Milly has always loved animals. She likes to learn about how animals live. She goes to the beach and looks for starfish on the sand and catches crabs.

Milly’s favourite animal is the flamingo. She likes the beautiful pink colour of its beak. She also likes its small, black claw and long, thin legs. Milly wants to travel to Bolivia in South America when she is older to see this animal in the wild.

Milly also likes crabs. She has read many books about these strange, strong creatures. Milly often asks herself one question: Why did these animals become extinct? It’s a great mystery.

Sally’s Weekly Fashion Show

Sally likes many things. She likes reading and going to the cinema. She likes playing computer games and talking to her friends. But she does not like any of those things as much as she likes clothes. When she is at home in her room, Sally likes to pretend that she is a famous model in a fashion show.

First, Sally puts on some of her favourite clothes. She puts on her blue shorts and her black and white striped tights, her yellow blouse and her big black belt. She puts her shiny earrings in and she wears her red sunglasses and her gold necklace. Then she puts on some music and she walks up and down her room in front of the mirror.

‘Sally is wearing a beautiful new blouse designed by the great Italian designer Juliano’, says Sally. Sally puts one hand in the pocket of her shorts. Then she opens her umbrella, holds it against her shoulder and smiles. ‘That’s all from Sally Davies this week, but she’ll be back next week with all the best new clothes.’

1. Sally prefers clothes to reading and going to the cinema.

2. When she is in her room, Sally likes pretending she is in

3. Sally wears her striped and her yellow blouse.

Danny’s Lucky Football Clothes

trainers clothes gloves spotted pockets shorts

Every day, after school, Danny goes to the park with his friends and plays football. He always wears the same clothes. On his feet, he wears his old white trainers. They help Danny score lots of goals.

Unless it is very, very cold, Danny wears his black trousers. These are very long, like in the old days of football. They come down to Danny’s knees! They also have very big pockets that Danny puts his hands in when he is standing around waiting for the ball.

Danny does not usually wear gloves but sometimes it gets so cold that he needs to protect his fingers. Danny always wears his T-shirt. One day, he changed his mind and decided to wear his striped T-shirt. He did not score a single goal that day! Danny did not make the same mistake again!

Hi Mark

How are you? I’m very excited! It was my birthday on Saturday and my parents bought me a very special present. I have a tablet computer! It’s much better than my old laptop.

A tablet computer isn’t very heavy, so it’s no problem to walk around with it. And I can play all my computer games on it. It’s fun to send emails because the keypad is big, so it’s easy to write.

The best thing about it is using the internet. Everything looks brilliant on a tablet computer! The colours are very bright and the text is easy to read.

I know you don’t like technology very much. Maybe the tablet computer will make you change your mind.

See you soon.

A Short History of the Internet

The Internet was invented in the 1960s by computer scientists working in America. For many years, only people in universities and people very interested in computer technology used this new invention.

In 1991, a British computer scientist called Tim Berners-Lee invented the world wide web. This made it much easier to use the Internet and it became very popular all over the world. But there was still a problem. The Internet was so slow!

At the beginning of the 21st century, broadband technology made it easier for people to connect quickly to the Internet. It also made it easier for people to share information. People wanted to share videos, links and music on sites like YouTube and MySpace.

Today we can access the Internet on smart phones, laptops, PCs and tablet computers. We live online. Websites have become a big part of our lives. We shop on Amazon and eBay, we talk to friends on Facebook and Twitter, we listen to music on Spotify and search for information on Google.

What is the future of the Internet? Nobody knows. But one thing we can be quite sure about. It isn’t going to go away!

Once upon a time there was a very unhappy queen. She didn’t enjoy opening new buildings or naming ships. ‘Look,’ said her husband one day. ‘You’re the queen. You’ve got the best job in the country!’

‘But I want to do something else,’ said the queen. ‘I want to be a secretary. I could work in an office and ask my meetings to send emails to important people.’ Her husband didn’t think this was a good idea. ‘Think of all those newspapers,’ he said. The queen thought about that and decided her husband was right.

‘Perhaps I could be an actress,’ said the queen. Her husband shook his head. ‘They spend more time working in restaurants than acting,’ he said. The queen thought about that and decided her husband was right.

One day, the prince came to visit. ‘Mother,’ he said. ‘It’s time I became king. I’ve been waiting a long time.’ Suddenly, the queen smiled. ‘That’s right!’ she said. ‘You have!’ And so the prince became king. Now the queen did whatever she wanted. On Mondays she painted, on Wednesdays she took photographs, and at the weekend she wrote stories for newspapers about what it was like to be the queen. She never stopped smiling.

