Fun Class Activities: Book 2 have been grouped according to activity type. The contents section gives details of level plus type of activity. In this book, the activity types are: Ice-breaker activity, Sketches, role plays, etc., Grammar activities, Teacher-led activities and Miscellaneous activities. Part 1 of the book gives detailed teacher’s notes for each activity while Part 2 contains the various cards, handouts etc. to be photocopied. Where a key is necessary, this is included in the teacher’s notes.

Classroom organisation

Although class sizes vary considerably, the book assumes an average class size of 10-20 students. Where possible, the classroom should be physically rearranged to facilitate working in pairs or groups.

However, should this not be possible, even the more traditional front-facing rows of desks can be easily adapted for pair work and group work. For pair work, students can either work with the person sitting next to them or the person in front of or behind them. For group work, two students can easily turn their chairs round to face two others behind them. Where you have an uneven number of students in the class, most pair work activities can be done by three people (if necessary, two students against one).

The role of the teacher

For the majority of these games and activities the teacher’s role is largely a passive one. The teacher is mainly responsible for:

• preparing the material in sufficient quantities
• explaining clearly what is to be done
• checking answers at the end of an activity

Once an activity has started, students work independently of the teacher at their own pace. The teacher goes round the classroom listening and monitoring their progress and only interfering or helping if absolutely necessary.

Time-limits

Most of the activities can be done in 15-20 minutes. For those odd occasions where it may be possible for an activity to go on and on, it is advisable to set a time-limit and to stop the students whether they have finished or not. Apart from the obvious difficulties of students finishing at different times, the checking process is often an integral and, from the learning point of view, important part of the activity. As such it is better that you check with the whole class rather than with individual groups.

Storing the material

The material to be photocopied can be divided into two types – a handouts which the students write on and b material which the students use but do not write on.

To save the teacher unnecessary work, therefore, it is a good idea that material that can be re-used should be made as durable as possible. One way is to mount everything on thin card. (Many photocorders nowadays allow the use of card.) These cards and handouts can then be stored in separate envelopes (clearly labelled on the outside), which can be handed back to the teacher at the end of the activity. All the activities presented in this book require preparation on the part of the teacher. It is hoped that all the extra effort will prove to be rewarding.
PART 1 TEACHER’S NOTES

Ice-breaker activity

This activity is intended largely for fun – to be used with new groups to ‘break the ice’.

1 Have you heard the one about … ? Intermediate and above

This activity is based on students telling each other jokes. It can be done by groups of up to 20 students.

Method

1. Copy and cut out the joke cards on page 17. Give each student a card.
2. Students work alone. Allow them time to read through and practise saying (quietly) their jokes.
3. Students now walk around the room telling their joke to up to eight different people. They take it in turns to tell their joke to the person they meet. This person writes down their name, then after hearing the joke, gives it a mark out of 10. If necessary, you can write this opening prompt on the board:

   Hello, my name’s … Can I tell you a joke?

4. After a while, stop the activity, irrespective of whether everyone has spoken to eight people.
5. As a follow up, ask one or two students to look at their mark sheet and tell you which student’s joke they found funniest. You can ask that student to read out his/her joke to the whole class. Or why not see if the other person can remember the joke he/she heard?

2 The dead parrot sketch Advanced

This activity, plus activities 3-6 are included here mainly for enjoyment. This sketch is one of the most famous sketches from Monty Python’s Flying Circus.

Method

1. Copy the handout on page 19 – one copy for each student.
2. Students work in groups of three – two can be the ‘actors’ while the third person can be the ‘director’.
3. Tell them to practise reading the sketch, with the director giving them hints on how to improve their performance. (They will have to mime the parrot or use a suitable prop!)
4. Get one or two groups to act it out in front of the class.

3 The good old days sketch Advanced

This sketch is for four characters. It is taken from the TV series At Last the 1948 Show.

Method

As Activity 2. The handout is on page 20.

4 Finishing sentences sketch Intermediate and above

Another sketch from the TV series Monty Python’s Flying Circus. It is for 2 main characters.

Method

As Activity 2. The handout is on page 21.

5 Argument sketch Lower intermediate and above

A final sketch from the TV series Monty Python’s Flying Circus. It is for 2 main characters.

Method

As Activity 2. There are two handouts on pages 22 and 23.

6 Communication problems Intermediate and above

This is a 2-part sketch from the TV series Faulty Towers. The first sketch is for 3 characters, the second for 2 characters.

Method

1. Divide the class into groups – A (4 students) and B (3 students). For Group A, copy the handouts on pages 24 and 25. For Group B, the handouts on pages 24 and 26. Each student requires two handouts.
2. Read through the Group notes on page 24 and ask the students to decide who will be the actors and the director.
3. Tell them to practise reading their scene with the director giving them hints on how to improve their performance.
4. Get one of the A groups and one of the B groups to act out the scene in front of the class.
7 Short sketches

Intermediate

Here are five short sketches made from jokes. They can be put together to form a class review, with different groups putting on different sketches. As before, one student acts as director while the others (usually 2 people) are actors.

Method

1. Choose from the sketches on pages 27-30 and copy them. There are five sketches altogether, so there should be something suitable for the whole class.
2. Students work in groups of three – two are ‘actors’ while the third person is the ‘director’.
3. Give each group a different sketch. Tell them to practise reading it with the director giving them hints on how to improve their performance. (They will have to mime or use suitable props!)
4. Get each group to take it in turns to act out their sketch in front of the class.

8 Good evening, here is the news ...

Intermediate and above

This is a comedy news broadcast, with two people acting as newsreaders. Again, a third person can act as the director.

Method

1. Copy and cut out the script outline on page 31 (one per newsreader) and the individual news items on pages 31–32 – one set per group.
2. Students decide who will be the director and who will be the newsreaders. Together they now select which items they will include in the news broadcast.
3. The newsreaders practise reading the script with the director giving them hints on how to improve their delivery.
4. Get one or two pairs to act out their news broadcast in front of the class.

9 TV advertisement

Intermediate and above

This is a role play for two actors and a director. It is based on rehearsing for a TV commercial for a new washing powder called DAZZLE. Props would be useful, though not essential, since things can be mimed instead. If props are used, the following are needed:

- a dirty white T-shirt, a clean white T-shirt, a pair of sunglasses, a packet of washing powder with the product name – DAZZLE – visible on the front.

10 Word charades

Lower intermediate and above

This is a game that is always popular with most groups and is fun to do. The choice of words has been chosen deliberately to make miming easier. It can be done as a whole class exercise but it is suggested that it be done in groups of 5–6 students.

Method

1. Copy the handout on page 36 – one per group. Also copy and cut up the word cards on page 37 – one set per group.
2. Before starting, explain the rules to the group. It would help if the groups had the handout about common gestures used in charades while you’re doing this. Demonstrate by miming a word yourself. For example, the word carpet. You could mime driving for the first syllable and stroking a dog for the second syllable.
3. When you are sure that everyone understands the rules, give out the word cards and tell the group to place them face down in a pile on the desk or table in front of them. They now take turns at choosing a card and miming the word on that card. The person in the group who guesses the word keeps the card. Tell them that they only have 2–3 minutes to mime each word.
4. The student with the most word cards at the end of the game is the winner.

11 Call my bluff

Advanced

This is another popular game which can be great fun with the right group. Students work in two groups, A and B, with three students per group. This particular game is based on giving definitions of slang words. Three definitions are read out, but only one of them is correct. The aim is to guess who is giving the right definition.
Method

1. Copy the handout for Group A on page 38 and the handout for Group B on page 39.

2. Before starting, explain the rules and give an example as follows:

   You are going to play a game called Call my bluff where you will take it in turns to read out three definitions of a slang word, but only one definition is correct. The other team tries to guess which person has read out the correct definition. For example, which of these definitions is correct for the word lippy?

LIPPY

Definition 1: Lippy is a verb and it means to kiss. 'She was really gorgeous and certainly knew how to lippy.' It comes from the word 'lipsick'.

Definition 2: Lippy is a noun and is a fairly common word in Liverpool and the North of England for toilet. 'Excuse me for a minute – I've just got to go to the lippy.' It comes from the words 'little privy'.

Definition 3: Lippy is an adjective and means cheeky or rude. 'That kid next-door is a bit too lippy for his own good. It's time his parents taught him some manners.' It comes from the word 'lip' because you use your lips when you speak.

Invite the class to guess. (The correct answer is definition 3.)

3. Divide the class into A and B groups and give them the handouts. Allow time for preparation, then when everyone is ready they can take it in turns to read out their definitions.

4. At the end ask one of the A groups and one of the B groups to read out their definitions, just to see how inventive they were.

Fun with grammar activities

Most of these activities are based on jokes of various types and are largely gap-filling exercises which concentrate on various grammatical problems, from verb tenses, adjectives, conjunctions, and conjunctions to phrasal verbs and idioms.

12 Fill in the missing prepositions 1

Lower Intermediate

In this activity students have to fill in the missing prepositions in several short jokes.

Method

1. Students work in pairs. Give each pair a copy of the handout on page 40.

2. Do the first sentence orally with the whole class, then let them continue on their own. Set a time-limit, e.g. 15-20 minutes.

3. Check the answers orally by asking different pairs to read out the jokes. (Where the joke is a dialogue, they can take parts.)

Key

1 before ... after, 2 for, 3 for, 4 about ... into, 5 of, 6 after ...

after, 7 at, 8 for, 9 in, 10 in ... near, 11 for; 12 from, 13 on ...

around/round, 14 with, 15 of

13 Fill in the missing prepositions 2

Intermediate

As Activity 12. The handout is on page 41.

Key

1 for, 2 on, 3 at, 4 at ... in, 5 for, 6 by, 7 about ... on,

8 in/into, 9 into ... of ... in, 10 on ... in ... of, 11 in ... of, 12 in, 13 in, 14 on ... at ... with, 15 of, 16 from ... on ... before

14 Fill in the missing prepositions/particles

Intermediate

In this activity students have to fill in the missing prepositions and adverb particles in a fairly long joke.

Method

1. Students work in pairs. Give each pair a copy of the handout on page 42.

2. Read through the example, then let them fill in the missing prepositions.
3 Check the answers orally by reading through the joke then pausing before each gap and asking the students for suggestions as to which preposition is needed.

Key
1 up, 2 in, 3 for, 4 for, 5 on, 6 from, 7 from, 8 to, 9 at,
10 within, 11 of, 12 over, 13 of, 14 along,
15 under/near, 16 at, 17 on, 18 at, 19 from, 20 off, 21 to, 22 on,

15 Fill in the missing adjectives 1

In this activity students have to fill in the missing adjectives in several short jokes.

