Vocabulary answers

Words and phrases answers
The revised edition of this book is designed with a greater emphasis on text and collocation, in keeping with recent trends in the world of English as a Foreign Language. It also incorporates the many changes to the revised proficiency examination from December 2002, such as word formation and multiple word meaning. The book is also intended for use at the level of CAE, and includes new exercises practising the formal/informal register transfer task.

Most of the practice sections in the Grammar and Vocabulary sections reflect such changes, and where texts are retained from the first edition, they have been given more of an exam focus.

However, the core of this highly successful book remains the same. The grammar section now includes some additional revision and more subtle advanced points. Units on phrasal verbs, prepositions and linking devices are also included. The grammatical information provided can be used for reference when needed, or worked through systematically.

The vocabulary section includes topic-based vocabulary, collocations and idiomatic phrases. It also recycles work on prepositions, and phrasal verbs.

The book can be used as a self-study reference grammar and practice book or as supplementary material in classes preparing for the CAE and Proficiency exams. If used for classwork, activities can be done individually or co-operatively in pairs or small groups.

There are regular consolidation units which include forms of testing commonly used in both exams and the material covers a range of difficulty appropriate to both exams.
Explanations

Basic contrasts: present simple and present continuous

Present simple generally refers to:
- Facts that are always true
  - Water boils at 100 degrees Celsius.
- Habits
  - British people drink a lot of tea.
- States
  - I don't like gangster films.

Present continuous (progressive) generally refers to actions which are in progress at the moment. These can be temporary:
- I'm staying in a hotel until I find a flat.

They can be actually in progress:
- The dog is sleeping on our bed!

Or they can be generally in progress but not actually happening at the moment:
- I'm learning to drive.

State verbs describe a continuing state, so do not usually have a continuous form. Typical examples are:
- believe, belong, consist, contain, doubt, fit, have, know, like, love, matter, mean, need, own, prefer, seem, suppose, suspect, understand, want, wish

Some verbs have a stative meaning and a different active meaning. Typical examples are:
- be, depend, feel, have, measure, see, taste, think, weigh

Compare these uses:

State
- Jack is noisy.
- Deirdre has a Porsche.
- I think I like you!
- This fish tastes awful!
- I feel that you are wrong.
- This bag weighs a ton!
- It depends what you mean.

Event
- Jill's being noisy.
- We're having an interesting conversation!
- David's thinking about getting a new job.
- I'm just tasting the soup.
- I'm feeling terrible.
- We're weighing the baby.
- Bill, I'm depending on you to win this contract for us.

The differences here apply to all verb forms, not just to present verb forms.
Other uses of present continuous

Temporary situations

Are you enjoying your stay here?

Repeated actions

My car has broken down, so I am walking to work these days.

Complaints about annoying habits

You are always making snide remarks about my cooking!

Other possible adverbs are: constantly, continually, forever

With verbs describing change and development

The weather is getting worse!

More and more people are giving up smoking.

Other uses of present simple

Making declarations

Verbs describing opinions and feelings tend to be state verbs.

I hope you'll come to my party.

I bet you don't know the answer!

I hereby declare this hospital open!

Headlines

These are written in a 'telegram' style, and references to the past are usually simplified to present simple.

Ship sinks in midnight collision.

Instructions and itineraries

Instructions and recipes can be written in present simple instead of in imperative forms. This style is more personal.

First you roll out the pastry.

Itineraries are descriptions of travel arrangements.

On day three we visit Stratford-upon-Avon.

Summaries of events

Plots of stories, films etc, and summaries of historical events use present (and present perfect) verb forms.

May 1945: The war in Europe comes to an end.

...At the end of the play both families realise that their hatred caused the deaths of the lovers ...

'Historic present' in narrative and funny stories

In informal speech, it is possible to use what we call the 'historic present' to describe past events, especially to make the narration seem more immediate and dramatic.

... So then the second man asks the first one why he has a banana in his ear and the first one says ...
1. Underline the correct word or phrase in each sentence.

a) I haven't decided yet about whether to buy a new car or a second-hand one. But / think about it/I'm thinking about it.

b) All right, you try to fix the television! But / hope/I'm hoping you know what you're doing.

c) Every year / visit/I'm visiting Britain to improve my English.

d) It's time we turned on the central heating. It gets/It's getting colder every day.

e) Of course, you're Mary, aren't you! / recognise/I am recognising you now.

f) The film of 'War and Peace' is very long. It lasts/It is lasting over four hours.

4 Put each verb in brackets into the present simple or present continuous.

I work in a large office with about thirty other people, most of whom I know (know) quite well. We spend (spend) most of the day together, so we have all become friends. In fact, most of my colleagues are so interesting, that I think (think) of writing a book about them!

take (take) Helen Watson, for example. Helen run (run) the accounts department. At the moment she go out (go out) with Keith Ballantine, one of the sales representatives, and they seem (seem) very happy together. But everyone - except Helen apparently - know (know) that Keith fancy (fancy) Susan Porter. But I happen (happen) to know that Susan dislike (dislike) Keith. ‘I can't stand people who never stop (stop) apologising all the time!’ she told me. ‘And besides, I know he deceive (deceive) poor Helen. He see (see) Betty Wills from the overseas department.’ And plenty of other interesting things currently/go on. For instance, every week we experience (experience) more and more problems with theft - personal belongings and even money have been stolen. When you realise (realise) that someone in your office is a thief, it upset (upset) you at first. But I also/try (also/try) to catch whoever it is before the police are called in. I'm not going to tell you who I suspect (suspect). Well, not yet anyway!
5 Complete the second sentence so that it has a similar meaning to the first sentence, using one of the words in bold. Do not change the word in bold.

Which expression means one of the following?
1 Are you in a hurry to leave?
2 We're talking about different things without realising it.
3 If you say or do this you will get into difficulties.
Explanations

- Will is normally known as the predictive future, and describes known facts, or what we supposes true.

  I'll be late home this evening.
  The company will make a profit next year.

  This can also take the form of an assumption.

  That'll be Jim at the door. (This means that I suppose it is Jim.)

- Will is also used to express an immediate decision.

  I'll take this one.

- Be going to describes intentions or plans. At the moment of speaking the plans have already been made.

  I'm going to wait here until Carol gets back.

  Going to is also used to describe an event whose cause is present or evident.

  Look at that tree! It's going to fall.

  Compare the following with the examples in the first bullet point:

  I'm going to be late this evening. I've got lots of paperwork to finish off.

  The figures are good. I can see the company is going to make a profit this year.

  Decisions expressed with going to refer to a more distant point in the future.

- Present continuous describes fixed arrangements, especially social and travel arrangements. A time reference is usually included. Note the strong similarity to the going to future. I am having a party next week and I am going to have a party next week are communicating the same message.

  Come round in the morning. I'll be painting in the kitchen.

  It can also describe events which are going to happen anyway, rather than events which we choose to make happen.

  I won't bother to fix a time to see you, because I'll be calling into the office anyway several times next week.

  In some contexts future continuous also sounds more polite than will.

  Will you be going to the shops later? If you go, could you get me some milk?

  It can also be used to refer to fixed arrangements and plans.

  The band will be performing live in Paris this summer.

- Future perfect

  This has both simple and continuous forms, and refers to time which we look back at from a future point.

  In two year's time I'll have finished the book.

  By the end of the month, I'll have been working for this firm for a year.
Other ways of referring to the future

It can also be used to express an assumption on the part of the speaker.

You won't have heard the news, of course.

(This means that I assume you have not heard the news.)

Is/are to be

This is used to describe formal arrangements.

All students are to assemble in the hall at 9.00.

See also Grammar 11 and 12 for uses expressing obligation.

Be about to, be on the point of, be due to, just/just about to

Be about to and be on the point of both refer to the next moment.

I think the play is about to start now.

Mary is on the point of resigning.

Be due to refers to scheduled times.

The play is due to start in five minutes.

Ann's flight is due at 6.20.

Just can be used to describe something on the point of happening.

Present simple and present perfect

Present simple is used to refer to future time in future time clauses.

When we get there, we'll have dinner.

Present perfect can also be used instead of present simple when the completion of the event is emphasised.

When we've had a rest, we'll go out.

Present simple is also used to describe fixed events which are not simply the wishes of the speaker.

Tom retires in three years.

Similarly, calendar references use the present simple.

Hope

This can be followed by either present or future verb forms.

I hope it doesn't rain. I hope it won't rain.

Other verbs followed by will.

Most verbs of thinking can be followed by will if there is future reference.

These include: think, believe, expect, doubt.

I expect the train will be late. I doubt whether United will win.

Shall

The use of shall for first person in future reference is generally considered to be restricted to British English and possibly declining in use. See Grammar 11 and 12 for other uses of shall and will. For some speakers, shall is used in formal speech and in written language.
Practice

This section also includes time phrases used in expressing future time.

Put each verb in brackets into a suitable verb form.

a) In twenty-four hours’ time (I/relax) on my yacht.
b) There’s someone at the door. That (be) the postman.
c) By the time you get back Harry (leave).
d) It’s only a short trip. I (be) back in an hour.
e) What (you/do) this Saturday evening? Would you like to go out?
f) By the end of the week we (decide) what to do.
g) It (not/be) long before Doctor Smith is here.
h) We’ll go to the park when you (finish) your tea.
i) It’s very hot in here. I think I (faint).
j) What (you/give) Ann for her birthday? Have you decided yet?

2 In most lines of this text there is an extra word. Write the extra word, or put a tick if the line is correct.

In August Gordon will then have been at his company for 25 years, and he’s getting for a bonus of three weeks paid holiday. So we’ve decided to hire a car and drive around Eastern Europe. We’ll be leaving towards the end of August, and our aim there is to visit as many countries as we can. We’re flying out to Budapest - soon we’re due to catch a plane on the 28th day - and then we’ll be stopping over at a friend’s house, before starting our grand tour. We’ll most probably spend the best part of a week in Hungary. When we’ve just finished there, we’ll probably be go to Romania, but beyond that we haven’t planned too much arrangements. We will know a bit more by the end of this week, when we’re getting a whole load of brochures from the tourist board. We’d like to get to as far as Russia, but realistically I doubt whether we’ll have time. I hope it won’t be too expensive - from till now on we’ll really have to tighten our belts! I can’t wait! In just over two months’ of time we’ll be having the time of our lives!

3 Choose the most appropriate continuation for each sentence.

a) According to the latest forecast, the tunnel
   A will be finished next year.   B will have been finished next year.   C is finishing next year.

Explanations

- Past simple generally refers to:
  - Completed actions
    - /got up, switched off the radio, and sat down again.
  - Habits
    - Every day I went to the park.
  - States
    - In those days, I didn’t like reading.

- Past continuous (progressive) generally refers to:
  - Actions in progress (often interrupted by events)
    - I was drinking my coffee at the time.
    - While I was opening the letter, the phone rang.

- Background description in narrative
  - I entered the office and looked around. Most people were working at their desks, but Jane was staring out of the window and pretending to write something at the same time.

- Changing states
  - The car was getting worse all the time. One of the headlights was gradually falling off, and the engine was making more and more funny noises.

- Repeated actions - criticism
  - With a frequency adverb, this use is similar to the use of present continuous to express annoyance.
    - When Jane was at school, she was always losing things.

- Past continuous is not used to describe general habitual actions, without the sense of criticism mentioned above. Past simple is used for this meaning.
  - When I lived in London, I walked through the park every day.

- We use the past perfect when we are already talking about the past, and we want to go back to an earlier past time (‘double past’).
  - By the time I got to the station, the train had left.

Compare this with:
  - The train left five minutes before I got to the station.

When we talk about a sequence of past events in the order that they happened, we more commonly use the past simple, especially with quick, short actions.

- Past perfect continuous (progressive)
  - The same contrasts between past simple and past continuous (see previous section) can be made in past perfect verb forms for events further back in the past.
I had been living in a bed-sitter up to then.
While I had been talking on the phone, Jimmy had escaped.
The whole place was deserted, but it was obvious that someone had been living there. They’d been cooking in the kitchen for a start, and they hadn’t bothered to clear up the mess.

- Past perfect is also common in reported speech. See Grammar 16.

- Past perfect is not used simply to describe an event in the distant past.

Used to and would

This often contrasts with the present. The contrast may be stated or understood.

I used to go swimming a lot (but I don’t now).

The negative form is either:

I didn’t use to or I used not to (rare for some speakers).

The form I didn’t used to may also be found. This is usually considered incorrect, unless we consider used to as an unchanging semi-modal form. There is no present time reference possible.

- Would

This is used to describe repeated actions, not states. It describes a habitual activity which was typical of a person.

Every week he’d buy his mother a bunch of flowers.

Used to would also be possible here. Compare:

I used to like cowboy films.

Would is not possible here.

Would is more common in written language and often occurs in reminiscences.

Unfulfilled past events

- These describe events intended to take place, but which did not happen.

I was going to phone you, but I forgot.

I was thinking of going to Italy this year, but I haven’t decided.

I was about to do it, but I started doing something else.

Jack was to have taken part, but he fell ill.

- The contrasting past event is often understood, but not stated.

How are you? I was going to phone you ... (but I didn’t).

Polite forms

These are common with wonder.

I was wondering if you wanted to come to the cinema.

See Grammar 11 and 12 for comment on this.

Contrasts with present perfect verb forms

See Grammar 4 for contrasts between past simple and present perfect verb forms. Past verb forms are also used to express unreal time. See Grammar 8 and 9.
1 Underline the correct word or phrase in each sentence.

Explanations

Present perfect simple refers to:
Recent events, without a definite time given. The recentness may be indicated by just.

We've missed the turning. I've just seen a ghost!
Indefinite events, which happened at an unknown time in the past. No definite time is given.

Jim has had three car accidents. (up to the present)
Indefinite events which may have an obvious result in the present.

I've twisted my ankle, (that's why I'm limping)
With state verbs, a state which lasts up to the present.

I've lived here for the past ten years.
A habitual action in a period of time up to the present.

I've been jogging every morning for the last month.

