Introduction

About this book

Who is this book for?
This book is for people studying for the Cambridge First Certificate in English (FCE) examination. The aim is to practise the grammar and vocabulary needed for this examination. The book is useful as a supplement to any coursebook. It presents and practises key grammar and vocabulary points in an integrated way. I assume that anybody using this book has a reasonable knowledge of and ability to use English up to intermediate level. More advanced students should refer to Grammar and Vocabulary for Cambridge Advanced and Proficiency, by Richard Side and Guy Wellman.

What sort of grammar is in this book?
The book covers the main areas of English grammar at intermediate/upper-intermediate level and concentrates on areas you need to pass the FCE exam. Thus there is a thorough review of tenses together with verb, noun and adjective structures. Although grammar and vocabulary are obviously important in all the papers in the exam, special attention is given to those aspects of grammar which are frequently tested in Paper 3 – Use of English. For example, prepositions following nouns, verbs and adjectives are common in all parts of Paper 3. Problems of time and tense are also tested, for example, in conditional sentences and after wish, if only or I'd rather, and expressions with time. Such structures are reflected in the grammar presented and practised in this book.

What sort of vocabulary is in this book?
The book gives vocabulary special emphasis, including both individual words and common phrases. Words which are often confused are dealt with in the sections which make up the main body of the text, and common sources of error caused by words of related meaning are also considered. There is also a detailed focus on aspects of word-building in every unit. This reflects the importance of word-building in the Use of English paper. The Word Store section at the back of the book focuses on topic areas and lexical phrases, which the FCE exam gives particular importance to. A good knowledge of these phrases will help you perform better in the Use of English and Writing papers.

How can I use this book?
There are many ways to use this book. You can use the Contents map to look up particular aspects of grammar and vocabulary you want to study and practise. The Agenda at the beginning of each unit will show you the contents of each section. You can use the Entry test to identify which sections you need. Or you may wish to study complete units, perhaps in the order in which they appear. Several options are available to you, according to your needs.

How is this book organised?
The book comprises fourteen grammar and vocabulary units, followed by a topic-related Word store section. There is an Exam practice test after every two units. Throughout the book, there are cartoons which illustrate grammar points and also identify the language covered in each section. I hope this will make learning grammar and vocabulary more fun, as well as more memorable.
The entry test
A typical sequence begins with an Entry test based on the target grammar and vocabulary of the unit. It consists of twenty-five diagnostic questions, which will direct you to areas you need to learn, revise or practise in the sections that follow. The test will give you an idea of your own strengths and weaknesses, in particular, areas of grammar or vocabulary. Each Entry test is divided into five parts (each with five questions) and these correspond to the five sections (a–e) of the unit. If you have difficulties with a part of the Entry test, there is a cross-reference to the relevant section where you will find all the information and practice you need. On the other hand, if you find that part easy, it may mean that you are sufficiently competent in that area and you may wish to skip that section. Since all Entry tests have the same number of questions (25), you can monitor your own progress using your total score for each test.

The grammar sections
Each unit contains three Grammar sections, which deal with aspects of a particular area of grammar, as listed in the Agenda on the first page of each unit. For a full list of the grammar covered in this book, see the Contents map (pages 3–6). The Grammar sections contain explanations and descriptions using numerous example sentences. Much of the information is presented in tables, which provide easy access to the essential details of meaning or use, together with examples illustrating common contexts.

The vocabulary sections
Each unit has two Vocabulary sections. There is a focus on word-building and lexical items related to particular areas of usage. Phrases and phrasal verbs are also given special attention and, again, the tables provide easy access to content.

The practice sections
All the presentations in the grammar and vocabulary sections are followed by Practice sections. These include a wide variety of exercises related to the content of each presentation. Many of these exercises are modelled on FCE exam questions but others are styled to achieve the best focus on the language being practised and provide for a more interesting set of activities.

The exam practice sections
After every two units, there is an Exam practice section, in the form of a complete Use of English paper, in the same format as in the actual FCE exam. Each Exam practice section tests your knowledge of the grammar and vocabulary of the previous two units. It allows you to revise what you have learnt, while getting valuable examination practice. Each paper has the same score, so you can monitor your progress as you work with different units.

Although grammar and vocabulary are presented separately in the units, in the Exam practice sections they are brought together within the same texts and activities. Thus, there is constant recycling of the target language.

The Word store section
At the end of the book is the Word store section, which includes a series of exercises presenting vocabulary in topic-related groups. These are extremely useful for all parts of the FCE exam. Emphasis is on the importance of common phrases and the way words combine together. The vocabulary items are presented in tables, which are followed by exercises that draw on items in these tables and allow you to work with them in different contexts. Special attention has been given to ensure that these exercises are lively and informative.

Will I pass the FCE exam if I do everything in this book?
One grammar and vocabulary practice book is not enough to make you fluent in English. I recommend that you read widely in English (simplified readers, magazines, newspapers, etc.) and take every opportunity to listen to English (satellite television, film, radio, songs, etc.). You should also try and speak the language so that you can use it naturally and easily.

About FCE

What level is FCE?
The First Certificate in English is an intermediate-level examination which follows on from the PET (Preliminary English Test) and precedes the CAE (Certificate in Advanced English) examinations. FCE is CEF level B2. The certificate is frequently used as proof that you will be competent to begin a career such as those related to tourism or banking, or that you can pursue an advanced course of study in English. Learners at this level should be able to handle the main structures with some confidence and communicate in English in a variety of social situations. You should be able to tell the difference between the main and secondary points of a text, as well as between the gist of a text and specific detail. You are expected to show an ability to describe and recount events. Grades A, B and C are passes. D is a narrow fail, and E is a fail. The exam is usually taken after approximately 500–600 hours of studying English. It consists of 5 papers. Papers 1–4 (Reading, Writing, Use of English and Listening) are usually taken on the same day and Paper 5 (Speaking) is usually taken on a different day.

Paper 1: Reading
This paper, lasting one hour, consists of three parts and is intended to encourage familiarity with different types of written material. The reading texts may be correspondence, informational material, newspaper or magazine articles, advertisements, etc. There are thirty questions and three different task types: multiple choice, gapped text and multiple matching. You will be tested on understanding the gist of a text, main grammar points, detail in the information and text structure or meaning.

Paper 2: Writing
For this paper, lasting one hour and twenty minutes, you must complete one compulsory task in Part 1 (a letter or email, using information given in the form of an advertisement, an extract from a letter, an email, a schedule, etc.) and one from a choice of five in Part 2. You will need to demonstrate your ability to write a range of texts such as letters (formal or informal), articles or reports, as well as stories and argumentative compositions. For Part 1, you will need to write a letter or email of 120–150 words. For Part 2, you will need to write a text of 120–180 words.

Paper 3: Use of English
This paper lasts forty-five minutes. There are four tasks with a total of forty-two questions focusing on grammar and vocabulary (see pages 10–11). The paper is divided according to the language focus and task type. The exercises are: multiple choice, open cloze, word formation and key word transformation.

Paper 4: Listening
This paper lasts approximately forty minutes. There is a total of four parts and thirty questions. The recordings may be phone messages, commentaries, announcements, speeches, reports, etc. The tasks are designed to test your understanding of the gist of the recording, as well as specific information. The task types are: multiple choice, sentence completion and multiple matching.

Paper 5: Speaking
This part of the examination, lasting approximately fifteen minutes, has four parts. During the examination, you will interact with another candidate, as well as an examiner/interlocutor. There will also be a second examiner present (an assessor), who will remain silent. The first part is a very short interview. After that, you will be asked to give information or express your opinion by comparing a pair of photographs. The next part is a conversation between you and another candidate, in which you may be asked to agree or disagree, make a decision about a drawing or photograph, etc. Finally, you take part in a discussion with the interlocutor and the other candidate. You will be marked according to your overall performance. You should be able to respond to questions, organise your ideas, express your opinions and exchange views.
What types of questions can I expect in Paper 3?

This book concentrates on the grammar and vocabulary you will need to pass this paper. The exercises in the Practice and Exam practice sections reflect the types of questions you will be given in the FCE exam. There are four parts.

Part 1: Multiple choice cloze
This includes a text with twelve numbered gaps, followed by four-option multiple choice items (A, B, C and D). You must choose the best answer to fill each gap. Example:

Part 1
For questions 1-12, read the text below and decide which answer (A, B, C or D) best fits each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

TEEN FASHION
It is widely believed that boys are less interested in fashion (0)............ girls. While it is true that fashion for guys is not as widely followed (1),............ fashion for girls, it is becoming more and more important. Girls' fashion (2)............ to change more often, or at least it is ...

0 A that B as C than D from
1 A as B than C so D that
2 A looks B comes C becomes D seems

Part 2: Open cloze
This consists of a text with twelve numbered gaps. You must provide the correct word to fill each one. Example:

Part 2
For questions 13-24, read the text below and think of the word which best fits each gap. Use only one word in each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

THE MYSTERY OF STONEHENGE
Stonehenge is one of England's (0)............ famous landmarks. It is a group of large, tall stones that are arranged in circles on Salisbury Plain in the south of England. They are (13)............ big and heavy that their transportation over from Wales, 240 miles away, (14)............ to us today almost miraculous. Who could have carried them such (15)............ distance without the help of modern technology? The question is also ...

Part 1 (questions 1–12) has an emphasis on vocabulary but often includes items that focus on grammar as well.
Part 3: Word formation
This word-building task includes a text with ten numbered gaps. It may test prefixes, suffixes, changes to the whole word (e.g. wide → width), forming compounds, etc. The base words are given, and you must use them to form words to fill the gaps in the text. Example:

Part 3
For questions 25-34, read the text below. Use the word given in capitals at the end of some of the lines to form a word that fits in the gap in the same line. There is an example at the beginning (0).

We all know now what a (9) powerful tool information technology is. It is more or less (25) possible to live a full life in the twenty-first century without being (26) comfort with computers and how to ...

Part 3 (questions 25-34) tests mainly vocabulary, for example prefixes, suffixes and compounds.

Part 4: Key word transformations
There are eight items, each with a lead-in sentence and a gapped second sentence. You must complete the second sentence with two to five words, using a given word which cannot be changed. Example:

Part 4
For questions 35-42, complete the second sentence so that it has a similar meaning to the first sentence, using the word given. Do not change the word given. You must use between two and five words, including the word given. Here is an example (0).

Example:
0 So, do you regret what you did?
SORRY
So, are you sorry for what you did?
35 I think his wife is a journalist.
MARRIED
I think he's .............................................. a journalist.
36 I don't like cooking very much.
FOND

I am writing to you from an Internet café in the city centre. I am in a cheap hotel near Plaza Catalunya. It costs just forty euros a night – not bad!
Barcelona is a really exciting city and I am having a wonderful time! This morning I visited the Sagrada Familia – a famous Catholic church in Barcelona. It’s really weird – it looks like a wedding cake! Later today I might go to the beach – it depends on the weather.
The food’s great. Crema Catalana is my favourite – I just love it! It’s a dessert they make here with cold custard and sugar on top. It tastes absolutely delicious!
So, everything is well here. What about you? Is everything OK back in rainy Milan? Are you for your exam next week?
See you soon!
Paola

Past simple, present perfect simple, present perfect continuous

Past simple

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Form</th>
<th>Present perfect simple</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Affirmative: They went out on Saturday.</td>
<td>Affirmative: I’ve seen this film.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Question: Did you like the film?</td>
<td>Question: Have you heard from Jim recently?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Negative: We didn’t see Terry last night.</td>
<td>Negative: She hasn’t phoned yet.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Use

We use the past simple:
- for past (finished) actions, often with time words like a year ago, last Sunday, in 2010, yesterday, etc.:
  - The first modern Olympics took place in Athens more than a hundred years ago.
  - They arrived in Spain yesterday.
- for past habits or states:
  - He always caught the same train.
  - Long ago, they built most houses out of wood.
- for past states, events or actions that lasted for a period of time in the past:
  - We were neighbours for twenty-five years.

We use the present perfect:
- for actions that happened at an unspecified time in the past:
  - They have arrived in Spain.
- for past actions that have a result which is obvious or important in the present:
  - They have polluted the river. (= And now the fish are dead.)
  - You’ve spilled the coffee all over my trousers! (= And now they’re ruined.)
- for recently completed actions, often with just:
  - The film’s just started.
- to refer to a period of time that has not finished yet.
  - We’ve built twenty schools this year. (= It is still this year.)
- for general experiences, often with before, ever and never.
  - Have you ever seen an elephant?
  - We’ve never been to Australia.
  - She’s never flown before.
- for actions, events or situations that began in the past and continue in the present, often with for and since:
  - They have lived here for six years. (= They still live here.)
  - Mr Edwards has worked here since 2009. (= He still works here.)
- with the following words: already, yet, recently, often, still:
  - The rain has already destroyed the crops.
  - We still haven’t discovered life on other planets.
  - They haven’t finished the project yet.

For for and since, see also: 1d
Past simple or present perfect simple?

- To talk about a period of time that has finished, we use the past simple. To talk about a period of time that has not yet finished, we use the present perfect simple. Compare:

  I had two sandwiches this morning.
  (= It is now afternoon or evening.)

  I've had two sandwiches this morning.
  (= It is still morning.)

- The choice between the past simple and the present perfect simple depends on whether the action links the past with the present. Compare:

  He did a lot in his short life.
  (= He is dead.)

  He has done a lot in his short life.
  (= He is alive and young.)

Present perfect continuous

Form

Affirmative: It has been raining since Monday.

Question: How long have you been waiting?

Negative: I haven't been sleeping well lately.

Use

- We use the present perfect continuous to talk about actions that started in the past and continue up to the moment of speaking. We use it especially when we are interested in the duration of the action:

  I've been waiting for a whole hour!

- Notice the difference between the present perfect simple and the present perfect continuous:

  I've read this book. (= I have finished it. The focus here is on the fact that the action is complete.)

  I've been reading a book about life on other planets. (= I haven’t finished it yet. The focus here is on the fact that the action is incomplete.)

What else? Well, for the last few days, my son [teach] me to make video calls so I can talk to friends and see them at the same time. It’s amazing – and highly addictive, too! Already this morning, I [sit] in front of the screen for three hours, and I [not finish] half my emails yet!

‘Flying? I’ve been to almost as many places as my luggage!’ Bob Hope Past continuous

Form
Affirmative: He was talking to you.
Question: Were you working at six?
Negative: Sorry, I wasn’t listening.

Use
We use the past continuous:
• for actions in progress at a particular time in the past:
  I was watching TV at nine o’clock last night.
• for two or more actions happening at the same time in the past:
  She was studying while I was watching.
• to set the scene or give background information in a story:
  It was pouring with rain and she was wondering what to do.
• with the past simple, to say that something happened in the middle of something else:
  I was sleeping when my friend called.

Past perfect simple

Form
Affirmative: They had left at four o’clock.
Question: Had the party finished at eleven?
Negative: I hadn’t seen him before.

Use
• We use the past perfect simple to talk about a past action that happened before another past action:
  When I had picked some fruit, I went back to the beach.
• We often use the past perfect simple with when and after:
  After they had eaten, they cleared the table.
• Compare:
  When I arrived at the party, Mary left.
  (= I arrived and then Mary left.)
  When I arrived at the party, Mary had left.
  (= Mary left and then I arrived.)

Past perfect continuous

Form
Affirmative: She had been working for hours.
Question: Had they been waiting long?
Negative: I hadn’t been feeling well.

Use
• We use the past perfect continuous to talk about something that started in the past and continued up until another time in the past:
  They had been climbing for five hours before they reached the top.
• We often use the past perfect continuous to emphasise how long a past action, event or state lasted:
  I had been feeling sleepy all day, so I went to bed.

Mark Zuckerberg, creator of Facebook

The pre-Facebook years

By the time he began classes at Harvard, Mark Zuckerberg had achieved a reputation as a programming genius. Before the end of his second year at university, he had already designed CourseMatch, a program that helped students choose classes based on the choices other students had made. At the time, Mark was studying psychology and computer science.

A short time later, he created Facemash, a program that let students select the best-looking person from different photos. Until then, students had used books called 'FaceBooks', which included the names and photos of everyone who lived in the student dorms. Facemash went up over the weekend but by Monday morning, the college had taken it down because its popularity had flooded Harvard's server. Before Facemash, students had asked the university to develop a similar website for months. Mark had worked on a very similar idea when he heard about these requests, so he decided to do something about them — and promised to build a better site than what the university had planned.

Before John Kennedy became President in 1960, he had said that the state of the country was bad. When he became President, he said things were just as bad as he'd been saying they were.
Vocabulary

1d for, since, during, yet, etc.

for and since

• We use for to say how long something lasts:
  I'm tired. We've been walking for four hours!
  I haven't seen Eva for ages.
• We use since to indicate a starting point:
  They haven't met since the wedding.
  (since + noun)
  A lot has happened since I last wrote to you.
  (since + clause)
  I've been in London since four weeks.
  I've been in London for four weeks.

over and during

• We can use over and during in the same way, to indicate the period of time in which something happens or develops:
  Over/During the last eighteen months, there have been three tax increases.
• Compare the use of since:
  Since the middle of last year, there have been three tax increases. (the middle of last year = the starting point) from ... to/until/till

• We use from ... to/until/till to indicate when something starts and ends:
  Dinner is from eight o'clock to ten o'clock.
  I waited from ten till two.
• We can use from on its own if we do not say when something ends:
  I was training from ten o'clock.

from and since

• Compare from and since:
  They were here from ten o'clock. (= They came at ten o'clock.)
  They've been here since ten o'clock. (= They're still here.)

for and during

• For answers the question How long? We use it with time expressions to talk about actions that last the whole of the period of time:
  He was with the company for forty years. (= His time with the company was forty years.)
• We use during + that week/your stay/the match/etc. to say that one action happened inside a period of time:
  During that year, he rose from deputy manager to managing director.
• Here are some common words and phrases we use with for and during:
  for two hours/a whole week/a long time/a couple of days/a minute during office hours/the day/the full ninety minutes/the twentieth century/the interval during and while

• During is a preposition. We use it before a noun/noun phrase. We do not use during with a clause:
  We didn't see anybody during the holidays. (the holidays = noun)
• While is a conjunction. We use it with a clause:
  We didn't see anybody while we were on holiday. (we were on holiday = clause)
  During I was at home, a salesman called. X
  While I was at home, a salesman called. ✓ ago, already, before, still and yet

- Ago shows how long before the moment of speaking something happened. We use it with the past simple, not the present perfect. Ago comes after a time word or phrase.
  - I came to Rome exactly six months ago.
  - I’m writing in reply to your letter, which I received two days ago.

- We often use already to show surprise that something has happened sooner than expected. We also use it to say that something has been done and does not need to be repeated. We normally use it in affirmative sentences and questions. We often use already with perfect tenses. It can come in the mid or end position.
  - Is the taxi already here? Is the taxi here already?
  - I’ve already tried that. I’ve tried that already.