Over a Hundred Years of History

1 It took eight years to build Tower Bridge in London. It was finished in 1894. Tower Bridge was built because lots of people lived in the East End of London and there was no bridge in the east of the city at that time for them to use. Today, visitors to London can learn all about the history of the bridge at the Tower Bridge Exhibition.

The Museum of Modern Art in Manhattan in New York opened in 1929. It has a collection of over 150,000 works of art. These include paintings, photographs and drawings. The museum also has a very big collection of books and films. The museum has some very famous paintings by Vincent Van Gogh, Pablo Picasso and Claude Monet.

Bologna University is in the north of Italy. It is one of the oldest universities in the world. The university was founded in 1088! The famous Polish astronomer Nicolaus Copernicus studied at Bologna from 1496 to 1501. Copernicus began investigating the universe while he was studying at the university.

Edinburgh is in the south of Scotland. The city’s famous castle sits on an extinct volcano called Castle Rock. Archaeologists believe that people were living on the rock as long ago as 900 BC. In the Middle Ages, Edinburgh Castle was home to the Scottish kings and queens. The castle has been an army base for hundreds of years and is a very popular attraction for visitors to Scotland’s capital city.

My Dream House

My name is Graham. I like designing things. Last year I designed my dream house. It is at the top of a big hill. My house is very unusual. It is in the shape of a pyramid. The doors are made of paper and the windows are made of wool. The floors are made of metal and the bed is made of gold. The chairs and the tables are made of silver. The shelves are made of plastic.

People tell me that it is impossible for me to build my dream house. They say that real houses are made from different materials. Doors, tables, beds and chairs are made of wood. Windows are made of glass and shelves are made of wood. They say that houses are not usually in the shape of a pyramid. Maybe people are right. But I don’t mind. I don’t really want to live in my dream house. I just want to think about living there.

Carl likes to go for walks to the wood at the top of the hill. Before he goes on one of his walks, he packs his rucksack. He always takes the same things. He takes a small comb with him, so he can cook sausages for lunch. He also puts a plastic paper in his bag. Sometimes it is very windy and Carl likes his hair to look nice.

When Carl gets to the top of the hill, he often does not know what to do. This is why he takes wood with him. Then he can sit on the grass and draw pictures or write a poem.

Carl loves going for walks to the wood at the top of the hill. But one day he wants to go much further away from home. One day, he would like to go into space.

Weather

Good evening. Here is the weather forecast for tomorrow. It's going to be an interesting day of weather. We could have four seasons in one day!

In the morning, it will be very cold and there could be a bit of ice on the roads, so be careful driving. At lunchtime, there will be lots of sunshine. This will be the best time in the day to be outdoors. Make sure you use your sun cream.

In the early afternoon, there will be lots of raindrops, so the sky will be very grey. In the middle of the afternoon, we'll start to see a few ice storm fall. By eight o'clock, it will be time to go indoors because a storm will come. Expect thunder and lightning!

So, we are going to have a very mixed day tomorrow. You will need a raincoat, a T-shirt, an umbrella and sunglasses!

Write a weather forecast in your notebook for your area for tomorrow.

My Weather Forecast

Tomorrow it is going to...
Weather forecasters present weather forecasts on the television and radio news. It is a very difficult job because everybody wants weather forecasters to know what is going to happen in the future!

Weather forecasters study the weather. The study of weather is called meteorology. People who are experts on meteorology are called meteorologists. Meteorologists learn about storms and floods.

Sometimes, people get angry with weather forecasters. If a weather forecaster says, ‘Tomorrow it will be warm’ and then it is very cold, people do not like that. ‘The weather forecaster said it was going to be warm,’ people say, feeling cold in their T-shirts.

Weather forecasters know lots about sunshine in summer and raindrops in spring. They know about ice in winter and fog in autumn. But they cannot be right all the time. The weather is always surprising! So, before you leave the house, look at the sky, and make your own weather forecast!

Milly is a good student. She listens in class. She answers questions. She does not talk when the teacher is talking. But Milly has a problem. She does not want to talk when she goes home.

When Milly comes home from school, she drinks some lemonade. Then she goes to her room to do her homework. This is when the problems start. First, Milly puts her dictionary on her desk. This special book helps her to find out new words when she is studying languages. Then she gets her glue from her drawer. Sometimes Milly has to stick things onto paper. Then she takes her scissors from her drawer. Sometimes Milly has to cut things out.