Contrast with past simple
Past simple is used with time expressions which refer to definite times. The time may be stated or understood. Compare:

I've bought a new car. (indefinite)

I bought the car after all. (implied definite: the car we talked about)
Choice between past simple and present perfect for recent events may depend on the attitude of the speaker. This in turn may depend on whether the speaker feels distant in time or place from the event.

I've left my wallet in the car. I'm going back to get it.
Here the speaker may be about to return, and feels that the event is connected with the present.

I left my wallet in the car. I'm going back to get it.
The speaker may feel separated in time from the event, or be further away.

Present perfect continuous (progressive) can refer to a range of meanings, depending on the time expression used and the context.
A state which lasts up to the present moment

I've been waiting for you for three hours!
An incomplete activity

I've been cleaning the house but I still haven't finished.
To emphasise duration

I've been writing letters all morning.
A recently finished activity

I've been running. That's why I look hot.
A repeated activity

I've been taking French lessons this year.
• Contrasts with present perfect simple
There may be little contrast when some state verbs are used.
   How long have you lived here?
   How long have you been living here?
Some verbs (especially sit, lie, wait and stay) prefer the continuous form.
There may be a contrast between completion and incompletion, especially if the number of items completed is mentioned.
Completed: emphasis on achievement
   I've ironed five shirts this morning.
Incomplete, or recently completed: emphasis on duration
   I've been ironing my shirts this morning.

Meaning with present perfect verb forms is associated with certain time expressions.
Contrast with past simple may depend on the choice of time expression.
Past simple: referring to a specific finished time.
   yesterday, last week, on Sunday
Present perfect: with 'indefinite' time expressions meaning 'up to now'.
   since 1968, already Many time expressions are not associated with a specific verb form, since they refer both to finished time or time up to the present, depending on the speaker's perspective.
   I haven't seen Helen recently.
   I saw Jim recently.
Others include:
   for, never, before, all my life, for a long time, today, all day, every day
These may be used with either past simple or present perfect.

You see, I (6) ............................... (grow up) in a fairly small town called Devizes and I (7) ............................... (spend) all of my life there.
I (8) ............................... (always/want) to live in a big city and so when my company (9) ............................... (offer) me a job in London, I (10) ............................... (jump) at the chance.

I think I'm not alone in my aversion to the big city. According to a programme I (11) ............................... (just/hear) on the radio, more and more people (12) ............................... (stop) working in London recently, and a lot of large companies (13) ............................... (choose) to move away from the centre. Oh well, it's too late to change my mind now, because the job is up and running, and I (14) ............................... (already/sell) my house in Devizes. But I must admit, over the past few days, I (15) ............................... (secretly/hope) that the company would relocate me back to my old town.

Farmers, as you may (1) ...know...............(know). (2).......................... (have) a hard time of it in Britain lately, and (3)..............................(turn) to new ways of earning income from their land. This (4).............................. (involve) not only planting new kinds of crops, but also some strange ways of making money, the most unusual of which has got to be sheep racing. Yes, you (5)..............................(hear) me correctly! A farmer in the west of England now (6)..............................(hold) sheep races on a regular basis, and during the past year over 100,000 people (7)..............................(turn up) to watch the proceedings. 'I (8)..............................(pass) the farm on my way to the sea for a holiday,' one punter told me, 'and I (9)..............................(think) I'd have a look. I (10)..............................(not/believe) it was serious, to tell you the truth.' According to a regular visitor, betting on sheep is more interesting than betting on horses. 'At proper horse races everyone (11).............................. (already/study) the form of the horses in advance, and there are clear favourites. But nobody (12)..............................(hear) anything about these sheep! Most people (13)..............................(find) it difficult to tell one from another in any case.' I (14)..............................(stay) to watch the races, and I must admit that I (15)..............................(find) it quite exciting. In a typical race, half a dozen sheep (16)..............................(race) downhill over a course of about half a mile. Food (17)..............................(wait) for them at the other end of the track, I ought to add! The sheep (18)..............................(run) surprisingly fast, although presumably they (19)..............................(not/eat) for a while just to give them some motivation. At any rate, the crowd around me (20)..............................(obviously/enjoy) their day out at the races, judging by their happy faces and the sense of excitement.

Our reporter, Sarah Hardie, goes to Otley Hall to experience a spooky weekend. There have been signs of paranormal activity at Otley Hall at various times over the last 200 years. If tales of headless huntsmen and wailing nuns don't spook you out, do get this for a ghostly tale: a young Victorian man in a silver gown emerges himself from the garden, walks through the front door, whether or not it happens to be open, and walks upstairs with a lantern, before vanishing in the library. If local folklore it is to be believed, he does this without fail at midnight on 6 September every year, this being the date of the untimely death of one George Carpenter, the gardener of the hall, who met his doom in the library, had burned by his own lantern. Otley Hall stands 3 miles north of the town of Rugby, England, and that is reputedly the most haunted house in England, a claim which few who have never visited it would dispute. Even the approach to the Hall is not much a journey to be undertaken by the faint-hearted; at one point an executioner emerges from the trees, was brandishing an axe, although it must be said that this practice ceases after September, when the Hall is closed to visitors. My own visit revealed nothing more mysterious than such gimmicks, laid on for an ever-gullible flow of tourists, cameras been at their sides, eager to snap their buttons at the first sign of anything even remotely unexplainable. But it was all having great fun, and the ghostly maze on the final day was terrific, even if I did never get to see George Carpenter.

Explanations

Basic uses of the passive

Agent and instrument
The person who performs an action in a passive sentence is called the agent, introduced by by. The agent may or may not be mentioned.

My purse was found by one of the cleaners.
A new road has been built.

An object which causes something to happen is called an instrument, introduced by with.

He was hit on the head with a hammer.

Verbs with two objects
Verbs which have two objects can be made passive in two ways.

/ was handed a note. A note was handed to me.

Other common verbs of this type are:

bring, give, lend, pass, pay, promise, sell, send, show, tell

Verbs with object and complement
Some verbs have a noun or adjective which describes their object.

We elected Jim class representative.
Everyone considered him a failure.

When these are made passive, the complement goes directly after the verb.

Jim was elected class representative.
He was considered a failure.

Verbs which can't be passive
Most verbs with an object (transitive verbs) can be made passive:
e.g. drive is transitive because one can drive something (a car).

However, a few transitive verbs may not be used in the passive. These include: become, fit (be the right size), get, have, lack, let, like, resemble, suit.

Verbs with no object (intransitive) can not be passive:
e.g. fall is intransitive, you cannot 'fall something'.

Therefore it is not possible to say The tree was fallen. Instead the sentence must be active: The tree fell.

Using and not mentioning the agent

Change of focus
The passive can change the emphasis of a sentence.

Jack won the prize, (focus on Jack)
The prize was won by Jack, (focus on the prize)
Unknown agent
The agent is not mentioned if unknown.

My wallet has been taken.
In this case, there is no point in adding an agent: 'by somebody'.

Generalised agent
If the subject is 'people in general' or 'you' the agent is not mentioned.

Bicycles are widely used in the city instead of public transport.

Obvious agent
If the agent is obvious or has already been referred to, it is not mentioned.

Linda has been arrested! (we assume by the police)
The company agreed to our request and a new car park was opened.

Unimportant agent
If the agent is not important to the meaning of the sentence it is not mentioned.

I was advised to obtain a visa in advance.

Impersonality
Using the passive is a way of avoiding the naming of a specific person who is responsible for an action.

It has been decided to reduce all salaries by 10%.
In descriptions of processes, there is emphasis on the actions performed rather than on the people who perform them.

Then the packets are packed into boxes of twenty-four.

You (ask) (attend) to attend on any Saturday next month at the Royal Hotel, Manchester. If you (interest) (attend) in attending and taking up this offer, please (detach) (return) the slip below and return it to us as soon as possible.
Using the notes as a guide, complete the e-mail to all company staff. Put the verbs in brackets into a suitable passive verb form.

NOTES FROM MANAGEMENT MEETING

Tell staff:
We'll try flexi-time for 3 months.
After 3 months we'll get the opinions of all staff.
We'll look at feedback comments and make a decision.
We may try it for another month.
All workers will have to arrive 8-9.30.
We hope you like the idea!

FROM: The Managing Director
TO: All staff

(has been decided) to adopt a flexi-time system for a trial period of three months. After this period (2)(elapse) all members of staff (3)(consult) through their line manager, and feedback (4)(seek).
Comments (5)(collect) and analysed before a decision (6)(make) as to whether the system (7)(adopt) permanently or not. Alternatively, the trial period (8)(extend) for a further month. All employees (9)(require) to arrive between the hours of 8.00 and 9.30, and to leave after they have fulfilled their contractual obligations of eight hours. It (10)(hope) that this arrangement meets with your enthusiastic approval!
Explanations

- Have/get something done
  This typically describes a service performed for us by someone else.

  I've just had/got my car serviced. I have/get it done every winter.

  It can also describe something unfortunate that happens to someone.

  We had/got our car broken into last month.

  Get is more likely to be used than have when:

  i) there is a feeling that something must be done.
     I really must get (have) my hair cut.

  ii) there is a feeling of eventually managing to do something.
     I eventually got (had) the car fixed at the Fast Service garage.

  iii) in orders and imperatives.
     Get your hair cut!

  Note that get should not be used in the present perfect passive, where it would be confused with have got.

- The need to have a service done can be described with need doing.

  Your hair needs cutting.

- Passive get
  Get can be used instead of be to form the passive in spoken language.

- Reporting verbs

  With verbs such as believe, know, say, think, which report people's opinions, a passive construction is often used to avoid a weak subject, and to give a generalised opinion.

  With present reference, the passive is followed by the present infinitive.

  The criminal is thought to be in hiding in the London area.

  Vitamin C is known to be good for treating colds.

  With past reference, the passive is followed by the past infinitive.

  Smith is believed to have left England last week.

  If the reporting verb is in the past, the past infinitive tends to follow, though not always if the verb be is used.

  People thought Sue had paid too much.

  Sue was thought to have paid too much.

  The police thought that the thief was still in the house.

  The thief was thought to still be in the house.
Verbs with prepositions

- Past reference with two objects
  In this case there are two ways of making a passive sentence.

  Everyone knows the portrait was painted by an Italian.
  The portrait is known to have been painted by an Italian.

- Continuous infinitive
  Past and present continuous infinitives are also used.

  Mary is thought to be living in Scotland.
  The driver is thought to have been doing a U-turn.

- Ending a sentence with a preposition
  It is possible to end a sentence with a preposition in a sentence where a prepositional verb is made passive.

  Somebody broke into our house.
  Our house was broken into.

- By and with
  With is used after participles such as filled, packed, crowded, crammed.

  The train was packed with commuters.
  The difference between by and with may involve the presence of a person:
  Dave was hit by a branch, (an accident)
  Dave was hit with a branch, (a person hit him with one)

- Make is followed by to when used in the passive.

  My boss made me work hard.
  I was made to work hard by my boss.

- Cover and verbs which involve similar ideas, such as surround, decorate, can use with or by. Cover can also be followed by in.

  The furniture was covered in dust.

Common contexts for the passive

- Formality
  The passive is probably more common in written English, where there tends to be less use of personal reference in some contexts, since the audience may be unknown.

- Points mentioned in Grammar 6
  The passive is used to change the focus of the sentence, to avoid generalised subjects, and to make an action impersonal. It is common in descriptions of processes, and in scientific and technical language in general.

A plane carrying 15 members of the government to a conference in Brussels is known to have experienced a small-scale fire earlier this morning. The plane was packed about 20 minutes into its journey when the fire occurred in the luggage area. It was not known how the plane caught fire, but initial eyewitness accounts confirm that a trail of smoke was coming from the under-carriage. The fire was rapidly under control, but the pilot was obliged to make an emergency landing. Five people were made to treated for shock. The plane was packed with business people flying to Belgium. All 209 passengers were made to stay behind for questioning after landing at a military airport in northern France. Police were made to treating the incident as suspicious.

7 Rewrite the text using the passive where possible. Make sure the words underlined do not appear.

Nobody knows exactly when someone invented gunpowder. People know for a fact that the Chinese made rockets and fireworks long before people used gunpowder in Europe, which occurred at about the beginning of the thirteenth century. We generally believe that gunpowder brought to an end the 'Age of Chivalry', since anyone with a firearm could bring down a mounted knight. In fact, people did not develop efficient firearms until the sixteenth century. They used gunpowder mainly in siege cannon when people first introduced it. Later they used it in engineering work and in mining, but they found that it was extremely dangerous. Modern explosives have now replaced gunpowder, but we still use it for making fireworks, just as the Chinese did.

It is not known exactly
Explanations

Basic usage

• What is always true: present + present

  If I work late, I got tired.
  If the water is boiling/has boiled, it means the food is nearly ready.

• What was always true: past + past

  We went home early if it was foggy.
  If it was snowing, we stayed at home.

• Real situations: present + future

  Here we think that the outcome is really possible.
  If you keep driving like that, you're going to have an accident.
  If you see Mark, tell him I'll ring him tomorrow.

• Hypothetical situations: past + would

  These are unreal or imaginary situations.
  If I knew the answer, I'd tell you.
  If I was having a party, I wouldn't invite Marcia.
  The verb be usually takes the form were for all persons in these sentences, though was is used in everyday speech. Note that in the first person it is possible to use should instead of would.
  If I left home, I think I should be lonely.

• Hypothetical past situations: past perfect + would have

  These refer to past events.
  If I had known you were coming, I would have met you at the station.

• With modals

  Possible situations in the present
  If you get wet, you should change your clothes immediately.
  If you come early, we can discuss the problem together.
  Hypothetical situations
  If I had the money, I could help you.
  Hypothetical past situations
  If you hadn't reminded me, I might have forgotten.

Variations

• If only

  This adds emphasis to hypothetical situations. With past events it adds a sense of regret. The second part of the sentence is often left out.
  If only I had enough time!
  If only I hadn't drunk too much, this wouldn't have happened!
• Unless and other alternatives to if

> Unless means only if not.

> I’ll go ahead and get the tickets unless you call me this afternoon.

(This means if you call me this afternoon, I won’t get the tickets.)

This means if one situation depends on another, if can be replaced by as/so long as, provided or only if. See Grammar 13 for only if.

> I’ll do what you say provided the police are not informed.