- We use before to mean ‘earlier than a time in the past’.
  - I went to the airport last Monday to meet Sue.
  - I hadn’t been to the airport before.
  - (i.e. before last Monday)

- Still tells us that something is continuing and has not finished. It can suggest surprise that it continues longer than expected. We use it in mid position, and in negative sentences it comes before the negative word.
  - I’ve had fifty driving lessons and I still can’t drive very well.
  - We’ve been waiting for over an hour but she still isn’t here.

- We use yet in negative sentences, to show that something that we expected to happen has not happened. We also use it in questions to ask if something has happened.
  - Still tells us that something is continuing and has not finished. It can suggest surprise that it continues longer than expected. We use it in mid position, and in negative sentences it comes before the negative word.
  - I’m not ready yet. (= I expected to be ready by now.)
  - Aren’t you ready yet? (= I expected you to be ready by now.)

- 3 During / While her stay here, she made a lot of good friends.
- 4 While / Since she was staying here, she made a lot of good friends.
- 5 Keane was injured during / while the last minute of the match.
- 6 For / Since several seasons, Keane has not been seriously injured in a game.
- 7 For / Since 2009, Keane has only been badly injured once on the pitch.
- 8 You know, I had never been to Rome from / before our trip together.
- 9 I’ve still / already been to Rome twice this year.
- 10 If you visit Rome that often, do you already / still enjoy it?
- 11 I haven’t been to Milan already / yet.
- 12 I went to Milan about a year ago / before.
Flying home

A couple of months ago, Charles was in Athens on his way back to the States from a business trip. It had been ages, he had felt so angry. He had been at the airport seven o'clock in the morning, the evening, waiting for a flight to New York. An announcement had been made to say that the plane was delayed due to technical problems. Half an hour later, another announcement had said that there was going to be a delay because of air traffic congestion. Now the plane had been sitting on the runway at least an hour and it was not ready to board.

This delay, Charles tried to complete his report, which he hadn’t finished even though his boss was expecting it on his return. There was a lot of noise going on around him, he was trying to put the finishing touches to his final paragraph, so in the end, he gave up.

It had been years, Charles had travelled by plane. He avoided flying if he could, a particularly unpleasant flight some years. He hated flying but that flight, he was convinced that it was the worst way to get around.

A challenge for Europe

Although recently there has been a small reduction in the number of people out of work in Europe, finding employment is still the biggest and most serious problem facing society today. The economic crisis that began in 2008 made the situation even worse, especially for women. The gap of opportunity between men and women is still a problem that women still pay women less than men, even when their work and are the same as those of men. When women complain about unfair, they are usually ignored or even punished by, for example, and not being offered. This is just not fair. It would be a great pity if the impressive of the European Union did not include an and in the working conditions of women.

'Things will get worse before they get worse.' PESSIMIST
Future forms (2): be going to, present continuous, present simple

Present continuous or be going to?

- We normally use the present continuous to talk about the near future rather than the distant future:
  - I’m taking the kids to the cinema this evening.
  - I’m having lunch with Pete tomorrow.
- We can use be going to or the present continuous for more distant events:
  - We’re going to sail/re sailing round the world next year.
- To talk about plans, we can use the present continuous or be going to in the same way, sometimes with a slight change of emphasis:
  - I’m going to see my therapist tomorrow.
  - (= I intend to see my therapist tomorrow.)
  - I’m seeing my therapist tomorrow.
  - (= I have already arranged to see my therapist tomorrow.)
- For predictions, we use be going to, not the present continuous.
  - Those dark clouds mean we’re going to have a storm. ✓
  - Those dark clouds mean we’re having a storm. X

Present continuous or present simple?

- When it is used to talk about the future, the present simple suggests that the events are part of a timetable, a regular/fixed schedule or something similar.
- We do not use the present continuous in these cases:
  - The sun rises at six tomorrow. ✓
  - The sun is rising at six tomorrow. X
  - Our boat leaves at noon. ✓
  - Our boat is leaving at noon. X
- We use the present continuous, not the present simple, for personal arrangements:
  - I’m seeing Jenny this weekend. ✓
  - I see Jenny this weekend. X be going to or will?

- Compare be going to and will for predictions:
  - we use be going to to talk about something we know will happen because there is evidence in the present:
    - The sky is grey – it’s going to rain.
    - The meeting starts in five minutes – you’re going to be late again!
  - we use will to talk about something we believe will happen:
    - Don’t lift that box – you’ll hurt your back.
    - I’m sure he’ll fail the exam.
- Compare be going to and will for decisions:
  - we use be going to to talk about something we have already decided to do:
    - I’m going to buy the car – we’ve already agreed on the price.
  - we use will for sudden decisions:
    - ‘I’ll give it to you for £5,000.’ ‘OK, I’ll buy it.’
1 Complete the sentences. Use be going to, will, the present simple or the present continuous and the verbs in brackets. Sometimes more than one answer is possible.

In short, this is a month which (9) will bring / is bringing many opportunities but there (10) will be / will being risks, too, so be careful!

Woman: I’m getting married on Saturday. We’re having a traditional wedding.
Man: Are you having a white wedding?
Woman: Yes, and I’m going to wear my grandmother’s dress.
Man: And what’s your grandmother going to wear?
Future forms (3): future continuous, future perfect, future in the past

Future continuous

The future continuous can refer to actions in progress at a particular time in the future:

- The future continuous often refers to events or actions that are part of a routine, or things that will happen in the normal course of events. It emphasises that no new arrangements are necessary:

  I can give you a lift to the station. I'll be going that way anyway.

- We can also use the future continuous to ask about someone’s plans:

  Will you be using the library this afternoon? When will the President be arriving?

Future perfect

Form

Affirmative: They will have finished the assignment by Saturday.

Question: Will they have finished the assignment by Saturday?

Negative: They won’t have finished the assignment by Saturday.

Use

We use the future perfect to talk about something that will be completed before a particular time in the future:

Today is Tuesday. Rob says, ‘I will have finished this assignment by Saturday.’ (= He will finish at any time up to Saturday but not later.)

I will have found a better job by the time I’m forty. ★ I will find a better job by the time I’m forty. X

Future continuous or future simple?

- We use the future simple for a decision made at the moment of speaking:

  OK, I’ll see you this evening.

- With the future continuous, the activity has already been decided. Compare:

  We’ll be staying here until next weekend.

  OK, we will stay here until next weekend.

  (= We’ve just decided to stay.)

Future in the past

When we talk about the past, we often need to refer to things that were in the future at that time. To do this, we use the forms that we normally use to talk about the future but we make the verb forms past:

I thought it would be a difficult game.

I was meeting a friend later that afternoon.

We were going to stay a bit longer but my brother got sick.
1 Complete each pair of sentences. Use the phrases in brackets.

0 (Will you take, Will you be taking)
   a. Will you take us to the airport, please?
   b. Will you be taking Ben to the airport tomorrow?

1 (will be, will have been)
   a. I will be in London next year, still doing the same job.
   b. I will have been in London for ten years by next June.

2 (will finish, was going to finish)
   a. I was going to finish my book, but I had to work late.
   b. If I don’t have too much work this year, I will finish all of Marquez’s books.

3 (will sunbathe, will be sunbathing)
   a. This time tomorrow, Maria will be sunbathing on a beach in Majorca.
   b. I expect she will be sunbathing until she gets badly burnt!

4 (will be sleeping, will have slept)
   a. At midnight, I will be sleeping soundly – I hope!
   b. Wake me up at nine – I will have slept long enough by then.

5 (will be flying, were flying)
   a. We went to bed early as we were flying to London the next day.
   b. We were flying to Australia later this summer.

6 (will drive, will be driving)
   a. I’ll give you a lift to the station. I will be that way anyway.
   b. You’ll be late – I will drive you to the station if you like.

2 Complete the conversation. Use the future simple, future continuous or future perfect of the verbs in brackets.

ROSA
So, when shall I come round? Is Thursday still OK?

MARIA
Yes, but don’t come at six – I will be working (work) then.

ROSA
What time do you think you will be free?

MARIA
Let’s see. As I said, I will be working on the manuscript all day, and I expect I will complete the second chapter by about seven.

ROSA
Good, because I will be quite busy at about six tomorrow as well. I’ve got an appointment with my dentist and I don’t think she will finish (finish) much before seven.

MARIA
Well, we really must be getting on with the book, you know. By the end of this month, we will spend (spend) a whole year on this project! It’s taking too long.

ROSA
Yes, I will jump (jump) for joy when it’s finished!

MARIA
Me too! By the way, will you go (you / go) near the post office?

ROSA
Probably. It’s not far from the dentist.

MARIA
I’ve been expecting an important parcel and I think it will arrive (arrive) by Thursday. Could you collect it for me?

ROSA
Sure, no problem. So, I will see (see) you later. Bye for now.

We use prefixes to change the meaning of a word. Prefixes do not change the part of speech (but most suffixes do).
Many prefixes give a word a meaning which is the opposite or negative of the original word. For example, we can use the prefixes dis- or un-:
- dis + appear → disappear
- un + tie → untie
Here are some common prefixes:

<table>

There are a few rules:
- We use il- instead of in- with words that begin with i:
  - il + legal → illegal
- We use im- instead of in- with words that begin with m or p:
  - im + polite → impolite
- We use ir- instead of in- with words that begin with r:
  - ir + responsible → irresponsible

Some common mistakes are:
- You must unconnect the cables first. ❌
- You must disconnect the cables first. ✔
- They expelled him for disbehaving. ❌
- They expelled him for misbehaving. ✔

Note that many words with a prefix have a base part that never exists on its own. Here are some examples:
- immediate, incontrovertible, uncalled-for

Teen sails around the world

A nineteen-year-old Australian who spent seven months at sea in her pink yacht (crossed) the finishing line of her round-the-world journey on Saturday. She (became) the youngest sailor to sail round the globe solo, non-stop and unassisted. Thousands of spectators (burst into applause as Emily Watson sailed into Sydney Harbour, the finale to an epic journey from which critics said she’d never (get down) alive.

Watson’s parents (were waiting for her when she arrived, and the teenager burst into tears; she (called off) her mum and dad for seven months.

Emily Watson, from Buderim in Queensland, had (put off) from Sydney on October 18th, ignoring comments by critics who said she was too immature and inexperienced for the journey. Her parents said that they had (given) her up to be independent and that she was well-prepared because she (grown) since she was eight.

How did Emily feel to be back home? ‘Well, I haven’t had a good meal (since seven months; I’ve been at sea, alone’. (while October; I’ve missed my friends,’ she told reporters. Is she planning another voyage? ‘First, I think (had been waiting) a nice long rest – chill out, you know. And then I’m (about to finish) my studies.’ Emily is planning to study physical education at Sydney University.

Now look at 3e on pages 58-59.
There are ten modal verbs: can, could, may, might, must, ought to, shall, should, will and would.

Modal verbs do not take -s in the third person singular.

We use a bare infinitive (= infinitive without to) after modal verbs:
You should go home early.

We form questions by inverting the modal verb and subject:
He can swim. Can he swim?

We form negatives by adding not after the modal verb. We do not use do:
I cannot swim. You shouldn't play with matches!

In tag questions and short answers, we repeat the modal verb. We do not use be or do.
You can drive, can't you? Yes, I can. / No, I can't.

Modal verbs do not normally have past forms. (But in some cases, would, could, should and might may be used as past tenses of will, can, shall and may.)

The same modal verb can sometimes be used to talk about the present, future or past.
The train might be in the station. (present)
The train might arrive late. (future)
When I called, they said that their train might be late. (past)

Modal verbs have perfect forms (modal verb + have + past participle):
You could have done better.

When a modal verb cannot be used to talk about the past, we often use another verb instead:
I must help my father. (present)
I had to help my father. (past)

We cannot use one modal verb after another:
She must can do it. X
She must be able to do it. ✓
You will can go. X
You will be able to go. ✓

The verbs have to and need (to) are often used in similar ways to modal verbs.
You have to leave now.
You need to leave now.

must and have to

- Must often expresses the speaker's opinion. We use it to talk about what the speaker feels is necessary. Have to refers to something that is necessary because someone else says so, or because of laws, rules or regulations. Compare:
  You must get your hair cut. (I think it's necessary.)
  You have to wear a uniform. (= It's a regulation.)

- Mustn't and don't have to are different: mustn't expresses prohibition; don't have to expresses lack of necessity. Compare:
  You mustn't stay here. (= You aren't allowed to stay here.)
  You don't have to stay here. (It's not necessary but you can if you want to.)

- Unlike must, have to can be used in different tenses and forms. We use it whenever must is not possible.
  I hate having to stay in on Saturdays!

need and need to

- Need to and don't need to have the same meaning as have to/don't have to:
  We need to get some sleep.
  You don't need to go.

- In negative sentences, we can also use needn't. Needn't is used like a modal verb:
  You needn't go.

- Compare didn't need to and needn't have:
  *I didn't need to get up early. (= I didn't get up early because it wasn't necessary.)
  *I needn't have got up early. (= I got up early but it wasn't necessary.)

be able to

- When talking about the past, we normally use was/were able to to talk about particular instances, often suggesting that something was achieved with difficulty:
  She was able to swim across the river although it was very wide.

- We also use will be able to to talk about things a person will be capable of doing in the future:
  If she practises, she will be able to play Chopin.

can and could

- Note that can may refer to the present or future:
  You can visit the science museum. (now or in the future)

- We also use can and could to talk about typical behaviour or events, or things that are (or were) generally true:
  It can be very cold at night.
  It could be very cold at night.

Certainty, probability and possibility

We use certain modal verbs to express certainty, probability and possibility. Here are some examples:

For will and be going to, see 2b

- We use will to express a strong probability that something is true, especially when we don’t have actual evidence at that moment:
  That'll be Maria on the phone – she said she'd call me today.

- We use must to express certainty:
  That must be Maria on the phone – she's the only person with my new number.

- We can also use have to/had to to express certainty:
  She had to be the person I saw on the train.

- We often use can/could or will/would in questions:
  Who can that be on the phone?
  Who would have phoned so late?

- We can use modal verbs to express different degrees of certainty to refer to the past, present or future:
  Don't drink it – it could/may/might be poisonous! (present)
  It could/may/might/must/can't have been poisonous. (past)
  We may/ought to/might/should get a reply tomorrow. (future)
  It could/may/might rain, so take an umbrella. (future)

- The modal verb often changes the meaning of the sentence:
  It may/might have rained. (I’m not sure.)
  It could have rained. (but luckily, it didn’t)
Other uses of modal verbs

We also use modal verbs in the following situations:

Linking words and phrases: reason and purpose because, as, since

- Because, as and since have similar meanings; they show the reason or cause of something. They come before a clause:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Clause +</th>
<th>Linking word +</th>
<th>Clause</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>

<td>because</td>
<td>it was raining.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>as</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>since</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- There is almost no difference in meaning between because, as and since but sometimes because emphasises a reason more strongly. As and since assume that the reason is obvious: I'll do it because I want to, not because I have to. As/Since everyone's here, we can begin.

- When we answer with a clause of reason alone, we can only use because: 'Why are you late?' 'Because I missed the bus.'

because of, owing to, etc.

- Because of, owing to, on account of, due to, as a result of and thanks to also show the reason or cause of something. They come before a noun or noun phrase, not a clause:

They came here looking for work owing to the wages are higher. X
They came here looking for work because the wages are higher. ✓ (because + clause)

- We use because of more often than the rest of the phrases, especially in spoken English.

- Owing to is more formal:
  Owing to lack of money, the project will not continue next year.

- Due to often comes after the verb to be:
  The crash was due to bad weather.

- We cannot use owing to after to be. We only use due to:
  The accident was due to human error. ✓

- On account of often means 'because of a problem or difficulty':
  He can't run very fast on account of his asthma.

- As a result of often means 'because of something that has already happened':
  As a result of the pilots' strike, all flights have been cancelled.

- Thanks to usually explains why something good has happened:
  Thanks to Ron and his car, we managed to get all the deliveries done on time.

in order to, so as to

- In order to and so as to express the purpose of an action. We use them before a verb.

- In order to and so as to can be more emphatic than to alone:
  She went on a diet to lose weight.
  She went on a diet in order to lose weight.
  She went on a diet so as to lose weight.

- We can use the negative forms in order not to and so as not to but we do not use not to on its own:
  They set off early not to miss their flight. X
  They set off early in order not to miss their flight. ✓
  They set off early so as not to miss their flight. ✓
in order that, so (that), etc.

We use in order that and so (that) to express the purpose of an action. We use them before a clause that contains a modal verb.

Verb + -(a)tion, -(i)tion or -sion

- We normally use suffixes to change a word to a different part of speech. We can use the suffixes -(a)tion, -(i)tion and -sion to make nouns from verbs. Many of these nouns are abstract. Sometimes we use abstract nouns to make a sentence sound more formal:

  It is important to preserve the rain forests.

  The preservation of the rain forests is important.

- Abstract nouns are uncountable:

  The omission of the victim's name was deliberate.

- Some abstract nouns also have a concrete meaning. In these cases, they can be countable:

  Your essay is full of errors and omissions.

Questions about the subject

- When we ask questions about the subject of a sentence, the word order in the question is the same as in a statement:
  - Who did build this house? X
  - Who built this house? ✓
- We often use what, who, which, whose and how many in questions about the subject.

Questions about the object

- Questions about the object need an auxiliary verb (do, have, be, etc.) before the subject:
  - Wren designed this cathedral. ✓
  - Which cathedral did Wren design? X
- We can use all question words in questions about the object.

Here is a summary of question words with examples:

Question tags

Form

- We use question tags at the end of a statement:

  It's Monday today, isn't it?

- The general pattern for using question tags is:

  - positive sentence + negative question tag
    She likes Beethoven, doesn't she?

  - negative sentence + positive question tag
    She doesn’t like Beethoven, does she?

- We form question tags with an auxiliary verb (be, have, do, etc.) + a personal pronoun (you, she, they, etc.). If there is an auxiliary verb in the statement, we repeat it in the question tag:

  You’re from Greece, aren’t you?

  They don’t speak English, do they?

- The tense of the auxiliary verb agrees with the tense of the main verb:

  She came home late, didn’t she? (past simple)

- If there is a modal verb in the statement, we repeat it in the question tag:

  It shouldn’t cost that much, should it?

Here is a summary of verbs used in question tags:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verb in statement</th>
<th>Verb in tag</th>

</table>

- After main verbs without an auxiliary verb or a modal, we use do or did in the question tag:

  She plays the piano, doesn’t she?

  You told him the truth, didn’t you?

Special cases

- The question tag for I am is aren't I? For I'm not, we use am I?

  I'm your best friend, aren't I?

- The question tag for let's is shall we? Let's surprise them, shall we?

- After imperatives, we use will you?

  Turn the sound down, will you?

- After there is/was/etc., we use there:

  There isn’t any cake left, is there?

- After somebody, someone, everybody, everyone, no one, etc., we use they:

  Everybody’s sleeping, aren’t they?

- After nothing, something and everything, we use it:

  Nothing happened, did it?
Use

We use question tags:

- when we expect the person we are speaking to agree with us:

  She's amazing, isn't she? (The speaker expects the answer ‘yes’. The speaker’s voice falls on the tag.)

- like real questions, when we are not sure about something and want to check:

  You come from Italy, don't you? (The speaker’s voice rises on the tag when it’s a ‘real’ question.)