Method
1 Students work in pairs. Give each pair a copy of the handout on page 43.
2 Do the first sentence orally with the whole class, then let them continue on their own. Set a time-limit, e.g. 15-20 minutes.
3 Check the answers orally but asking different pairs to read out the jokes. (Where the joke is a dialogue, they can take parts.)

Key
1 polite, 2 worried, 3 Terrible, 4 happy, 5 wet, 6 quiet,
7 Dead, 8 young, 9 afraid, 10 tired, 11 wrong,
12 boring

16 Fill in the missing adjectives 2

Method
As Activity 19. The handout is on page 44.

Key
1 bald, 2 invisible, 3 wooden, 4 dead, 5 exact,
6 original, 7 vain, 8 honest, 9 messy, 10 useful,
11 sober, 12 empty, 13 bouncing, 14 safe, 15 funny,
16 professional

17 Fill in the missing nouns 1

This time, the students have to fill in the missing nouns in several short jokes.

Method
As Activity 19. The handout is on page 45.

Key
1 bull, 2 luggage, 3 mirror, 4 phone, 5 alphabet,
6 essay, 7 cous, 8 match, 9 size, 10 accountant,
11 homework, 12 cheese sandwich

18 Fill in the missing nouns 2

Method
As Activity 19. The handout is on page 46.

Key
1 hole, 2 secret, 3 opinion, 4 interval, 5 Goldfish,
6 typing, 7 pram, 8 willpower, 9 fur coat, 10 majority,
11 lawn, 12 skin, 13 diet, 14 direction, 15 politicians,
16 lawyers

19 Fill in the missing nouns 3

Method
As Activity 17. The handout is on page 47.

Key
1 affection, 2 double-crosser, 3 hearse, 4 insurance,

8 organ recitals, 9 Statistics, 10 part, 11 leaves,
12 ladder ... steps, 13 support,
14 unemployment ... worry, 15 checkup ... lighthouse keeper,
16 appearance ... term

20 Fill in the missing verbs 1

Method
As Activity 19. The handout is on page 48.

Key
1 bald, 2 invisible, 3 wooden, 4 dead, 5 exact,
6 original, 7 vain, 8 honest, 9 messy, 10 useful,
11 sober, 12 empty, 13 bouncing, 14 safe, 15 funny,
16 professional
Key
1 forget, 2 knit, 3 plays, 4 stealing, 5 read, 6 born, 7 count, 8 need, 9 sang, 10 cried, 11 pay, 12 married, 13 meet, 14 stick.

21 Fill in the missing verbs 2

Method
As Activity 20. The handout is on page 49.

Key
1 chased ... ride, 2 Haven’t (you) noticed, 3 went ... said ... hum, 4 flew, 5 sold, 6 spell, 7 seen, 8 growing ... planted, 9 practising, 10 smell, 11 are eating, 12 deliver ... posted

22 Fill in the missing verbs 3

Method
As Activity 20. The handout is on page 50.

Key
1 told ... charge, 2 breathe, 3 complain, 4 died, 5 limped ... bit, 6 pronounced, 7 were deciding, 8 exaggerating, 9 lost, 10 I’m sending, 11 keep, 12 cash ... identify ... looks

23 Conjunctions

Method
In this activity students have to sort out sentences which contain conjunctions.

Key
1 but d
2 when o
3 whether f
4 even though g
5 because i
6 unless c
7 because j
8 that a
9 until e

24 If ...

Method
This activity is based on conditional sentences.

Key
1 will (you) give, 2 don’t like, 3 I’d known (had known), 4 fall, 5 would have had, 6 had wanted, 7 don’t stand, 8 I’d give (would give) ... I’d take (would take), 9 look, 10 will (people) think, 11 I’ll try (will try), 12 would have been, 13 called, 14 forget, 15 I’d keep (would keep), 16 plants

25 Some – any, etc.

Method
This activity is based on some – any combinations.

Key
1 anything (something), 2 Everybody, 3 any, 4 some, 5 some (any), 6 everything, 7 anybody ... somebody, 8 Somebody, 9 everybody, 10 any, 11 Some ... nobody, 12 Anybody, 13 nobody, 14 something, 15 any, 16 anything (something) ... some

26 Plurals

This activity is based on a rather amusing poem which shows how difficult the English language is for anyone learning it. Students can work individually or in pairs.
Method
1 Copy the handout on page 54 – one for each student/pair.
2 Explain to the students that they have to fill in the missing plural forms of the words in italics. Set a time-limit, e.g. 15–20 minutes.
3 Check the answers orally by reading through the poem, pausing for answers before each gap.
4 Finally, choral read the poem with the whole class. (It might help them to learn the regular plural forms!)

Key
1 boxes, 2 oxen, 3 geese, 4 mice, 5 houses, 6 men, 7 cows, 8 vows, 9 feet, 10 teeth, 11 these, 12 those

Part 2 – homonyms

27 It sounds the same Intermediate and above

This is a 2-part activity which concentrates on homophones and homonyms. It is best done in pairs.

Part 1 – homophones

Method
1 Copy the handout on page 55 – one for each student/pair.
2 Explain what a homophone is by reading through the introduction and looking at the example. If necessary, use a further example. Write this on the board:
   A: Have you read Shakespeare?
   B: No, but I have ____ pyjamas!
Ask which word they think could be used to complete the dialogue. (Answer: red.)
3 The students now complete the exercise. They underline one word and then at the bottom of the page suggest a homophone. Set a time-limit, e.g. 15–20 minutes.
4 Check the answers orally.

Part 2 – homonyms

Method
1 Copy the handout on page 56 – one for each student/pair.
2 Explain what a homonym is by reading through the introduction and looking at the example. If necessary, use a further example.
3 The students now complete the exercise. Set a time-limit, e.g. 20 minutes.
4 Check the answers orally by asking first for the missing word then for the two possible meanings of the word.

Key

| 0 key (piano key; key to a door) |
| 1 bars (drinking bars; bars in a piece of music) |
| 2 gear (car gear; clothes; outfit) |
| 3 parting (present when you part or leave; line in hair) |
| 4 change (doing something different; coins, money) |
| 5 sentence (time in prison; grammatical sentence) |
| 6 charge (arrest and charge; ask for money) |
| 7 jerk (a pull, a tug; slang for fool) |
| 8 glasses (spectacles; drinking glasses) |
| 9 fans (people who follow and support a pop star, soccer team, etc.; machine for blowing cold/hot air) |
| 10 draw (draw with a pencil, e.g. a sketch; pulled by horses) |
| 11 reservations (where Native Americans were forced to live; bookings in a restaurant, etc.) |
| 12 pupils (students; part of the eye) |
| 13 skipping (leaving something out, not doing it; exercising using a skipping rope) |
| 14 inclination (when something is leaning; desire, wish) |
| 15 cure (hanging a fish in smoke; get rid of a bad habit) |
28 Phrasal verbs 1  Intermediate and above
This activity is based on filling in the missing phrasal verbs in several jokes. Students can work individually or in pairs.

Method
1. Copy the handout on page 57 – one for each student/pair.
2. Explain to students that they have to fill in the missing phrasal verbs in the jokes from the list given. Set a time-limit, e.g. 15-20 minutes.
3. Check the answers orally.

Key
1. get off, 2. add up, 3. give up, 4. run into, 5. come back, 6. ran away from, 7. look down on, 8. turned ... down, 9. wake ... up, 10. bring up, 11. goes ... with, 12. go out, 13. getting tired of, 14. came on, 15. put ... on, 16. look for, 17. turns out, 18. looking into, 19. put ... back.

29 Phrasal verbs 2  Intermediate and above
Another slightly more difficult activity based on filling in the missing phrasal verbs in several jokes. Again, students can work individually or in pairs.

Method
As Activity 28. The handout is on page 58.

Key
1. get on in, 2. ran away with, 3. run out of, 4. get along with, 5. went down, 6. broken into, 7. blow up, 8. go into, 9. come back, 10. get rid of, 11. cutting down on, 12. set up, 13. wound up, 14. get away with, 15. fall out.

30 Idioms 1  Advanced
This activity is based on filling in the missing idiomatic expressions in several jokes. Students can work individually or in pairs.

Method
1. Copy the handout on page 59 – one for each student/pair.
2. Explain to the students that they have to fill in the missing idiomatic phrase from the list given. Set a time-limit, e.g. 20 minutes.
3. Check the answers orally.

Key
1. i, 2. a, 3. m, 4. l, 5. n, 6. c, 7. d, 8. h, 9. e, 10. f, 11. k, 12. j, 13. o, 14. g.

31 Idioms 2  Advanced
Another slightly more difficult activity based on filling in the missing idiomatic expressions in several jokes. Again, students can work individually or in pairs.

Method
As Activity 30. The handout is on page 60.

Key
1. i, 2. g, 3. f, 4. c, 5. j, 6. a, 7. e, 8. k, 9. n, 10. b, 11. h, 12. m, 13. l, 14. d.

Teacher-led activities
In the previous activities in this book the teacher’s role has been a somewhat passive one. His/her job has largely been to organise, set up and close an activity, with the students working for most of the time on their own, in pairs or small groups.

In the following activities, however, the teacher has a more central role. As before, the students work mainly in pairs and small groups.

32 Complete the story 1  Lower Intermediate
In this exercise, the students listen to a story where 20 words have been left out. They then have to suggest which word (or words) best completes each gap.

Method
1. Copy and cut up the words on page 61. The first twenty words are the ones that are missing from the story, while the remaining twenty words are distracters.
2. Divide the class into pairs. Share the words out among the pairs. Make sure that each pair has at least one correct word and one distracter.
3. Read out the story on page 62. Pause before each gap and ask for the missing word. (You may need to read out the gapped sentence more than once.)
4. The pair who think they have the missing word, hold it up and say it out loud. If correct, continue with the story. If not, invite other pairs to guess (even though they don’t have the actual missing word themselves.) Further help can be given if necessary, e.g. It’s a verb. It starts with the letter s.
5. Continue until all 20 words have been correctly called out.

(NB: This is a very good exercise for concentration. Students listen eagerly to each sentence being read out and, apart from testing to see if they can fit a word into a particular context, it gives good practice in recognising when a word doesn’t fit. This is an equally useful skill to learn.)
33 Complete the story 2

Intermediate

Method

As Activity 32. The student cards are on page 63 and the teacher’s story is on page 64.