Even if describes how something will happen whatever the condition.

> Even if it rains, we’ll still go for a picnic.

• Past events with results in the present: past perfect + would

> If Jim hadn’t missed the plane, he would be here by now.

• Should

After if, this makes the possibility of an event seem unlikely.

> If you should see Ann, could you ask her to call me?

(This implies that I do not expect you to see Ann.)

• Were to

This also makes an event seem more hypothetical.

> If I were to ask you to marry me, what would you say?

• Happen to

This emphasises chance possibilities. It is often used with should.

> If you happen to see Helen, could you ask her to call me?

> If you should happen to be passing, drop in for a cup of tea.

• If it were not for/if it hadn’t been for

This describes how one event depends on another.

> If it weren’t for Jim, this company would be in a mess.

> If it hadn’t been for their goalkeeper, United would have lost.

• Will and would: politeness and emphasis

These can be used as polite forms.

> If you will/would wait here, I’ll see if Mrs Green is free.

Will can also be used for emphasis, meaning ’insist on doing’.

> If you will stay out late, no wonder you are tired! (insist on staying out)

• Supposing, otherwise

Supposing or suppose can replace if, mainly in everyday speech.

> Supposing you won the football pools, what would you do?

Otherwise means ’or if not’. It can go at the beginning or end of the sentence.

> If you hadn’t given us directions, we wouldn’t have found the house.

> Thanks for your directions to the house. We wouldn’t have found it otherwise.
• But for
  This can replace if not. It is used in formal language, and must be followed by a noun form.

  If you hadn't helped us, we would have been in trouble.
  But for your help, we would have been in trouble.

• If so/if not
  These can refer to a sentence understood but not stated.

  There is a possibility that Jack will be late. If so, I will take his place.

• Colloquial omission of if
  An imperative can be used instead of an if clause in everyday speech.

  Sit down, and I’ll make us a cup of tea. (If you sit down ...)

• If and adjectives
  In expressions such as if it is necessary/possible it is possible to omit the verb be.

  If interested, apply within.
  If necessary, take a taxi.

• Formally if can mean although, usually as if+ adjective.

  The room was well-furnished, if a little badly decorated.

MEMO

Brian, tell Carter's again that their account must be paid.

If they don't pay in ten days we're going to have to go to the law.
If they're in financial trouble, they can get in touch with our Finance Dept.
If they pay up we can keep their account open.
If they don't we shall, if we really have to, close their account.
If they have settled the account already, say sorry for this letter.

Credit Controller
Carter's Record Store

Dear Sir/Madam,

We would like to (1) you that your account is two months overdue. On the basis of our goodwill, we are prepared to allow you another ten days to settle your account. However, if you (2) to pay your outstanding bills within ten days you (3) us with no alternative but to take legal action. That is, (4) we receive full payment by 20 March, we (5) steps to reclaim our money, plus compensation costs.

(6) you be experiencing financial difficulties, please contact our Finance Department. (7) you settle your account within the specified time period, we (8) happy to continue to do business with you. However, we will, if (9), take the regrettable step of closing your account. We are sorry that the situation has come to this, but if you had paid your bills over the last two months, we would not be in this position now.

You (10) have settled your account in the last two days; if so, please accept our apologies for this letter.

Yours faithfully,
Brian Eccles

Explanations

It's time

It's time, it's high time

These are followed by past simple or continuous, though the time referred to is unreal. See Grammar 8.

It's time we left. It's high time I was going.

Wishes

- Present/future time
  Notice the past verb forms after wish.
  These are wishes where you want to change a present/future state.
  I wish I had a motorbike. (I don’t have one now.)
  I wish you weren’t leaving. (You are leaving.)
  I wish I was going on holiday with you next week. (I am not going.)

- Would
  Would is used when the speaker wants somebody or something else to change.
  I wish he would change his mind and marry Jane.
  I wish it would stop raining.
  The use with would is often used to describe an annoying habit.
  I wish you wouldn’t make such a mess.

- Past time
  As with present wishes, the verb form after wish is one stage further back in the past. These are wishes referring to a past event, which cannot be changed.
  I wish I hadn’t eaten so much.
  This use of wish is common after if only to express regrets. See Grammar 8.

- Hope
  Wishes about simple future events are expressed with hope.
  I hope it doesn’t (won’t) rain tomorrow.
  I hope you’ll have a lovely time in Portugal (on your holiday next week).

- I’d rather/I prefer (followed by a clause)
  I’d rather is followed by past verb forms in the same way as wishes about the present. It expresses preference about actions.
  I’d rather you didn’t smoke in here.
  Both I’d rather and I’d sooner are used with normal verb forms when comparing nouns or phrases.
  I’d rather be a sailor than a soldier, (present)
  I’d rather have lived in Ancient Greece than Ancient Rome, (past)
• I'd prefer can be used in the same way, but note that prefer in this type of sentence has an object it.

  *I'd prefer it if you didn't go.*

  However, I'd prefer is not followed by an unreal verb form in other situations.

  I'd prefer tea to coffee.

  I'd prefer you to go swimming (rather than go jogging).

As if, as though

Real and unreal

The verb form here depends on whether the situation is true or unreal.

You look as if you're having second thoughts. (True. He is having second thoughts.)

He acts as if he were in charge. (Unreal. He isn't in charge.)

I feel as if an express train had hit me. (It didn't hit me.)

Note however, that the more colloquial like does not require this verb form change. Compare:

You look like you've just seen a ghost

You look as if you'd just seen a ghost.

Suppose and imagine

Understood conditions

The conditional part of these sentences is often understood but not stated.

Imagine we won the pools!

Suppose someone told you that I was a spy!

Imagine we'd never met! (we have met)

As with conditional sentences, if the event referred to is a real possibility, rather than imaginary, a present verb form is possible:

Suppose it starts raining, what'll we do?

Formal Subjunctives

• Insisting, demanding etc

After verbs such as demand, insist, suggest, require which involve an implied obligation, the subjunctive may be used in formal style. This has only one form, that of the infinitive, and there is no third person -s, or past form. The verb be has be for all forms.

They demanded that he leave at once.

The school Principal suggested that he be awarded a scholarship.

• Less formal usage

Less formally, should can be used, and colloquially no verb form change is made, or an infinitive construction is used.

They demanded that he should leave.

They demanded that he left, (informal)

Formulaic Subjunctives

These are fixed expressions all using subjunctive. Typical expressions are:

God save the Queen!

Be that as it may ...

Dear Tom,

Well, this time next week you'll be somewhere in Europe on a train. I'm sure any mum would worry! Actually, you're very lucky. I'd love to have been able to go off around the world. I often wish I travelled more when I was younger. I really hope you enjoy yourself, but do be careful, won't you? You're only 18 after all. Do take care with your money, won't you? And I'd rather you didn’t spend too many nights in your tent alone. It's so dangerous. I suggest you only (5).................your tent in a proper camp site.

I wish you (6).................going quite so soon. It's a pity you (7).................stay until after Dad's 50th birthday. But never mind. I wish Dad (8).................be at the airport to see you off, but he's got some really important business that day.

Suppose we (9).................out to see you in June??! ... Just a thought. Anyway, just remember, if you get into any trouble, we're only a phone call away, and come what (10)................., we'll always be there for you.

Love, Mum

Employees protesting at the planned closure of the Magnet electronics factory have begun a protest outside the factory in Brook Road. It was revealed last week that production at the factory, where over 3,000 local people are employed, is to be transferred to the existing Magnet plant in Luton next month. Only a few new jobs are expected to be created. "Why have we not been informed about this earlier? We were only told about this two days ago," said Marjory Calder, representing the workforce. "It's about time companies such as this started thinking about how local communities are affected by their policies. Most of us here own our houses. How are we going to keep paying the mortgage and find a job? I wish I knew." Reg Reynolds, Director of Magnet was asked what was being done to help those who have made redundant. "Every effort has been made over the past month to offer early retirement to those who qualify," he told our reporter. When questioned about why the workers were not told about the closure earlier, he revealed the company promised a government loan to keep the factory open, but that at the last minute the government decided not to provide the loan after all. "So don't blame the company, we've done our best."

Explanations

Don't have to and must not

- Don't have to refers to an absence of obligation.

  You don't have to work tomorrow.

- Must not refers to an obligation not to do something.

  You must not leave the room before the end of the test.

Should

Where should appears, ought to can also be used.

- Expectation

  This film should be really good.

- Recommendation

  I think you should talk it over with your parents.

  In writing, should can be used to express a strong obligation politely.

  Guests should vacate their rooms by midday.

- Criticism of an action

  You shouldn't eat so much late at night.

- Uncertainty

  Should I leave these papers on your desk?

Should and verbs of thinking

Should is often used with verbs of thinking, to make an opinion less direct.

I should think that model would sell quite well.

With be and adjectives describing chance

This group of adjectives includes odd, strange, funny ( =odd) and the expression What a coincidence.

It's strange that you should be staying in the same hotel!

After in case to emphasise unlikelihood

I'm taking an umbrella in case it should rain.

See Grammar 8 for similar uses in conditional sentences.

Could

- Could is used to express possibility or uncertainty.

  This could be the house.

- Could is used with comparative adjectives to express possibility or impossibility.

  The situation couldn't be worse.

  It could be better.
• Could is used to make suggestions.

  We could go to that new restaurant opposite the cinema.

• Could is used to express unwillingness.

  I couldn't possibly leave Tim here on his own.

Can

• Can with be is used to make criticisms.

  You can be really annoying, you know!

• Can is also used with be to refer to capability.

  Winter here can be really cold.

Must and can’t

These refer to present time only. (See bound to). In expressing certainty, they are opposites.

  This must be our stop. (I'm sure it is.)
  This can't be our stop. (I'm sure it isn't.)

May and might

• May can be used to express although clauses:

  She may be the boss, but that is no excuse for shouting like that.

  See also Grammar 14 Emphasis.

• May/might as well This describes the only thing left to do, something which the speaker is not enthusiastic about.

  Nobody else is going to turn up now for the lesson, so you may as well go home.

• May and might both express possibility or uncertainty. May is more common in formal language.

  The peace conference may find a solution to the problem.

• There is an idiomatic expression with try, using may for present reference, and might for past reference.

  Try as I might, I could not pass my driving test.

  (This means although I tried hard, I could not pass my driving test.)

Shall

• Shall can be used with all persons to emphasise something which the speaker feels is certain to happen or wants to happen.

  I shall definitely give up smoking this year.

  We shall win! (shall is stressed in this sentence)

• Similarly, shall is used in formal rules and regulations.

  No player shall knowingly pick up or move the ball of another player.

Will

• Will can be used to express an assumption.

  A: The phone’s ringing, B: That’ll be for me.
• Will/won’t can be used emphatically to tell someone of the speaker’s intention, or to forbid an action, in response to a will expression.

  I’ll take the money anyway, so there!

  You won’t!

  I will!

  Similarly / won’t can mean / refuse, and / will can mean / insist.

  A: I won't do it! B: Yes, you will!

Would

Would is often used in situations where a conditional sense is understood but not stated.

Nobody would agree with that idea, (if we asked them)

Life wouldn't be worth living without you. (if you weren’t there)

I think Jim would be the best candidate, (if he was under consideration for the job)

Sue wouldn't do that, surely! (if you think she’s capable of doing that).

Need

• Need to is a modal auxiliary, and behaves like a normal verb.

  Do you need to use the photocopier?

• Need is a modal auxiliary, but mainly in question and negative forms.

  Need you make so much noise?

  See Grammar 7 for need doing

Related non-modal expressions

• Had better

  This is a recommendation and refers only to the present or future.

  You’d better not phone her again.

• Be bound to

  This makes a future prediction of certainty.

  It's bound to rain tomorrow.

Explanations

Had to and must have

Had to is the past form of must and refers to a past obligation.

Sorry I'm late, I had to post some letters.

The negative form is didn't have to and refers to an absence of obligation.

Must have refers to past certainty, (see below)

Where should appears, ought to is also possible.

- Expectation
  Should have refers to something which was supposed to happen.
  *The parcel I sent you should have arrived by now.*

- Criticism of an action
  You shouldn't have eaten so much last night.

- Should have and verbs of thinking
  The past form knew in the example is an unreal verb form, and the should have form is used according to 'sequence of verb forms'. See Grammar 9.
  I should have thought you knew.

- With be and adjectives describing chance
  It was strange that you should have been staying in the same hotel last year.

- As a polite expression of thanks on receiving a gift or a favour
  I've done the washing up for you. - Oh, you really shouldn't have! The intonation should be friendly, as this is not a criticism.

Could have

Could have refers to past possibility or uncertainty.

David could have won the race if he had tried, (possibility/ability)

It could have been Sue, I suppose, (uncertainty)

Couldn't have is also possible for both meanings.

Couldn't have can be used with comparative adjectives.

We couldn't have been happier in those days.

Could have can also express unwillingness.

She could have gone to the party with her friends, (but she didn't)

We couldn't have left the dog on its own. (so we didn't)

Could

Could refers to past permission or past ability.

When I was sixteen I could stay out till 11.00. (I was allowed to)

Mary could swim when she was three, (she actually did)

Compare:

Mary could have swum when she was three, (but she didn't)
May have and might have

- Might have refers to past possibility which did not happen.

  You might have drowned!

- Might have and may have refer to uncertainty.

  I suppose I may have been rather critical.

- Both can be used in the negative to express uncertainty.

  They might not have received our letter yet.

- Might have is used to express annoyance at someone's failure to do something. There is strong stress on the words underlined.

  You might have told me my trousers were split!

- I might have known + would is an idiom by which the speaker expresses ironically that an action was typical of someone else.

  I might have known that he would be late.

  A: It was Jack who broke the vase. B: I might have known!

Must have and can't have

- These refer to the speaker's certainty about a past action.

  Someone must have taken it. (I am sure they did)
  You can't have lost it. (I am sure you didn't)

- Both can also be used with surely in exclamations.

  Surely you can't have eaten all of it!
  Surely you must have noticed it!

Would not

- This expresses an unwillingness in the past.

  Everyone was angry because Sam wouldn't turn off the television.

Would have

- Would have can refer to events in the past which did not actually happen.