Expressing agreement

Short answers

• We often answer yes/no questions with short answers, using an auxiliary verb:
  ‘Can you come?’ ‘Yes, I can.’

• In short answers, we repeat the auxiliary or modal verb that we use in the question:
  ‘Have you got a pet?’ ‘Yes, I have.’
  ‘Are they good friends?’ ‘Yes, they are.’
  ‘Does she like acting?’ ‘No, she doesn’t.’
  ‘Will you be there?’ ‘No, I won’t.’
  ‘Would you ever lie to your best friend?’ ‘No, I wouldn’t.’
  ‘Did you have a good time?’ ‘Yes, we did.’
  ‘Was Pete working when you got up?’ ‘No, he wasn’t.’

• The short answer for Shall we ...? is Yes, let’s./No, let’s not.
  ‘Shall we have a party?’ ‘Yes, let’s.’

Short answers with so and not

• We can also answer yes/no questions with think/be afraid/hope/suppose/etc. + so.
  ‘Is he coming with us?’ ‘I think so.’

• To give a negative answer, we use the negative form of the verb:
  ‘Is he coming with us?’ ‘I don’t think so.’

• But: after be afraid, hope and suppose, we use the affirmative form of the verb and not instead of so at the end:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Question</th>
<th>Answer</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Are they good friends?</td>
<td>I think so./I don’t think so.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do they get on?</td>
<td>I think so./I don’t think so.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do you think they’ll come to the party?</td>
<td>I hope so./I hope not.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do we have to pay?</td>
<td>I’m afraid so.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Can I come with you?</td>
<td>I’m afraid not.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Are you going to lend them the money?</td>
<td>I suppose so.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>You’re not going to help them, are you?</td>
<td>I suppose not.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Expressing agreement with so and neither

• We can use so and neither to express agreement with something.

• We use so + auxiliary/modal verb to express agreement with affirmative sentences:
  ‘Bill likes it.’ ‘So do I.’
  Bill likes it and so do I. ✓
  Bill likes it and I also. ✗

• We use neither + auxiliary/modal verb to express agreement with negative sentences:
  ‘She hasn’t got any money.’ ‘Neither have I.’
  She hasn’t got any money and neither have I. ✓
  She hasn’t got any money and I haven’t. ✗

Are you going to give me the money?

No, I’m not.
Echo questions

- We often use short questions to confirm that we have heard what the other person has said, or to show interest in what they are saying. These questions are called echo questions and they do not need an answer.
- The pattern for echo questions is:
  - positive statement → positive echo question:
    'I have been to the States.' ‘Have you?’
  - negative statement → negative echo question:
    ‘But I haven’t been to Australia.’ ‘Haven’t you?’

- The pronoun we use in the echo question agrees with the subject of the statement. For example, when the subject of the statement is an object, animal, etc., we use it in the echo question. When the subject is a group of people, things, etc., we use they:
  - ‘This bike is very expensive.’ ‘Is it?’
  - ‘United will win on Saturday.’ ‘Will they?’

- As with all questions, the auxiliary/modal verb that we use in echo questions agrees with the verb/tense in the statement:

Abstract nouns

- Abstract nouns express an idea, feeling, experience or state rather than an object, person or particular instance. Abstract nouns are uncountable:
  - There is no reliable evidence. ✓
  - There are no reliable evidences. ✗
  - They were satisfied with the new equipment. ✓
  - They were satisfied with the new equipments. ✗
- Some abstract nouns also have a concrete meaning. In these cases, they can be countable:
  - Appearances can be deceptive.
  - We should consider all her strengths and weaknesses.

-ance, -ence

- We add -ance or -ence to many verbs to form abstract nouns.
  - accept + -ance → acceptance
  - exist + -ence → existence

For abstract nouns ending in -(a)tion, -(i)tion or -sion, see 3e

- We can form abstract nouns from many adjectives that end in -ant or -ent by changing the final -t to -ce:
  - fragrant → fragrance
  - dependent → dependence

-ment

- We also add -ment to many verbs to form abstract nouns:
  - agree + -ment → agreement
- Note that many nouns ending in -ment are not abstract:
  - document, monument, ointment

-ness

- We add -ness to many adjectives to form abstract nouns:
  - good + -ness → goodness
- Some of these nouns can be countable:
  - Their suggested plan has both strengths and weaknesses.

-th

- We use -th with numbers (except 1, 2 and 3), to form ordinal numbers:
  - fourth, fifteenth, eightieth
- We also use -th to form abstract nouns, often connected with size or qualities:
  - growth, warmth

Here are some examples of abstract nouns with the suffixes -ance, -ence, -ment, -ness and -th:

The SWOT analysis
These are hard times: unemployment is growing and it is particularly high amongst young people. Economic slowing down, so it's getting more and more difficult to find a job. People often reach their birthday without ever having had a regular job and this can lead to depression or lack of confidence. But there are strategies which can help you cope.

I have found the SWOT test really useful. It's a planning method that is often used in training but I've found it helpful in problem-solving generally. All you need is a piece of paper, a pencil and a little patience! First of all, the 'S': make a list of your strengths - you've probably got more of these than you realise. They may include, for example, your qualifications, creativity or patience. Then make a second list with your weaknesses; for example, lack of experience or reluctance to accept new ideas. Then, the 'O': think of all the opportunities for finding work, for example job and social networking sites. Finally, the 'T' in SWOT: threats; for example, competition. Good luck!

‘There is nothing which we receive with so much reluctance as advice.’ JOSEPH ADDISON
The mystery of the Marie Celeste

We caught sight of the Marie Celeste drifting in the mid-Atlantic on December 5th, 1872. The ship looked damaged, (0)______ the captain said that the three of us would (1)______ to board her at once in order to investigate and (2)______ back any information we (3)______ get hold of. We were (4)______ to climb on board without too much difficulty but we couldn’t see any sign of life anywhere. (5)______ the ship’s small lifeboat was missing, we all thought the crew had abandoned ship. Some navigational instruments which a ship of that kind should (6)______ had on board were also missing. The crew (7)______ have had much time to abandon ship (8)______ they hadn’t taken any of their personal belongings with them. We found the ship’s log and (9)______ we were able to find a lot of useful information – it really helped us in our (10)______. The last time the captain of the Marie Celeste had written something in the ship’s log was November 21st. Something must have taken (11)______ between this date and December 5th. The captain, Benjamin Briggs, had a lot of experience of the high seas, so what had forced him to (12)______ the decision to abandon ship in the middle of nowhere?

Part 2

For questions 13-24, read the text below and think of the word which best fits each gap. Use only one word in each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

Testing times

We always take a lot of tests at school and although I am generally a good student, I don’t do very well in exams. I don’t know why. I generally all my homework and I am very accurate but in tests I a lot of mistakes. I always do best, but I get very nervous and as a I don’t think very clearly. After the test, I can usually correct my own mistakes, so it can’t be because I don’t know enough – it must something to do the lack of confidence I feel in exam situations. If I am to answer all the questions at home but not under exam conditions, the problem be stress related. If students receive poorer marks due stress, wouldn’t it be a good idea to have fewer exams? Do schools really to test us all the time in to find out how much we know? Surely there are other ways.
Part 3
For questions 25-34, read the text below. Use the word given in capitals at the end of some of the lines to form a word that fits in the gap in the same line. There is an example at the beginning (0).

I have been unemployed for a year. I’ve sent dozens of job applications, with a detailed CV listing all my experiences, but I still haven’t received a single phone call or invitation to attend an interview. Sometimes employers don’t even bother to reply to my emails. I know there’s a lot of competition and that is really hard to find but I do have a Master’s Degree in Energy and Environmental Studies.

For my dissertation, I did original research into energy conservation in buildings. On the course, we also studied ways of saving animals in danger of extinction. So, I would be ideally suited to a position in a construction company or an ecological organisation.

Although it is true that I am inexperienced, it isn’t my fault I have never had a job. I actually like work: I think one of my personal strengths is my enthusiasm and my commitment to the environment. I’m approaching my fortieth birthday now and I’m beginning to wonder if I will ever find a job.
Part 4

For questions 35-42, complete the second sentence so that it has a similar meaning to the first sentence, using the word given. Do not change the word given. You must use between two and five words, including the word given. Here is an example (0).

Example:

0 She put on thick socks because she wanted to keep warm.

Conditional sentences have two parts: the conditional clause, which begins with if (or other words such as when, unless, etc.), and the main clause. Conditional sentences follow basic patterns.

See also: 5b

Zero conditional

- We use the zero conditional to talk about things that are always or generally true as a result of an action.
- To form zero conditional sentences, we use:

  \[ \text{if} + \text{present simple} \rightarrow \text{present simple:} \]

  When water freezes, it turns to ice. If you mix red and blue, you get purple.
- The conditional clause can come before or after the main clause. When it comes first, we put a comma after it:

  When I travel by boat, I often get sick. I often get sick when I travel by boat.

First conditional

- We use the first conditional to talk about possible actions or events in the future.
- To form first conditional sentences, we use:

  \[ \text{if} + \text{present simple} \rightarrow \text{will + infinitive:} \]

  If it rains, we'll stay at home.
- Other structures are also possible in first conditional sentences:
  - \[ \text{if} + \text{present simple} \rightarrow \text{modal verb} \]
  If you promise to behave yourself, you can come.
  - \[ \text{if} + \text{present simple} \rightarrow \text{be going to} \]
  If you don't work hard, you're going to fail.
  - \[ \text{if} + \text{present simple} \rightarrow \text{imperative} \]
  If you need anything, just ask.
  - \[ \text{if} + \text{present continuous} \rightarrow \text{will/modal verb/imperative} \]
  If you're leaving, I'll come with you.
  - \[ \text{if} + \text{present perfect} \rightarrow \text{will/modal verb/imperative} \]
  If you've finished your homework, you can go out.
  - \[ \text{if} + \text{present perfect continuous} \rightarrow \text{will/modal verb/imperative} \]
  If she's been waiting for ages, she may get worried.
  - \[ \text{imperative + and/or} \rightarrow \text{will/modal verb} \]
  Eat less and you'll lose weight.
  - We can also use the following words and phrases in first conditional sentences:
    - (just) in case: This means ‘because it is possible that’ and it usually comes after the main clause:
      Ann will bring you a coat in case it gets cold.
    - provided/providing (that), as long as: These phrases mean ‘on condition that’:
      Provided you rest, you'll feel better soon.
    - unless: This means ‘if not’:
      If you don’t leave now, you’ll be late. → Unless you leave now, you’ll be late.

Second conditional

- We use the second conditional to talk about unlikely events or situations in the future, or improbable/impossible events or situations in the present.
- To form second conditional sentences, we use:

  \[ \text{if} + \text{past simple} + \text{would} + \text{infinitive:} \]

  If I had enough money, I would retire.
- In the main clause, we can also use could or might instead of would:
  If I lost my job, I might go abroad for a while.
- In the if clause, we can use were instead of was:
  I’d quit my job if I were rich.
Complete the sentences. Use the correct form of the verbs in brackets.

1. If she \( \text{phones} \) (phone), I’ll let you know.
2. If I \( \text{not be} \) (not be) busy, I’ll come.
3. If he \( \text{be} \) (be) careful, he wouldn’t break so many things!
4. If we didn’t have to work late, we \( \text{join} \) (join) you.
5. Unless you \( \text{stop} \) (stop) wasting time, I’m leaving right now!
6. I can’t help you if you \( \text{not give} \) (not give) me more information.
7. If a fire \( \text{start} \) (start), the alarm goes off.
8. You \( \text{should / make} \) (should / make) your own food if you don’t like my cooking!
9. \( \text{take} \) (take) more exercise and you’ll feel much better soon.
10. If it wasn’t raining, we \( \text{go} \) (go) for a walk.

Write two sentences for each item.

1. likely: If we leave at eight, we’ll arrive on time.
   less likely: If we left at eight, we’d arrive on time.
2. likely: If I \( \text{not be busy} \) (not be busy), I’d pick you up.
   less likely: If I weren’t busy, I’d pick you up.
3. likely: If you \( \text{fall} \) (fall), you’d break your leg.
   less likely: If you fall, you’d break your leg.
4. likely: If we \( \text{not leave} \) (not leave) now, we’d be late.
   less likely: If we didn’t leave now, we’d be late.
5. likely: If you \( \text{get the job} \) (get the job), we’d have a party.
   less likely: If you get the job, we’d have a party.
6. likely: If the questions \( \text{be easy} \) (be easy), everyone’d pass the test.
   less likely: If the questions were easy, everyone’d pass the test.

Complete the second sentence so that it has a similar meaning to the first sentence, using the word given. Use between two and five words. Do not change the word given.

1. likely: She \( \text{have} \) (have) a secretary.
   less likely: She \( \text{wouldn’t have} \) (wouldn’t have) to do this herself if she had a secretary.
2. likely: I’ll let you borrow my laptop if you promise to be careful.
   less likely: You can borrow my laptop \( \text{long} \) (long) to be careful.
3. likely: If we win the elections, we will build more schools.
   less likely: We will build more schools \( \text{provided} \) (provided) the elections.
4. likely: They won’t let you into the theatre without a ticket.
   less likely: They won’t let you into the theatre \( \text{unless} \) (unless) a ticket.
5. likely: Bring your sun cream because we may decide to go for a swim.
   less likely: Bring your sun cream \( \text{case} \) (case) to go for a swim.
Third conditional

- We use the third conditional to talk about events that were possible in the past but did not happen.
- To form third conditional sentences, we use: if + past perfect + would have + past participle:
  * If Bruce had asked me, I would have said yes.
  * If I hadn't become a teacher, I would have liked to be an actor.
- Notice how changing the clauses from positive to negative changes the meaning:
  * If I had taken an umbrella, I wouldn't have got wet. (= I did get wet.)
  * If I hadn't taken an umbrella, I would have got wet. (= I didn't get wet.)
- Both clauses can be negative:
  * They wouldn't have missed their plane if they hadn't overslept. (= They did oversleep and they did miss their plane.)
- In the main clause, we can use could or might instead of would:
  * If you'd asked, I could have told you the answer.
  * I might have got the job if I had applied for it.

Mixed conditionals

Sometimes we use the second and third conditionals in the same sentence. We call these sentences mixed conditional sentences and we use them when a past event has an effect on the present. The conditional clause (third conditional) refers to the past and the main clause (second conditional) refers to the present or future. Compare the following sentences:

* If you hadn't invited me, I wouldn't have gone to the party. (third conditional; I did go to the party.)
* If you hadn't invited me, I wouldn't be here now. (third conditional + second conditional; I'm here now.)

Practice

1. Complete the sentences. Use the correct form of the verbs in brackets.

   0. If you ___________ (come) to the theatre yesterday, you ___________ (enjoy) the play.
   1. If I ___________ (come) to Athens last year, I ___________ (visit) you.
   2. If we ___________ (know) you already had tickets, we ___________ (not get) any for you.
   3. If you ___________ (not destroy) my computer, I ___________ (not need) a new one now!
   4. If you ___________ (not leave) the party so early on Saturday, you ___________ (might / meet) Joe.
   5. If you ___________ (not spend) all your money, your father ___________ (not be) angry now.
   6. I ___________ (could / become) an accountant if I ___________ (be) good at maths.
   7. If she ___________ (try) harder, she ___________ (get) that promotion last year.
   8. He ___________ (not get) the job if he ___________ (miss) his interview.
   9. If I ___________ (meet) you before, my life ___________ (be) different now.
   10. If he ___________ (not see) that car, there ___________ (be) an accident.
Write third conditional sentences.

0 I felt tired. I went to bed early.
   If I hadn’t felt tired, I wouldn’t have gone to bed early.

1 I didn’t have enough money. I didn’t take a taxi.
   If I had enough money, I would have taken a taxi.

2 I wasn’t interested in the film. I didn’t go to the cinema.
   If I had been interested, I would have gone to the cinema.

3 We took the wrong turning. We arrived late.
   If we hadn’t taken the wrong turning, we would have arrived on time.

4 Romeo thought Juliet was dead. He committed suicide.
   If Romeo hadn’t thought Juliet was dead, he wouldn’t have committed suicide.

5 Oliver lied. He was punished.
   If Oliver hadn’t lied, he wouldn’t have been punished.

6 I didn’t go to the wedding. I wasn’t invited.
   If I had been invited, I would have gone to the wedding.

7 I was afraid of the dark. I didn’t go downstairs.
   If I hadn’t been afraid of the dark, I would have gone downstairs.

8 You didn’t train hard enough. You didn’t win.
   If you had trained harder, you would have won.

9 He didn’t apologise. She didn’t forgive him.
   If he had apologised, she would have forgiven him.

10 She didn’t have a car. She had to take a taxi.
    If she had had a car, she wouldn’t have had to take a taxi.

Complete the article. Use one word in each gap.

The millennium bug

If you were around at the end of 1999, you’ve probably heard about the ‘millennium bug’ affecting the world’s computer systems and its catastrophic effects. We waited and nothing happened. But what would have happened if there really had a millennium bug? Some experts claimed that it [ ] have created chaos on the Internet, the whole system would have collapsed and all kinds of disasters would [ ] followed: there [ ] have been massive power failures, telephones would [ ] stopped working, banks [ ] have closed and so on.

What will happen if there [ ] a similar bug in the future? Experts say that it is unlikely, but [ ] it did happen, it [ ] pose a serious problem. And if it happened unexpectedly, technicians [ ] not have time to take the necessary action to prevent all possible problems. It is an unlikely scenario but [ ] we plan ahead, we may live to find out.
wish, if only

wish + past simple/continuous
- We use wish + past simple/continuous to express our dissatisfaction with present situations:
  - I wish I was tall. (= but I’m not)
  - I wish I was going on holiday with you. (= but I’m not)
  - Harry wishes his brother were here. (= but he isn’t)
- We can use were instead of was after wish:
  - I wish I were tall.
- We often use wish + could to talk about things we are unable to do:
  - I wish I could help you. ✓
  - I wish I would help you. ✗

wish + would
- We often use wish + would to express our dissatisfaction and annoyance about something that we would like to be different:
  - I wish this car would go faster!
  - I wish you would stop talking! ✓
  - I wish you to stop talking! ✗
  - I wish they would stop arguing. ✓
  - I wish they will stop arguing. ✗

wish + past perfect
- We use wish + past perfect to express regret about the past:
  - I wish I hadn’t taken your advice. (= but I did)
- We can also use wish + could have + past participle:
  - I wish she could have come. (= but she didn’t)

Here is a summary of the patterns we use with wish:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Pattern after I wish</th>
<th>Time reference</th>
<th>Example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Past simple</td>
<td>present</td>
<td>I wish I knew the answer. (= I don’t)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Past continuous</td>
<td>present</td>
<td>I wish I was/were going with you. (= I’m not)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>could</td>
<td>present</td>
<td>I wish I could give you an answer. (= I can’t)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>would</td>
<td>present/future</td>
<td>I wish you would be quiet! (= Be quiet!)</td>

<td>She wishes she had known us then. (= she didn’t)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>could have + past participle</td>
<td>past</td>
<td>I wish I could have explained. (= I wasn’t able to)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

if only
If only can be used in the same way as wish. It is usually more emphatic. The patterns after if only are the same as those after wish:
- If only I had more money. (= but I don’t)
- If only I was going with you. (= but I’m not)
- If only you could come, too. (= but you can’t)
- If only the sun would come out!
- If only I had listened to you. (= but I didn’t)
- If only he could have joined us. (= he wasn’t able to)
Complete the sentences. Use the correct form of the verbs in brackets.

