Bunny
Newborn

I have just been born. I sleep most of the time in the nest with my brothers and sisters.

My skin is pink, and I have no fur. I cannot see or hear.

This one is me.
My mother lies on top of us to keep us warm.
Where is my nest?

I am one week old, and my fur is beginning to grow. It is soft and white.

Oh no! My brother and I have rolled out of the nest. What shall we do now?
Here comes my mother. She will help us back into the nest.
Looking around

I am two weeks old. My fur is long and thick. At last I can see and hear.

I know the smell of grass, and now I can see it too.
She is going back to the nest.

There are many new sounds. My sister feels afraid.
Out and about

I am three weeks old. I like to leave the nest and explore, but I don't go very far.
Exploring makes my fur messy.
I must clean myself.

I crawl around with my tummy close to the ground.
Time together

I am now four weeks old. I am growing bigger and stronger. My ears are growing longer too.
My brother, sister, and I like to play near the nest where our mother can see us.

When we are tired, we snuggle close together.
Exploring

I am five weeks old. My legs are getting stronger.

I like playing hide and seek in this dark pipe.
What can I play next?

When I stand on my tiptoes, I am as tall as this stone.
I can dig into the soft earth and make myself a burrow.

I am six weeks old, and now I can explore on my own.
My favorite food is lettuce. I love eating crisp green leaves!

Next to my mother, I am still very small.