  I would have accepted this job, but I didn't want to move house.

- Assumptions about the past are also possible with would have.

  A: Someone called after you left but didn't leave a message.

  B: That would have been Cathy, probably.

Needn't have and didn't need to

- Needn't have done refers to an unnecessary action which was actually done.

  You needn't have paid all at once, (you did pay)
  Didn't need to refers to an unnecessary action which was not done.

  I didn't need to go to the dentist again, luckily.

Adverbs and modals

- Adverbs such as well, easily, obviously, really, just are often used to emphasise modal expressions, in both present and past time.

  You could easily have been killed.
  I might well decide to come.
  She obviously must have left.
  You couldn't really have managed without me.
  I might just take you up on that.

Dear Toshie,

Thanks for sending back the book I lent you. You (1) can't have read it already! You must be the world's fastest reader! Hope you enjoyed it.

Well, the big news is, I decided not to go to Italy to take up my job offer. Basically, moving there (2) meant a lot of upheaval and frankly I couldn't face the hassle. Maybe I (3) just gone, and been a bit more adventurous, and for sure, I've got mixed feelings about it, as if part of me wanted to go. Who knows, I (4) met the man of my dreams! But I didn't take the decision lightly. I (5) spent several weeks thinking about nothing else. Anyway, what's done is done.

My other news concerns my Dad. You remember I was getting very worried because he'd been having dizzy spells and feeling all light-headed. Well, I (6) worried - he's been diagnosed as suffering from low blood pressure, so he's on medication for that. The doctor said it's possible that his vegetarian diet (7) set it off. It's a pity you weren't here! You (8) been able to help Dad, with your interest in holistic medicine. You (9) given him some of your aromatherapy treatments.

Anyway, hope to see you again before too long. By the way, guess who's getting married in June? Brenda! I (10) known it would be her! It's typical; that girl has all the luck!

Bye!

Love from, Sue
Explanations

The term inversion covers two different grammatical operations.

- Using a question form of the main verb

  Not only did he fail to report the accident, but also later denied that he had been driving the car.

  Never have I enjoyed myself more!

- Changing the normal positions of verb and subject

  Along the street came a strange procession.

  See Grammar 14 for an explanation of this example.

- This only occurs when the adverbial occurs at the beginning of a clause. All the examples below are used in formal language, usually for rhetorical effect, such as in political speeches. They are not usual in everyday spoken language. Compare:

  Never have I heard a weaker excuse!
  I have never heard a weaker excuse!

- Time expressions: never, rarely, seldom

  These are most commonly used with present perfect or past perfect, or with modals such as can and could. Sentences of this type often contain comparatives.

  Rarely can a minister have been faced with such a problem.
  Seldom has the team given a worse performance.
  Rarely had I had so much responsibility.

- Time expressions: hardly, barely, scarcely, no sooner

  These refer to an event which quickly follows another in the past. They are usually used with past perfect, although no sooner can be followed by past simple. Note the words used in the contrasting clause.

  Scarcely had I entered the room when the phone rang.
  No sooner had I reached the door than I realised it was locked.
  No sooner was the team back on the pitch than it started raining.

- After only

  Here only combines with other time expressions and is usually used with past simple.

  Only after posting the letter did I remember that I had forgotten to put on a stamp.

  Other examples are only if/when, only then, only later.
Note that when only refers to 'the state of being the only one', there is no inversion following it.

Only Mary realised that the door was not locked.

- Phrases containing no/not
  These include under no circumstances, on no account, at no time, in no way, on no condition, not until, not only ... (but also).

  On no condition are they to open fire without a warning.
  Not until I got home did I notice that I had the wrong umbrella.

- Little
  Little also has a negative or restrictive meaning in this sense:

  Little does the government appreciate what the results will be.

- This occurs with so and adjectives when the main verb is be. It is used for emphasis and is more common than the example with such.

  So devastating were the floods that some areas may never recover.

- Such used with be means so much/so great

  Such was the force of the storm that trees were uprooted.

- As in the examples with such, inversion only occurs if so/such is the first word in the clause.

- Three types of If- sentence can be inverted without If-.
  This makes the sentences more formal and makes the event less likely.

  If they were to escape, there would be an outcry.
  Were they to escape, there would be an outcry.
  If the police had found out, I would have been in trouble.
  Were the police to have found out, I would have been in trouble.
  If you should hear anything, let me know.
  Should you hear anything, let me know.
  If he has cheated, he will have to be punished.
  Should he have cheated, he will have to be punished.
  If I had known, I would have protested strongly.
  Had I known, I would have protested strongly.

- Inversion after as
  We were short of money, as were most people in our neighbourhood.
  I thought, as did my colleagues, that the recession would soon be over.

- Inversion after so, neither and nor
  These are used in 'echoing' statements, agreeing or disagreeing.

  A: I am going home. B: So am I.
  *A: I don’t like meat. B: Neither do I.

  See Grammar 14 for ways of giving emphasis without inverting after so.

Well, ladies and gentlemen, we've done it again - another election victory. The last four years of office has been a wonderful time for the party, a tale of adversity overcome. _No sooner_ had we come to office than the Stock Market crashed. But we survived that scare, and we came out of it stronger for the experience. The opposition claimed we were faltering.

(2)..............................have I heard such hypocrisy from a party which continued to squabble internally for the next four years. Then

(3)..............................came a fellow called David Rew, with his new breakaway Democratic party - but he didn't have much success in the opinion polls! (4)..............................did he claim he'd become Prime Minister within three years, he also reckoned that this party was now unpopular with younger voters. (5)..............................did he realise that it would be the young voters who gave us an overwhelming vote of confidence in yesterday's election. (6)..............................had the first votes rolled in when it was obvious that we would be re-elected with a huge majority.

(7)..............................was the extent of our victory that the New Democrats obtained a meagre five seats. (8)..............................they known they would perform so poorly, I don't think they would have been quite so scathing in their criticism of our economic policy. But rest assured, ladies and gentlemen, (9)..............................will we rest on our laurels. There is no room for complacency in this government. And I am confident,

(10)..............................I'm sure are most of you, that the next four years will be a resounding success. Thank you.

Explanations

- Passive
  Passive constructions vary the way information is given in a sentence, putting more emphasis on what comes first. See Grammar 6 and 7.

  All roads to the north have been blocked by snow.

- Fronting and inversion
  Inversion here refers to changing the normal word order in the sentence so that a prepositional phrase is emphasised before the verb. This also involves putting the verb before the subject.

  Suddenly down came the rain!
  Up in the air went the balloon.

  Fronting involves changing the order of clauses in a sentence and putting first for emphasis a clause that would usually not be first.

  I don't know where the money is coming from.
  Where the money is coming from, I don't know.

  Time phrases can vary in position, and are often put first because the time reference is important.

  At six o'clock Monica decided to phone the police.

- May clauses
  There is a type of may clause introduced by although which can be inverted. It is a highly formal expression.

  Although it may seem/be difficult, it is not impossible.
  Difficult as/though it may seem/be, it is not impossible.

- Cleft and pseudo cleft sentences
  These are sentences introduced by it is/was or by a clause beginning what. Different parts of the sentence can be emphasised in this way. In speech, stress and intonation also identify the emphasis.

  With it is/was

  Sue borrowed my bike last night.
  It was Sue who borrowed my bike.
  It was last night that Sue borrowed my bike.
  It was my bike that Sue borrowed.

  Sentences with because are also possible.

  It was because I felt ill that I left.

  Modal auxiliaries are also possible.

  You can't have read the same book.
  It can't have been the same book that you read.
What clauses
These are common with verbs such as need, want, like, hate.

I hate rainy weather.
What I hate is rainy weather.
You need a holiday.
What you need is a holiday.

It is also possible to emphasise events, using auxiliary do/did.

Peter left the windows unlocked.
What Peter did was (to) leave the windows unlocked.
They are destroying the environment.
What they are doing is destroying the environment.

Clauses beginning all emphasise 'the only thing'.

/ only need another £15.
All I need is another £15.

Adding words for emphasis

• Own
This intensifies possessive adjectives.

It was my own idea.

• Very and indeed
Very can be used emphatically to mean exactly/precisely.

At the very same moment, the telephone rang.
Very ... indeed is another way of intensifying adjectives.

It was very cold indeed.

• Emphasising negatives
Ways of emphasising not include: at all, in the least, really.

It was not at all cold. It was not cold at all.
In the least/slightest usually adds bit if used before an adjective.

/ wasn't interested in the slightest.
I wasn't the least bit interested.

No and none can be emphasised by at all and whatsoever.

There were none left at all.
There were no tickets left whatsoever.

• The
The can emphasise uniqueness. It is heavily stressed in speech.

Surely you are not the Elizabeth Taylor, are you?

• Question words ending in -ever
These add an air of disbelief to the question.

Whatever are you doing? Whoever told you that?
• Auxiliary do
  This can emphasise the verb, and is stressed in speech.

  `/ do like this film! It's really great!`

  It is also used in polite forms.

  `/ do hope you'll come again! Do sit down!`

• Adverbs and adjectives
  A large number of adverbs and adjectives are used to add emphasis.
  Common examples are:

  I actually went inside one of the Pyramids.

  It is by no means certain that the match will take place.

  Some people were even wearing pullovers, it was so cold.

  Her performance was sheer magic!

  The following examples are only possible with adjectives which express an absolute opinion (non-gradeable adjectives).

  It was absolutely fantastic!

  The third exam question was quite (completely) impossible.

  This guide book is utterly useless.

  You were simply wonderful!

  Don't cook the meat any more. It's just right!

• Echoing phrases with so
  These express agreement.

  A: This is the book you are looking for. B: So it is!

Other means

• Time phrases
  Common examples are: day after day; time and time again; over and over again; day in, day out

  David reads the same book over and over again!

• Repetition of main verb

  `/ tried and tried, but it was no use.`

• In the repetition of a phrase with a possessive it is possible to omit the first mention of the noun and use a possessive pronoun.

  Their marriage was a successful marriage.

  Theirs was a successful marriage.

h) All I need is time.
i) Had the government acted more swiftly, the crisis might have been avoided,
j) Until you've completed this form, there's not much we can do.

I In most lines of this text there is an extra word. Write the word, or put a tick if the line is correct.

Dear John,

Have a little problem, to say the least - might it be grateful of your advice. Things should have gone pretty badly this week up in Marketing. On Thursday I did missed this really important meeting. I supposed, as did we all us, that the meeting would be cancelled, as my boss, DW, had flu. Little bit did I know, DW's boss, Mike Tranter himself, was there in the meeting room, waiting for us all, and nobody turned up! Apparently, as Mike had sent me an e-mail that morning, asking me to tell everyone what the meeting was still on, but that would be the day I was too busy to check my e-mails, wouldn't it! Mike was livid, and accused me of having no common sense so whatever. I tried to apologise and suggested we shall rearrange the meeting, but he wasn't at the least bit interested. From his point of view, not only did I fail to attend a meeting, but also that I failed to communicate a vital message from him which he'd entrusted me with. No sooner had I emerged from Mike's office after a dressing-down that it must have lasted for a good 15 minutes, than who should phone me but DW, wanting to know exactly what might had happened at the meeting. He must have arranged it for Mike to chair the meeting in his place. Well, I feel like I might have as well go and hand in my resignation now. Any advice will more than gratefully received from a desperate friend!

Explanations

Problems

This unit assumes that the basic rules for forming reported speech are already known.

• The most important rule is to use verb forms that are natural in the situation.

  'I'm happy to help you' she said.
  She told me she is happy to help us.

In the above example, the verb has not been put one stage back in the past. In the following example, the same is true.

  'I wanted to go to the cinema, but John wasn't so keen,' said Sue.
  Sue said that she wanted to go to the cinema, but John wasn't so keen.

• Reported speech with modal auxiliaries

  If the reporting verb is in a past verb form, modals change where there is a 'past' equivalent.

  Will - would  can - could  may - might

  Could, would, and might do not change.

  I might be late. She said (that) she might be late.

  Should changes to would if it is used as a first person form of would.

  I should love to come. She said (that) she would love to come.

  Otherwise should remains unchanged.

  You should rest. They said (that) I should rest.

  Must can be reported as either had to or remain as must.

• Reported speech with conditional sentences

  After a past tense reporting verb, real situations include verb form changes.

  If we leave now, we'll catch the train.
  I told him that if we left then we'd catch the train.

  In reported hypothetical situations, verb form changes are not made if the event has reference to a possible future.

  If you came back tomorrow, I'd be able to help you.
  She said that if I came back the next day, she'd be able to help me.

  If the event is clearly hypothetical and impossible, time changes are made.

  If I had a spanner, I could fix it.
  He said that if he had had a spanner he could have fixed it.

  Hypothetical past conditional sentences do not change.

• Don't think

  Statements reported with verbs of thinking such as think, expect, suppose can transfer the negative from the statement to the verb.

  I suppose she won't come. (This means I don't suppose she'll come.)
There are numerous reporting verbs, which report the words of others, or our own words and thoughts. Only a selection is given here. Other examples are included in the activities. Only the most useful categories are given here. It is advisable to use a dictionary to check on how reporting verbs are used. See Grammar 19, 21 and 22 for prepositions or -ing forms following verbs.

- Verbs followed by that + clause (with * can be followed by a person)

- Verbs followed by subjunctive or should

  Most of these verbs can also be used in the other ways given.

  As these verbs contain the sense that someone 'should do' something, should can follow them.

  They suggested that she should apply again.

  More formally, the subjunctive can be used instead of should. This is formed from the base of the verb (without third person V).

  They suggested that she apply again.

  Some other verbs of this type are:

  advise (also: someone to do/against something) agree (also: to do something, that + clause) demand (also: to do something) insist (also: on someone doing something) prefer (also: someone to do something) propose (also: doing something) recommend (also: doing something) request (also: someone to do something) suggest (also: that + clause) urge (also: someone to do something)
• Verbs which can be followed by that + clause containing would

  All these verbs report statements containing will. These verbs can also be followed by 'to do something'.

  I'll leave at 8.00.

  She decided to leave at 8.00.

  She decided (that) she would leave at 8.00.

  Others are: expect, hope, promise, threaten.