<td>I hope you’re coming with us.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hope + to-infinitive</td>
<td>want to do sth</td>
<td>I hope to see you on Saturday.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- Want can have a direct object immediately after it. We cannot use wish or hope in this way:
  - I want a drink. ✓
  - I wish a drink. x
  - I hope a drink. x

- We can use wish and hope (but not want) with a that clause:
  - I hope (that) you will be happy. ✓
  - I wish (that) you could be happy. ✓
  - I want (that) you are happy. x

Teen trends

According to a new poll, the most popular leisure time activity for teenagers is watching TV. Nine out of ten teens said they are very keen on watching TV and do so for several hours every day. Teens also enjoy going to music and are particularly fond of MP3s, which is how most young people listen to music.

After school, kids forward to going home and surfing the Internet or video games, sometimes for hours. One of the most popular free time activities is, of course, going out with friends – teens can’t for the weekend to come so they can sit around in cafés, chilling out. They are also very keen going to the cinema with friends – but not with parents! Every teen wants have lots of friends to hang out with but it’s not cool to go out with parents – teens can’t bear be seen with their parents in public.

Finally, teens wait impatiently the school year to be over so they can go on holiday, and ninety percent wish they go on holiday with their friends rather than their mum and dad.
We have seen that we use prefixes to change the meaning of a word. Prefixes do not change the part of speech (but most suffixes do).

Many prefixes give a word a meaning which is the opposite or negative of the original word. For example, we can use the prefixes dis-, in- or un-. Other prefixes change the meaning of a word in different ways. For example: multi- + ethnic → multi-ethnic (= made up of many different ethnic groups)

Grammar

6a Time and condition clauses with future reference

When we talk about the future, we often use time words or phrases like when, after, as soon as, etc., or words/phrases describing a condition (for example whether, as long as, etc.). We use the present simple (not will) after these words and phrases.

Time clauses

Here are some time words and phrases we use in future time clauses:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Pattern</th>
<th>Meaning/Use</th>
<th>Example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>after + present simple</td>
<td>when sth has happened</td>
<td>I’ll see you after I get back from my holiday.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>as soon as + present simple</td>
<td>immediately after</td>
<td>As soon as he arrives at the hotel, call a taxi.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>before + present simple</td>
<td>earlier than</td>
<td>Finish your work before Mum gets home.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>by the time + present simple</td>
<td>during the time before sth happens</td>
<td>He will have left by the time you get there.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>once + present simple</td>
<td>from the time when sth happens</td>
<td>Once she arrives, we’ll start.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>suppose/supposing + present simple</td>
<td>imagine that</td>
<td>Supposing she asks for your help, what will you do?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>until + present simple</td>
<td>up to the point in time that</td>
<td>I won’t leave until you tell me what happened.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>when + present simple</td>
<td>at or during the time that</td>
<td>I’ll call you when I’m free.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>whenever + present simple</td>
<td>at any time</td>
<td>Phone me whenever it’s convenient.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>while + present simple</td>
<td>during the time that</td>
<td>Let’s forget about work while we’re on holiday.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- We can use the present perfect instead of the present simple to refer to an action that will be complete in the future:
  I’ll take up gardening as soon as I’ve retired.

- Sometimes there is a change in meaning. Compare:
  When I phone Mary, I’ll ask her. (= I’ll phone Mary and ask her at the same time.)
  When I’ve phoned Mary, I’ll let you know. (= First I’ll phone Mary and then I’ll let you know.)

- We can use the present continuous after while, to refer to an action that will be in progress in the future:
  I’ll go for a walk while they’re having lunch.

- We can use the past simple after suppose/supposing, to talk about unlikely or imaginary events in the future:
  Supposing you failed, would you try again?
Condition clauses

</tr>
<tr>
<td>as/so long as + present simple</td>
<td>only if</td>
<td>I'll come as long as you pay.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(just) in case + present simple</td>
<td>because it is possible that *</td>
<td>Take an umbrella in case it rains.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>on condition that +</td>
<td>only if</td>
<td>I'll lend you the money on condition that you pay me back by Friday.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>present simple</td>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>unless + present simple</td>
<td>if not</td>
<td>We won't go for a walk unless it's sunny.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>regardless of + present simple</td>
<td>used to say that something will</td>
<td>Whether we win or not depends on how hard we train.</td>

What to do in a tsunami

Tsunamis are a mass of sea waves that are usually caused by an earthquake in the floor of the sea. (0) Once the tsunami reaches the coast and hits shallow water, the height of the waves will rise rapidly and cause destruction to the land near the shore where it hits. Whether you survive a tsunami or (1) could depend on following these simple instructions.

(2) the earthquake that causes the tsunami occurs far out in the ocean, there should be plenty of time to find somewhere safe to go. If, however, the earthquake (3) close to shore, there may only be minutes between the earthquake and the arrival of the first wave. As (4) as you feel the ground shake and you know an earthquake has occurred, go to high ground immediately. (5) that you are at least fifty feet above sea level, you should be clear of any waves that are heading your way. Wait there (6) the crisis is over.

Do not return to shore – stay where you are (7) case there are more waves coming – do not assume that it is safe to return to shore because the first wave is over. As long (8) you are on high ground, you should be safe.

‘As soon as you start talking sense, people will say you’re an old fool.’

More future forms

We can use different ways to talk about the future in English. Here are some more future forms:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Form</th>
<th>Meaning/Use</th>
<th>Example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>be about to + infinitive</td>
<td>be going to do sth very soon</td>
<td>The train is about to leave. Let's hurry.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>be due to + infinitive</td>
<td>be expected to do sth already arranged</td>
<td>She is due to start her new job next week.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>be to + infinitive</td>
<td>be expected to do sth arranged or officially ordered</td>
<td>The Pope is to visit Cuba this month.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>be not to + infinitive</td>
<td>be expected or ordered not to do sth</td>
<td>You are not to begin until I give the order.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>be on the verge of (doing) sth</td>
<td>be at the point where sth is about to happen</td>
<td>They are on the verge of signing a new contract.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>be on the point of (doing) sth</td>
<td>be going to do sth very soon</td>
<td>We were on the point of giving up hope.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

We also often use the following words when we talk about the future. They are usually followed by the present simple:

- whatever, whoever, whenever, wherever, however:
  Wherever you go, I'll follow.
  However hard he tries, he'll fail.
- no matter what/who/etc.:
  No matter what she says, they won't believe her.

Polly: pop music phenomenon

Polly is just twenty-three years old and she's already sold millions of albums. Now she is about to make pop music history. She's already got two singles in the top twenty and she is on the verge of getting a third single in the charts. No other solo artist has ever achieved this – not even Madonna. Polly has won three Grammy Awards. She is soon to be awarded her fourth Grammy for Best Female Pop Vocal Performance.

She is to fly to China next week, where she will give her first concert ever in Beijing. Polly performs – whether it is in China, Europe or the USA – she causes a sensation.

Now her career is about to get another boost when she appears on a popular music show in the USA next month. While in the States, she is to meet the President of the USA in the White House. And that's not all: Polly is on the point of signing a new contract – this time to star in a Hollywood film as a country singer! Filming is due to start in the autumn of next year.

What next for Polly? She does, she will continue to attract media attention. And no matter she does, millions of fans around the world will continue to follow her.

So there I am, sitting in my seat, on the verge of a nervous breakdown. 'We are about to leave,' says the man next to me, grinning. The noise of the engines is deafening and I'm on the point of being sick. The steward bends over me and says, 'We're due to take off soon, sir. Would you like sweets or cotton wool?' 'I'd rather have the cotton wool, please,' I reply. 'Sweets always fall out of my ears.'
Expressions of time and preference

it’s time
- We can talk about what we think should happen using it’s time in the following patterns:
  - it’s time + to-infinitive:
    - It’s time to go to bed. ✓
    - It’s time we go to bed. ✗
  - it’s time for + noun:
    - It’s time for bed.
  - it’s time for + sb + to-infinitive:
    - It’s time for you to go to bed.
  - In the following patterns, we use it’s time with a past tense to refer to things that we think should happen now or very soon:
    - it’s time + sb + past simple:
      - It’s time you went to bed. ✓
      - It’s time you will go to bed. ✗
    - it’s time + sb + past continuous:
      - It’s time we were leaving.
    - it’s high time + past simple (or past continuous for emphasis):
      - It’s high time we left.
      - It’s high time you were earning your own living!
    - it’s about time + past simple (or past continuous for emphasis), often suggesting criticism:
      - It’s about time we took global warming seriously.

would rather
- We use would rather to express preference, in the following patterns:
  - would rather + infinitive (+ than + infinitive)
    - I’d rather stay in. ✓
    - I’d rather to stay in. ✗
    - I’d rather stay in than go out with Nick. Would you rather go with them or stay with me?
  - would rather + sb + past simple:
    - I’d rather you stayed a little longer. ✓
    - I’d rather you to stay a little longer. ✗
    - I’d rather Anne didn’t come to the meeting.
  - We also use would rather to express criticism – to talk about something we think should have been done differently in the past. We use it in the following pattern: would rather + sb + past perfect:
    - I’d rather you had asked me before buying that shirt. (= but you didn’t) would sooner

We use would sooner in the same way as would rather. It follows the same patterns:
- I’d sooner die than marry Ted!
- I’d sooner you didn’t wait for us.

would prefer
We use would prefer to express preference, in the following patterns:
- would prefer + to-infinitive:
  - She’d prefer not to watch the film.
- would prefer + to-infinitive + rather than + infinitive/-ing:
  - I’d prefer to stay in rather than go out/going out with Nick.
- would prefer + sb + to-infinitive:
  - We’d prefer you to stay.
  - I’d prefer you not to come.
- would prefer it if + sb + past simple:
  - She’d prefer it if you didn’t come.

Vocabulary

afterwards, after, until, as far as, etc.

afterwards

- Afterwards is an adverb. It means ‘following the event that has just been mentioned’:
  The play lasts for two hours. Afterwards, you can meet the actors.
- We can also use afterwards at the end of a sentence, to mean ‘later’:
  We left at six. Carol arrived shortly afterwards.

afterwards and then

- When we are talking about an action that follows another action, we can use either afterwards or then:
  We all had lunch together. Then/Afterwards we went to the beach.
- To introduce the next step in a series of instructions, we usually use then:
  Check that the paper is properly loaded. Then press the start button. Then …

afterwards and later (on)

- Afterwards often suggests that the second event occurs quite soon after the first one has finished:
  I went to see Adrian in the morning. Afterwards, I drove into town to do some shopping.
- If there is a longer interval between the two events, we usually use (much) later or later on:
  I couldn’t understand why she hadn’t answered my letters. Later, I realised she’d moved house.
  I saw a woman on the stairs. Later on, I found out that she was my neighbour.
  My main aim is to graduate. Afterwards, I’d like to go and work in Canada.

after and in

- We can use after as a preposition, to mean ‘following something’. In this case, after is followed by a time word or phrase (e.g. after a week):
  After a few days, I felt much better.
  She left after an hour.
- We cannot use after on its own. It is followed by a time word or phrase, or a noun. We can also use after that (= afterwards):
  We’re leaving after lunch.
  I’m hoping to visit the States. After that/Afterwards, I’d like to travel to Mexico.
  I’m hoping to visit the States. After, I’d like to travel to Mexico.
- Compare the use of after and in:
  She left after five minutes.
  She’ll be leaving in an hour.

by and until/till

- We use by for an action that happens before or no later than a certain time:
  Could you let us know your decision by Friday?
- We use until/till for an action continuing up to the time mentioned:
  Let’s wait here until the rain stops.

until/till, to and as far as

- We use until/till in connection with time:
  The shops are open until six.
  I’ll be here until five.
- We use as far (as) to talk about direction towards or distance from a place. We use to to mean ‘towards and stopping at a particular place’:
  Do you know which bus goes to Marble Arch?
  We went as far as London.
Choose the correct answer.

0 She had her baby in June. Not long after, she resigned.
1 I have to submit my report by the end of the month.
2 They came in June and left two months later.
3 We had a quick coffee and then went shopping.
4 Owen arrived after five minutes.
5 We stayed at the library until it closed.
6 I saw him enter the bank at about one o’clock. Ten minutes later, he ran out with a bag full of money.
7 We need your response by tonight.
8 You can stay by the weekend.
9 Afterwards a few hours, the mist cleared.

My first encounter with Dracula

I had been riding all day and it had already got dark. I was on my way to Count Dracula’s castle but I had only got as far as the first village. I wanted to get my destination before midnight. The mountain was steep and the forest all around was black and silent. Suddenly, I heard a strange sound in the distance. A few seconds, I heard a terrible howl and realised that there were wolves in the forest. I was beginning to wish I had stopped at the village inn and waited morning before continuing with my journey but I had been hoping to reach the castle just eleven – no later than midnight. In his letter, the Count had said he would wait up. a while, I came to a fork in the road. On my left, through the trees, I could see the castle. Excited, I took the road that led Dracula’s castle. Soon, I was outside the gate. I knocked and waited. a few seconds, I heard a key turning. The door opened and I saw him. ‘Good evening,’ he said. ‘Come in. I have been waiting for you. We’ll have some wine and after I’ll show you to your room.’ I made polite conversation with the count for an hour or so and I was shown upstairs. I was so tired I slept midday the next day.

EXAM TIPS
Taking exams is tough. But examiners are not insensitive people, (0) ............ candidates may think. Most examiners are ordinary people who do their best to pass candidates, as (1) ............ as candidates follow certain basic rules of the exam process. (2) ............ you know what is expected of you, you (3) ............ well.

First of all, you (4) ............ know how much time to spend on each question (5) ............ you look at the whole paper first. So, before you (6) ............ the test, make sure you know what is expected of you.

Do not start writing as (7) ............ as you get the paper: think first, (8) .............. write. Secondly, you are unlikely to do well unless you (9) ............. ALL the questions. And if you (10) ............ the instructions carefully, you will slip up. Thirdly, make sure you have an eraser (11) ............ you need to correct your mistakes. Finally, remember that (12) ............ your answer is right or not, the examiner cannot give you a mark for it if your handwriting is illegible!

EXAM PRACTICE 3

Part 2

For questions 13-24, read the text below and think of the word which best fits each gap. Use only one word in each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

DIGITAL NOISE

We live in a time of constant digital noise. Take the mobile phone. First, there are all those silly ringtones which keep going off (0)............................... you happen to be: on the bus, in the train, in the cinema - everywhere. It's (13)............................... time something was done about it.

I don't dislike mobile phones; on the contrary, I'm very fond (14)............................... mine, and if I didn't have it, I (15)............................... feel lost. However, I wish people (16)............................... not force complete strangers to listen to their endless mobile chats; (17)............................... only they'd realise how annoying this is! I used to (18)............................... forward to going places by train until the mobile phone appeared on the scene. Now every morning, on my way (19)............................... work, I have to listen to people's private conversations! I can't (20)............................... listening to people chatting to their friends! If only they (21)............................... something important to say! I can't bear (22)............................... to this junk. I (23)............................... sooner buy a car (24)............................... have to put up with this noise any more. I just hate noise pollution!
Part 3

For questions 25-34, read the text below. Use the word given in capitals at the end of some of the lines to form a word that fits in the gap in the same line. There is an example at the beginning (0).

AYRTON SENNA

Ayrton Senna da Silva, the great Brazilian racing driver, was born in Santana, a poor part of São Paulo, in 1960. Senna developed an interest in cars at an early age. He entered his first karting event at the age of thirteen, and in 1977 he won the South American kart champion. At the time of his tragic death in 1994, he had already achieved his reputation as a great sports champion. Although Senna is remembered for his achievements in Formula One, for some people, his personal life was more important than his genius on the track. As Senna became more famous, he never forgot the poverty of so many children in Brazil. He used his personal wealth to help people less fortunate than himself. Shortly before his death, he founded an organisation dedicated to poor Brazilian children. Both as an athlete and as a philanthropist, he is an inspiration to young people everywhere.
Part 4

For questions 35-42, complete the second sentence so that it has a similar meaning to the first sentence, using the word given. Do not change the word given. You must use between two and five words, including the word given. Here is an example (0).

- We do not usually use the passive in the present perfect continuous, the past perfect continuous, the future continuous or the future perfect continuous:
  - We will be being watched. ✗
  - They will be watching us. ✔

- We form passive questions and negative sentences in the same way as in the active:
  - When are important subjects usually discussed?
  - Experiments are not carried out in this room.

- In passive sentences, we place adverbs of frequency, time, etc. (e.g. always, sometimes, just, etc.) after the first auxiliary verb (is, has, will, etc.):
  - It is usually made of wood.
  - They have just been found.
  - She will never be forgotten.

Cardholders should know that even if their card details (12)................. (skim), they will not lose out. This is good news for members of the public.
The passive: use, agent

Use

We often use the passive in the following situations:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Use</th>
<th>Example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>when it is obvious or not important to say who did the action</td>
<td>He has just been arrested. A cure has just been found.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>to avoid using a vague subject (e.g. they, someone)</td>
<td>The job will be finished by tonight.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>to describe a process</td>
<td>The beans are separated from the shells and then they are put into sacks.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>in official announcements</td>
<td>Fees must be paid in advance.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>in scientific texts</td>
<td>The liquid is heated to a temperature of 90°C.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>in written reports</td>
<td>The meeting was held on 21 January.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- We often use the passive with verbs like think, suggest, believe, expect, know, etc. in the following patterns:
  - it + passive + that clause
    It was reported that five people died in the accident.
  - subject + passive + to-infinitive
    She is thought to be one of the world’s finest cellists.
  - The structure be supposed to has a different meaning from be thought to:
    She’s supposed to be your friend. (= but she isn’t behaving like a friend)
  - When an active verb has two objects, either object can be the subject of the passive sentence:
    They gave him some money. (= active)
    He was given some money.
    Some money was given to him.
  - It is, however, more common for the indirect object (usually a person) to become the subject of the passive sentence:
    They gave us more time to finish the project.
    We were given more time to finish the project.
    More time was given to us to finish the project. (= possible but less common)
  - Intransitive verbs (verbs that do not take an object) are never used in the passive:
    The job seemed easy at first. ✓
    The job was seemed easy at first. ✗

Agent

- In passive sentences, we often don’t mention the doer of the action (the agent). We are more interested in the action itself. If, however, we want to mention the agent, we use by:
  This book was written by Christopher Wallace.
- If we want to mention a tool or instrument that was used for the action, we use with:
  The victim was killed with a knife.
- We only mention the agent when it adds important information to the sentence. If the agent is unknown, unimportant or obvious, we omit it:
  He was fined for driving without a licence. (It is clear who fined him: the police. We do not mention the agent.)
  The suspect was interviewed by Detective Smith. (The agent adds important information to the sentence.)
- We also omit the agent when we want to avoid saying who was responsible for an action:
  I’ve been told not to say anything.
Practice

1. Complete the sentences. Use by or with.

   0. This church was designed by Christopher Wren.
   1. The dog had been shot by a hunter.
   2. A decision to strike was taken by some of the workers.