34 Choose the correct punch lines

Lower intermediate

In this exercise, the students listen to several jokes read out by the teacher. However, the punch lines are missing. The students choose the correct punch lines from a given list. This is useful listening comprehension practice.

Method

1. Copy the handout on page 65 – one per student.
2. Explain to the students that you are going to read out eight jokes. But you won’t read out the punch lines. Instead, after you have read each joke, they write down the number of the joke next to the punch line they think it belongs to. Point out that although there are ten punch lines on their sheet, only eight will be used!
3. The jokes are on pages 66–67. Read each one slowly, twice if necessary. When you get to the missing punch line make an appropriate sound to indicate that they have to put in the missing words. But they’re not allowed to shout anything out – they just make a note of what they think the correct punch line is. Don’t correct at this stage.
4. When you have read out all the jokes, go through them again, this time asking various students to supply the missing punch lines.

35 Word association story

Lower intermediate and above

This is an activity for the whole class. Before starting, divide the class into four groups, A–D. One person in each group will keep the score.

Method

1. Copy, cut out and shuffle the word cards on page 68. Place them face down in a pile on the table in front of you.
2. Take the top three cards and write them on the board, e.g. jealous noisy monkey

   Explain that the aim of the activity is to make up a story using these three words, the sillier the better, working together as a class.

3. Group A begins. One person starts the story. It can be about anything, but the person (assisted by the group, if necessary) must keep talking until he/she can use one or more of the words on the board. Once he/she has, he/she says ‘Pass’ and the next group continues. Every word used scores 1 point, so in any one turn a group can gain between one and three points. Using the above words, the person might say, for example,

   Tom had a problem with his girlfriend. She was very jealous of his pet monkey. Pass.
   (2 points scored.)

4. Play now passes to Group B. Before they start, wipe out any words used and take new ones from the pack and write these on the board, e.g.

   dance pink

   NB: There should always be three words on the board at any one time.

5. Try to repeat the last sentence (or occasionally summarise the story) as you move from group to group, so the main idea of the story is kept alive. But keep encouraging the students to make up a 'silly' or 'crazy' story.

6. The group with the highest score at the end wins.
   (NB: As a variation, the teacher could select at random 12 words, write them on the board and then get the students, working in pairs or small groups, to write a silly story around these words. Each pair or group can then read out their story.)

36 The bricklayer

Intermediate and above

This is a listening activity where students have to put a sequence of drawings in the correct order as they listen to the sad tale of a bricklayer. It is best done in pairs.

Method

1. Copy the handout on page 69 – one per pair.
2. Allow the class time to look at the drawings. Explain that you are going to read a text about a bricklayer who had an accident at work. As you read tell them they have to put the drawings (1–14) in the correct order.
3. Read the handout on page 70. Read it twice, if necessary.
4. Check the answers orally. You could read through the text again, pausing after each paragraph and asking students for the answer.

Key

The correct sequence of numbers (reading from left to right, top to bottom) is as follows:

9, 11, 6, 2, 12, 8, 1, 14, 5, 3, 13, 10, 4, 7.

Acknowledgement: This text is based on a monologue by Gerard Hoffnung.
37 Caught you!

This is a very light-hearted activity which teachers can occasionally use to tease and trick their students. It is also quite a useful listening comprehension exercise. (See page 71 for handout.)

Method
1. Choose a suitable joke. (Jokes 1-5 are suitable for Elementary/Lower intermediate students and joke 6 is suitable for Intermediate students and above.)
2. Read the joke seriously to the class, as though it's going to be a normal joke. Then see their reaction when you catch them out at the end!

Miscellaneous activities

This is a general collection of various sorts of activities including a number of single sheet handouts to be filled in.

38 Half a crossword

In this activity students work in two groups, A and B. Each group has an incomplete crossword. By asking for and miming definitions, they try to fill in the missing words.

Method
1. Copy the crosswords on page 72 (Group A) and on page 73 (Group B).
2. Divide the class into A and B groups of 2-3 students per group. They sit facing each other. Give each group a copy of the crossword and, before starting, allow them time to check through the words they will have to mime.

NB: On no account must they let the other group see their crossword!
3. Explain to students that they have to take it in turns to ask for a word that is missing from their crossword. They simply ask What's 1 Down? What's 4 Across? etc. The other group now have to try to mime the word as best they can. They are not allowed to speak other than make noises, e.g. the grunting of a pig. (Anyone in the group can mime.)
4. Set a definite time-limit and stop the students at the end of it whether they have finished or not.
5. They can now compare their crosswords and check any words they didn't fill in.
6. You can follow up by asking the groups to demonstrate how they mimed one or two of the more difficult words.

39 Tongue twisters

A lot of fun can be had from trying to read out tongue twisters. This is a group contest based on tongue twisters.

Method
1. Copy and cut out the tongue twister cards on page 74 – one set for each group.
2. The tongue-twister cards are shuffled and placed face down on the table. One player starts. He/she picks up the top card and tries to say it three times as quickly as possible. If the others think he/she has said it well, he/she keeps the card. If not, the person on his/her right has a go. If successful, he/she keeps the card. If not, play proceeds until everyone in the group has tried. If no one is successful at the end, the card is discarded and the next one turned up.
3. Play continues in this manner. Set a time-limit eg. 15 minutes.
4. The person with the most cards at the end wins.

Variation
It can also be played as a team game, with three students acting as judges.
1. Divide the class into four teams (6 students per team). Have four copies of the cards, arranged on the table in the same order.
2. One person from each team comes out to the front. They are all given the same tongue twister and allowed 1 minute to look at it before starting. Then they take it in turns to read out their tongue twister three times, after which the three judges say who said it best. If the judges cannot agree, the teacher will have to arbitrate. The winner gets 10 points.
3. The team with the highest points at the end of 6 rounds wins.

(NB: If the class is larger or smaller, adjust the team sizes and number of rounds accordingly.)

40 Mary had a little lamb

This is an activity for pairs which tests how logically the students can think.

Method
1. Copy the handout on page 75 – one copy per pair.
2. The students read through the jumbled sentences and write down their answers. Set a time-limit of 15-20 minutes.
3. Check the answers orally by asking different pairs in turn for their answers.

Key
Here are the four poems (no special order)
1. Mary had a little lamb,
   It had a touch of colic.
   She gave it brandy twice a day,
   And now it's alcoholic.

2. Mary had a little lamb,
   Freddie had a pup.
   Johnnie had a crocodile,
   Which ate the others up.

3. Mary had a little lamb,
   It leapt around in hops.
   It hopped into the road one day,
   And finished up as chops.

4. Mary had a little lamb,
   Her father shot it dead.
   And now it goes to school with her,
   Between two chunks of bread.

3 Check the answers orally by reading through the jokes and pausing before each missing word.

Key
Across
3 which, 5 like, 7 before, 8 called/phoned, 10 habit,
11 mind, 12 received, 14 bet, 16 looked, 19 fixing,
20 computer, 26 understand, 27 into, 29 decided,
30 asked, 32 cured, 33 ended

Down
1 there, 2 real, 4 happened, 5 later, 6 knowing, 9 first,
13 explained, 15 everything, 17 should, 18 machine, 21 pay, 22 tapped, 23 what, 24 next, 25 grow, 26 under, 28 only, 29 down, 31 end

43 Knock Knock jokes Intermediate and above
This is a writing activity based on Knock Knock jokes where students have to work out the missing punch lines. It is best done in pairs.

Method
1 Copy the handout on page 80 – one copy for each pair.
2 Explain that the last line, i.e. the punch line, is missing. The students have to decide which of the punch lines in the box go with which Knock Knock jokes.
3 Check the answers orally by asking the students to read out each joke, putting in the missing punch lines.

Key
1 g (What’s on ...?), 2 d (I owe ...), 3 j (Do you know ...?),
4 i (Just in time ...), 5 c (Missed the ...),
6 e (France is ...), 7 b (Bet he ...), 8 a (Bright and ...),
9 h (Oh when ...?), 10 f (Just a ...)

44 Sort the captions Intermediate and above
This is an information-gap activity for pairs based on cartoons.

Method
1 Divide the class into pairs – A and B. Copy the handout on page 81 for Student A and the handout on page 82 for Student B.
2 Read through the instructions with the whole class so they are clear about what they have to do. Make sure they understand that they can only describe the drawing – they must not read out the caption underneath. Also make sure that they cannot see each other’s handouts. (This is best done with them facing each other.) Finally, remind them that they check at the end, not after each drawing has been described.
3 Set a time-limit, e.g. 20 minutes, then stop everyone, whether they have all finished or not.
4 They check their answers by comparing handouts.
45 Pelmanism: Doctor jokes
Intermediate and above

This is an activity for pairs based on the popular game Pelmanism or Memory and is based on 2-line doctor jokes.

Method

1. Copy and cut out the 15 patient cards on page 83 and the 15 doctor cards on page 84 – one set for each pair. (NB: If possible, print the cards on different coloured paper.)
2. Give out the cards and tell each pair to shuffle them separately, and to place the patient cards on the table face down on the left, and the doctor cards face down on the right. Like this:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Patient cards</th>
<th>Doctor cards</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1 2 3</td>
<td>1 2 3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4 5 6</td>
<td>4 5 6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7 8 9</td>
<td>7 8 9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10 11 12</td>
<td>10 11 12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13 14 15</td>
<td>13 14 15</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

3. Students now take it in turns to pick up a patient card, read it out, then a doctor card and read it out. If they are a matching pair, (i.e. it’s the complete joke) the player removes the cards from the board. If not, the cards are turned over and it’s the next player’s turn.

4. Carry on like this for about 20 minutes. The player with the highest number of matching pairs at the end is the winner.

(NB: They are arranged in the book in the correct order, to make it easy to check which question goes with which answer. It also helps if the students sit side by side facing the cards than opposite each other.)

46 Punch line Bingo
Lower intermediate and above

This is a Bingo activity for groups of up to 8 players and a caller. It is based on punch lines for jokes. Although teachers may tire of Bingo activities, students seldom do, and for sheer concentration there are few activities that can beat it.

Method

1. Copy and cut out the bingo cards on page 86 – one for each group member. Also copy of the caller’s handout on page 85 – one per group.
2. Divide the class into groups of up to 9 students (one caller and eight players). Choose the best student as caller and deal out the bingo cards making sure that each player in the group has a different card. Let the students have a few minutes to look through them.

3. Explain that the caller is going to read out the first part of a joke and if the students think they have the punch line to that joke on their card, then they put a cross in the box next to it. The first player with each box filled with a cross shouts Bingo!