Functions

• Many verbs describe a function, rather than report words.

  Look, if I were you I'd leave early.

  She advised me to leave early.

  Examples are:

  admit complain request suggest advise invite remind warn agree persuade threaten

• Some verbs describe actions.

  Hi, Dave, how are you?

  He greeted me.

  Examples are:

  accept, congratulate, decide, greet, interrupt, introduce

Changes of viewpoint

Changes of time, place and person reference are assumed known at this level. In reported speech, there is no longer a clear reference which can be understood by two people in the same place.

*I left the parcel on this chair.

In reported speech one would have to specify which chair:

*He said he had left the parcel on the chair by the window.

Or the reference may be replaced by a more general one:

I love this town.

*She said that she loved the town.
Underline the correct word or phrase in each sentence.

5 Complete the text with one word in each space.

The case of the break-in at a Cambridge home entered its third day today. The accused’s defence was based on the fact that he (1) ...could not have entered the house at 6.30. He claimed (2) have been playing football at the time, and stated that several witnesses could confirm this. At this point, the prosecution (3) him of changing his story, as he had previously stated that he had been at home at the (4) of the break-in. The defendant agreed that his memory (5) not in the best of shape, as he had been (6) from bouts of depression. The judge stepped in, reminding the defendant that he (7) taken an oath to tell the truth, and warning (8) of the severe consequences of lying in court. The defendant said that he had simply forgotten (9) the football match, and insisted (10) he was not changing his story.
Using the information in the e-mail as a guide, complete each space in the letter with a verb. The first letters of the verbs have been given.

We are sorry that our computer ordering system went on the blink last week. Don't worry, the system is now up and running again, but we think goods will arrive 2 or 3 days late. I'd guess the goods you've just ordered should arrive round about Thursday. Thanks a lot for telling us about the problem with the ZP200. You'll be pleased to know the problem's been put right now. Re the exhibition you're organising, it seems you want to return any goods you don't sell. We're certainly interested, yes, but could I ask for more details before I let you know. Finally, just to tell you, as of 1st May our warehouse is now open 24 hours a day!

Dear Mrs Henderson,

We would like to (1) a ____________ for the failure of our computer ordering system last week. Please (2) b ________________ reassured that the system is now fully functional again. It is (3) a ________________ that the goods ordered will be delayed by two or three working days. The (4) e ________________ arrival time for your latest order is Thursday.

We are grateful to you for (5) r ________________ the defect in the ZP200 model. We are happy to (6) a ________________, that the defect has now been remedied.

You (7) m ________________ the possibility of taking goods from us 'on sale or return' at an exhibition you are organising. We can certainly (8) c ________________ our interest, but we would like to (9) r ________________ further information before we commit ourselves to a decision.

Please be (10) a ________________ that as of 1 May our warehouse is now open 24 hours a day.

Yours sincerely,
David Smith
Explanations

Basic uses of articles are assumed known.

Definite article

- Classes
  This is one way to refer to classes, and is perhaps more formal than using a plural:

  The tiger is threatened with extinction.

- National groups
  Groups as a whole:

  The French eat in restaurants more than the English.

  Single examples are not formed in the same way:

  A Frenchman/woman, an Englishman/woman.

- Other groups
  If these are clearly plural:

  the Social Democrats, The Rolling Stones

  Note the difference:

  Pink Floyd, Queen (no article)

- Unique objects

  the moon, the sun

  Note that there are other suns and moons in the universe.

  This planet has a small moon.

- Titles
  These tend to be 'unique'.

  The director of studies

  If the title is post-modified (has a description coming after the noun), the is more likely, but not essential. Compare:

  She became President in 1998.

  She became (the) President of the United States in 1998.

- Other titles
  The may be part of the title, and so is capitalised.
  Newspapers: The Independent, The Sunday Times

- Musical instruments

  Jane plays the flute.

  The guitar is my favourite instrument.

  It is, of course, still possible to use a where it would naturally be used.

  There was a small brown flute in the window of the shop.
• Emphatic use
This is heavily stressed and emphasises the following noun.
  This hotel is the place to stay.
See also Grammar 14.

• Geographical names
The following use the:
Rivers: the Thames
Mountain ranges: the Alps
Oceans: the Mediterranean
Unique features: the Channel, the Arctic
Compass points/areas: the East, the Middle East
Countries: collective or plural: The United Kingdom, The Netherlands
This does not apply to:
Mountain peaks: Everest (but The Matterhorn)
Continents: Asia
Countries: France
The definite article is sometimes used before Lebanon and Gambia:
  The Lebanon   The Gambia

• Place names
Post-modification, especially with ... of... plays a role in place names.
Compare:
  Leeds University/The University of Leeds
  London Bridge/The Tower of London
If the first part of a place-name is another name, then normal rules about zero article apply.
  Brown's Restaurant
  The Garden House Hotel
The same applies in geographical names:
  Canvey Island
  The Isle of Man

• Most and the most
  Most hotels in England are very expensive, (making a generalisation)
  This is the most expensive hotel in town, (talking about a specific hotel)

• Importance of context
The definite article refers to already mentioned items, and so its use depends on context.
  The Smiths had a son and a daughter. The son was in the Army and the daughter was training to be a doctor.
  On the Saturday, there was a terrible storm.
Here, the Saturday refers to a day in an area of time already mentioned.
  On the Saturday of that week ...
Indefinite article

- Jobs
  Compare: Tony is a builder. Tony was the builder of that house.

- In measuring
  Three times a week. Fifty kilometres an hour.
  £3.50 a kilo. £15,000 a year.
  Formally, per can replace a/an.

- Unknown people
  Use of a/an emphasises that a person is unknown.
  A Mr Jones called while you were out.

Zero article

- Names
  Compare:
  Matthew Smith is one of my favourite artists, (a person)
  A Matthew Smith hangs in their bedroom, (a painting)

- Some unique organisations do not use the.
  Parliament, but The (House of) Commons

- Streets
  Most streets do not use an article.
  Green Road    Godwin Street
  Exceptions are:
  The High Street    The Strand
  and street names without preceding adjectives. Compare:
  Holly Drive    The Drive

The word processor and the calculator are without a shadow of doubt here to stay, and in the many respects our lives are the much richer for them. But the teachers and other academics are claiming that we are now starting to feel the first significant wave of their effects on a generation of the users. It seems nobody under the age of 20 can spell or add up any more. Even several professors at leading universities have commented on the detrimental effect the digital revolution has had on the most intelligent young minds in the country. The problem, evidently, lies with the automatic spellcheck now widely available on the word processing software. Professor John Silver of the Sydney University, Australia, said: 'Why should we bother to learn how to spell correctly, or for that matter to learn even the most basic of the mathematical sums, when at the press of a button we have our problem answered for us. The implications are enormous. Will the adults of the future look to the computer to make the decisions for them, to tell them who to marry or what the house to buy? Are we heading for a future individual incapable of the independent human thought?'

Explanations

Defining and non-defining

- Defining

  A defining clause specifies which person or thing we mean. It cannot be separated from the person or thing it describes.

  By 4.30, there was only one painting which hadn’t been sold.

- Non-defining

  A non-defining clause contains extra information. In writing it is separated by commas, and in speech, if used at all, is usually indicated by intonation.

  By 4.30, which was almost closing time, nearly all the paintings had been sold.

- Some of the points given below depend on the type of clause.

Which and that

- These are alternatives in a defining clause, although which is felt to be more formal.

  By 4.30, there was only one painting that hadn’t been sold.

- That is not normally used to introduce a non-defining clause.

  The train, which was already an hour late, broke down again.

- That cannot follow a preposition.

  It was a service for which I will be eternally grateful.

- That is often used instead of who in everyday speech in defining clauses.

  Do you know the girl that lives next door?

Who and whom

- Whom is the object form of who and is used formally in object clauses.

  He was a person whom everyone regarded as trustworthy.

- However, this is now felt to be excessively formal by most speakers and who is commonly used instead.

- Whom has to be used if it follows a preposition.

  To whom it may concern.

  To whom am I speaking?

  However, in everyday use, it is usual to avoid this kind of construction.

  Who am I speaking to?

  See when and where on the next page.

Whose

- This means of whom. It is used in both defining and non-defining clauses.

  Several guests, whose cars were parked outside, were waiting at the door.

  Several guests whose rooms had been broken into complained to the manager.
When and where

- Non-defining
  Here they follow a named time or place.

  *Come back at 3.30, when I won't be so busy.*

  *I stopped in Maidstone, where my sister owns a shop.*

- Defining
  When follows words such as time, day, moment.

  *There is hardly a moment when I don't think of you, Sophia.*

Where follows words such as place, house, street.

  *This is the street where I live.*

Omitting the relative pronoun

This is common in defining object clauses especially in everyday conversation.

  I've found the keys (which/that) I've been looking for.

  That's the man (who/that) I was telling you about.

  He was a person (who/that) everyone regarded as trustworthy.

Sentences ending in a preposition or phrasal verb

Another common feature of conversational English, as outlined in who and whom above, is to end a defining clause with a preposition.

  *That's the house I used to live in.

  *I couldn't remember which station to get off at.

  *He's not someone who I really get on with.

Omitting which/who + be

It may be possible to reduce a verb phrase after who/which to an adjectival phrase in a defining clause, especially to define phrases such as the only one, the last/first one.

  Jim was the only one of his platoon who had not been taken prisoner.

  *Jim was the only one of his platoon not taken prisoner.

  By 4.30, there was only one painting which had not been sold.

  *By 4.30, there was only one painting not sold.

Which

A non-defining clause can comment on the whole situation described in the main clause.

*There was nobody left on the train, which made me suspicious.

Phrases with which, such as at which time/point, in which case, by which time, in which event can be used in the same way.

  *I watched the play until the end of the first act, at which point I felt I had seen enough.*

  *A warning sign 'Overheat' may come on, in which case turn off the appliance at once.*

Clauses beginning with what and whatever

- What meaning the thing or things which can be used to start clauses.

  *I can't believe what you told me yesterday.*

  What you should do is write a letter to the manager.

  See Grammar 14 Emphasis.

- Whatever, whoever, whichever can be used in a similar way.

  *You can rely on Helen to do whatever she can.

  Whoever arrives first can turn on the heating.
Non-finite clauses containing an -ing form

These are clauses without a main verb. The examples given here are non-defining. Note that the two clauses have the same subject.

- Actions happening at the same time.

  Waving their scarves and shouting, the fans ran onto the pitch.

- One action happening before another

  Opening the letter, she found that it contained a cheque for £1,000.

  This type of clause often explains the reason for something happening.

  Realising there was no one at home, I left the parcel in the shed.

  Both these types of sentence might begin with on or upon:

  On opening the letter ... Upon realising ...

- An event which is the result of another event

  I didn’t get wet, having remembered to take my umbrella.

- Where a passive construction might be expected, this is often shortened to a past participle.

The following text contains many 'which's and 'that's. Underline the ten extra ones, which are grammatically wrong.

Having just spent three weeks of my life sitting on an uncomfortable saddle, pounding the roads of France, I am in no fit state that to do anything except sit and write, which suits me fine. For I have cycled some 1,500 kilometres, a figure which includes some extremely hilly routes, and frankly the thought of mounting a bicycle again which is not one that I can face for a good few days yet. The journey, which I undertook alone for most of the way, was all in the name of charity - Help the Aged, a cause which I support whenever that I can. Having organised my sponsorship, which I arrived in France armed only with a tiny map of the Tour de France route, which hastily removed from last month's 'Cycling World' magazine. My intention which was to try and follow the route that the professionals take, but after three days in which I pushed my body to extremes that it had never experienced before, that I rapidly abandoned this plan and returned to flatter ground. On the flat which I was able to keep to about 120 kilometres a day, which is respectable. I did have to rest my weary limbs at the weekends, though, which enabled me to recharge my batteries, by which I mean my bodily ones, not the ones that inside my bike lights. I am pleased to say, that after three tortuous weeks, which I ended up in Marseilles, but what pleased me all the more is that I managed to raise over £2,000 for Help the Aged.

Explanations

This unit focuses on problem areas.

• Can’t bear, hate, like, love, prefer

  Like to usually refers to habitual preferences.

  We like to go out to lunch on Sunday.

  Not like to means think it wrong to.

  I don’t like to disturb colleagues at home.

• Attempt, begin, continue, intend, plan, propose, start

  There is no difference in meaning whether we use -ing or infinitive with to.

  Intend, plan, and propose can be followed by that + clause. This may include should. See Grammar 16 Reporting verbs.

• Forget, remember

  With to both verbs refer to an obligation.

  I had to phone the office but I forgot to do it.

  With -ing both verbs refer to past events.

  I don’t remember learning to walk.

  Both can be followed by that + clause.

  I remembered that I had to pay the phone bill.

• Try

  With to this refers to something attempted, which might fail or succeed.

  I tried to warn him, but it was too late.

  With -ing this refers to making an experiment, or to a new experience.

  Try taking an aspirin. You’ll feel better.

  Have you tried windsurfing? It’s great!

• Go on

  With -ing this refers to the continuing of an action.

  She went on working even though it was late.

  With to this refers to the continuation of a speech.

  The Prime Minister went on to praise the Chancellor.

  (This means the Prime Minister continued his speech by praising the Chancellor.)

• Mean

  With the meaning intend, this is followed by to.

  Sony, I meant to tell you about the party.

  With -ing, and an impersonal subject, this refers to what is involved.

  If we catch the early train, it will mean getting up at 6.00.

  That + clause is possible when meaning is being explained.

  This means that you have to report to the police station.
• Regret
  With to this refers to the speaker's regrets about what is going to be said. It often occurs in formal statements of this kind.

  We regret to inform you that your application has been unsuccessful.

  With -ing this refers to a regret about the past.

  I regret saying that to him.

  That + clause is also possible.

  We regret that we didn't tell her earlier.

• Stop
  With to this refers to an intention.

  Jane stopped to check the oil level in the engine.

  With -ing this refers to the ending of an activity.

  The baby has stopped waking up during the night now.

• Hear, see, watch
  When followed by infinitive without to, the action is complete.

  We watched all the cars cross the finishing line.

  With -ing, the action is still in progress.