   7. Someone gave them a lot of money.

      They were given a lot of money.
      They were given a lot of money by someone.
   8. They’ve just sent me an email.

      I’ve been sent an email.
      They’ve sent me an email.
Complete the second sentence so that it has a similar meaning to the first sentence, using the word given. Use between two and five words. Do not change the word given.

'I am informed from many quarters that a rumour has been put about that I died this morning. This is quite untrue.' Winston Churchill
The causative

have/get something done

- The pattern for the causative form is have/get + object + past participle:

  I'm having my house decorated at the moment.

  You ought to get your blood pressure checked.

- We use the causative form when we arrange for somebody else to do something for us:

  We've just had the air-conditioning installed. (= We didn’t do it ourselves. Somebody else did it for us.)

- We also use the causative form to talk about something unpleasant. In this case, we use have but not get:

  I had my wallet stolen last night. ✓

  I got my wallet stolen last night. ✗

  He had his house broken into last week. ✓

  He got his house broken into last week. ✗

- Sometimes, have/get something done suggests the need to deal with a difficulty:

  I’m afraid you’ll have to get the whole house rewired.

have somebody do something, get somebody to do something

We use the following patterns to mean ‘make, persuade or cause someone to do something’:

- have + sb + infinitive

  Shall I have my secretary send you the details?

  I'll have my assistant bring you a copy.

- get + sb + to-infinitive

  Shall I get my secretary to send you the details?

  I'll get my assistant to bring you a copy.

get + past participle

We often use get + past participle to mean ‘become’:

She got dressed and went downstairs.

My dog got run over by a van.
1 Complete the conversations. Use the causative form of have and the verbs in brackets.

0 A: Your hair looks nice.
   B: Thanks, I have just had it cut.
   (just / it / cut)

1 A: I'm finding it difficult to read small print nowadays.
   B: Why don't you go and ... (your eyes / test)?

2 A: What a lovely dress!
   B: Thanks, I make it for my birthday last year.

3 A: My car's been making some funny noises lately.
   B: You should service it.

4 A: I'm freezing!
   B: We really need to install central heating.

5 A: The living room looks lovely.
   B: I'm glad you like it. We redecorate.
   (just / it / redecorate).

6 A: Why aren't you wearing your watch?
   B: Actually, I repair it at the moment.

7 A: Oops! Sorry, I've just spilt my coffee on the tablecloth!
   B: Don't worry. I was going to dry-clean it anyway.

8 A: That tree is blocking the view from my front window.
   B: Well, you don't expect me to cut it down, do you?

9 A: I've got a terrible toothache!
   B: Well, you really should fill that cavity.

10 A: We build a swimming pool last weekend.

2 Complete the text. Use one word in each gap.

Well, we had our house broken into last week. It was awful – they wrecked the place. Not only did we take things, not only did I my beautiful iPhone and camera, but a lot of things also broken as they searched the house. Some of the windows smashed as they tried to break in, so now we've got to get all the damage.

So we've decided to give the house a complete makeover. We're going to the whole house redecorated. The first place we're going to start is the living room. We're going to have repainted. I want to have one of the walls green, something I've always wanted. I'll also get my housemate build a new TV stand and CD tower – both green, of course!

Since the burglary, I've also become more active in the community and have campaigned to new surveillance cameras installed in our street. This means a lot of trees will chopped down to make people's houses visible to the camera but it is a small sacrifice compared with the safety and security of our homes.

WAITER: How would you like to have your eggs cooked, sir?

CUSTOMER: Is there any difference in the price?

WAITER: No, sir.

CUSTOMER: Then please have the chef cook them with ham, potatoes and sausages.

Compound nouns

Form

- A compound noun consists of two or three words that function like one word.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Form</th>
<th>Example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>noun + noun</td>
<td>notebook, timetable, science fiction</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>adjective + noun</td>
<td>fast lane, fast food, first aid</td>

<tr>
<td>verb + particle</td>
<td>breakup, checkout, takeover</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>three words, with the first two words used adjectivally and usually joined with a hyphen</td>
<td>back-seat driver, one-parent family, ready-made meal, three-piece suite</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- We can write compound nouns as one word, as two words or as two words with a hyphen (-). There are no definite rules for this. If in doubt, consult a dictionary:

  babysitter sunglasses roadworks address book mother tongue youth hostel human being break-in

Countable or uncountable?

Compound nouns may:

- be countable:

  one alarm clock – two alarm clocks

  a car park – several car parks

  a compact disc – ninety compact discs

- be uncountable:

  air traffic control mineral water

- only have a plural form:

  armed forces

  human rights

  roadworks

  sunglasses

For compound adjectives, see 9e

My best friend Beryl was always a bit different from my other schoolmates. She was very intelligent but she didn’t have much sense. For example, she wore indoors, even when it was cloudy. And she wore when everybody else was wearing trainers. It was against the rules to wear at school but she wore it anyway. We were also not allowed to use our phones but she would secretly send messages while the teacher was talking. She always did the opposite of what everyone else did. So when we all had or bikes, she would prefer skates and so on.

We were always advised to eat healthy food but Beryl always ate food – usually dogs covered in ketchup and mustard – until she got a terrible ache.

Beryl was also in love with speed. As soon as she was old enough to have a driving , she got a car and always drove fast. Once she went straight through the red lights and had to pay a fine. Yes, Beryl always drove in life’s lane. I wonder where she is now.

Grandma would often babysit her grandchildren but she would always fall asleep in her armchair before they did. Once, her five-year-old grandson woke her up saying, ‘Wake up, Granny! It’s past my bedtime!’

Grammar

8a Reported speech (1)

Direct speech

- When we quote someone’s actual words, we can use reporting verbs like say, reply, suggest, shout, etc.:

  ‘Let’s go swimming,’ Peter suggested.

- The speaker’s words can come before or after the reporting verb:

  ‘I knew the answer,’ she said.
  She said, ‘I knew the answer.’

- Notice the punctuation in direct speech: the speaker’s words are put in inverted commas. The comma, full stop, question mark or exclamation mark come before the closing quotation mark:

  ‘You mustn’t give up,’ his mother insisted.
  ‘Do you take sugar?’ she asked.
  ‘Help!’ she shouted.

Reported statements

- In reported speech, we report what someone said earlier, without quoting their actual words.

- When we report someone’s words, we often use a past tense reporting verb like said, told, suggested, etc.:

  She said (that) she knew the answer.

- After a past tense reporting verb, we usually make changes to verb tenses, pronouns and possessive adjectives, as well as place and time references:

  ‘I’m visiting my cousins tomorrow,’ Penny said.
  Penny said that she was visiting her cousins the following day.

Changes in reported speech

- In reported speech, tenses and modal verbs change as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Direct speech → Reported speech</th>
<th>Example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>present simple → past simple</td>
<td>‘I want to buy it.’ He said (that) he wanted to buy it.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>present continuous → past continuous</td>
<td>‘I’m leaving.’ He said (that) he was leaving.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>past simple → past perfect simple</td>
<td>‘I saw her.’ He said (that) he had seen her.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>past continuous → past perfect continuous</td>
<td>‘I was working.’ He said (that) he had been working.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>present perfect simple → past perfect simple</td>
<td>‘I’ve finished.’ He said (that) he had finished.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>present perfect continuous → past perfect continuous</td>
<td>‘I’ve been running.’ He said (that) he had been running.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>am/is/are going to → was/were going to</td>
<td>‘I’m going to stay.’ He said (that) he was going to stay.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>will → would</td>
<td>‘I’ll help you.’ He said (that) he would help me.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>can → could</td>
<td>‘I can do it.’ He said (that) he could do it.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>may → might</td>
<td>‘I may do it.’ He said (that) he might do it.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>must → had to</td>
<td>‘I must go.’ He said (that) he had to go.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
The past perfect simple and past perfect continuous don’t change in reported speech:
“I had finished.” —> He said that he had finished.
“I had been running.” —> He said that he had been running.

Could, would, might, should and ought to don’t change in reported speech:
“I might join you.” —> He said that he might join us.

When the reporting verb is in a present tense, there is no change in reported speech:
“I may be late.” —> He says that he may be late.

We do not need to change the verb tense when we are reporting things that are still true:
“I’ve got a brother.” —> He told me that he’s got a brother.

However, after past reporting verbs, we usually change the tenses, even if the things we are reporting are still true.

These words and phrases also change in reported speech:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Direct speech</th>

<td>here</td>
<td>there</td>

<td>that morning</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>tomorrow</td>
<td>the next/following day, the day after</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>yesterday</td>
<td>the day before, the previous day</td>

Reported commands and requests

Tell, order and ask are some common reporting verbs for commands and requests:
“Be quiet!” she told them. —> She told them to be quiet.
“Stop!” the police officer told him. —> The police officer ordered him to stop.
“Please let me stay, Dad,” Anne said. —> Anne asked her dad to let her stay.

Note that when we report negative commands and requests, we use not before the to-infinitive.
“Please don’t do it,” she told him. —> She told him not to do it.

Reporting verbs

We often use different reporting verbs to summarise what someone said.
“Why don’t you stay with us?” —> They invited me to stay with them.

Reporting verbs can describe the speaker’s intention, or tell us more about the way someone says something:
“I’ll call the police.” —> She threatened to call the police.
“I’ll carry the books.” —> He offered to carry the books.

Different reporting verbs are used with different structures. Below are some common ones. Note that some verbs can be used with more than one structure:

- Suggest can be followed by the following structures:
  - suggest + -ing:
    ‘Let’s go to the cinema.’ → I suggested going to the cinema.
  - suggest + that + past simple:
    I suggested that we went to the cinema.
  - suggest + that + sb + should + infinitive:
    I suggested that we should go to the cinema.

A new teacher

The first day back at school. We were waiting for our new teacher and I wondered what he or she would be like. Suddenly, the door opened and a tall thin man walked in. He looked at us, smiled and told (a) to sit down and be quiet. Billy O’Reilly (b) ‘Good morning, sir! What’s your name?’ in his loud cheery voice but the new teacher (c) him to put his hand up and (d) to shout out without permission. He told us that his name (e) Mr John Walker. Billy giggled. ‘What are you laughing at?’ (f) Mr Walker. Billy said he (g) a cough and he followed this with a loud cough; the whole class laughed. The teacher smiled and said we (h) call him John. He explained (i) he wanted us to work hard and play hard. He said that the text we (j) do together for the English exam was Shakespeare’s Romeo and Juliet. He said we (k) to read the first two scenes before the (l) week's lesson. He smiled again and said he (m) sure we would get on very well. Then he asked if we had any questions.
Reported questions

- In reported questions, the word order is the same as in statements:
  ‘Can I leave the room?’ I asked. → I asked if I could leave the room.
  She asked me where I was from. ✓
  She asked me where was I from. ❌

- We do not use the auxiliary do/does/did in reported questions:
  ‘What do you want?’ he asked me. → He asked what I wanted.

- We do not use a question mark in reported questions:
  ‘How is Johnny getting on at school?’ she asked. → She asked how Johnny was getting on at school.

- Some reporting verbs we often use in reported questions are: ask, inquire, wonder, want to know.
  She wanted to know where I was going.

- In reported questions, the tense changes and the changes to place/time references are the same as those for reported statements:
  ‘Are you OK?’ → She asked if I was OK.
  ‘Is Jamie here?’ → He asked if Jamie was there.

Yes/No questions

- When we report questions that can be answered with ‘yes’ or ‘no’ (e.g. Are you happy here? Do you live in a flat?), we use if or whether after the reporting verb:
  ‘Are you happy here?’ he asked. → He asked if/whether I was happy there.
  ‘Does he live in a big flat?’ she asked. → She asked if/whether he lived in a big flat.

- We can use if and whether in the same way:
  ‘Are the summers very hot there?’ he inquired. → He asked if/whether the summers were very hot there.
  ‘Have you always lived in the old town?’ she asked him. → She asked him if/whether he had always lived in the old town.

- However, when we are asking someone to make a choice, we usually use whether:
  ‘Do you want coffee or tea?’ they asked me. → They asked me whether I wanted coffee or tea.

- We use whether (not if) when the reported question includes the phrase or not:
  ‘Are you going to tell me the answer or not?’ she asked. → She asked whether I was going to tell her the answer or not.
  ‘Is he coming or not?’ I asked. → I asked whether he was coming or not.

Wh- questions

- When we report questions that begin with a question word (who, where, why, what, when, how, how long, etc.), we use the question word in the reported question:
  ‘Who built that castle?’ she asked. → She wanted to know who had built the castle.
  ‘Where did you go this summer?’ he asked. → He asked where we had gone that summer.
  ‘Why are you laughing?’ she asked us. → She asked us why we were laughing.
Choose the correct answer.

0 The interviewer wanted to know where I was/ was I from.
1 He also asked if I had/ did I have any work experience.
2 He asked how old am I/ I was.
3 He wanted to know what have I/ I had been doing since I left school.
4 He asked when/ whether I had had a nice trip down from Liverpool.
5 He also asked how long the journey had taken/ did the journey take.
6 He asked me what I liked/ I did I like most about my job.
7 He wanted to know who had told/ had they told me about their company.
8 He asked me what I thought/ did I think the qualities of a good manager were.
9 He told/ inquired how much money I was hoping to earn.
10 Finally, he asked me when can I/ I could start work.

Report the questions.

0 ‘Can I have some more pocket money?’
   The boy asked if he could have some more pocket money.
1 ‘Are you still living in London?’
   I asked him
2 ‘Do you work in the central branch or in the provinces?’
   She asked me
3 ‘Are you going to give me the money or not?’
   She asked him
4 ‘Has he brought the book back?’
   I wanted to know
5 ‘Is it snowing in Manchester?’
   He asked
6 ‘Are you married?’
   The man asked me
7 ‘Have you been eating properly?’

A difficult day at school

Mrs Evans, our history teacher, decided to give us an oral test about the American War of Independence yesterday. I hadn’t done my homework because I had had a stomachache the night before and I wondered if I would be able to answer any of her questions. First, she asked when the war started — I had no idea. Then she asked if we knew the name of the English king at the time. Then she asked who the author of the Declaration of Independence was. She asked me if I had the answer. By then, I wasn’t feeling well again, so I asked Mrs Evans if I could be excused. She didn’t hear me though and continued with the next question, so I got up and walked towards the door. Mrs Evans asked me I was going. I asked her I could leave the room and she said I had to wait till the test was over. I explained I wasn’t feeling well and asked how long the test was to take. Luckily, it only took five more minutes! I was so glad when the lesson ended!
Verbs can be followed by an infinitive (with or without to), an -ing form, a noun or a that clause:

I want to tell you something.
I must go now.
They started laughing.
I fancy an ice cream.
She admitted that she had been wrong.

Verb + -ing form

Here are some verbs that are followed by an -ing form:

avoid feel like miss be worth finish postpone delay involve practise dislike keep propose enjoy mention risk fancy mind

I avoid going to noisy bars.
The castle is worth visiting.

We always use the -ing form after verbs that are followed by prepositions (e.g. insist on, succeed in, apologise for):

She insisted on coming with me to the lawyer.
He succeeded in breaking the world record.
He apologised for letting me down.

Phrasal verbs (e.g. keep on, put off, look forward to) are also followed by an -ing form:

They were looking forward to meeting him.

Some verb phrases that are followed by prepositions are also followed by an -ing form:

Here are some examples: be good at, be keen on, be fed up with, be tired of:

She’s good at getting people to do things.
He’s very keen on travelling.

The verbs above can also be followed by a noun:

I avoid noisy bars.
They were looking forward to their holiday.

Remember: we always use the -ing form of a verb after prepositions.

Verb + -ing form/that clause

Here are some verbs that are followed by an -ing form or a that clause:

admit deny report consider imagine suggest
He admitted lying to the police.
He admitted that he had stolen the goods.

These verbs can also be followed by a noun:

He admitted his crimes.

We cannot use an infinitive after these verbs:

He denied doing it. ✓
He denied to do it. X

When these verbs are followed by a that clause, we can omit that:

He admitted he had stolen the goods.

Verb + to-infinitive

Here are some verbs that are followed by a to-infinitive:

agree hope promise appear intend refuse can afford learn seem choose manage threaten decide offer want expect plan wish fail prepare hesitate pretend

I agreed to stay with her.
The animal appears to be dead.
We can’t afford to go on holiday this year.

Some of these verbs can also be followed by a noun, an adjective or a that clause:

She failed the exam.
He seems frightened.
I agree that it is difficult.
Verb + bare infinitive

- The verbs make, let, would rather, would sooner and had better are followed by a bare infinitive (= infinitive without to):
  - They let us leave early.
  - They made us wait for two hours.
  - I'd rather go to Italy this year.
  - I'd sooner die than give the secret away!
- In the passive, we use a to-infinitive after make:
  - We were made to wait for two hours.
- We do not use let in the passive. We use allow instead:
  - We were allowed to leave early.
- We also use a bare infinitive (= infinitive without to) after modal verbs:
  - I can't help you.
  - We might be a bit late.

Verb + -ing form/to-infinitive with no change in meaning

- Some verbs can be followed by an -ing form or a to-infinitive without a change in meaning. Here are some of these verbs:
  - begin
  - continue
  - love
  - can't bear
  - hate
  - prefer
  - can't stand
  - start

  I began training as soon as I heard about the hockey match.
  I began to train as soon as I heard about the hockey match.
- These verbs can also be followed by a noun:
  - I began French when I was twelve.
  - I don't like pop music very much.
- Can't bear and can't stand both mean 'not be able to accept or not like something'. Can't bear is common in both written and spoken English. Can't stand is more common in spoken English. Both can't bear and can't stand can be followed by an -ing form, a to-infinitive or a noun:
  - I can't bear/can't stand listening to this music!
  - I can't bear/can't stand to hear them arguing!
  - I can't bear/can't stand TV commercials!

Verb + -ing form/to-infinitive with change in meaning

Some verbs can be followed by an -ing form or a to-infinitive but with a change in meaning.

Pablo Picasso

From the age of seven, Picasso started (0) (have) artistic training from his painter father. He was very keen on (1) (paint) and it was obvious that he was very good at it. He began (2) (miss) classes at school and insisted on (3) (paint) pictures instead. His father saw the thirteen-year-old Picasso painting like a master, so he gave up (4) (paint) in order to help his son become a great artist. Picasso’s father then persuaded the art academy (5) (allow) his son to take the entrance exam. Later, he decided (6) (send) the young artist to Madrid’s Royal Academy. Thus, at the age of sixteen, Picasso started (7) (go) to classes in Madrid. However, he disliked formal instruction, so he soon stopped (8) (turn up) for classes and spent hours in the Prado Museum instead.