4. Each group starts at the same time. The caller now chooses a number between 1-20 at random and reads out the first part of the joke next to that number on his/her sheet. (Remind the caller only to read out the first part of the joke, not the punch line underneath it in brackets!) She/he now crosses out that number and chooses another one.

5. Play continues until one of the students shouts Bingo! (or the caller runs out of jokes to read). If Bingo! is called, the checking method proceeds as follows:

Caller: What’s the number next to your first punch-line?

Player: Seven.

Caller: (Check that 7 has been crossed out. If not say ‘Sorry, that joke hasn’t been read out yet! and carry on playing the game.)

If correct, say ‘I’ll read out the first line of the joke, and you answer with your punch-line.’ (Read) I got a beautiful dog for my husband.

Player: Boy, that was a good swap!

Caller: Correct!

(Continue in the same manner with the four other punch lines.)

(NB: This can also be done as a whole class activity, with the teacher acting as caller and the students working together in pairs, one bingo card per pair.)

47 Five poems
Lower intermediate and above

This is a reading (word order) activity based on five short humorous poems. Students can work individually or in pairs.

Method

1. Copy the handout on page 87 – one copy per student/pair.
2. Explain that students have to rearrange the words in each line to form five complete poems. Remind them that in these poems the last words in the 2nd and 4th lines rhyme. Set a time-limit, e.g. 15-20 minutes.

3. Check orally by getting the students to read out the complete poems.

Follow up

Choral reading of the poems with the whole class.
Key

48 True or False? Intermediate and above

This is a thinking game based on trivia and odd facts.
Students work in pairs and have to decide whether certain facts are true or false, then bet on their choice.

Method

1 Copy the handout on page 88 and give a copy to each pair.

2 Explain the rules; for each of the twelve facts on the handout, the students put a tick (√) in the true or false box and then bet 10–100 points on their decision being correct.
   The number of points they bet depends on how sure they are of their answer, i.e. 10 = not sure, 100 = very sure. They write the number of points in the Bet column.

3 Set a time-limit, e.g. 20 minutes. Then, to avoid cheating, let the students mark one another’s handouts.

4 Each fact is either true or false. If they have guessed correctly, they gain the number of points they have bet.
   If incorrect, they lose the number of points they have bet. Students copy the amount in the Loss or Gain column.

5 At the end, they add up the total losses and gains to arrive at a grand total, which is gains minus losses.
   They write this in the box provided and pass back the handouts.

6 The pair with the highest score wins.

49 Quick thinking Lower intermediate and above

This is a type of word association activity for small groups where students have to try to use two words (chosen at random) to fit into the answer to a question (also chosen at random).

Method

1 Copy and cut out the words on page 89 and the questions on page 90 – one copy for each group.

2 Before you start it might be a good idea to demonstrate the activity with the whole class. Write the following two words on the board, plus a question:
   expensive football
   What do you think of the latest fashion?
   Explain that the idea is to answer the question sensibly but also trying to bring in either one or both of the words expensive and football. Ask for suggestions from the class, e.g.
   I think the latest fashion is quite nice, but not very practical if, for example you’re playing football. It’s also very expensive.
   In the above example the student scores one point for every word used, providing the rest of the group accept the answer as sensible and logical.

3 The words on page 89 and the questions on page 90 are now given out, shuffled and placed face down on the table – the words in one pile and the questions in another. The students take two words from the word pile and one question from the question pile. They then answer the question using the two words. Set a time-limit, e.g. 20–25 minutes.

4 The student with the highest points in each group wins.

Alternative method

This could also be done as a teacher-led activity, with different groups in the class competing against each other.

1 Divide the class into groups. Again cut out and shuffle the words and questions and place them on the table in front of you.

2 Take the top two words and write them on the board.
   Also take the top question and write that on the board,
   e.g. wig suitcase
   What are your plans for the future?

3 Each group now has three minutes to come up with a good answer to the question, again trying to use one or both words.
4 Stop the students when time is up and hear each group’s answer in turn. Award points accordingly.
5 The group with the highest score wins.

50 Picture consequences

This is a final activity just for fun based on both drawing and writing, usually with very amusing results. The students work in groups of six.

Method

1 Copy the handout on page 91 – one copy for each student.
2 Divide the class into groups of six students. Explain that each student now draws anything they wish in space 1 at the top of the handout. (The paper is not folded yet.)
3 They now pass their paper to the person on the left. But they must not say what the drawing is meant to be. Each student now writes a short description of what they think the person has drawn in space 2, e.g. ‘It’s a man playing football.’
4 The original drawing is now folded, so that only the description can be seen. The papers are once again passed to the left.
5 Each person now reads the description in space 2 and in space 3 tries to draw what the description says.
6 The description in space 2 is now folded so that only the drawing in space 3 can be seen and again passed to the left.
7 The game continues in this manner for the last two spaces – drawing, then description.
8 Finally, when everyone is ready, the papers are opened out and the closing description is now compared with the original drawing. The results are usually very amusing.

THE DEAD PARROT SKETCH

This is one of the most famous sketches from the television series ‘Monty Python’s Flying Circus’.

(A: = Customer  B: = Shopkeeper )

A: (Entering the shop with a dead parrot in a cage) Hello, I wish to register a complaint ... Hello – miss?
B: What do you mean, ‘miss’?
A: Oh, I’m sorry – I have a cold. I wish to make a complaint.
B: Sorry, we’re closing for lunch.
A: Never mind that, my lad, I wish to complain about this parrot what I purchased not half an hour ago from this very boutique.
B: Oh yes, the Norwegian Blue – what’s wrong with it?
A: I’ll tell you what’s wrong with it – it’s dead, that’s what’s wrong with it.
B: No, no – it’s resting, look ...
A: Look, my lad, I know a dead parrot when I see one, and I’m looking at one right now.
B: No, no – it’s not dead, it’s resting.
A: Resting?
B: Yes. Remarkable bird, the Norwegian Blue. Beautiful plumage, ain’t it?
A: The plumage don’t enter into it – it’s stone dead.
B: No, no – it’s resting.
A: All right then – if it’s resting, I’ll wake it up. (Shouting into cage) Hello Polly! I got a nice cuttlefish for you when you wake up. Polly Parrot!
B: (jogging the cage) There, it moved.
A: No it didn’t! That was you pushing the cage!
B: I did not!
A: Yes, you did! (Takes parrot out of cage) Hello Polly! (Shouting in its ear)
PO-LLOYD PO-LLOYD! (Bangs it against counter) Polly parrot – wake up!
PO-LLOYD! (Throws it in the air and lets it fall to the floor) Now that’s what I call a dead parrot.
B: No, no – it’s stunned.
A: Look, my lad – I’ve had just about enough of this! That parrot is definitely deceased!

And when I bought it not half an hour ago, you assured me that its lack of movement was due to it being tired and shagged out after a long squawk.
B: It’s probably pining for the fiords.
A: Pining for the fiords – what kind of talk is that? Look, why did it fall flat on its back the moment I got it home?
B: The Norwegian Blue prefers kipping on its back. It’s a beautiful bird – lovely plumage ...
A: Look, I took the liberty of examining that parrot and I discovered that the only reason it had been sitting on its perch in the first place was that it had been nailed there.
B: Course it was nailed there, otherwise it would have muscled up to those bars and voom!
A: Look matey, this parrot wouldn’t ‘voom’ if I put four thousand volts through it.
It’s bleeding demised.
B: It’s not – it’s pining!
A: It’s not pining – it’s passed on! This parrot is no more! It has ceased to be! It’s expired and gone to meet its maker! This is a late parrot! It’s a stiff! Bereft of life. It rests in peace – if you hadn’t nailed it to the perch it would be pushing up the daisies! It’s rung down the curtain and joined the choir invisible! THIS IS AN EX-PARROT!
B: Well, I’d better replace it then.
A: (to camera) If you want to get anything done in this country, you’ve got to complain until you’re blue in the mouth.
B: Sorry, guv, we’re right out of parrots.
A: I see. I see – I get the picture.
B: I’ve got a slug.
A: Does it talk?
B: Not really, no.
A: Well, it’s scarcely a replacement then, is it?

THE GOOD OLD DAYS SKETCH

Work in groups of four – A, B, C and D. Practise reading the following script where four very successful business people look back on how hard their lives once were. This is a sketch written by the Monty Python team and makes use of exaggeration. When you speak, try and outdo each other in showing how ‘hard’ you had it years ago.

A: Can’t beat a good glass of champagne, eh?
B: Yes, you’re right there.
C: Who’d have thought … forty years ago … that we’d be sitting here drinking champagne …
D: Yes, indeed! … In those days we were glad to have the price of a cup of tea.
A: Yes, a cup of cold tea…
C: Without milk or sugar.
B: Or tea …
D: Yes, and a cracked cup at that!
C: We never had a cup … We used to drink out of a rolled-up newspaper.
A: The best we could manage was to chew a piece of damp cloth.
B: But, you know, … we were happier in those days, although we were poor.
D: Because we were poor … My old dad used to say, ‘Money doesn’t bring you happiness.’
C: He was right! I was happier then and I had nothing. We used to live in a tiny old tumbledown house with great holes in the roof.
A: A house! You were lucky to have a house. We used to live in one room, twenty-six of us, no furniture, and half the floor was missing. We had to all squeeze up together in one corner for fear of falling.
B: You were lucky to have a room! We used to live in the corridor.
D: Ooooh! I used to dream of living in a corridor. That would have been a palace to us. We lived in an old water tank in the rubbish tip. We were woken up every morning by having a load of rotting fish dumped on us. House, huh?
C: Well, when I said house … it was only a hole in the ground covered by half a metre of torn canvas, but it was a house to us.

A: We were evicted from our hole in the ground! We had to go and live in the lake.
B: Eee! You were lucky to have a lake. There were over 150 of us living in a small shoe box in the middle of the road.
D: A cardboard box?
B: Yes.
D: You were lucky! We lived for three months in a rolled-up newspaper in a septic tank. We used to get up at six, clean the newspaper, eat a crust of stale bread, work fourteen hours at the mill, day-in, day-out, for six pence a week, come home, and Dad would beat us to sleep with his belt.
A: Luxury! We used to get out of the lake at three, clean it, eat a handful of hot gravel, work twenty hours at the mill for two pence a month, come home and Dad would beat us about the head and neck with a broken bottle, if we were lucky.

a pause

B: Yes, well we had it tough. I had to get out of the shoebox at midnight, lick the road clean, eat a couple of bits of cold gravel, work twenty-three hours a day at the mill for a penny every four years and when we got home Dad would slice us in half with a bread knife.

a longer pause

C: Right … I had to get up in the morning at 10 o’clock at night half an hour before I went to bed, eat a lump of poison, work twenty-nine hours a day at the mill and pay the boss to let me work there, come home and each night Dad used to kill us and dance about on our graves singing.

an even longer pause

D: Yes, and you try and tell the young people of today that, and they won’t believe you.