  I heard someone coming up the stairs.

• Admit
  This can be used with or without to followed by -ing.

  They admitted (to) being members of the gang.

  That + clause is also possible.

  He admitted that he was wrong.

• Allow, forbid, permit
  With an object and to:

  The school forbids students to smoke in the classrooms.

  With an object -ing form:

  The school does not allow smoking.

• Consider
  With an object and to this refers to an opinion.

  She is considered to be the finest pianist of her generation.

  With -ing this means think about.

  At one point I considered emigrating to Canada.

  With that + clause it refers to an opinion.

  We consider that she has behaved badly.

• Imagine
  With an object and to:

  I imagined the castle to be haunted.

  With -ing, an object is also possible.

  I couldn't imagine (her) living in a place like that.

  With that + clause it means suppose.

  I imagine that you'd like a cup of tea after your long journey!
• Require
  With an object and to:

  They required him to fill out a form.

  With -ing:

  See Grammar 7 for needs doing.

already full of (2) commuters when Rale boarded it with fifteen minutes to go before its departure. He registered (3) vague annoyance at this, as it meant he had to actually communicate with a fellow passenger in order to find (4) one remaining window seat in his normal carriage, (5) carriage C. Rale always made a point of travelling in the middle carriage for safety's sake - about such things as safety he was meticulous - and would only venture into (8) first four carriages, or for that matter (9) last four, in (10) extreme emergencies. Rale was nothing if not a creature of habit; it bothered him intensely if he was unable to get a window seat or if (12) drinks trolley lady didn't come round, or worse still, she came but (13) hot water boiler wasn't working and so (14) coffee was not available. A brioche and a cup of coffee - black, one sugar - was Rale's early-morning indulgence. He found it sufficed for a breakfast, unless he was unusually hungry. Exactly ten minutes into (15) journey, Rale opened his briefcase and took out his copy of that morning's Guardian newspaper, neatly folded, and began (16) crossword. This was (17) time of day Rale liked best. He could immerse himself in the delightful challenge of teasing out words from his mind, and put off (19) thoughts of work in the administrative department of Southampton Hospital. Today, however, Rale's neatly planned existence was to be well and truly turned on its head.

Re: Application for hamburger stall in front of King's College, Cambridge

Write to say:

Sorry to tell you we can't give you a licence.

Many people think it's a particularly picturesque view.

We don't normally let people sell things in areas where tourists take pics.

The college authorities have said they don't want a stall there - litter and fumes.

We've received similar applications, and we've always said no.

You said in your letter you had 3 possible sites.

You should think about approaching Cambridge United Football Club.

If you decide to do so, apply directly to them.

Please write to us to say you've received this letter - we need to be sure.

Dear Mr Little,

We regret to inform you that we areunable to issue you with a licence to set up a hamburger stall in front of King's College.

The area concerned to be one of the most picturesque in England, and we do not normallytrade on such commonly photographed areas. Furthermore, the college authorities have said they don't want a stall there - litter and fumes. In the past we have received a large number of applications for trade access to this site, and in each case access has beendenied.

In your letter you said that the King's College site was one of three you had in mind. You might likeestablishing your stall in front of Cambridge United football ground, in your application should be made direct to the football club, and not to ourselves.

Please would you writing that you have received this letter.

2 Complete the text with one suitable verb in each space.

I had a difficult time last year with my health. For several months I was suffering from periodic headaches and almost constant nausea. I made several visits to my GP, who prescribed my headaches to migraine and me with medication. When this failed to work he considered my nausea as the root cause, my headaches on the nausea. I was subjected to five blood tests, none of which revealed anything significant. I diet with the doctor at length, and we tried eliminating certain foods from my meals. He for example, I might suffer from a low-fibre diet. But still the symptoms persisted, and I was starting to refer myself to feeling ill for the rest of my life. I was understandably concerned about the possibility of it being something serious, even a brain tumour, but the doctor said that my anxiety in this respect derived from nervous tension and stress. After six months I was referred to a consultant at the hospital, who specialises in stomach disorders. She said that, even for my age and stressful lifestyle, it was still abnormal to experience symptoms like these for so long. She discussed all the possible causes of nausea in detail, and suggested that in my case the nausea might be the result of a liver disorder.

5 Complete the text with a suitable preposition in each space.

It never ceases to amaze me how little notice some people now take of rules in public places. When I was a child, it would never have occurred to me not to comply the rules. If someone smoked in defiance of a 'No Smoking' sign on a train, they would rapidly be reminded their transgression by several irate passengers, who would refer the errant smoker the sign in no uncertain terms. What’s more, the person accused would normally apologise his indiscretion, and would certainly refrain repeating his anti-social behaviour. These days reminding someone their public duty not to drop litter or swear on the streets is likely to succeed only unleashing a torrent of verbal abuse the wrongdoer. Many people seem blithely unaware that, for example, the 'silence in the library' rule applies them, as much as to anyone else. Asking them is not enough, pleading them might still not deter them their noisy chat, resorting physical violence, an undesirable option, seems the only one likely to get a result. But, in all seriousness, what really annoys me is that one is made to feel churlish or old-fashioned just to insist basic respect of everyday manners. Truly, it seems polite behaviour and good manners count nothing in today's society.

Well, welcome to the class everybody. I'm sure you're all dying to show me exactly what you're capable of. I hope to see your faces at the pool a lot from now on. If you're about swimming, you really need to be doing it on a basis, say two or three times a week - in addition to these teaching sessions. Now a bit about the course. In the early , we'll be working on the basics - breathing, body position and so on. Today we're going to work on putting the head underwater, with a to getting you all swimming correctly, with the head partly submerged. If you don't succeed at the first attempt, don't worry. And please don't be of the water - just try and relax. Eventually we'll progress to the big pool, but for the being, we're going to be in the small pool, where you can stand up and practise your techniques. Now, the warm-up exercises we're going to start with today are designed to get you out of the water - just try and relax. Eventually we'll progress to the big pool, but for the being, we're going to be in the small pool, where you can stand up and practise your techniques. Now, the warm-up exercises we're going to start with today are designed to get you out of the water. These exercises may well be from anything you're used to, as we'll be doing some jumping and hopping in the water.

David Peters, the Scottish long-jumper, has been awarded a knighthood in recognition (1) ...of...his services to charity and the world of athletics. Sir David, as he will be known, will be knighted by the Queen in a ceremony next week. Mr Peters, who retired from athletics last year, had a talent which was, quite simply, (2)...of the ordinary. All his performances were, (3)...exception, characterised by great effort and determination. He seemed to thrive on difficult situations, and it was when (4)...pressure, that he produced his greatest performances. In later years, he became increasingly prone (5)...injury, and last year, his talents evidently (6)...decline, he failed to regain his Olympic long-jump title, and promptly retired. At his best, however, his jumping was sometimes (7)...belief, and in his greatest year, 2000, he broke the world record no fewer than four times. In the late 1990s he was single-handedly responsible (8)...bringing British athletics out of a severe slump with his inspirational performances and personal charisma. Peters was capable (9)...great generosity, and once, famously, failed a jump deliberately in order to let his great rival, Aravan Sijipal, win on his farewell appearance. When being interviewed, Peters was also an exception to the rule, for he always tried to praise others rather than blow his own trumpet. A deeply religious man, he was (10)...dispute with the athletics authorities on more than one occasion for his refusal to compete on Sundays. His anti-drugs campaign had a great effect (11)...young athletes all over Britain, and throughout his career, he remained very conscious (12)...what he saw as his public duty in this respect. Many charitable organisations have reason to be grateful (13)...him (14)...the time he devoted to raising money for their causes.

We’ve had a letter from a Mr Scott, complaining about a rather violent scene which upset his children, on one of our programmes, 'Murphy's Run'. Could you write to him? Point out that:
The programme is a joint production with Talent Productions.
It observed Channel 2 regulations.
All programmes, no matter where they come from, are checked 3 months before they’re shown.
The TV Standards Authority often checks children's programmes, and were happy with the scene Mr Scott didn’t like.
Unlike similar programmes on other channels, it’s very suitable viewing.
We always try to show clearly the difference between good and bad on it.

Dear Mr Scott,

With (1)...reference/regard......................to your letter of 3 May, we deeply regret the distress caused to your children by the violent scene on episode 53 of 'Murphy's Run', a Channel 2 programme produced in (2).....Talent Productions Ltd. However, the programme did (3)........eight to Channel 2 regulations.

Each programme is carefully checked for unsuitable material three months in (4)..................its scheduled broadcast time. This (5)...........................to all Channel 2 programmes (6)..........................of their origin and type. There is also a watchdog body, the TV Standards Authority, which monitors children's programmes on a (7)..............................They too were happy with the scene you (8)..............................to.

The programme in question is, in (9)..............................similar programmes on private channels, entirely suitable for children, and takes great care to (10)..............................between good and bad, and between moral and immoral. In conclusion, we are happy that the scene was acceptable, and we hope that you will continue to allow your children to watch the programme.

Yours sincerely,
Ann Orbison

Read the interview and decide which answer (A, B or C) best fits each space.

Interviewer: The recent scandal involving your finance minister has done little to restore public confidence in the government.
Minister: (1) ...C... I think the 'scandal', as you call it, has shown us to be a very moral party. The minister concerned resigned his post and showed great contrition for what he'd done.
Int: (2)........ a scandal is a scandal. (3)........, a senior minister accepts a large donation on behalf of his party from the entrepreneur Robert Tivwell, then five weeks later, Tivwell's company, which (4)........, just happens to be nearly bankrupt, wins a contract with the government worth millions of pounds.
Min: Well, as I say, the minister has resigned, (5)........I should point out that there is technically nothing illegal about what he did.
Int: Yes, there is, minister. It's called bribery.
Min: Well you can call it that if you want. I prefer to call it 'sharp practice' (6)........But it happens, it's always happened, and I'm sure it'll continue to happen. (7)........, we will not condone this kind of financial dealing and will continue to stamp down on it.
Int: This is pure double talk!
Min: No that's not true. (8)........we take such matters extremely seriously. But we are realistic enough to know that we can't eliminate them altogether. You see, there is nothing to stop people or companies making donations to parties - (9)........if we didn't have such money, we wouldn't be able to survive. It's just that the timing of such payments can be unfortunate. So each case has to be investigated on its merits. But (10)........, this practice is causing less controversy than it has done under previous governments.

Starting your own business could be the way to achieving financial independence. (1) \textbf{A} Moreover it could just as well land you in debt for the rest of your life. (2)\textbf{B}… that is the view of Charles and Brenda Leggat, a Scottish couple, who last week saw their fish farm business put into the hands of the receiver. 'We started the business at a time when everyone was being encouraged by the banks to borrow money. (3)\textbf{B}… we fell into the same trap, and asked for a big loan. (4)\textbf{A}… at the time we were sure that we could make it into a going concern,' said Charles Leggat, a farmer from the Highlands. The bank analysed the proposals we put forward and they agreed that it would be a highly profitable business.' Sure enough, within five years the Leggats were exporting trout and salmon products to hotels all over Europe, and (5)\textbf{C}… they took on over fifty staff. (6)\textbf{A}… with the advent of the recession, they began to lose ground as orders dried up. '(7)\textbf{A}… said Brenda Leggat, 'the business has now been valued by the bank at a fraction of its true worth. If they had left us to work our way out of our difficulties, (8)\textbf{A}… virtually bankrupting us, I am sure that we could have gone back into profit. As it is, we have been left without a livelihood, and the bank has not recovered what it lent us.' The Leggats both felt that their banks had not treated them fairly. '(9)\textbf{A}… they were falling over themselves to lend us the money initially, (10)\textbf{A}… now they are doing very little to keep the business going, and fifty local people in work.' stair - stare their - there weather - whether Punctuation

- Commas
  Commas are used to separate items in lists, before question tags, to separate clauses, after and around certain linking words. See Grammar 27.

  I've been to Dallas, New Orleans, Kansas and Tampa Bay.
  Sue is a lovely girl, isn't she?
  If you see Kevin, tell him his photocopies are ready.
  Broadly speaking, I agree with what you are saying.
  I do not, however, agree with your last point.

  Note that commas are not used between a subject and its verb, or in defining relative clauses.

  The lady standing over there at the bus stop is my next-door neighbour.
  Will the pupil who threw that paper dart please stand up now.

- Apostrophes
  Apostrophes are used to indicate letters omitted, possession and plurals of letters and figures.

  Letters omitted: It's warm today.
  Possession: Jack's car, the player's entrance, the people's decision
  Possessive its does not have an apostrophe.
  Plurals: There are two I's in 'specially'. Are these 7's or 3's?

- Colons and semi-colons
  Colons introduce examples, lists, and statements which give in detail what has been stated in general.

  There were two possible courses of action: borrowing from the bank, or asking for more time to find the money elsewhere.

  Semi-colons divide parts of long sentences or long phrases in a list; it is usually possible to divide one sentence into shorter ones, so that semi-colons are unnecessary.
1 Add the necessary commas, (semi) colons and apostrophes to these texts.

I've been to the following Italian cities Rome Florence Genoa and Pisa. I thought Rome was incredible the food was great the views were fantastic and I will never forget the vivacious people. The Italians' legendary hospitality was nowhere more evident than in the capital city. But my all-time favourite is probably Genoa with its fabulous hill-top houses and its dusty mountains reverberating to the sound of grasshoppers. I spent many a happy hour looking down on the seething city below and the sea beyond. Best of all the city's location at the heart of the Italian Riviera meant that fabulous resorts like Portofino and Camogli were only a train ride away.

Water is becoming a more and more precious commodity so save as much as you can. Flushing the toilet accounts for a third of all household water use so don't flush wastefully. If you are only getting rid of a tissue for example resist the habit of reaching for the handle or chain. Take a shower rather than a bath it uses about a third of the water. And don't keep the water running all the time when you wash or clean your teeth. If you have a garden try to find ways of saving water outside such as using a water butt to collect rain water rather than using a hosepipe to water your flowers. A simple pipe connecting external gutters to a water butt can save an awful lot of water.