Then Milly makes a plan. ‘OK,’ she says. ‘Tomorrow I have a Maths test. So, I need to study for that. I also have to study for my History, Geography and Science.’ Milly writes what she needs to do on a piece of paper. ‘Oh,’ says Milly when she has finished writing her plan. ‘I feel very sleepy now. It’s all this hard work. I should have a little sleep. I can study later.’ Do you think Milly studies later? Hmm. What can she do to solve her problem?

Mr Jones’ Day

Mr Jones is an English teacher. He works at a school. Every day he gets up at 6 a.m. He eats toast for breakfast and he drinks a cup of tea.

At 7.30, Mr Jones walks to school. It takes him 15 minutes. When he gets to school, he brushes his hair. Mr Jones thinks it is important to look right.

At lunchtime he has a cheese sandwich and a glass of orange juice. Then he lies down in his office for 20 minutes. When he hears the bell for afternoon classes, Mr Jones gets up and goes back to work.

Mr Jones never forgets to tell his students to do their homework. His students always say, ‘Yes, Mr Jones. We’ll remember.’

When Mr Jones gets home, he sits down on the sofa. Mr Jones likes to think about the day for ten minutes before he makes his dinner. He does not meet anybody in the evening because he likes to go to bed early. This is Mr Jones’ routine.

1. What is Mr Jones’ job?
   He is an English teacher.

2. What time does Mr Jones get up?

Robert likes words. His favourite words are 1. adjectives. Robert often helps his mother to find the right word. For example, last month she walked into his bedroom and said, ‘Robert! Your bedroom is so, so, so ...’ 2. unfriendly?’ said Robert. ‘Yes,’ said Robert’s mother. ‘Exactly. Please tidy it.’

Sometimes Robert forgets to talk to people. Last week, his Aunt Jill came for lunch. Robert was sitting at the kitchen table reading the dictionary. When Aunt Jill came into the room, Robert did not say anything to her. ‘Robert,’ said Robert’s mother. ‘Don’t be so, so, so ...’ 3. different?’ said Robert. ‘Yes,’ said Robert’s mother. ‘Exactly. Now please say hello to Aunt Jill.’ Robert closed his book and apologised to Aunt Jill.

Robert likes thinking he is someone else. Yesterday he thought he was an alien. He painted his face green and sat on his bed being an alien. When his mother came in, she said, ‘Robert! You look so, so, so ...’ 4. untidy?’ said Robert. ‘Yes,’ said Robert’s mother. ‘I’ll call the doctor.’ ‘It’s only paint, Mum,’ said Robert. ‘I’m very 5. healthy.’

This morning, Robert’s mother said, ‘Oh, Robert, you’re so, so, so ...’ 6. ill?’ said Robert. ‘Yes,’ said Robert’s mother. ‘Exactly. You’re not the same as other boys.’ Then Robert smiled and said, ‘I just like words, Mum.’

The Last Day at School

It was the day before the 1 summer holidays and the 2 students at the New Town College of Art and Science were saying goodbye to their English teacher, Mr Jones.

‘What are you going to do in the holidays, Mr Jones?’ asked Milly. ‘I’m going to India,’ said Mr Jones. ‘Why are you going to India?’ asked Carla. Mr Jones smiled. ‘I’m going to 3 study to 4 sent the history of the 5 Internet of India.’ ‘Mr Jones?’ asked Sam. ‘Won’t that take a long time?’ Mr Jones put his dictionary into his 6 pocket. ‘Yes,’ he said. ‘It will take a very long time.’

Suddenly, the class was very 7 noisy. All the students were talking at the same time. Robert said, ‘Are you coming back in 8 September, Mr Jones?’ Mr Jones put his hands in his 9 rucksack. ‘No, Robert,’ he said. ‘This is my last day at the school.’

For a moment, nobody said anything. Then Milly said, ‘We’ll always 10 remember you, Mr Jones. Will you 11 send us a postcard?’ ‘Oh, yes,’ said Mr Jones. ‘Lots.’ ‘You could write a 12 blog on the 13 diary, about your time in India,’ said Danny. ‘It would be like a 14 newspaper, for us all to read.’

Everybody liked Danny’s idea. But there was no more time to talk. The bell rang. Mr Jones 15 turned off the lights and said goodbye.