4 FINISHING SENTENCES SKETCH

(A = Mr/Mrs Vernon; B = Mr/Mrs Smith)

Said by the director:
There is a knock at the door. Mr/Mrs Smith goes to answer it.

A: Hello ... (comes in)
B: Ah, hello ... you must have come about ...
A: Finishing the sentences, yes.
B: Oh ... well ... perhaps you’d like to ...
A: Come through this way ... certainly ...
(They go through into the sitting room.) Oh, nice place you’ve got here.
B: Yes ... well ... er ... er ...
A: Like it?
B: Yes ... yes we certainly...
A: Do ... Good! Now then ... when did you first start ...
B: ... finding it difficult to ...
A: Finish sentences ... yes.
B: Well, it’s not me. It’s my ...
A: Husband!
B: Yes. He ...
A: Never lets you finish what you’ve started.
B: Quite. I’m beginning to feel ...
A: That you’ll never finish a sentence again as long as you live.
B: ... Exact ...
A: ly. It must be awful.
B: It’s driving me ...
A: To drink?
B: No, rou ...
A: ... nd the be ...
B: ... en ...
A: ... d
B: Yes ...
A: May I ...
B: Take a seat ...
A: Thank you. (He/she sits.) You see, your method is to reassure the patient by recreating normal ... er ...
B: Conditions?
A: Yes. Then we try to get them in a position where they suddenly find that they’re completing other people’s sentences ...
B: (suddenly getting confident) Themselves!
A: Spot on Mr/Mrs ...
B: (hesitatingly) Smith?
A: Good! Well, try not to overdo it to ...
B: (with growing confidence) Begin with ...
A: Good. Just keep it to one or two ...
B: (faster) Words ...
A: To start with, otherwise you may find that you’re ...
B: Taking on too long a sentence and getting completely ... er ...
A: Stuck. Good. Well, that’s about it ...
B: (completely confident now) For now, so ...
A: Thanks very much for calling.
B: Not at all.
A: And, er ...
B: Just like to say ...
A: Thank you very much for coming along.
B: Not at all.
A: And good ...
B: Bye, Mr/Mrs ...
A: Vernon.

Mr/Mrs Vernon leaves.

(A = Member of the public; B = Mr/Mrs Bennett)

Said by the director:
Some people go to French or typing classes in their spare time. In this sketch, a member of the public enrolls for an argument course.

Scene

Mr/Mrs Bennett is sitting in his/her office.
The member of the public knocks on the door.

B: Come in!
   The member of the public enters.

A: Er ... is this the right room for an argument?
B: ... I've told you once!
A: No, you haven't.
B: Yes, I have.
A: When?
B: Just now!
A: No, you didn't.
B: Yes, I did.
A: Didn't.
B: Did.
A: Didn't.
B: I'm telling you I did!
A: You didn't
B: Oh, I'm sorry ... I should have asked ... Is this a five-minute argument or the full half hour?
A: Oh! (He/She smiles with relief.) Just the five-minute one.
   Bennet makes a note of this in the book in front of him/her.
B: Fine ... thank you. Anyway, I did.
A: You most certainly did not.
B: Now let's get one thing quite clear: I most definitely told you.
A: You didn't.
B: Yes, I did.
A: You didn't.
B: Yes, I did.
A: You didn't.
B: Yes, I did.
A: You didn't.
B: Yes, I did.
A: You didn't.
B: Yes, I did.
A: You didn't.

B: Yes, I did.
A: Didn't!
B: Yes, I did.
A: ... Look, this isn't an argument.
B: Yes, it is.
A: No, it isn't. It's just contradiction.
B: No, it isn't.
A: Yes, it is.
B: It is not!
A: It is! You just contradicted me!
B: No, I didn't!
A: Ooh, you did.
B: No, no, no, no, no ...
A: You did just then!
B: Nonsense.
A: Oh, look ... this is hopeless.
B: No, it isn't!
A: I came here for a good argument.
B: No, you didn't. You came here for an argument.
A: Well, argument's not the same as contradiction.
B: It can be.
A: No, it can't! An argument's a collected series of statements to establish a definite proposition.
B: No, it isn't!
A: Yes, it is! It isn't just contradiction.
B: Look, if I argue with you, I must take up a contrary position.
A: But it isn't just saying 'No, it isn't'.
B: Yes, it is!
A: It isn't. Argument's an intellectual process – contradiction is just the automatic gainsaying of anything the other person says.
B: No, it isn't.
A: Yes, it is!
ARGUMENT SKETCH (CONTINUED)

B: Not at all.
A: Now look ...
   Bennett suddenly rings a bell on his/her desk and notes the time in his/her book.
B: Thank you. Good morning.
A: What?
B: That's it ... Good morning.
A: But I was just getting interested.
B: Sorry, the five minutes is over.
A: ... That was never five minutes ...
B: I'm afraid it was.
A: (quickly) No, it wasn't!
B: ... Sorry, I'm not allowed to argue any more.
A: What?
B: If you want me to go on arguing, you'll have to pay for another five minutes.
A: But that was never five minutes just now ... Oh, come on!

A: Oh, this is ridiculous!
B: I'm very sorry, but as I told you, I'm not allowed to argue unless you pay.
A: Oh, all right ...

The member of the public takes out his/her wallet and gives Bennett £5.

A: There you are.
B: Thank you.
A: Well?
B: 'Well' what?
A: That was never five minutes just now.
B: (with great patience) I told you. I'm not allowed to argue unless you pay.
A: (angry) ... I just paid!
B: No, you didn't.
A: I did!
B: You didn't!
A: I did,!
B: You didn't!
A: I did! Look - I don't want to argue about that.
B: Well, I'm very sorry, but you didn't pay!
A: Aha! Well, if I didn't pay, why are you arguing? (a pause) Got you!
B: No, you haven't.
A: Yes, I have! If you're arguing, I must have paid.
B: Not necessarily ... I could be arguing in my spare time.
A: Oh, I've had enough of this.
B: (quickly) No, you haven't!
A: Oh, shut up!

The member of the public storms out of the room.

6 COMMUNICATION PROBLEMS

You are going to act out a scene from the BBC series 'Fawlty Towers'. Your group is going to act out Scene 1 and Group B is going to act out Scene 2. One of you is the director, the others are actors.

Before you start decide who will be the following:

(a) the director

(b) Polly (or Paul, if played by a man)

(c) Manuel (or Maria, if played by a woman)

(d) Mrs Richards (or Mr Richards, if played by a man)

It is the director's job to get the best out of the actors and tell them how to move, where to stand, etc. When you are ready, rehearse your scene. (Remember, to change the names if you don't have enough men/women in your group.)

Before you start decide who will be the following:

(a) the director

(b) Basil (or Barbara, if played by a woman)

(c) Mrs Richards (or Mr Richards, if played by a man)

It is the director's job to get the best out of the actors and tell them how to move, where to stand, etc. When you are ready, rehearse your scene. (Remember, to change the names if you don't have enough men/women in your group.)
(A = Mrs Richards; B = Polly/Paul; C = Manuel/Maria)

Said by the director:

Mr/Mrs Richards has just arrived at the Fawlty Towers Hotel. He/she is waiting at the reception desk to be served.

A: Isn’t there anyone else in attendance here? Really, this is the most appalling service I’ve ever …

B: (on the telephone. She spots Manuel.)

Just a minute! Manuel! Could you lend Mrs Richards your assistance in connection with her reservation. (She carries on talking on the phone.)

A: (to Manuel) Now, I’ve reserved a very quiet room, with a bath and a sea view. I specifically asked for a sea view in my written confirmation, so please be sure I have it.

C: Qué?
A: What?
C: Qué?
A: K?
C: Sí.
A: C? (Manuel nods) KC? (Manuel looks puzzled) KC? What are you trying to say?
C: No, no – Qué – what?
A: K – what?
C: Sí! Qué – what?
A: C. K. Watt?
C: Yes.
A: Who is C. K. Watt?
C: Qué?

A: Is it the manager, Mr Watt?
C: Oh, manager!
A: He is.
C: Ah … Mr Fawlty.
A: What?
C: Fawlty.
A: What are you talking about you silly little man. (turns to Polly, who has stopped phoning) What is going on here? I ask him for my room and he tells me the manager’s a Mr Watt and he’s aged forty.
C: No. No. Fawlty.
A: Faulty? What’s wrong with him?
B: It’s all right, Mrs Richards. He’s from Barcelona.
A: The manager’s from Barcelona?
C: No, no. He’s from Swanage.
B: And you’re in twenty-two.
A: What?
B: (leaning over the desk to get close) You’re in room twenty-two. Manuel, take these cases up to twenty-two, will you?
C: Sí.

He goes upstairs with the cases, Mrs Richards follows.

(A=old man; B=wife)

Acting note:
The old man, Joe, is weak and has difficulty speaking. Mary gets more tearful as Joe speaks to her about the past.

The director says the following:
Old Joe is dying. He is lying in his bed at home.

A: Mary! Mary! Are you there, Mary?
   (Mary enters)
B: I’m coming, Joe! I’m coming!

A: And you were with me when we lost the farm in the bush fire in the eighties.
B: Yes, I was with you, Joe. I’ve always been with you ...
A: And you were with me when we lost all that money on shares in the nineties.
B: I was, Joe, I was.
A: And now here you are again, Mary ... by my side when I’m about to die.
B: (in tears) Yes, Yes, I’m here, Joe. I’m here.

It is the year 2010. An alien has just arrived on Earth to buy a brain to take back to his/her planet for research.

(A=1st woman; B=2nd woman)

Acting note:
This could also be acted by two men, with one of them talking about his three wives. You would have to make up new names for the three wives, e.g. Mary, Elsie and Marjorie. Throughout the sketch, the women (or men) should mime throwing bread to imaginary ducks.

The director says the following:
Two women (men) are sitting on a park bench, feeding the ducks.