2 For each pair of sentences, find two words with the same sound but different spelling.

It is an accepted part of everyday nostalgia to assume that in the past food was somehow better, than it is today. The fruit and vegetables were more naturally grown and this was not seen as an extra bonus which added ten percent on to the price. Most food was fresh, not frozen, and you had the chance to examine it to see whether you wanted it. When you went shopping you could ask for exactly what piece of meat you wanted and see the butcher cutting, it instead of finding it ready-wrapped in plastic. And your local tradesman soon got to know what you wanted, and provided it for you, otherwise he would have gone out of business. Of course, unless we invent time-travel we shall never know, whether this is all true.

Survivors from those distant days naturally tend to dislike today's convenience foods, and to prefer the Good Old Days when a joint of beef filled the oven, produced thick red juice instead of water when cooked, and cost the same as a can of Coke. What is always forgotten is that then as now the quality of your food depended very much upon who you were, how well-off you happened to be, and where you lived.

Shopping then demanded considerable skill, and shopper's had to be able to tell the fresh from the not so fresh. There was no sell-buy date to act as a guide. If you were hard up then frozen meat and canned foods' would have been on the menu, just as they are today.

4 Correct any spelling mistakes in the following sentences. Some are correct.

a) The sunlight shining on my desk is really effecting my concentration.

A river in the west of England, made famous by the best-seller 'Tarka the Otter' has, once again become safe for otters after ten years of what had been thought a losing battle against pollution from chemicals. The River Torridge in North Devon was the setting for Henry Williamsons book, the success of which has led to the area calling itself Tarka Country, and becoming a popular tourist spot. Since 1927 when the book was written, the human population of the area has however increased three-fold, and increased use of pesticides and fertilizers lead to the river being declared 'dead' in the early nineteen eighty's. Otters are shy creatures and the river provides them with numerous places to hide along the river valleys, and the fear was that they had been eliminated because of the clearing away of undergrowth and trees, and the affects of chemicals on their breeding capabilities, not to mention otter hunting, though this has now ceased. However, a number of projects designed to cleanse the river area seem to have borne fruit, despite a pessimistic announcement earlier this year. The Tarka Project, which includes local councils and environmental groups, now says that the otter population is healthy and thriving in North Devon. Signs of otter habitation have been found in a number of places, and more and more sightings of otters have been recorded. But the otter is by no means widespread in other parts of the country.

The common cold, as it is technically known, still resists the efforts of science to control and cure it, and has given rise to a rich popular mythology. As the name suggests the assumption is that you catch a cold because you go out in the cold or get wet. As we now that a cold is a virus, and that we actually catch it from being in contact with others', this is not strictly true. Shaking hands with people, kissing them or just being in the same room, can pass on the virus. It is now generally believed that cold viruses; and there is more than one type, are always present in the throat, but only become active when the body's resistance to infection is lowered. The activated cold virus then attacks the membranes in the nose and throat, who's tissues become weakened and thus susceptible to infection by types of bacteria which are generally also present in the body. Sudden chilling, or getting soaked to the skin, promote conditions in nose and throat membranes that permit the cold virus to invade the body, although some individuals seem to be resistant to this. Just being out in the cold is not enough, and studies conducted in wartime among troops living in the open found that the incidence of colds' was no greater. As far as prevention and cure are concerned, nearly everyone has their own favourite remedy. Doctors have been unable to produce an effective vaccine against colds, although strong claims have been put forward for vitamin C.

Last summer my husband and I had two Italian students to stay at our house in London. It was a kind of exchange, with our two children off to Rome this summer, giving me, incidentally, an interlude of peace in which to write this newspaper column, among other things. But back to the two Italians, two charming girls. English was a revelation to everyone in our family. I am not going to say that it was perfect or anything that, simply that used expressions that have either long ago died out in these islands, are greeted when used with blank incomprehension. example, when a day or two after their arrival Lucia made some coffee and handed it to my neighbour (who had come round to see her husband kept popping over to brush up his Italian), she unmistakably said 'Here you are'. The shock was great that we both nearly fell off our chairs. the benefit of foreign readers, or for anyone who has just returned from a monastery or a few years on Mars, I should explain that this now quaint English expression has long been replaced by the transatlantic 'There you go', an utterance which threw me into considerable confusion first used by hairdressers, waitresses and barmen. The two girls also surprised us by asking intelligible questions of making vague statements which were supposed to be taken as questions. And they had retained that ancient habit of addressing strangers by surnames, preceded by a Mr or Mrs, as in 'Good morning, Mrs Scott', rather than greeting me at the door on arrival with a 'Hello, Gloria, and have a nice day'. All in they were a delight, although I am sorry to report that by the time they left, they had absorbed passes as the English language hereabouts, and had plunged downhill towards unintelligibility. Oh well, there you go, I suppose.

Tina: Well Martin, pleased to meet with you, and congratulations on getting the job. I'm going to show you round the department, so that you know a bit more before you will start work next week. I gather you're coming with me to the Paris conference.

Martin: Yes, in two weeks' time. Is the job going to be involve a lot of travel to abroad?

Tina: A fair bit - Korea mainly. You'd better to get yourself a Korean phrasebook!

Martin: I've ever been to Korea once before, so I know a few words.

Tina: Good. We have contacts with most of Asian countries in fact. Well, here's the office you'll be working in. As you can see in this room has a photocopier, your computer ... by the way, are you familiar with PowerPoint?

Martin: Well, to be perfectly honest, no. I've never really had needed it up to now.

Tina: You really need to spend a few hours in studying this book, then, if you don't mind. I'm sure it'll explain you how the system works.

Martin: May I ask who that man was who was leaving the office when we came in?

Tina: Oh that's Mike. I'm surprised he wasn't at your interview. He's probably the nicest one of the managers.

Martin: He looks like very cheerful.

Tina: As I say it, he's a very nice guy. He's my immediate boss. The only thing is, he does tend to make me to do more jobs than I can cope with. Still, he's letting me to go home early today, so I'm not complaining!

Martin: And on to the subject of leaving, I didn't really understand what they were saying about this finish your task system.

Tina: Oh, well it's just one of the systems you can choose. Basically, it means that the sooner you do finish the sooner you can go to home. But if you finish your task, say, three hours over normal time, you can come in three hours of late the next day.

The term 'drugs' covers many of kinds of chemical substance which they are absorbed by the body, the majority being medicines designed to cure illnesses. They are manufactured from a variety of sources which include animal and products, plants and minerals. In the recent years it has become possible to synthesise in the laboratory many drugs which previously obtained from plants and animal products. A small number of drugs can become addictive if taken excessively, as that is either too frequently, or in doses larger than they recommended for medical to use. Drugs intended as painkillers, or drugs with a hypnotic effect are used as sleeping pills, can both become addictive if abused. It is important to make emphasise the fact that it is the abuse of drugs which has once become a widespread social problem in many societies, and not that the drug itself may have many of beneficial effects when used medically. This is why many drugs are obtainable only through prescription from a doctor. Some people would argue that if addiction to drugs involves both psychological and social factors, since those are people who become addicts may do so as in order to find some relief from personal or social inadequacies. This argument implies that it is somehow the addict's fault if not he or she becomes addicted, and this is it to ignore the powerful physical effects of many drugs. Any temporary effects of the well-being soon wear off, leading to severe physical discomfort.

Letter 1
Can I add some comments to your to debate about the value of television? Your readers may find that some of my views reflect exactly of their own experience in this matter. First of all, I heartily agree with your reader Mrs Goldwood who she wrote that she has decided to abandon her television set in protest at the mind-boggling boredom of medical dramas, soaps and fly-on-the-wall documentaries. Six months ago I decided that enough was that enough, and took my set to the rubbish tip where it belongs. I can assure to Mrs Goldwood that she will not miss with hers. Since getting rid of mine, I have discovered that there are far more than interesting serials on the radio. I think that she will also find herself is reading more, and at least with books you can choose what a kind of story you want to follow, instead of being at the mercy of the programme for planners. I am sure that other readers can confirm that life after The Box is richer and more rewarding.

Letter 2
Was I the alone in detecting that the note of superiority in the letter from Mr Hackett about giving up television? What is a lot of fuss about nothing! Mr Hackett seems not to think that if you have a television you have to look at it. Surely it is a rather question of choosing programmes carefully enough, and turning the TV off when there is nothing worth it watching. If he is so set against soaps, one wonders why on earth did he watched them?
5 Put one word in each space.

Recently there have been doubts about the proper functioning of the English legal system, after several well-publicised cases in which police evidence was eventually shown to be suspect, but only after the wrongful conviction of the accused. In several of cases, the crimes involved acts of terrorism, and the police were considerable pressure to discover had been responsible. Although this in way excuses the actions of police officers may have falsified evidence, or suppressed evidence which worked against their case, underlines the ways which publicity in the press and on television exercises an enormous influence, the supposed guarantees under the law designed to prevent a jury becoming unduly influenced. The specific details of a criminal case are not discussed in the press before a case reaches the courts, and the names of those involved often withheld.

, as many recent murder trials make clear, the press all too often reaches its verdict to suit its taste for sensationalism and members of the police might be accused of enlisting the aid of the press by 'leaking' details of a prosecution. Unfortunately, far too few press reports of court cases examine the evidence the defence in the same spirit as for the prosecution.

The relationship between the British royal family and the popular press is curious, to say the least. In many respects the press has yet to realise that the royals are indeed the goose that lays the golden egg. Royal scandals and royal divorces illustrated with tasteless photographs and supported by the worst kind of journalistic excess have proved to be just the thing raising newspaper circulations. The same papers that oozed sentimentality over royal weddings, drooled over idealised princesses, later went out of their way to hound various royals into separation or divorce. Every photograph became a contribution to new rumour or other; even private telephone conversations were printed on the front page. The press has yet to realise is that intrusions into the privacy of members of the royal family have also helped to create an atmosphere in the very existence of the monarchy has been called into question. The prestige of the royal family has undoubtedly suffered. And how could this not so when their lives have been turned some absurd soap opera? Just the press feeds the illusion that the characters on television, those awful creeps in 'Eastenders' and 'Neighbours', are somehow 'real people', so it has reduced the royal family to the status of series of cardboard characters. And if you are secretly thinking, 'Well, that's what they are, anyway,' perhaps you are yet victim of the illusion. There are real issues still be debated about the role, and indeed the survival, of the royal family, issues to which the popular press has hardly contributed. If the monarchy lose its constitutional role, the press will be largely to blame. And ironically it will then lost one of its main circulation boosters, and killed off its golden goose for good.

Last week well over a thousand people (1) took place in/took part in our local round-the-city 10-kilometre fun run. This kind of race doesn't normally (2) appeal to me/amuse me, as, frankly, I'm not really (3) cut out for/right for long distance running. But I've got two friends who are dead keen runners and who keep going on about the (4) beneficial/positive effects of running. So I decided to run, partly for that reason and partly to (5) earn/raise money for charity. Friends and colleagues agreed to (6) sponsor/support me, and pay for each mile I completed. Well, I hadn't done much training for the big event, and after two kilometres I was (7) gasping/panting for breath, so I settled down to a slow jog and resigned myself to plodding along with the (8) strugglers/stragglers at the back of the race. At least I finished, and was very pleased with myself, as I didn't need to stop. I timed myself with a stop-watch, and reckon I (9) crossed/arrived at the finishing line in 43 minutes - not bad for a novice. The heat proved too much for a few people who'd gone off too fast for their capabilities and ended up (10) suffering from/showing exhaustion. Apparently, the course was very fast, and both of my friends ran a (11) personal best/personal record. The winner (12) surpassed/broke the course record. I was actually very impressed with the whole event; the organisation was first-class, with medical volunteers (13) on duty/on standby throughout, and drinks (14) stops/stations every few kilometres of the route. So now the charity of my choice is £150 the richer, and as for me, I'm well and truly bitten by the running bug. I go running with my friends regularly now, and I'm actually starting to (15) catch up with/get near to them!

When I first arrived here to take up my new job, I stayed in a hotel, but I soon started looking for a permanent place to my own. The first flat I came was cold and uninviting, and had large pieces of damp on the walls. The flat onto a factory, so the view was not exactly inspiring. Then I had a look at a small flat in a modern apartment. It had a parking spot and was fully furnished, but the rent was far too high for me. I didn't want to end up in a tiny place, so I answered an ad for house-sharing. The house was in a quiet location, and as soon as I saw it I fell in love with it. There was a high overgrown hedge around the front garden, and to park cars in the drive. The room to looked out over the back garden, and had a big bay window. it meant sharing the kitchen and living room, I did have my own bathroom, really just a shower and washbasin into what must have once been a cupboard. There was, however, quite a lot of space.

Dear Bob,
I spoke to the agency about our new house, and they told me lots of rules. I think I've remembered them all, so here we go. We can't keep pets. We have to respect the people living next door, and not make a lot of noise. We have to keep the house neat and tidy. We have to tell the agency right away if there's been a fire in the house. And if we don't keep to those rules we can be asked to leave.

Then, when we decide to leave for good, we need to tell them 28 days before we leave. During this 28-day period, we must allow the agency to get into the property to check it over or to show round possible future tenants. Finally, when we leave we mustn't take any fittings or furniture with us. I think that's everything - I told them we'd sign the actual contract when we move in.
Love, Holly.