Vocabulary

say, tell, talk, speak, etc.

say
- We can use say as a reporting verb in direct speech, before or after the speaker's actual words:
  Tom said, 'This is great!'
  I'm so tired,' she said.
- We use say (that) in reported speech:
  She said (that) she might be late.
- Certain objects can 'say' things:
  The clock says it's five past ten.
  The newspaper says there's been a hijacking.
  The email says we've won first prize!
  The label says it was produced in Argentina.
- Say cannot have a person as a direct object. We must use to, followed by the person:
  She said goodbye to her parents.
- Here are some common phrases and expressions with say:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Phrase</th>
<th>Example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>say your prayers</td>
<td>The children said their prayers and got into bed.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>say yes/no</td>
<td>He asked her to marry him and she said yes.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>say hello/goodbye</td>
<td>I'll just go and say hello to Amanda.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>say a few words</td>
<td>I'd like to say a few words.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>have sth to say</td>
<td>If you have something to say, say it now.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>People say ...</td>
<td>People say he used to be a spy.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Let's just say (that) ...</td>
<td>Let's just say he doesn't always tell the truth.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(Let's) say ... (that) (= suppose)</td>
<td>Say they offered you the job – would you take it?</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

tell
- Tell is followed by a direct object:
  He told us the answer.
- We can use tell as a reporting verb in direct speech:
  'Come here,' she told me. She smiled and then told me, 'Of course I'll help you.'
- We use tell sb (that) in reported speech:
  She told them (that) she might be late.

tell sb about sth
Compare tell sb about sth and say sth (to sb):
She told us about her trip to North America. (= talked about)
I'd like to say something about my trip to North America. (= talk about)
She told the neighbours about the burglary. (= reported)
I'm going to say something to the neighbours about the noise. (= complain)

tell sb to do sth
We use tell (not say) with a to-infinitive to report commands:
The policeman told me to go with him. ✓
The policeman said me to go with him. X
‘Close the door,’ he said. → He told me to close the door.

tell sb what/how/where/etc.
Tell sb what/how/where/etc. can be followed:
- by a clause:
  Tell me what you need.
  I can’t tell you where he is.
  I'll tell you how I managed to convince him.
- by a to-infinitive:
  Tell me what to do.
  I told them where to go.
  I'll tell you when to stop.
Common phrases and expressions with tell

Be careful: we use give (not tell) with the following nouns:

- give advice: give information
- give orders: give directions
- give an opinion: give the details (of sth)

> Could you give me some advice on how to prepare for the exam?

talk about and speak about

- Talk about means the same as discuss:
  *Let's talk about the problem.* (= Let’s discuss the problem.)

- We use speak about in more formal contexts:
  *The lecturer is going to speak about the modern novel.* (= give a talk on)

- We often use talk about to mean ‘describe’ or ‘tell stories about’:
  *She often talked about her days as a student.*

persuade and convince

- Persuade means ‘make someone decide to do something, especially by giving them reasons why they should do it, or asking them many times to do it’.
  *I’ll persuade her to buy me a pony.*

- Persuade is followed by a to-infinitive:
  *He finally persuaded her to go out with him.*

- Convince can be used in the same way as persuade:
  *We’ve been trying to convince Heather to come.*

- It can also mean ‘make someone feel certain that something is true’. When used in this way, convince may be followed by a noun or pronoun, by a that clause, or by of + noun:

  - *Her evidence convinced the court.*
  - Her arguments convinced me.
  - *I convinced them that the story was true.*
  - *We finally convinced them of our innocence.*

deny, refuse, reject and turn down

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Form</th>
<th>Meaning</th>
<th>Example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>deny + noun</td>
<td>say that sth is not true</td>
<td>He denied the claims.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>deny + that</td>
<td>clause</td>
<td>She denied that she had stolen the money.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>deny + -ing</td>
<td></td>
<td>She denied stealing the car.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>refuse + noun</td>
<td>not accept sth</td>
<td>They refused our help.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>refuse + to-infinitive</td>
<td>say you will not do sth</td>
<td>He refused to apologise.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>reject + noun</td>
<td>refuse to accept, believe in or agree with sth</td>
<td>They rejected her ideas.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>turn down</td>
<td>refuse an offer, request or invitation</td>
<td>I turned down their offer.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- Deny means ‘say that something is not true’.
  *He was accused of stealing a car but he denied it.*
  He denied taking the money.

- Refuse means ‘say you will not do something that someone asks you to do’.
  *She refused to help us.*

- Reject means ‘refuse to accept, believe in or agree with something’. It can only be followed by a noun (or pronoun).
  *I made a suggestion but they rejected it.*

- Turn down is a phrasal verb. We can use it instead of refuse or reject.
  She turned down her brother’s offer of help.

-ed adjectives

- Adjectives ending in -ed usually tell us how a person feels. They are the past participle forms of regular verbs, used as adjectives:
The worried parents waited anxiously for news.
I was exhausted, so I went straight to bed.
- We can also use the past participles of irregular verbs as adjectives. These do not end in -ed:
She died of a broken heart.

-ing adjectives

- Adjectives ending in -ing usually describe the effect something or someone has on us. They are the -ing forms of verbs, used as adjectives:
It was a disappointing film.
This game's so boring.
The journey was really exciting.
My job is exhausting.
- Here are some common -ed/-ing adjectives. You can check their meaning in a dictionary:
  amused/amusing        fascinated/fascinating annoyed/annoying      frightened/frightening bored/boring          interested/interesting confused/confusing     irritated/irritating disappointed/disappointed satisfied/satisfying disgusted/disgusting   surprised/surprising embarrassed/embarrassing terrified/terrifying encouraged/encouraging tired/tiring

- There are many -ed/-ing adjectives which are not connected with feelings. Here are some examples:
a falling leaf  a burning building a locked door  a computerised database

Practice

1. Complete the article. Use -ed or -ing adjectives formed from the verbs in brackets.

This year's Oscars ceremony was not, in my view, one of the most (0) exciting (excite) ever. Presenter Jeremy Hayman is a first-rate entertainer, who knows how to tell (1) amusing (amuse) jokes but doesn't know when to stop. He is the kind of comedian who can make introducing someone (2) interesting (interest) but I began to get (3) annoying (annoy) with the less than (4) flattering (flatter) remarks about famous stars present in the audience.

However, there were more (5) boring (bore) moments, particularly when the speeches of thanks went on for too long. Not many people are (6) interested (interest) in hearing stars making long speeches thanking their mum!

Best Actress Jane Taylor must have felt really (7) embarrassing (embarrass) when she forgot her director's name. Best Actor Howard Harris, however, made a (8) moving (move) speech about his recent struggle with illness. The audience were (9) surprised (surprise) by his frankness and he kept his speech short, so we didn't have time to get (10) boring (bore). But really, the most (11) annoying (annoy) moment of the whole evening was the long introduction to the ten best films. I got very (12) irritating (irritate) when they got to the fifth film after ten minutes and were still only half way.

Part 1
For questions 1-12, read the text below and decide which answer (A, B, C or D) best fits each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

SHAKESPEARE
Everyone was looking forward (0)............ The Taming of the Shrew at the theatre. The reviews had been very good – it had been described (1)............ the critics as one of the most (2)............ shows in town. One critic said it was one of the most engaging productions of Shakespeare he (3)............, in years. The Taming of the Shrew is one of Shakespeare’s earliest plays, which he (4)............ written at the beginning of his career, and which most agree is not a masterpiece.

Most people in Britain remember (5)............ a Shakespeare play at school and for the majority it was a boring experience. Many years later, most will struggle to tell you (6)............ the texts or the teachers were to blame, but a lack of understanding played a large part. Some teachers didn’t encourage their students to (7)............ about the meaning of the plays or allow them to (8)............ their own opinion or interpretation of the play, and so many students simply weren’t interested. However, some students are (9)............ enough in literature to spend the extra time studying the peculiar Elizabethan language, and these are the ones that succeeded (10)............ why Shakespeare is so special. These are the students who insisted (11)............ the meaning of all the unknown words as if it was a foreign language and go (12)............ to appreciate Shakespeare throughout their adult lives.

10 A to understand B of understanding C in understanding D for understanding
11 A to translate B on translating C in translating D at translating 12 A up B back C forward D on
For questions 13-24, read the text below and think of the word which best fits each gap. Use only one word in each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

SHOPLIFTER

The young man was wearing a large bulky jacket. He had filled up his basket, paid for his shopping and was about to leave the shop when a woman approached him and told him to wait one minute. 'What's up?' asked the young man. The shop detective asked him if he intended to pay for the ham. 'What ham?' replied the young man, seemingly surprised. 'The one you managed to hide inside your jacket when you thought I wasn't looking,' the detective said. 'I don't know what you're talking about!' said the shopper. 'I suggest you cooperate,' said the detective. 'I'd rather call the police.' The young man couldn't deny a packet of ham and stuffing it inside his jacket.

The store detective told the thief why he had not paid for the ham. On the verge of tears, the young man explained that he had been unemployed for a year and begged the detective to let him go. 'And if I allow you to go, do you promise not to do it again?' asked the detective. The young man, now visibly upset, nodded.
Part 3

For questions 25-34, read the text below. Use the word given in capitals at the end of some of the lines to form a word that fits in the gap in the same line. There is an example at the beginning (0).

MRS COOPER

I’ll never forget my primary school teacher, Mrs Cooper. She was one of the most motivating teachers I’ve ever had. But what made dear old Mrs Cooper such an memorable teacher? Well, first of all, she had a class of thirty nine-year-olds and she was always very interesting. Her lessons weren't necessarily exciting but we were never bored. She was very active and worked very hard to keep us all interested in whatever it was she was trying to teach us; she ran around and jumped up and down – she must have been exhausted by the end of the day. She was also a great storyteller – she would put on her round glasses, open her big book and begin another fascinating story.

As for me, it’s because of her that I became a professional athlete. I remember being terrified of water and her running along the edge of the pool as I learnt to swim my first 100 metres, shouting, ‘You can do it! You can do it!’ What an inspiring teacher!
For questions 35-42, complete the second sentence so that it has a similar meaning to the first sentence, using the word given. Do not change the word given. You must use between two and five words, including the word given. Here is an example (0).

Example:

Grammar

9a Comparative and superlative adjectives

Use
- We use comparative adjectives to compare one person, thing, place, etc. with another person, thing, place, etc.
- We use superlative adjectives to compare one person, thing, place, etc. with a whole group of people, things, places, etc.

Form
- To form the comparative, we add -er to the adjective. We often use the word than after the adjective:
  - Bill is taller (than John).
- To form the superlative, we add the before the adjective and -est to the adjective. We often use phrases beginning with of or in after superlative adjectives:
  - Jane is the youngest of the three sisters.
  - Bill is the tallest boy in the class.
- In some cases, we can omit the before superlative adjectives:
  - Her biggest fear is being left alone.

One-syllable adjectives
For most one-syllable adjectives, we add -er to form the comparative and -est to form the superlative:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjective</th>
<th>Comparative</th>
<th>Superlative</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>cheap</td>
<td>cheaper</td>
<td>the cheapest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>fast</td>
<td>faster</td>
<td>the fastest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>young</td>
<td>younger</td>
<td>the youngest</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Two-syllable adjectives
- Some two-syllable adjectives form the comparative and superlative with -er and -est.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjective</th>
<th>Comparative</th>
<th>Superlative</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>busy</td>
<td>busier</td>
<td>the busiest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>narrow</td>
<td>narrower</td>
<td>the narrowest</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- Other two-syllable adjectives do not take -er or -est. We use more/the most before the adjective instead:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjective</th>
<th>Comparative</th>
<th>Superlative</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>careless</td>
<td>more careless</td>
<td>the most careless</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>handsome</td>
<td>more handsome</td>
<td>the most handsome</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- With some two-syllable adjectives, both -er/-est and more/the most are possible:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjective</th>
<th>Comparative</th>
<th>Superlative</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>friendly</td>
<td>friendlier/more friendly</td>
<td>the friendliest/the most friendly</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>simple</td>
<td>simpler/more simple</td>
<td>the simplest/the most simple</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Adjectives ending in -e
For adjectives ending in -e, we add -r to form the comparative and -st to form the superlative.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjective</th>
<th>Comparative</th>
<th>Superlative</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>close</td>
<td>closer</td>
<td>the closest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>safe</td>
<td>safer</td>
<td>the safest</td>
</tr>

Adjectives ending in one vowel + one consonant
- For adjectives that end in one vowel + one consonant, we double the consonant before adding -er or -est:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjective</th>
<th>Comparative</th>
<th>Superlative</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>big</td>
<td>bigger</td>
<td>the biggest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>fat</td>
<td>fatter</td>
<td>the fattest</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- Be careful: if there are two vowels before the consonant, we do not double the consonant:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjective</th>
<th>Comparative</th>
<th>Superlative</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>cheap</td>
<td>cheaper</td>
<td>the cheapest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>great</td>
<td>greater</td>
<td>the greatest</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Adjectives ending in -y
For adjectives that end in -y, we change the -y to -i before adding -er/-est:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjective</th>
<th>Comparative</th>
<th>Superlative</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>angry</td>
<td>angrier</td>
<td>the angriest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>busy</td>
<td>busier</td>
<td>the busiest</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Longer adjectives
To form the comparative and superlative of adjectives with three or more syllables, we use more/the most:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjective</th>
<th>Comparative</th>
<th>Superlative</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>expensive</td>
<td>more expensive</td>
<td>the most expensive</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>intelligent</td>
<td>more intelligent</td>
<td>the most intelligent</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Adjectives ending in -ed, -ing, -ful and -less Adjectives that end in -ed, -ing, -ful and -less do not take -er or -est. We use more/the most instead:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjective</th>
<th>Comparative</th>
<th>Superlative</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>boring</td>
<td>more boring</td>
<td>the most boring</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>careless</td>
<td>more careless</td>
<td>the most careless</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>forgetful</td>
<td>more forgetful</td>
<td>the most forgetful</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>worried</td>
<td>more worried</td>
<td>the most worried</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Irregular adjectives
These adjectives are irregular:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjective</th>
<th>Comparative</th>
<th>Superlative</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>bad</td>
<td>worse</td>
<td>the worst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>far</td>
<td>farther/further</td>
<td>the farthest/furthest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>good</td>
<td>better</td>
<td>the best</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>old</td>
<td>older/elder</td>
<td>the oldest/elder</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

older/elder, oldest/eldest
- Old has two comparative and superlative forms: older/oldest and elder/eldest. We use elder/eldest for family members: David’s elder son is studying law at Harvard.
- We cannot use than with elder:
  He is elder than me. X
  He is older than me. ✓

Determiners
- Note the comparative and superlative forms of the determiners below:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Determiner</th>
<th>Comparative</th>
<th>Superlative</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>many</td>
<td>more</td>
<td>the most</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>much</td>
<td>more</td>
<td>the most</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>little</td>
<td>less</td>
<td>the least</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

‘How much did you spend?’ ‘More than you did!’
We know little about his parents and less about his younger brother.

less (than), the least
We can use less + adjective (+ than) and the least + adjective (+ of/in/etc.) to make negative comparisons:
This film was less successful (than original).
It was the least successful of all his films.

far/much/a lot + comparative
We use far, much or a lot before a comparative adjective for emphasis. There is little difference in meaning, although far is often stronger:
Bill is far/much/a lot richer than Tom.

the + comparative, the + comparative
The structure the + comparative, the + comparative can be used to show that things change or vary together:
The older I get, the more forgetful I become.

For more comparative structures, see 10a.

Canada v. the USA Monday, 17 October

I’ve just got back from a tour of the USA and Canada. I used to think they were very similar countries but I now realise they are very different. I think Canadians are (6) more polite (polite) and (7) ........ (gentle) their southern neighbours. They are generally (8) ........ (modest) in their behaviour than the Americans who tend to be a bit (9) ........ (loud).

I used to think the USA was a (4) ........ (nice) place to live than Canada but I have changed my mind. Even though the USA is a (5) ........ (rich) nation than Canada, the standard of living appears to be (6) ........ (good) in Canada. The World Health Organization ranks Canada (7) ........ (high) the USA for its health service and Canadians have a (8) ........ (long) life expectancy than their American friends. However, things are much (9) ........ (cheap) in the USA.

The USA is one of (10) ........ (violent) countries in the world and I felt (11) ........ (safe) on the streets of Toronto than in New York. The USA has a much (12) ........ (bad) crime rate than Canada. I had a (13) ........ (pleasant) time in Canada. The people genuinely seemed to be (14) ........ (happy) and (15) ........ (relaxed). All in all, I think Canada is one of (16) ........ (beautiful) countries in the world to visit and probably one of (17) ........ (good) to live in, too.

Order of adjectives

When there is more than one adjective before a noun, this is the most common order:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Opinion</th>
<th>Size</th>
<th>Other qualities</th>
<th>Age</th>
<th>Shape</th>
<th>Colour</th>
<th>Origin</th>
<th>Material</th>
<th>Purpose/Type</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>nice</td>
<td>big</td>
<td>cold</td>
<td>old</td>
<td>round</td>
<td>blue</td>
<td>French</td>
<td>glass</td>
<td>electric</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- The order of adjectives of size, shape, age and colour may vary, especially when we focus on a particular feature. For example, we can say:
  - a round black table (normal order) or a black round table (focus on colour)
- We generally use commas between adjectives (especially in longer sequences):
  - There was a big, round, red Persian carpet on the floor.
- When there is more than one adjective of the same type in a sentence, we often join them with and. When there are more than two adjectives, we use commas and and before the last adjective:
  - The children were cold and hungry.
  - The house was large and impressive.
  - He was tall, dark, handsome. x
  - He was tall, dark and handsome. ✓

- We can put a comma or and between two adjectives that describe someone's character:
  - He was a clever and imaginative young man.
- When there are two colour adjectives before the noun, we have to use and between them. When there are more than two colour adjectives, we have to use and before the last one:
  - They own a red and white car.
  - They were waving a blue, white and red flag. x
  - They were waving a blue, white and red flag. ✓

Practice

1. Put the adjectives in the correct order. If the order is correct, put a tick (✓) on the line.

Comp®™^ adjectives

Form

- A compound adjective consists of two words that function like one word. We often use a hyphen between the two words: red-haired, badly-maintained.
- The second part of a compound adjective is often:
  - a present participle (the -ing form of a verb): tight-fitting, good-looking
  - a past participle: old-fashioned, well-built, blue-eyed
  - a preposition: broken-down, well-off
  - another adjective: brand-new, duty-free

- Note the following common errors:
  - She was an attractive red-headed woman. X
  - She was an attractive red-head. ✓
  - He’s very good-looking. ✓
  - He’s very good-looking. X
  - The furniture was old-fashioned. X
  - The furniture was old-fashioned. ✓
  - I saw a one-eyed sailor on the boat. X
  - I saw a one-eyed sailor on the boat. ✓
  - There was a breaking-down car on the motorway. X
  - There was a broken-down car on the motorway. ✓

Use

We use compound adjectives like all other adjectives. We often use them to describe:

- physical appearance
  - broad-shouldered, dark-haired, good-looking
- personality:
  - good-tempered, open-minded
- places:
  - built-up, run-down, wide-open
- everyday objects:
  - worn-out, hand-made, man-made

For compound nouns, see 7e as ... as, not as/so ... as

• To say that two things, people, places, etc. are the same or equal in some way, we use as + adjective/adverb + as:
  He's as tall as Harry.
• To say that two things, people, places, etc. are different, we use not as/so ... as:
  Mary is as tall as Jane but she isn't as tall as Andrew.
  The café is not as crowded as it was earlier.
• We cannot use so ... as in affirmative sentences:
  She worked so hard as Pete. X
  She worked as hard as Pete. ✓
  She didn't work so hard as Pete. ✓
  She didn't work as hard as Pete. ✓
• We can omit the second part of the comparison if it is clear who or what we are talking about:
  She's not as tall (as him/as he is).
  John didn't do as well as Helen in the exam.
• Be careful: we use as ... as, not as ... so:
  Tea isn't as strong so coffee. X
  Tea isn't as strong as coffee. ✓

as many/much/little/few as

• We also use as many/much/little/few as in comparisons. Notice that we do not use a:
  Bill doesn't have as much money as Anne.
  If she had as little money as he did, she would think differently.
  Amy doesn't have as many meals as Fred.
  If Amy had as few meals as Fred, she would be thinner.
• We cannot use more, less or several in the same way.

the same (as)

• Same is followed by the preposition as. We always use the before same:
  Their car is the same (as ours).
  Peter is the same age (as George).
• We can use exactly before the same for emphasis:
  Their car is exactly the same (as ours).
  Peter is exactly the same age (as George).

like and as

Note the difference between like and as: we use like to say that things, people, places, etc. are similar. We use as to say what job, duty, use or appearance somebody or something has:

too, enough, very

- Too means ‘more than is acceptable or possible’. Very means ‘a lot’. Compare:
  - I was too tired. (= so I couldn’t do any work)
  - I was very tired. (= but I could still do some work)
  - I was too happy when I received your email. X
  - I was very happy when I received your email. ✓

- We do not use very with adjectives that already have a strong meaning:
  - Meno Park in Tokyo is very huge. X
  - Meno Park in Tokyo is huge. ✓
  - Meno Park in Tokyo is absolutely huge. ✓

Linking verbs

- A linking verb joins a subject to an adjective or clause. Here are some linking verbs:
  - appear
  - keep
  - be
  - look
  - become
  - seem
  - come
  - smell
  - feel
  - sound
  - get
  - stay
  - go
  - taste
  - grow
  - turn

- We can use different adjectives after linking verbs:
  - They didn’t want to look suspicious.
  - I feel sick.
  - He seems happy.
  - This tastes awful!