(The women are feeding the ducks.)
A: Do you know, I’ve had three husbands and they’re all dead now.
B: All dead? Oh, that’s sad. Very sad.
A: Yes, all three are gone. All three of them.
B: (slight pause) What happened?
A: Well, my first husband – Tom – he died of eating poisoned mushrooms.
B: Oh dear! Well, you’ve got to be so careful with mushrooms, haven’t you?
A: Yes, you certainly have. We’d only been married a year when he died.
B: That’s terrible. (slight pause) And what happened to the second one?
A: Well, you’re not going to believe this, but my second husband – Rupert – he died of eating poisoned mushrooms too.
B: (very surprised) Never!
A: Yes, it’s true!
B: Well, well, fancy that! What a coincidence!
A: Yes, it is, isn’t it? Both of them died of eating poisoned mushrooms.
B: That’s incredible! Just goes to show how dangerous mushrooms are, doesn’t it?
A: It certainly does. And I’d only been married to Rupert for six months.
B: Poor you. You’ve certainly had a lot of bad luck with your husbands. A lot of bad luck.
(slight pause) And what happened to your third husband?
A: Harold? Poor Harold! He died of a broken skull.
B: Oh, that’s awful! Was it a car accident or a riding accident or ...
A: No, I hit him across the head with a baseball bat.
B: (shocked) You hit him across the head with a baseball bat? But why?
A: (slight pause) He wouldn’t eat his mushrooms!
(A=customer; B=waiter/waitress)

Acting note:
The waiter/waitress is old and short-sighted.

The director says the following:
A man (woman) has just arrived at a restaurant.

_The man is sitting reading the menu. A waiter/waitress is dusting the tables. He/she accidentally dusts the customer._

A: (angrily) Excuse me! What on earth are you doing?
B: Oh, sorry! I didn’t see you! What can I get you?
A: I’d like a boiled egg, two pieces of toast and a pot of tea ... and a few kind words.
B: Very good, sir. (writing) A boiled egg ... two pieces of toast and a pot of tea.
A: And a few kind words.
B: Sorry?
A: Don’t forget the few ...
B: (interrupting) No, I know, sir. A few kind words.
A: Exactly. Thank you.
B: Thank you, sir.

(The waiter leaves. Pause. He/She returns with a tray full of food and places it on the table in front of the customer.)

B: There you are, sir. A boiled egg, two pieces of toast and a pot of tea. (He/She starts to leave.)
A: Er ... excuse me!
B: Yes?
A: Haven’t you forgotten something?
B: Forgotten something?
A: Yes. What about the few kind words.
B: Oh, of course! How silly of me. (He/she returns, then looks round, to make sure no one can hear.) Don’t eat the egg!

(A=optician; B=man or woman)

Acting note:
The Eye-testing chart can be pinned to the board. At the start, the optician is standing in front of it while the man/woman is sitting on a chair looking at it.

The director says the following:
A man (woman) goes to the optician’s to test his/her eyes.

_The optician points at the fourth row of the chart._

A: Now, can you read this line of letters?
B: (peering) Er ... er ... No, sorry. I can’t.
A: I see. (pointing to 3rd line) Well, what about line 3? Can you read these letters? They’re a bit bigger.
B: (peering) Er ... er ... No, it’s no good. I can’t read that either.
A: You can’t? All right. (pointing to 2nd line) Try reading this line of letters.
B: (peering) Er ... No, sorry. Still can’t read it.
A: That’s all right. Don’t worry. Let’s try the top line of letters – these are really big. You should be able to read them. (points at 1st line)
B: (peering) Er ...
A: Well?
B: Er ... It’s no good! I just can’t read it
A: You can’t?
B: No, I can’t.
A: But this is very serious.
B: Yes, I know. (slight pause) I can’t read!

    at 10 o'clock. Good evening.

A:  Good evening.

8  GOOD EVENING, HERE IS THE NEWS ...

(NEWS ITEMS)

Today, the government announced a plan to make sure that we don't all suddenly become poor when we reach sixty. According to the Prime Minister, the government is going to make sure that we're all poor by the time we reach thirty.

The Prime minister went on to say that the state of the economy was in no way connected with the arrests this morning at Heathrow of a group of forty illegal immigrants who were trying to leave the country!

Figures released today show that two out of every ten people work for a nationalised industry - while the other eight sit and watch them.

The Ministry for Education released some interesting figures today. It seems that in the London area, one half of pupils can't read, one half can't write and the other three quarters can't add up.

The Department of Employment has announced new plans for shortening the dole queues. They're going to ask unemployed people to stand closer together.
Two prisoners escaped from Dartmoor Jail earlier today. One is nearly 3 metres tall and the other 150 centimetres. Police are looking high and low for them.

A set of traffic lights have also been stolen from a main road junction in Birmingham. A police spokesman said, 'Some thieves will stop at nothing.'

A gang of thieves broke into Scotland Yard last night and stole all the toilets. The police are completely baffled and say they haven't a single thing to go on.

Albert Brown, chairman of Blotto Blotting Paper Company, announced at the Annual General Meeting yesterday that he would not be retiring this year after all because he found his work far too absorbing.

And it appears that in Edinburgh earlier today, a mad dog bit a tax inspector. After being given injections and treatment for shock, the dog has been allowed home.

The new Bristol to Brighton motorway was opened today. It has been built with strict regard to local people and environmentalists and is 2,000 kilometres long.

There is also good news for rail travellers. A new service is to be introduced which offers you breakfast in London, lunch in Paris, dinner in Brussels and your luggage in Moscow.

Now science. At Cambridge University, scientists have managed to cross a hen with a banjo to get a chicken that plucks itself. This was the same team that last year successfully crossed a skunk with an owl to produce a bird that smelled a lot but didn't give a hoot.

Now foreign news. It was announced in Oslo today that the Viking diary found just over a year ago, and which was thought to be at least a thousand years old, is in fact a forgery. This was the conclusion after a six-month study of it by Norwegian and Swedish typewriting experts.

And the latest fashion news from Paris is that skirts will remain the same length as last year ... but legs will be shorter.

Now sport. And it has just been announced that the English football team are going to get a new coach. It's a 52-seater with a toilet at the back.

At the World Championships in Tokyo, the British 4 by 400 metres men's relay team built up a huge lead before handing over the baton to the French team.

Now for the weather. It's going to be a really wonderful day tomorrow, with temperatures reaching thirty degrees. Ten in the morning ... ten in the afternoon, and ten in the evening.

Finally, a newsflash: Forty pedigree dogs have been stolen from Whoof Kennels in Surrey. Police say that so far they have no leads.
You are the director of the TV commercial. You are going to be making a commercial for a new washing powder called DAZZLE. The script is ready and you are having your first rehearsal with the two actors. Get them to run through the script, using the notes and storyboard below. You will need to give the actors exact instructions as to what to do.

Actor A
What's the matter?

Actor B
(Hold up T-shirt. Sound unhappy.)
It's this T-shirt! I just can't get it clean.

Actor B
(look surprised.)
DAZZLE? What's that?

Actor A
It's the new washing powder with built-in whitener and biodynamic anti-stain remover.

Actor B
(sound impressed.)
Oh, I say! Built-in whitener and biodynamic anti-stain remover, eh? I must try that!

Actor A
(Take packet.) Thanks.

Actor B
(Fade out this scene. Fade in to next scene...)

Well, what do you think?

Actor A
(Hold up T-shirt. Look really happy.)
Brilliant! Just like this T-shirt! Look!

Actor B
(Put on sunglasses.)
Wow! That's bright!

Actor A
(Sniff T-shirt.)
And it smells nice, too!

Actor B
(Face camera. Hold up packet.)
So for clothes that are really bright, change to DAZZLE.
9 TV ADVERTISEMENT (CONTINUED)

Actor B
(Hold up T-shirt again)
Yes, the results are truly dazzling!

Actor A
Can I have my packet back now, please?

Actor A and B
(Take packet and hold it up between you and B, just below your faces.)
(singing)
Dazzle, Dazzle, washing day, See the dirt just fade away, Dazzle, Dazzle, powder bright, Makes your clothes so clean and white.

(Big smiles. Hold.)

Actor playing A
You are keen to do well in this commercial as it is your first proper acting job. You try to do everything the director asks you to do – but really well! Unfortunately, there is one line that you find difficult to read: It’s the new washing powder with built-in whitener and biodynamic anti-stain remover. You just can’t seem to get it right. Sometimes you say ‘with whitener built-in’ and at other times you say ‘biostatic anti-rain remover’.

Actor playing B
You are not happy about being in a commercial. You think you’re very good and can’t understand why you’re not acting in Hollywood movies instead of having to do this ‘rubbish’ just for the money. So you find it very hard to be enthusiastic or happy about washing powder. You also have little patience with fellow-actors. You don’t think A is very good and if he/she makes a mistake, you show you are not very pleased by sighing loudly and saying ‘I do wish you’d get it right’. Finally, you can’t sing, so hope there’s no singing involved in this commercial.
This is the script for the commercial for DAZZLE washing powder.

Script for DAZZLE washing powder commercial

A: What's the matter?
B: It's this T-shirt! I just can't get it clean.
A: Then try this.
B: DAZZLE? What's that?
A: It's the new washing powder with built-in whitener and biodynamic anti-stain remover.
B: Oh, I say! Built-in whitener and biodynamic anti-stain remover, eh? I must try that! Thanks.

(fade out ... fade in)

A: Well, what do you think?

You are going to play a game with Group B called ‘Call my bluff’ where you will take it in turns to read out three definitions of a slang word, but only one definition is correct. The other team tries to guess who has read out the correct definition. If they do, they score 1 point. If they guess wrongly, you score 1 point.

You are going to read out three words altogether, so before starting:

1. Choose which three words you will use from the list below.
2. Decide which person will read out the ‘correct’ definition for each word. (The same person can read out the correct definition more than once!)
3. Working together, think up two ‘false’ definitions for each of the three words. Remember to give an example sentence and, if possible, try to suggest an origin for the word. (You may even be able to adapt some of the definitions from the words below that you didn’t use.)
4. When both you and Group B are ready, you can begin. Take it in turns to read out your definitions. Group B starts.
5. The team with the highest score at the end wins.

Here are ten correct definitions. Choose three of them for the game.

Word 1
banger (noun) – a sausage. ‘Let’s have some bangers for breakfast.’ The word comes from the explosion of the skin of a sausage during frying.

Word 2
moggy (noun) – cat. ‘Have you seen my moggy anywhere? He’s been missing since yesterday afternoon.’ Probably comes from the pet name ‘Maggie’.

Word 3
blub (verb) – to cry. ‘I blubbed throughout the film, it was so sad.’ Originally a public school term.

Word 4
gobsmacked (adjective) – astonished, very surprised. ‘When John and Mary told me they were breaking up I was absolutely gobsmacked.’ From ‘gob’ an older slang word for mouth.

Word 5
knuckle sandwich (noun) – a blow from a fist in the mouth or face. ‘You say that again and you’ll get a knuckle sandwich!’