Dear Editor,
I am writing to express my dissatisfaction with the pictures, recently published in your newspaper, of the soap actress Kathy Walter, shown sunbathing, topless on a beach in the Mediterranean. Was the approval of Ms Walter sought for this tasteless invasion of her privasy? Of course not. Ms Walter's face appears on TV every day, so she is public property. Well, Ms Walter may be a public figure, but that does not give you the right to photograph her in an embarassing situation, purely in the interest of your circalation figures. And she still has a right to enjoy private moment's with her friends in a quiet location of her choice. The growing phenomenon of newspapers deliberately seeking scandal in order to outdo each other is one that this reader finds both offensive and insulting to ones intelligence.
Yours sincerely,
Geoff Rope

Dear Mr Rope
With all due respect, your letter is based on some extrordinary assumtions regarding famous people. First of all, we are in the business of selling newspapers, and if we had to ask the permision of the subject of every photograph, no copies' would ever make it to the printing press. You should also remember, that Ms Walter's career has benenefited enormously from the Press and other media, and indeed she has often used the media to her own avantage. She is one of the most photographed personalitys in the country, and can not expect to dictate when and where, she wants media attention and when she does not. In short, we feel that we were fully justified in our decision to publish the photographs concerned.
Yours sincerely,
Sarah Hull

Ours is a vanishing world, one in which the familiar is constantly disappearing and technological change is often difficult to cope with. So it should come (1) ..B. . . . no surprise to most of us to hear that yet another part of everyday life is about to go for ever. Apparently, within the next decade, money as we (2)........it will probably (3)........to exist in technologically advanced countries. (4)........Professor Gerry Montague of the Institute for Economic Reform, the familiar coins and banknotes will soon be replaced entirely by credit cards of various kinds. And the shop of the future will be linked directly to the network of banking computers. The assistant will simply key in your bank account code number and the amount you have spent, and thank you politely. You won't have to dig (5)........in your pockets for change. You may not even have a number for your account as such, as the computer may by then be able to read your handprint. So no more instances of credit card (6)........But I am afraid that I shall miss money. I have felt (7)........attached to it, ever since I received my first pocket (8)........when I was five, and kept it in a money-box. Even if my credit card of the future will be able to tell me exactly how much spending (9)........I have left in the computer files, even if it lights up and plays a happy (or sad) tune at the same time, nothing will be able to replace the (10)........pleasure I gained from rattling the coins in my money-box.

After drinking a bottle of vodka, Alan and Richard Potter both 15, decided to go out and do some joyriding. The car they broke into belonged to a Mrs McDiarmad. Having driven the car at high speeds along country lanes, they abandoned it in a layby, and thumbed a lift home. Mercifully, no other drivers were hurt, although several had to swerve dangerously to avoid the Potter boys. In an experiment which is proving to be remarkably successful, the two teenagers were obliged to meet the victim of their crime in person. Mrs McDiarmad told them in no uncertain terms that 20 years earlier she had lost a nephew in a car accident caused by a drunken driver. The Potters ended up in tears, and the younger, Alan, has since visited Mrs McDiarmad on two occasions to apologise for his actions. The scheme Alan and Richard took part in is known, as 'Face up to it'. It brings together young offenders' with those they have wronged. Naturally, the victim must agree to participate, and many find themselves simply unable to cooperate. The scheme is being operated on a trial basis in several major cities, and has the approval of the social services. Early results suggest that young people who take part are considerably less likely to commit any further offences. It is to be hoped that this is indeed, the case with Alan and Richard Potter.

Complete each space in the text with a word formed from the word in capitals.

It's 8.30 at the headquarters of the Boogy Woogers dance group, a rehearsal studio in Geneva. Dancers of all shapes and sizes begin to tumble through the doors. Some begin lumbering up, others splinter off into groups to try out new moves. One woman, lost in her own thoughts, sits with her headphones on, preparing for the punishing routines to follow. A long-haired man with a goatee beard puts a tape in the hi-fi, and rap music blares out of the speakers. Soon the room is alive with whirling, spinning bodies and the sound of laughter fills the air. The Boogy Woogers are the brainchild of Tomas Seeler, who handpicked many of his troupe from local street dancers. Seeler's own background was in gymnastics, but others come from the worlds of martial arts, bodybuilding and ballet. Many different nationalities are represented in the group, including Chilean, Fijian and Senegalese dancers. The group has been performing all over Europe, most notably in Paris, where they became celebrities. Famous for their creativity and novel interpretations, the Boogy Woogers have made several appearances on TV, and look set to remain the 'in' thing for many years to come.

Viewed from the outside, the Houses of Parliament look impressive. The architecture gives the place a traditional look, and the buildings are sandwiched between a busy square and the river, making them a mixture between the country house of an eccentric duke and a Victorian railway station.

You have only to learn that the members call to each other as 'The Honourable Member' to realise the picture of a dignified gentlemen's club, with of course a few ladies to bring about the numbers. Sadly, over the past few years first radio, and now television, have shown the average public, who are nevertheless the electorate, what in fact turns up when bills are discussed and questions are asked. The first obvious fact is that the chamber is very rarely full, and there may be only a handful of members present, some of whom are quite clearly asleep, telling jokes to their neighbour, or shouting like badly-behaved schoolchildren. There is not enough room for them all in the chamber in any way, which is a second worrying point. Of course, television does not follow the work of committees, which are the small discussion groups that do most of the real work of the House. But the bluntly impression that voters receive of the workings of government is not a good one. To put it bluntly, parliament looks disorganised, is clearly behind the ages, and seems to be filled with bores and comedians. This is presumably why members prevented for so long the efforts of the BBC to circulate parliamentary matters on television.

Well, it's 9.30 at night, and by now almost everybody has cast their vote. Very soon all our questions will be answered. Were the government right to hold the poll so soon after the so-called 'dash for cash' scandal, in which certain applicants were apparently granted political asylum in exchange for financial favours? Will the opposition benefit from the decision of ex-Prime Minister David Howe to come out of retirement and stand as a candidate? Will Mr Howe's famous refusal to toe the party line in matters of policy affect party unity? Will the vicious smear which the government have mounted against Mr Howe backfire on them? Well, all will be revealed pretty soon. Interestingly, an opinion conducted yesterday by 'Express Newspapers' put the government just two per cent ahead, while another, in the 'Daily Mirror', indicated they would be re-elected with an increased majority. According to the latter poll, people felt that the opposition's campaign was poor and contained nothing new.

Over the past fifty years or so, the methods used for collecting money from the public to finance the developing world have changed out of all recognition, along with the gravity of the problems faced, and the increasing awareness among the population that something must be done. At the beginning of this period, it would have been common to put money in a collecting box, perhaps on the street or at church. The 1960s saw the advent of shops which sold second-hand goods, donated by the public, and which also began to sell articles manufactured in the developing world in charitable projects set up to guarantee a fair income to local people. The next development was probably the charity ‘event’, in which participants were funded to run, cycle, swim or what have you, and collected money from friends and relatives in as much as how far or long they managed to keep going. The first hint of what was to become the most successful means of raising money was the charity record, where the artists donated their time and talent, and the proceeds from the sales went to a good cause. This was perhaps a reflection of the fact that young people felt increasingly concerned about the obvious differences between life in Europe and the United States, and that in most of Africa, for example. A feeling of frustration was building up. Why was so little being done? The huge success of Band Aid, and subsequent televised concerts, showed the power of the media, and of music in particular, to inspire and shock. It differed significantly in style from other events. People phoned up in their thousands on the day and pledged money by quoting their credit card numbers. Anyway, if you have enough money to buy CDs, you can afford something for the world's starving children.

I was reading an advert for a mobile phone the other day, which described the aforesaid object as an 'aid to (1) ..D...'. As a techno-phobe who does not possess a mobile phone, still less an on-line connection, I was intrigued by the astonishing presumptuousness of this claim. For the (2)……..reason I do not have a mobile phone is that I don't want to be at someone else's beck and (3)……..24 hours a day. But apparently there are plenty of sane adults out there who do. In fact I know plenty of people who bought their phone on the (4)……..understanding that it was to be used for emergencies only. But the insidious thing gradually took over their lives, to the (5)……..where it seems they can barely live without it. Giving a mobile phone to a child makes even less sense. Parents lose their freedom and the children lose the ability to (6)……..for themselves.

When faced with some new and possibly bewildering technological change, most people react, in one of two ways. They either recoil from anything new, claiming that it is unnecessary, or too complicated or that it somehow makes life less personal. Or they learn to adapt to the new invention, and eventually wonder, how they could possibly have existed without it. Take computers as an example, for many of us, they still represent a threat to our freedom, and give us a frightening sense of a future in which all decisions will be taken by machines. This may be because they seem mysterious, and difficult to understand. Ask most people, what you can use a home computer for, and you usually get vague answers about how 'they give you information'. In fact, even those of us who are familiar with computers' and use them in our daily work, have very little idea of how they actually work? But it does not take long to learn how to operate a business programme, even if things occasionally go wrong for no apparent reason. Presumably much the same happened when the telephone and the television became widespread. What seems to alarm most people is the speed of technological change, rather than change itself. And the objections that are made to new technology may well have a point to them, since change is not always an improvement. As we discover during power cuts there is a lot to be said for the oil lamp, the coal fire, and forms of entertainment, such as books or board games, that don't have to be plugged in to work.

Ask any adult over forty to make a (1) comparison... between COMPARE the past and the present and most will tell you that things have been getting steadily worse for as long as they can remember. Take the weather for example. Everyone remembers that in their (2) YOUNG the summers were considerably hotter, ABOUND and that winter always included (3) ABOUND falls of snow just when the school holidays had started. Of course, the food in those days was far superior too, as nothing was imported and everything was fresh. (4) EMPLOY was negligible, the money in your pocket really was worth something, and you could buy a (5) SIZE house even if your means were limited. And above all, people were somehow nicer in those days, and spent their free time on innocent (6) PURSUE stamp (7) COLLECT rather than gazing at the television screen for hours on end. As we know, this figure of the past simply cannot be true, and there are plenty of statistics dealing with health and (8) PROSPER which prove that it is not true. So, why is it that we all have a (9) TEND to idealise the past and to be so (10) CRITICISE of the present?

Last year I resigned my post as a Head of Department at a large comprehensive school. After 23 years of teaching, I had simply had enough of a job which is becoming increasingly (1) problematic. As a Departmental Head, I saw at close hand the effect of the government’s increased (2) in educational matters; the job is now ten times more (3) than it was when I started out. Not content with loading teachers down with paperwork, the government has also imposed standard national tests on pupils as young as six, a fact which has left many teachers (4) with their profession. But that side of things is by no means all. There is also the growing (5) of the pupils, including the girls. There are the frequent little acts of (6) which teachers have become almost (7) to stop, now that the right to discipline pupils has been all but taken from them. There is the restlessness and sheer (8) of children brought up on a diet of computer games and violent videos. Some people dismiss any link between computer games and a (9) in attention span, but few of them are teachers. When I started out, I used to enjoy teaching history, my chosen discipline, to (10) pupils; now I do so every Tuesday evening, teaching local history to pensioners.

| Would not - unwillingness | 73 |
Every effort has been made to make the answer key as all-inclusive as possible.

Where students provide their own answers, the full form of the verb has been put in the answer key, e.g. would not. However, the contraction would be equally acceptable, e.g. wouldn’t.

7 It is not known exactly when gunpowder was invented. It is known for a fact that rockets and fireworks were made by the Chinese long before gunpowder was used in Europe, which occurred at about the beginning of the thirteenth century. It is generally believed that the 'Age of Chivalry' was brought to an end by gunpowder, since a mounted knight could be brought down by anyone with a firearm. In fact, efficient firearms were not developed until the sixteenth century. When it was first introduced, gunpowder was used mainly in siege cannon. Later it was used in engineering work and mining, but it was found to be extremely dangerous. Gunpowder has now been replaced by modern explosives, but it is still used for making fireworks, just as it was by the Chinese.

ADVANCED LANGUAGE PRACTICE

h) I spent a very interesting holiday at Lake Coniston in England.
i) We are against war in general, so of course we are against a war like this between a superpower and a developing country.
j) Burglaries are definitely on the increase.

The word processor and the calculator are without a shadow of doubt here to stay, and in the many respects our lives are the much richer for them. But the teachers and other academics are claiming that we are now starting to feel the first significant wave of their effects on a generation of the users. It seems nobody under the age of 20 can spell or add up any more. Even several professors at leading universities have commented on the detrimental effect the digital revolution has had on the most intelligent young minds in the country. The problem, evidently, lies with the automatic spellcheck now widely available on the word processing software. Professor John Silver of the Sydney University, Australia, said: 'Why should we bother to learn how to spell correctly, or for that matter to learn even the most basic of the mathematical sums, when at the press of a button we have our problem...'
answered for us. The implications are enormous. Will the adults of the future look to the computer to make the decisions for them, to tell them who to marry or what the house to buy? Are we heading for a future individual incapable of the independent human thought?

Grammar 18

1 Having just spent three weeks of my life sitting on an uncomfortable saddle, pounding the roads of France, I am in no fit state that to do anything except sit and write, which suits me fine. For I have cycled some 1,500 kilometres, a figure which includes some extremely hilly routes, and frankly the thought of mounting a bicycle again which is not one that I can face for a good few days yet. The journey, which I undertook alone for most of the way, was all in the name of charity - Help the Aged, a cause which I support whenever that I can. Having organised my sponsorship, which I arrived in France armed only with a tiny map of the Tour de France route, which hastily removed from last month's 'Cycling World' magazine. My intention which was to try and follow the route that the professionals take, but after three days in which I pushed my body to extemes that it had never experienced before, that I rapidly abandoned this plan and returned to flatter ground. On the flat which I was able to keep to about 120 kilometres a day, which is respectable. I did have to rest my weary limbs at the weekends, though, which enabled me to recharge my batteries, by which I mean my bodily ones, not the ones that inside my bike lights. I am pleased to say, that after three tortuous weeks, which I ended up in Marseilles, but what pleased me all the more is that I managed to raise over £2,000 for Help the Aged.

I've been to the following Italian cities: Rome, Florence, Genoa and Pisa. I thought Rome was incredible: the food was great, the views were fantastic and I will never forget the vivacious people. The Italians' legendary hospitality was nowhere more evident than in the capital city. But my all-time favourite is probably Genoa, with its fabulous hill-top houses and its dusty mountains, reverberating to the sound of grasshoppers. I spent many a happy hour looking down on the seething city below and the sea beyond. Best of all, the city's location at the heart of the Italian Riviera meant that fabulous resorts like Portofino and Camogli were only a train ride away.

Water is becoming a more and more precious commodity, so save as much as you can. Flushing the toilet accounts for a third of all household water use, so don't flush wastefully. If you are only getting rid of a tissue, for example, resist the habit of reaching for the handle or chain. Take a shower rather than a bath; it uses about a third of the water. And don't keep the water running all the time when you wash or clean your teeth. If you have a garden, try to find ways of saving water outside, such as using a water butt to collect rain water, rather than using a hosepipe to water your flowers. A simple pipe connecting external gutters to a water butt can save an awful lot of water.