- After some linking verbs, we can use to be + adjective:
  - The house seems to be empty.
  - The children appeared to be hungry.

- We can also use a to-infinitive after some linking verbs:
  - She seems to know what she’s doing.

- Here is a summary of the patterns after linking verbs:

Life in London

Someone once said that if you are tired of London, you are tired of life. Well, this is a bit of an exaggeration but London does seem/look to be an exciting multicultural city.

I arrived in London for the first time two years ago all the way from Tokyo to do a Master’s degree in Civil Engineering. It was a bit of a culture shock. The city first appeared/sounded to be grey and unwelcoming. Everybody seemed to be/appeared that they were busy and for the first month, I kept/felt pretty lonely. Meeting new people was quite/bit difficult at first but many of the students at the university turned out to be rather/quite friendlier than I had expected and I ended up moving in with some of them.

The flat I was staying in was actually much/bit bigger than my flat in Tokyo. My new flatmates were from different countries and at first we found it a bit/quite a difficult to relate to each other, especially to the British guy, who spoke quite/a a bit quickly. We were fairly/a rather shy about speaking at first. However, everyone was friendly and very/rather more informal than back home; soon everyone turned/became more relaxed and we got to know each other better. Living in London wasn’t quite as difficult as it first appeared/grew to be.

Culture shock
Penny, a friend of mine, has just got back from a trip to Japan. It was a very enjoyable experience but there were occasions, she says, when the degree of formality shown by her hosts led to moments of cultural confusion. At times, she even felt ashamed about the mistakes she made. For example, it is amusing for Europeans to call each other by their first name; however, this is not the ordinary way of addressing people in Japan. Now, because Penny was anxious to show everyone how friendly she was, she called everyone by their first name. Most people could tell she was a foreigner and were sympathetic but others became quite angry and showed little sympathy. Penny is not at all shy – she loves meeting new people. But after the first few misunderstandings, she was afraid to say anything in case she offended someone.

At first, Penny found bowing to people quite tiresome – she is, after all, an actress. But after a while, having to bow to everyone you meet became rather tiresome. I myself am quite an experienced traveller but I would feel really embarrassed about putting my foot in it in Japan because there, even sympathetic people observe the most elaborate rules of social behaviour. Silence, for example, is nothing to be afraid of in Japanese culture, but in the West we get rather worried if there are even short periods of silence at social gatherings.

‘It’s not that I’m afraid of death – I just don’t want to be there when it happens.’ Woody Allen
Remember that we normally use suffixes to change a word to a different part of speech:

- season (noun) + -al → seasonal (adjective)
- danger (noun) + -ous → dangerous (adjective)

-ful, -less

- The suffix -ful shows that a quality exists. It means ‘full of something’ or ‘having the quality of something or causing something’:

  She’s very careful about what she eats.

- The suffix -less shows that a quality does not exist. It means ‘without something’ or ‘not doing or using something’:

  You shouldn’t be so careless when you write.

- Below are some common pairs of adjectives that end in -ful or -less:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjective</th>
<th>Meaning</th>
<th>Example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>careful</td>
<td>trying to avoid doing anything wrong</td>
<td>She’s a careful driver.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>careless</td>
<td>not paying or showing enough attention</td>
<td>It was a careless mistake.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>harmful</td>
<td>causing or likely to cause harm</td>
<td>Pollution is harmful to our health.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>harmless</td>
<td>unable or unlikely to cause harm</td>
<td>The dog is harmless – it won’t bite.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hopeful</td>
<td>believing that what you hope will happen</td>
<td>It’s difficult but I’m still hopeful.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hopeless</td>
<td>without hope</td>
<td>It’s hopeless trying to convince him.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>painful</td>
<td>causing pain</td>
<td>Is your ankle still painful?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>painless</td>
<td>causing no pain</td>
<td>It’ll be a painless operation – don’t worry.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>thoughtful</td>
<td>kind and caring about other people</td>
<td>That’s very thoughtful of you. Thank you!</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>thoughtless</td>
<td>unkind and not caring about other people</td>
<td>It was thoughtless of you to mention his illness.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>useful</td>
<td>helping you to do, get or achieve sth</td>
<td>The tourist office gave us some very useful advice.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>useless</td>
<td>not useful or effective in any way</td>
<td>Her advice was absolutely useless!</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- We can use very with adjectives ending in -ful but not with adjectives ending in -less. We often use completely, absolutely, utterly, etc. instead:

  The injection was very painful.
  This information is absolutely useless to me.

In the following, only one form is possible: either -ful or -less, not both: dreadful, forgetful, grateful, skilful, stressful, successful, cloudless, homeless, ruthless.
-able, -ible

- We add -able and -ible to verbs to form adjectives that show that something can be done. Here are some examples:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjective</th>
<th>Meaning</th>
<th>Example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>drink + able</td>
<td>safe to drink</td>
<td>Is the water drinkable here?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>wash + able</td>
<td>that can be washed</td>
<td>The shirt is machine washable.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>rely + able</td>
<td>that you can rely on</td>
<td>She’s a very reliable colleague.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>access + ible</td>
<td>that can be accessed</td>
<td>The island is only accessible by boat.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>sense + ible</td>
<td>reasonable</td>
<td>That’s a very sensible suggestion.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- Some adjectives ending in -able and -ible have a first part that does not exist on its own:
  edible possible palpable visible

-ive

- We can also form adjectives by adding -ive to verbs or nouns:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjective</th>
<th>Meaning</th>
<th>Example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>act + ive</td>
<td>always busy doing things; involved</td>
<td>Try to keep active — take some exercise every day.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>expense + ive</td>
<td>costing a lot of money</td>
<td>Who bought you that expensive watch?</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- Again, some of these adjectives have a first part that does not exist on its own:
  pensive
- Some of these adjectives take -itive instead:
  sense → sensitive
- We often add the prefix in- to form the negative of these adjectives:
  inactive inexpensive insensitive

-ous

- We add -ous to some nouns to form adjectives:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjective</th>
<th>Meaning</th>
<th>Example</th>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>fame + ous</td>
<td>well-known</td>
<td>She’s a famous singer.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>courage + ous</td>
<td>brave</td>
<td>That was a courageous decision.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- Famous means ‘well-known’. Infamous means ‘well-known for being bad or evil’:
  She became famous after winning a gold medal in the Olympics.
  This is a photo of Al Capone, the infamous gangster.

TEEN FASHION
It is widely believed that boys are less interested in fashion (0) ............ girls. While it is true that fashion for guys is not as widely followed (1) ............ fashion for girls, it is becoming more and more important. Girls' fashion (2) ............ to change more often, or at least it is more widely advertised. You can't help noticing when fashion gets (3) ............ . One minute everyone is wearing one particular brand of trainers; six months later, something new is in and a perfectly good pair of trainers gets pushed to the back of the wardrobe.

At some schools, the abolition of uniforms has also had (4) ............ an impact on what teenagers wear. In other schools, where school uniforms are (5) ............ common, keeping up with teenage fashion is less (6) ............ than in schools where kids can wear casual clothes. Nowadays, it costs (7) ............, and more to stay in fashion and this can mean some pupils feel (8) ............ if what they are wearing is not trendy enough. Some kids may even feel (9) ............ if their parents don't have (10) ............ to buy them the latest gear. The pressure from friends and the media to be trendy is so great (11) ............ it is difficult to resist. For adults, it is easier to ignore the peer pressure but (12) ............ a teenager - boy or girl - you need a lot of courage to say no to fashion.

Part 2

For questions 13-24, read the text below and think of the word which best fits each gap. Use only one word in each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

THE MYSTERY OF STONEHENGE

Stonehenge is one of England’s (0) most famous landmarks. It is a group of large, tall stones that are arranged in circles on Salisbury Plain in the south of England. They are (13) big and heavy that their transportation over from Wales, 240 miles away, (14) to us today almost miraculous. Who could have carried them such (15) distance without the help of modern technology? The question is also why they used such huge stones; and why are there so (16) of them? What purpose did they serve? It must have been quite (17) accomplishment to build this mysterious monument. It has been estimated the construction of the site required (18) than thirty million hours of labour.

A lot of theories seem to (19) been put forward to explain the stones’ existence. The stones seem (20) have been put there about 4,000 years ago for religious reasons, some people say. Today, this theory is less popular (21) it used to be. Most people think that Stonehenge was used (22) a huge astronomical instrument, to study the sun, moon and stars. However, scientists simply don’t have (23) evidence to come to a final conclusion. Whatever its origins, Stonehenge remains one of (24) most fascinating monuments in the world.
Part 3

For questions 25-34, read the text below. Use the word given in capitals at the end of some of the lines to form a word that fits in the gap in the same line. There is an example at the beginning (0).

We all know now what a powerful tool information technology is. It is more or less necessary to live a full life in the twenty-first century without being comfortable with computers and how to make the most of them. They are incredibly useful in so many ways.

I used to have no idea about them — I was really ignorant at anything technical and I felt very anxious whenever people asked me to do anything on the computer. When I first started using them, I made a lot of mistakes and would feel very embarrassed when people referred to the latest developments and I didn’t know what they were talking about. But now I know enough not to feel ashamed or completely hopelessly when my friends discuss the latest gadgets. I can get by but I am really amazed by how knowledge anything digital seems to be for young people. They grew up with computers and they are so shameless. They can find their way around the computer so easily. It is very impressive.
EXAM PRACTICE 5

Use

• We use adverbs to modify verbs, adjectives or clauses.
• Adverbs of manner describe how someone does something:
  She read the book quickly.
  They behaved foolishly.
  She played beautifully.
  You must drive carefully.
• Adverbs of place and time describe where or when something happens:
  I’ll wait here. (adverb of place)
  Let’s go tomorrow. (adverb of time)
• Adverbs of frequency describe how often something happens:
  We usually have dinner at eight.
• We use adverbs of degree to make adjectives stronger or weaker:
  It’s very cold in winter.
• We can also use adverbs like frankly, easily, by far, etc. to modify superlatives:
  This is quite frankly the worst essay I’ve ever read.
  It was easily the best party I’ve ever been to.
• There are other types of adverb, for example linking adverbs like also and comment adverbs like sadly:
  I went with Tina and Eddie; Trevor came along as well.
  Sadly, the poor dog didn’t make it.
• When a phrase is used as an adverb, we call it an adverbial phrase. For example:
  You’re driving too fast.
  Let’s go tomorrow afternoon.
  There’s a huge truck behind you.

Form

• We form most adverbs (especially adverbs of manner) by adding -ly to an adjective:

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>beautiful</td>
<td>beautifully</td>
<td>She plays the violin beautifully.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>brilliant</td>
<td>brilliantly</td>
<td>He played brilliantly and won.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>careful</td>
<td>carefully</td>
<td>I wish you would drive more carefully!</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>effective</td>
<td>effectively</td>
<td>You can communicate more effectively with email.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>efficient</td>
<td>efficiently</td>
<td>The event had been very efficiently organised.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>excited</td>
<td>excitedly</td>
<td>‘We won!’ she said excitedly.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hurried</td>
<td>hurriedly</td>
<td>They left the room hurriedly.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>occasional</td>
<td>occasionally</td>
<td>I occasionally eat meat.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>shy</td>
<td>shyly</td>
<td>She walked shyly into the room.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>truthful</td>
<td>truthfully</td>
<td>Answer truthfully: did you do it?</td>
</tr>
<tr>

<td>Undoubtedly, there will be problems.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>unexpected</td>
<td>unexpectedly</td>
<td>Peter turned up unexpectedly.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>wholehearted</td>
<td>wholeheartedly</td>
<td>I wholeheartedly agree with you.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
ADVERBS: USE AND FORM

• For adjectives ending in -le, we drop the -e and only add -y:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjective</th>
<th>Adverb</th>
<th>Example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>gentle</td>
<td>gently</td>
<td>They broke the news gently.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>probable</td>
<td>probably</td>
<td>They are probably on their way now.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>simple</td>
<td>simply</td>
<td>I simply don’t believe you.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>suitable</td>
<td>suitably</td>
<td>Bob wasn’t suitably dressed.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>terrible</td>
<td>terribly</td>
<td>Bessie played terribly that night.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

• For adjectives ending in -y, we change the -y to -i before adding -ly:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjective</th>
<th>Adverb</th>
<th>Example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>easy</td>
<td>easily</td>
<td>Our team is easily the best.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>noisy</td>
<td>noisily</td>
<td>The kids were playing noisily in the garden.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

• For adjectives ending in -ic, we add -ally:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjective</th>
<th>Adverb</th>
<th>Example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>automatic</td>
<td>automatically</td>
<td>The machine will give you your money back automatically.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>heroic</td>
<td>heroically</td>
<td>The soldiers fought heroically.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>tragic</td>
<td>tragically</td>
<td>He died tragically.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

• Some adverbs ending in -ly come from nouns:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adjective</th>
<th>Adverb</th>
<th>Example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>day</td>
<td>daily</td>
<td>Newspapers are delivered daily. (= every day)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>fortnight</td>
<td>fortnightly</td>
<td>The magazine is published fortnightly. (= every two weeks)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hour</td>
<td>hourly</td>
<td>The database is updated hourly. (= every hour)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>month</td>
<td>monthly</td>
<td>They meet monthly to discuss progress. (= every month)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>week</td>
<td>weekly</td>
<td>The newspaper is published weekly. (= every week)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>year</td>
<td>yearly</td>
<td>We pay the fees yearly. (= every year)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

• Some words ending in -ly are adjectives, not adverbs:

a friendly police officer  a silly story a lonely life  lovely weather  an ugly painting

• We cannot add -ly to these adjectives to form adverbs. Instead, we use phrases like:

I’ve never met a police officer who behaves in a friendly way.
She spoke in a rather silly manner.
He lived his life in a lonely fashion.

• Some adverbs have the same form as adjectives. Examples include:

 drive fast (adverb)  a fast driver (adjective) work hard (adverb)  hard work (adjective)

• The adverb for public is publicly:

He was publicly humiliated. ✓
He was publically humiliated. X

• The adverb for true is truly:

He was a truly great President.

• For adjectives ending in -ful, we add -y:

I fully agree with you.

• The adverb for good is well:

Did you sleep well?
Did I do well in the test? ✓
Did I do good in the test? X

8 Remember: you have to take the pills twice twice.
9 The man looked at his son angrily and said, ‘Go to your room now!’
10 Softly, her daughter died in a car accident.
Adverbs: word order

Group 1: initial, middle or end position

Most adverbs of manner (e.g. slowly) and some adverbs of time (e.g. once) and frequency (e.g. occasionally) can come at the beginning, in the middle (before the main verb) or at the end of a sentence. They modify verbs or clauses. The choice of position is a matter of emphasis.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Beginning of sentence</th>
<th>Middle of sentence</th>
<th>End of sentence</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Slowly, she opened the door.</td>
<td>She slowly opened the door.</td>
<td>She opened the door slowly.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Once I had a motorbike.</td>
<td>I once had a motorbike.</td>
<td>I had a motorbike once.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Occasionally, he loses his temper.</td>
<td>He occasionally loses his temper.</td>
<td>He loses his temper occasionally.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Group 2: initial or end position

- Many adverbs of time (e.g. yesterday) and place (e.g. outside) usually come at the end of a sentence but they can also come at the beginning:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Beginning of sentence</th>
<th>End of sentence</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Yesterday, I finished work early.</td>
<td>I finished work early yesterday.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Outside, it was raining.</td>
<td>It was raining outside.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- Adverbial phrases usually come at the end:
  - There's a sports car in the fast lane.
  - I'll be with you in a moment.
  - I'll be in a moment with you.

- However, there are exceptions:
  - In January, he expects to get a pay rise.
  - He expects to get a pay rise in January.

Group 3: middle position

- Some adverbs of frequency (e.g. always), degree (e.g. nearly), as well as other adverbs like definitely and probably usually come in the middle of the sentence, before the main verb:

  - I always get up early.
  - I never drink milk.
  - I've nearly finished.
  - She probably thinks everything's all right.
  - She never apologises.

- Here are some more examples of adverbs in group 3:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Frequency</th>
<th>Degree</th>
<th>Other</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>always, ever, frequently, hardly, never, normally, often, rarely, seldom, sometimes, usually</td>
<td>absolutely, extremely, fairly, hardly, nearly, quite, really</td>
<td>also, certainly, definitely, even, just, merely, only, probably, suddenly</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- Adverbs in group 3 go immediately after auxiliary verbs (be, have, do) and modal verbs (can, may, should, etc.):
  - I've never drunk iced tea.
  - You should definitely accept the offer.
  - She'll probably come to the wedding.
  - I've nearly finished.