Word 6
ringburner (noun) – a very hot curry. ‘Let’s go for a ringburner tonight.’ As curry is hot and spicy, it burns you.

Word 7
wrinkly (noun) – an old person. ‘I’m not going to Spain for my winter holidays again. The place I stayed at was full of wrinklies.’ Comes from the word ‘wrinkle’. Old people, of course, have lots of wrinkles on their faces.

Word 8
a spud (noun) – a potato. ‘Do you want me to peel the spuds?’ Comes from the word ‘spud’ which was a spade used for digging up potatoes in the 1800s.

Word 9
whacky baccy (noun) – marijuana. ‘Got any whacky baccy on you?’ Comes from ‘whacky’ meaning crazy and ‘baccy’ short for tobacco.

Word 10
whiffy (adjective) – having an unpleasant smell. ‘Open the windows, please. It’s a bit whiffy in here!’

5. The team with the highest score at the end wins.

Here are ten correct definitions. Choose three of them for the game.

Word 1

doss house (noun) – a cheap, shabby hotel. ‘This flat’s just like a doss house. I don’t know how you can live here.’ Comes from a Latin word ‘dorsum’ meaning back because you sleep on your back.

Word 2

brill (adjective) – wonderful, exciting. It’s a shortening of the word ‘brilliant’ which started being used by teenagers in the 1970s as an all-purpose word for something good. ‘We had a really brill time at the party on Saturday. You should have been there!’

Word 3

flash the ash (verb) – to offer someone a cigarette. ‘Come on – flash the ash!’ From the fact that ash comes from cigarettes.

Word 4

funny farm (noun) – a psychiatric or mental hospital. ‘Poor old Ned. They’ve taken him off to the funny farm.’

Word 5

legless (adjective) – drunk. ‘I must have drunk too much last night. I was absolutely legless.’ It means you fall down because you can’t use your legs or walk properly.

Word 6

plonk (noun) – cheap wine. ‘Don’t forget to bring a bottle of plonk to the party.’ From the French for white wine – vin blanc.

Word 7

scarper (verb) – to run away. ‘The police are coming. Quick, let’s scarper!’ Probably Cockney rhyming slang Scapa flow meaning ‘go’.

Word 8

shrink (noun) – a psychiatrist. ‘I’ve got to go and see my shrink tomorrow.’ It’s a shortening of an earlier slang word for psychiatrist, the word ‘head shrinker’.

Word 9

a stiff (noun) – a dead body. ‘Looks like we’ve got a stiff here,’ said the police officer. Comes from the fact that dead bodies go stiff.

Word 10

toyboy (noun) – a young male boyfriend for an older woman. ‘This is Jim, my new toyboy.’ A mixture of ‘boy’ (young male) and ‘toy’ (something to play with).

In the following poem, some plural forms have been left out. See if you can put them in again. To help you, the singular form is marked in italics.

Why English is so hard to learn

We'll begin with a box, and the plural is (1) _________;
But the plural of ox should be (2) _________, not oxes.
The one fowl is goose, but two are (3) _________;
Yet the plural of moose should never be meese.
You may find a lone mouse or a whole lot of (4) _________,
But the plural of house is (5) _________, not hice.
If the plural of man is always called (6) _________,
Why shouldn't the plural of pan be called pen?
The cow in the plural may be (7) _________ or kine.
But the plural of vow is (8) _________, not vine.
And I speak of a foot, and you show me your (9) _________.
But I give you a boot – would a pair be called beet?
If one is a tooth and a whole set are (10) _________,
Why shouldn't the plural of booth be called beeth?
If the singular is this, and the plural is (11) _________,
Should the plural of kiss be nicknamed kese?
Then one may be that, and three may be (12) _________,
Yet the plural of hat would never be hose.
We speak of a brother, and also of brethren,
But though we say mother, we never say methren.
The masculine pronouns are he, his and him,
Just imagine the feminine she, shis and shim!
So our English, I think you will all agree,
Is the trickiest language you ever did see.

A dog’s tale

I read an ... (article) ... in a newspaper last week about this Belgian woman working in France who, one day ... (decided) ... to take her dog to Brussels. She put him in a special ... (bag) ... and flew direct from Paris to Brussels. But when she ... (landed) ... at the airport and went to pick up her ... (luggage) ..., there was no ... (sign) ... of the bag.

So she ... (complained) ... and the airline officials started a ... (search) ... of all the luggage in the airport. After searching for quite a while, they ... (found) ... the bag. But when they ... (opened) ... it, the dog was dead.

‘What are we going to do?’ they cried. ‘She’ll be so ... (angry) ...! She might even sue the airport!’

‘I’ve got an ... (idea) ...,’ said one of the officials. ‘It’s a cocker spaniel and there’s a ... (pet shop) ... just down the road. I’ll go and buy another cocker spaniel, put it in the bag and she’ll never know the ... (difference) ...’

Twenty minutes ... (later) ..., they went up to the woman, ... (apologised) ... for the delay and ... (handed) ... her the bag.

The woman was so relieved. She opened the bag and the dog ... (jumped) ... out. The woman screamed.

‘This isn’t my dog! This isn’t my dog!’ she said.

‘But how do you know?’ they asked her.

‘Because he ... (died) ... two days ago,’ she said. ‘I was bringing him to Belgium to ... (bury) ... him.’

A cricket tale

There was this Englishman, this Irishman and this Scotsman playing cricket, and the Irishman, who was batting, ... (hit) ... the ball into some ... (bushes) .... The Scotsman was running to ... (fetch) ... the ball when the Englishman said, ‘Be ... (careful) ... when you go into those bushes, because there’s a ... (terrible) ... ghost with one black eye who ... (haunts) ... them!’

The Scotsman ... (refused) ... to believe the Englishman’s story and ... (bravely) ... ran to the bushes. But inside the bushes all seemed dark and cold and ... (sinister) ..., and to his horror the Scotsman heard a ... (voice) ... say, ‘I am the ghost with one black eye! If you don’t ... (get away) ... from my bushes, I will haunt you for the ... (rest) ... of your life!’

With a ...(loud) ... scream the Scotsman ran back to the cricket pitch and told the Irishman what had ... (happened) .... The Irishman just laughed and said, ‘You must have been ... (imagine) ... things. You wait here and I’ll go and get the ball.’ But when he ... (entered) ... the clump of bushes he also heard a voice which made his ... (hair) ... rise in terror.

‘I am the ghost with one black eye!’ it said. ‘And if you don’t get away from my bushes, I will haunt you for the rest of your life!’

And with a scream the Irishman also ...(rushed) ... back to the pitch. Whereupon, the Englishman went into the clump of bushes, and he also heard the awful, ...(moan) ... voice saying, ‘I am the ghost with one black eye! If you don’t get away from my bushes, I will haunt you for the rest of your life!’

To which the Englishman ... (replied) ..., ‘And if you don’t give me back my ball, you’ll be the ghost with two black eyes!’
Listen to the jokes and match each one (1–8) with the correct punch line (a–j).
(Not all the punch lines will be used!)

a. 'I've only had him for a year.'

b. 'And you'll probably win.'

c. 'Has anybody got a light?'

d. 'I left the tickets on it.'

e. 'I went around four times and you didn't even wave.'

f. 'Pair of socks.'

g. 'Well, today's his birthday.'

h. 'What the hell are we doing in this zoo?'

i. 'Why am I always so cold?'

j. 'You'll never learn anything unless you ask.'
Read out the following jokes. After each one say, 'Write the number (1, 2, etc.) next to the punch line you think goes with that joke.'

Joke 1
Mrs Brown answered a knock at the door and found a total stranger standing on the step.
'Excuse me for disturbing you, madam,' he said politely, 'but I pass your house every morning on my way to work, and I’ve noticed that every day you appear to be hitting your son on the head with a loaf of bread.'
'That’s right.'
'Every day you hit him on the head with a loaf of bread and yet this morning you were hitting him with a chocolate cake.'
'... (Well, today’s his birthday) ... '.

Joke 2
A camel was talking to his son, who was a very inquisitive young camel.
'Why do we have two humps?' asked the son.
'That’s so that we can go for days and weeks without water. We can store it in the humps.'
'Why do we have very long eyelashes?'
'That’s to protect our eyes from the sand in a sand storm.'
'And why do we have such big feet?'
'That’s so that we can travel twice as fast through the desert.'
'Dad,' asked the young camel. '... (what the hell are we doing in this zoo) ... ?'

Joke 3
Animals can be great sports fans. A man went to the pub with his dog just as the soccer results came up on TV. When the commentator announced that the local side had lost heavily, the dog started an almighty howling and could not be comforted.
'What’s got into the animal?' asked a fellow drinker.
'He supports United,' explained the dog’s owner, ‘and he always gets upset when they lose.’

Joke 4
Five-year-old Tom woke up one morning in a very curious mood. There seemed to be so many things he wanted to know about – but nobody ever told him anything about anything. So, he went downstairs and asked his father.
'Dad, why is the sky blue?'
'I’ve no idea, son,' replied his father.
'Oh, well ... er ... why do birds sing?'
'I’ve no idea, son,' replied his father again.
'Never mind, but ... er ... why does the wind blow?'
'I’ve no idea, son,' replied his father yet again.
'You don’t mind me asking all these questions do you, Dad?'
'Of course not, son. ... (You’ll never learn anything unless you ask) ... !'

Joke 5
An Englishman, a Frenchman and a Scotsman were sentenced to live in a deep pit for ten years, but they were allowed one request each.
'I’ll have ten years’ supply of Scotch whisky,' said the Scotsman.
'I’ll have ten years’ supply of French wine,' said the Frenchman.
'I’ll have ten years’ supply of cigarettes,' said the Englishman.
After ten years they were released. The Scotsman staggered out of the pit and immediately fell dead from alcoholic poisoning. The Frenchman also climbed out and fell dead from alcoholic poisoning. Finally, the Englishman climbed out and said, ‘... (Has anybody got a light) ... ?'

Baby bear went out to see his polar bear dad, sitting on the ice floes. He said to him, ‘Dad, dad. I am a polar bear, aren’t I?’ And his dad said, ‘Yes son, you are.’ ‘I mean, I am a real bear, aren’t I?’ said Baby Bear. ‘A really, really, truly, truly, polar bear?’ ‘But of course you are, son,’ said his dad. ‘Of course you are.’ ‘Hundred percent?’ ‘Yes, hundred percent.’ ‘Well, in that case,’ said the Baby Bear, ‘... (why am I always so cold) ...?’

Joke 7
A woman was driving along the M1 motorway from London to Birmingham in the middle lane. She was knitting at the same time. A police car overtook her in the outside lane with all its lights flashing. As it drew level with her, a police officer wound down his window and shouted at her, ‘Pull over! Pull over!’ ‘No,’ she shouted back. ‘... (Pair of socks) ...’

Joke 8
On Harold’s birthday, his parents bought him what he had always wanted – a horse. But the horse didn’t seem to have any energy. Harold took him to the vet. ‘This horse is very old,’ the vet said, after looking at him. ‘Will I be able to race him?’ asked Harold. The vet looked at Harold and then he looked at the horse. ‘Yes, of course,’ he said. ‘... (And you’ll probably win) ...’

Listen to the story about the bricklayer. As you listen, look at the drawings and put them in the right order. Mark each drawing 1–14. (Number 1 has been done for you.)

[Diagram of 14 drawings]
An apprentice bricklayer recently had an accident at work and the Department of Health and Social Security asked him to describe what had happened. This is what he wrote:

Accident at 92, Woodford Road, February 12th.

We had been repairing the gables and roof of a house in Woodford Road and when we were finished there were some bricks left over. It was my job to fetch them down.

First I rigged up a beam and pulley at the top. I threaded a rope through the pulley and let both ends down to the ground.

(pause)

I went back down, tied an empty barrel to one end of the rope and hoisted it up to the top, making sure to tie the other end of the rope securely at the bottom.

(pause)

Then I climbed back up and put the bricks into the barrel.

(pause)

When the barrel was full I went back down again, to lower the barrel to the ground.

(pause)

Unfortunately, the barrel of bricks was heavier than I was and to my surprise, when I untied the rope, the weight of the barrel lifted me off the ground. I decided to hold on.

(pause)

Halfway up, I met the barrel coming down and received a heavy blow on the shoulder.

(pause)

I continued to the top, banged my head on the beam and got my fingers jammed in the pulley.

(pause)

When the barrel hit the ground it burst open and the bricks fell out.

(pause)

I was now heavier than the barrel and started down again.

(pause)

Halfway down, I met the broken barrel coming up and got a nasty blow on the knee.

(pause)

When I reached the ground I landed on the bricks, breaking my right ankle and receiving several bad cuts.

(pause)

At this point I suppose I must have lost my self-control, because I let go of the rope.

(pause)

The remains of the barrel came down on my head, giving me concussion.

(pause)

So I ended up in hospital.

(pause)

I hope to be back at work as soon as possible.
Choose one or more of the following to read out to your groups.

Joke 1
A donkey wanted to cross a stream in order to eat the nice green grass in the field opposite. There was no bridge, no boat and the donkey couldn’t swim. So how did he cross?

The students will probably offer suggestions, all of which you say are wrong. In the end they will give up.

So then you say to them:
You give up? So did the donkey!

Joke 2
Three boys called Peter, Paul and Pardon went to play by the river. Peter and Paul fell in and were drowned. Who was left?

You will of course receive the reply ‘Pardon’, at which you repeat loudly ...

Three boys called Peter, Paul and Pardon ... etc.

Joke 3
Say to the class: What’s this?
(Then wave your hand in a snake-like movement.)
Someone will probably say: ‘I don’t know.’
So then you wave your other hand in a similar manner and say:
Neither do I – but here comes another one!

Joke 4
Say to the class: Why doesn’t the Queen wave with this hand?
Wave your left hand.
Someone will probably say: ‘I don’t know. Why?’
To which you reply:
Because it’s my hand!

Joke 5
Say to the class:
In an apple eating contest Sandra ate ninety apples and Helen ate a hundred and one. How many more apples did Helen eat than Sandra?

The students are bound to say 11, to which you reply:
No, ten – Helen ate a hundred and won!

Joke 6
As you begin this story you say to the students
I’m going to tell you a story about a bus driver. As I tell it, you have to imagine you’re the bus driver. So, you’re the bus driver in this story, right? Don’t forget now... I’m going to ask you a question at the end so listen very carefully. And if you want to make notes as I read, then that’s OK.

Now read the story slowly, giving the impression that you’re going to ask some sort of mathematics question at the end.

A bus carrying four passengers stopped at the first bus stop and five people got on. (pause) At the next stop six got off and ten got on. (pause) At the next stop two got on but nobody got off. (pause) At the next stop nobody got on but four got off. (pause) At the next stop the bus went straight past, which upset an old lady who had forgotten to press the bell for the bus to stop. However, at the next stop she did get off and a couple got on. There was just one more stop to go before the bus reached the terminus – only one got off here, and at the terminus of course everybody got off. Now, who can answer this question: (pause briefly)

What was the bus driver’s name?
By this time the students will have completely forgotten the beginning of the story and will invariably say ‘I don’t know.’ to which you reply
You, of course. You’re the driver, remember!

Here is the traditional poem, Mary had a little lamb.

Mary had a little lamb,
Its fleece was white as snow.
And everywhere that Mary went,
The lamb was sure to go.

Below are five jumbled up modern humorous variations of the Mary had a little lamb poem. Working together, see if you can sort them out? Each poem has four lines and remember that lines 2 and 4 must rhyme.

There once was a man from Darjeeling
Who got on a bus bound for Ealing.
It said on the door,
'Please don't spit on the floor.'
So he stood up and spat on the ceiling.

A fishmonger, old Mr Finkle
Ate garlic - a lot, not a sprinkle.
The smell of his breath
Caused immediate death
Of an oyster, ten crabs and a winkle.

There was a young lady from Ickenham
Who went on a bus trip to Twickenham.
She drank too much beer,
Which made her feel queer,
So she took off her boots and was sick-in'-em.

There once was a fellow named Vane
Whose leg was chopped off by a train.
When his friend said, 'How sad.'
He replied, 'It's not so bad
For it's cured my varicose vein.'

There was a young man of Devizes
Whose ears were of different sizes.
The one that was small
Was of no use at all,
But the other won several prizes.

Smith Minor, whose first name was Paul,
Just narrowly missed a bad fall.
He broke several teeth
And the jawbone beneath,
Seven ribs, and a leg, but that's all.

There was a young man of Bengal
Who went to a fancy-dress ball.
He went, just for fun,
Dressed up as a bun,
But a dog ate him up in the hall.

There was a young man named Ned
Who had eyes in the back of his head.
When asked where he was going,
'I've no way of knowing,
But I know where I've been to,' he said.

There was a young lady from Gloucester
Whose parents thought they had lost her.
From the fridge came a sound
And at last she was found,
The trouble was - how to defrost her?

A man in a pub said, 'I think
There's a black hairy thing in my drink.'
Said the barmaid quite cool,
'It's a false eyelash, you fool!
It sometimes falls off when I blink.'

A stupid young fellow called Fred
Went around with a cat on his head.
I asked 'Why a cat
Do you wear as a hat?'
'Cos a horse is too heavy,' he said.

A young man who's as bald as a bat
Spilt hair tonic all over the mat.
It's grown so much higher
We can't see the fire,
And we think that it's smothered the cat.

There was a nervous young lady called Jane
Was terribly sick on a train.
Folk made such a fuss,
She got on a bus,
And threw up all over again.

There was an old spider named Fred
Who fell down the stairs on his head.
He said, 'I don't care,'
So as he lay there
I trod on him, now he is dead.

A very strange fellow named Clark
Gobbles spiders up, just for a lark.
He's gone very hairy,
And looks awful scary,
But spins lovely webs in the park.

A cannibal bold of Penzance
Ate an uncle and two of his aunts,
A cow and her calf,
An ox and a half,
And now he can't button his pants.
Now work in pairs. See if you can write your own limerick. (You can use one of the following openings if you wish.)

1. There was a fat policeman from York ...
2. A teacher whose surname was Brown ...
3. Whilst brushing her hair by the fire ...
4. A schoolboy who once kept a pig ...
5. There was a deaf lady from Crewe ...
6. I once had a Spaniel called Rover ...
7. There was a strange fellow called Pete ...
8. There was a young lady of Spain ...
9. There was a young man from Madras ...
10. A chef by the name of Bill Brand ...

Before starting, remember how a limerick is formed. For example:

A girl who weighed many an ounce
Used language I dare not pronounce.
For a fellow unkind
Pulled her chair out behind,
Just to see, so he said, if she'd bounce.

1. The words at the end of lines 1, 2 and 5 rhyme.
2. Lines 3 and 4 are slightly shorter and again the words at the end of these lines rhyme.

So before starting, make a list of rhyming words you can choose from. For example, for number 7 above:

Pete beat, cheat, heat, meet, feet, treat, wheat, eat, sleet, meat, neat, seat, Crete, greet, street, sheet, sweet, delete, complete, repeat, discreet, deceit, receipt, conceit, etc.

Read out your limericks to the whole class.

Here are five cartoons and at the bottom of the page are eight captions. Student B also has five cartoons and eight captions. Five of the captions Student B has are the ones that go with your cartoons, while the captions you have are the ones that go with Student B's cartoons.

Take it in turns to describe each drawing – but don't read out the caption under it. You start. You can say: This is cartoon (1).

After you have described your drawing, Student B will write down what he/she thinks the caption is. But do not check the answers at this stage. Then it is Student B's turn to describe a cartoon to you. After he/she has done this, write 1–5 next to one of the eight captions at the bottom of the page. Continue like this until you have both described your five cartoons.

When you have described all five, check by comparing your handouts.

Cartoons

1. Your spelling is terrible!
2. Remember me? You taught me to drive.
3. It's a beautiful dress – and it matches her complexion too!
4. You must take a look at our new roof garden before you leave.
5. No, he's wonderful, sir. Only bites people who ask for change.

Captions

I definitely think he's taken to you!

- Jenkins really takes his work seriously, doesn't he?
- No, that's not my husband — but he'll do!
- I think you've been overdoing the parties this Christmas, Mrs Brown.
- What do you do apart from bird-watching?

Well, of course I'm dirty and I smell — it hasn't rained for three weeks.

It's the waiting I can't stand.

I wish I hadn't complained about my wrists being sore!

Take it in turns to describe each drawing – but don’t read out the caption under it. Student A will start. He/she will say: This is cartoon (1).

After he/she has described the first cartoon to you, write the number 1 next to one of the captions at the bottom of the page. But do not check the answers at this stage. Then it is your turn to describe one of your cartoons. You can say: This is cartoon (1). After you have finished, Student A will write next to the caption he/she thinks fits your description. Continue like this until you have both described your five cartoons.

When you have described all five, check by comparing your handouts.