- However, when the verb is negative, adverbs that express degree of certainty (e.g. certainly, definitely, probably, etc.) come before the auxiliary:
  - He probably won't come to the party.
  - She certainly can't put up with the situation.

Group 4: end position

- Adverbs of manner (e.g. well, badly) and adverbs of place and time (e.g. here and now) often come at the end of a sentence:
  - He comes home late.
  - She sings well.
  - He played badly.
• Adverbial phrases (e.g. in the playground, at home, on Sunday morning) often come at the end of the sentence (see, however, group 2 on page 191):
  I like music very much. ✓
  I like very much music. X
  She speaks English very well. ✓
  She very well speaks English. X
  He woke up with a headache on Sunday morning.
  They were standing in the playground.
• When there are two clauses in the sentence, the position of the adverb or adverbial phrase can change the meaning:
  He promised immediately that he would pay for the damage. (= an immediate promise)
  He promised that he would pay for the damage immediately. (= a promise that he would pay immediately)

• Here are some more examples of adverbs in group 4:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Manner</th>
<th>Place</th>
<th>Time</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>as well, badly, cheerfully, happily, mildly, politely, quickly, regularly, sweetly, tenderly</td>
<td>in London, in the stadium, at the cinema, on the dance floor, by the television</td>
<td>daily, late, monthly, once, at once, at six o’clock, on the hour, on Tuesday</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

• We often use more than one adverb or adverbial phrase in a sentence. When this is the case, the usual order is: manner —> place —> time:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Manner</th>
<th>Place</th>
<th>Time</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>They played</td>
<td>badly</td>
<td>at Wembley</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>She waited</td>
<td>patiently</td>
<td>in her room</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

• However, single-word adverbs can come before adverbial phrases:
  I saw him yesterday in the park.
• And shorter phrases can come before longer ones:
  I’ll see you at eight outside the cinema.

Practice

1 Rewrite the sentences with the adverbs in the correct place.
   If a sentence is correct, put a tick (√) on the line.

0 The payments are made monthly. √
001 I went yesterday to the post office.
   I went to the post office yesterday.
1 I’ve become interested in skiing recently.
2 We play football after school often.
3 Very carefully he drives on the motorway.
4 I don’t get up always early.
5 I’ve never visited the United States.
6 Outside he’s waiting.
7 Only I like ice cream, not pudding.
8 I cooked and washed the dishes as well.
Rewrite the sentences. Put the adverbs in brackets in the correct place.

0 I like travelling by plane. (very much)
1 You won't finish your homework if you don't hurry up. (in time)
2 I'll finish my project. (probably, on Friday)
3 Doesn't she play the piano? (well)
4 We arrived. (on Sunday, in London)
5 She won't be coming to work. (today, probably)
6 He performed. (superbly, at the National Theatre, on Saturday)
7 She visits her mother. (at the weekend, usually, in hospital)
8 I remember seeing him. (definitely, outside the shop)
9 Can you come? (at six o'clock, to my office)
10 We go camping. (for a few days, occasionally)

Choose the correct answer.

Hypochondria: It's all in your head

I have a friend who worries about his health a lot. He (0) all the time talks about it / talks about it all the time. He isn't interested in anything else – I'm (1) really starting / starting really to worry about him.

When he feels an ache, (2) immediately he thinks / he immediately thinks he has a serious illness. He worries so much that he (3) relaxes hardly ever / hardly ever relaxes. His fear of falling ill means (4) often he misses / he often misses work because at the first sign of a cold, he decides to stay at home till the symptoms have gone. When (5) well he feels / he feels well, he goes back to work but he finds it difficult to concentrate with all the people coughing and sneezing in the office. (6) Once last year / Last once year, he even went to work wearing (7) over his nose and mouth a mask / a mask over his nose and mouth. He looked really strange!

He is (8) always looking up / looking up always his symptoms on the Internet to find out if they mean he has a serious disease. He goes (9) once a month to the doctor / to the doctor once a month (at least!) and tells her he feels terrible. (10) On Friday, he went / He went on Friday to the doctor again; she examined him and listened (11) very patiently to him / to him very patiently before telling him there was nothing wrong with him. (12) Hopefully, she will realise / She will realise hopefully soon that there is something wrong with him and get him the help he does need!

I never travel without my diary – one should always have something sensational to read in the train. OSCAR WILDE 11c Adverbs: comparison

One-syllable adverbs

- One-syllable adverbs take -er in the comparative and (the)-est in the superlative:
  Bill ran fast. John ran faster than Bill. Gary ran the fastest.
  They work hard. The girls work harder. The boys work the hardest.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adverb</th>
<th>Comparative</th>
<th>Superlative</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>early</td>
<td>earlier</td>
<td>the earliest</td>

<tr>
<td>near</td>
<td>nearer</td>
<td>the nearest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>quick</td>
<td>quicker</td>
<td>the quickest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>slow</td>
<td>slower</td>
<td>the slowest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>soon</td>
<td>sooner</td>
<td>the soonest</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- To form the comparative and superlative of early, we change -y to -i before adding -er/-est:
  She arrived early.
  She arrived earlier than expected.
  She arrived the earliest of them all.
  You must come earlier. ✓
  You must come more early. X

Irregular adverbs

- Some adverbs have irregular comparative and superlative forms.
  Bessie plays the piano well.
  She plays the piano better than Ella.
  She plays the best of all the girls in the class.
  Terry did badly in the test. Tom did even worse than him.

<table>

<td>less</td>
<td>the least</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>much</td>
<td>more</td>
<td>the most</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>well</td>
<td>better</td>
<td>the best</td>

</tbody>
</table>

- We can also use less ... than and the least ... with adverbs:
  She drives less carefully than her brother.
- We can also use as + adverb + as or not as/so + adverb + as:
  Jenny didn’t play as well as Lisa.

Adverbs with two or more syllables

- To form the comparative and superlative of most adverbs with two or more syllables, we use more ... than and the most ... .
  Can you work more quietly? ✓
  Can you work quieter? X
  All the girls sing beautifully, but Sarah sings the most beautifully, I think.

- We can use farther/further and farthest/furthest in the same way.
  We’d better not go any farther/further tonight.

For far used as an adjective, see 9a
Complete the sentences. Use the correct form of the adverbs in brackets. Add any other words necessary.

0 My wife drives more carefully than (carefully) I do.
1 She works more efficiently than (efficiently) everyone else in the office.
2 I play chess more badly than (badly) my son.
3 He got up most (early) me.

3 Can you speak more fluently (more fluently), please? We can’t hear you at the back.
4 I didn’t play well but Harry played even more badly (more badly) I did.
5 I took a taxi because if I had come by bus, it would have taken me much more long (more long).
6 ‘I’m fed up with staying in all the time!’ ‘Well, go out more often (more often), then.’
7 Of all my classmates, Rob writes more imaginatively (more imaginatively). His stories are always fascinating.
8 He didn’t run more fast (as fast) as Pete; he came second.
9 Of the three sisters, Irene speaks English more long (more long).
10 Come a little more far (a little more far), so you can see better.

He who laughs last, laughs longest.
Adverbs with the same form as the adjective

We already know that some adverbs have the same form as the adjective:

- We had an early breakfast. (adjective)
- We left early. (adverb)

Adjectives that form two adverbs

Some adjectives form two different adverbs: one that is the same as the adjective and one ending in -ly:

Articles

Use of articles with different kinds of noun

Here is a summary of the way we use articles with different kinds of noun:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Article</th>
<th>Noun</th>
<th>Example</th>
</tr>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>indefinite (a/an)</td>
<td>singular countable</td>
<td>She has a bicycle already. Take an umbrella with you.</td>

<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>definite (the)</td>
<td>singular countable</td>
<td>The red bicycle is mine.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>plural countable</td>
<td>The bicycles are in the shed.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>uncountable</td>
<td>The salt is in the cupboard.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>no article</td>
<td>singular countable</td>
<td>Zoe is in hospital.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>plural countable</td>
<td>They use bicycles to get to work.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>uncountable</td>
<td>Salt is cheap.</td>

</table>

Indefinite article (a/an)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Use</th>
<th>Example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>to talk about sb/sth that has not been mentioned before; to talk about sb/sth for the first time</td>
<td>I’ve just seen a car coming up the drive. There’s a spider in the bath.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>to talk about one person, thing, etc., without saying which person, thing, etc. we mean</td>
<td>I’d like an orange. (= any orange, not a specific one) I want a new computer. (= any computer, not a specific one)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>to refer to people and things in general</td>
<td>Is a spider an insect? (= all spiders) A teacher ought to be patient. (= all teachers)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>to mean ‘one’, with some numbers and fractions</td>
<td>a hundred, a thousand, a third</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>to mean ‘each’ or ‘per’</td>
<td>twice a week (= twice each week) I get fifty pounds a day. (= each day) He was driving at 110 miles an hour. (= per hour)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>when we classify or define things or people (e.g. say what job sb does, what sth is used for, etc.)</td>
<td>He’s a teacher. A dictionary is a book that explains the meanings of words.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>with adjectives followed by nouns, in descriptions</td>
<td>He was a tall young man. It was a beautiful day.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>before sb’s name, when we don’t know the person</td>
<td>There’s a Mr Wilkins here to see you.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>with some illnesses, especially ones that aren’t serious</td>
<td>I’ve got a headache. She’s got a cold.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>in certain phrases, especially ones that express an amount or quantity</td>
<td>a few, a little, a lot, a great deal</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>after what or such, for emphasis</td>
<td>What a day it’s been! He’s such a fool!</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Note that the choice of a or an depends on pronunciation, not on spelling: we use a before a consonant sound and an before a vowel sound. Compare:

- a book
- a computer
- a professor

- an orchestra
- an email
- an igloo

but:

- a euro
- a university
- a one-year-old child

- an hour
- an MP

   London Bridge is falling down
   Romans invaded Britain in 43 AD and chasing ancient Britons along the Thames, they came to first place that was easy to cross. They built garrison there – and London was born. They also built bridge over river. Garrison became major trading post. Later, bridge suffered neglect and whole area was raided by Vikings.

   In 886 AD, Alfred the Great drove out raiders, bridge was repaired and city prospered again. Hundred years later, Vikings returned but King Ethelred sailed up Thames, attached ropes to London Bridge, headed downriver and pulled it down.

The Beatles

In 1957, a young man called John Lennon from Liverpool decided to form pop group called The Quarrymen. In the same year, Lennon invited friend called Paul McCartney, then only fifteen, to join the group as guitarist. McCartney, in turn, invited George Harrison, following February. Ringo Starr became the fourth band member.

The name of the band was changed to The Beatles and it became one of most commercially successful and critically acclaimed acts in history of popular music. They built their reputation playing clubs in Liverpool and Hamburg in Germany over a three-year period from 1960. They achieved success in United Kingdom with their first single, Love Me Do, and gained international popularity over the next couple of years, touring extensively until 1966. Then they spent lot of time in the recording studio until their end in 1970.

Following break-up of the band, each member found success independently in musical careers, though Lennon himself was sadly murdered outside his home in New York in 1980. He was shot by a man at the entrance of building where he lived.

During The Beatles’ studio years, they produced some of their finest music, including album Sgt. Pepper’s Lonely Hearts Club Band (1967), widely regarded as masterpiece. The Beatles are the best-selling band in the history of popular music. They have had more number one albums in charts than any other musical act. They have sold more albums in USA than any other artist. Their influence on popular culture is unparalleled.

In our survey, we asked 400 people whether they believed there was life on other planets. The answer people gave us was that there must be planets in the universe with kind of life on them. They thought it was unlikely that of the planets in the universe were deserted except for ours. On the other hand, very people thought we had actually been visited by species. Hardly of the people we interviewed claimed they had seen a UFO and only a believed stories told by people of meetings with aliens. of those who said they had first-hand experience could offer proof and sadly, it seemed there was very chance that anyone would come up with such proof in the future. of the people in the survey were children or teenagers – they were adults.
Countable and uncountable nouns

• Countable nouns refer to things we can count. A countable noun has singular and plural forms:
  apple → apples  child → children

• Uncountable nouns refer to things we cannot count. An uncountable noun has no plural form and we do not use it with a/an:
  We need new furniture.
  Poverty can lead to unhappiness and despair.

How to learn vocabulary

Students are under enormous pressure to learn huge amounts of vocabulary but they are rarely given as to how to go about it. They have a to try and learn long lists by heart but this is hardly the most approach to the problem. The golden rule is to do lots of at regular intervals. Secondly, students should concentrate on words with the highest, particularly everyday words which also improve the students’ . They should also take every to use the words in communication – there is considerable evidence that learners who like using the foreign language improve their oral and their overall of the language much more rapidly than students who are to practise the language in real-life situations.

COMFORT FOOD

(0) .......... ‘comfort food’ refers to food which we eat in order to feel a little (1) .......... when we are feeling down – we (2) .......... eat comfort food at moments of psychological stress. In some cases, comfort food has to do with feelings of nostalgia – (3) .......... of us has different memories of what our mother or grandmother used to make when we were young. Comfort food can be (4) .......... comforting and healthy as long as it makes us feel better afterwards. So, although comfort foods are not necessarily always good for our health (5) .......... , they may be of some benefit if they help to cheer us up.

(6) .......... individual has their own idea of what comfort food is. In one piece of research, it was shown that a (7) .......... of males in the USA preferred things like steak, casseroles and soup while the majority of women preferred chocolate and ice cream. And it is well known that teenagers choose (8) .......... when they want to relax.

Comfort food, then, must take (9) .......... the responsibility for the obesity in modern society. People do not eat (10) .......... fresh fruit; experts say we should eat a (11) .......... fruit every day – an apple, an orange – whatever. And last but not least, most people usually eat too fast – they are always in a hurry to get the meal over as quickly (12) .......... they can. Instead of fast food, we should be thinking more of ‘slow food’.

For questions 13-24, read the text below and think of the word which best fits each gap. Use only one word in each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

OUT OF WORK

She was having a slow, leisurely breakfast. There was no rush. She didn’t have anything to do that day – she was ‘free’. She was going to stay in and go through all the papers, looking work. If that didn’t come up with anything, she would try Internet.

She finished her coffee and poured herself cup – it was her third that morning. She buttered another of toast. The show she had been in had finished a couple of weeks before. It had been a great success. It had been seen by a of people and the reviews had also been positive. Most importantly, she had made money from it to keep her going for a month or so. But now the money running out. It had been said that money was the root of all evil but she thought that not having enough of it was not doing her good, either. She had to find a way to make more money. She was hoping to find job in the theatre but there were very jobs on offer. These were hard times and the competition was fierce. She had found ads for two jobs which she could do but of them were in Liverpool and she didn’t fancy that because most her friends lived in London or nearby. She put the paper down and turned on her laptop.
Part 3

For questions 25-34, read the text below. Use the word given in capitals at the end of some of the lines to form a word that fits in the gap in the same line. There is an example at the beginning (0).

There was a time when all you needed to get a job were the right qualifications. But nowadays, apart from looking carefully at your form and CV, employers are more and more interested in finding out whether you have the right personal qualities. So it is also important to have good from any previous employers or teachers. It is also vital that you make the right at the interview. More and more employers are looking for what is often called ‘emotional’. This means you are someone who is good at listening and putting yourself in someone else’s position; it means you are able to find to problems and to work well with other people in a spirit of, and understanding of other people’s feelings. It also includes the, to understand other people’s motives and to make the most of them. All in all, you not only need to be in the job but also to be aware of other people’s feelings and needs. Your success in whatever you choose will depend on your practical skills as well as your, as a person.
Part 4

Now look at on pages 240-243.
Relative clauses give more information about the person, thing, place, etc. that we are talking about. They are introduced by a relative pronoun or adverb (who, which, whose, where, etc.). There are two types of relative clause: defining relative clauses and non-defining relative clauses.

Defining relative clauses

- Defining relative clauses identify which person, thing, place, etc. we mean exactly. They are also called identifying relative clauses. We cannot leave the relative clause out of the sentence because without it, the sentence would sound incomplete.

  This is the car that I saw here yesterday.

- The table below shows how relative pronouns are used in defining relative clauses:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Subject</th>
<th>Object</th>
<th>Possession</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>People</td>
<td>who/that</td>
<td>who/whom/that</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>She's the woman who/that lives next door.</td>
<td>She's the woman (who/whom/that) I saw on TV last night.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Things/Animals</td>
<td>which/that</td>
<td>which/that</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>I don't want a car which/that breaks down all the time.</td>
<td>This is the house (which/that) we bought.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>That's the kind of dog which/that makes a good pet.</td>
<td>It's the kind of dog (which/that) I'd like to have.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- We do not use commas in defining relative clauses.
- We can leave out the relative pronoun if it is the object of the clause:
  It's the kind of job (which/that) I'd like to have.
- When the verb has a preposition, we usually put the preposition at the end of the relative clause:
  Miss Berry was the person (who/that) I sent the letter to. Is this the book (which/that) you were looking for?
- In formal English, we can put the preposition before the relative pronouns whom or which (but not before who or that):
  *Miss Berry was the person to whom I sent the letter. (formal) ✓
  Is this the book for which you were looking? (formal and uncommon) ✓
  Miss Berry was the person to who I sent the letter. X
  Is this the book for that you were looking? X
- Whom is rather formal. We usually use who instead, except when we say to/for/with/etc. whom:
  *Is she the person to whom you gave the letter? He's the person whom I saw with her. X
  He's the person who I saw with her. ✓*
Non-defining relative clauses

- Non-defining relative clauses give additional information about the person, thing, place, etc. we are talking about. They are also called non-identifying relative clauses. A sentence would still make sense if we left out the non-defining relative clause.

  The summer here, which I don't like, lasts for months.
  The summer here lasts for months.

- The table below shows how relative pronouns are used in non-defining relative clauses:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Subject</th>
<th>Object</th>
<th>Possession</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>People</td>
<td>who</td>
<td>who/whom</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>His wife, who is French, speaks three languages.</td>
<td>His wife, who/whom I met in Paris, is French.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Things/Animals</td>
<td>which</td>
<td>which</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>The book, which was published in 2011, is brilliant.</td>
<td>The book, which I read last week, is brilliant.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>The dog, which looked very friendly, was huge.</td>
<td>The dog, which I hadn't seen until then, was huge.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- We cannot use the relative pronoun that in non-defining relative clauses.
- We cannot leave out the relative pronoun in non-defining relative clauses.
- We use commas to separate the non-defining relative clause from the main clause. Note the possible difference in meaning between defining (without commas) and non-defining relative clauses (with commas):

  The young man who lives next door has a dog. (= The relative clause who lives next door explains who I’m talking about. Without it, the listener won’t know who I’m referring to.)
  The young man, who lives next door, has a dog. (= The listener knows who ‘the young man’ is. The relative clause who lives next door is extra information.)

Relative adverbs

- We use the relative adverbs when, where and why in relative clauses, to refer to time, place and reason. We can use when and where in both defining and non-defining relative clauses. Why is only used in defining relative clauses.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adverb</th>
<th>Defining</th>
<th>Non-defining</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>when</td>
<td>That was the year when I graduated.</td>
<td>I met Fred in 2010, when I moved to York.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>where</td>
<td>That's the spot where the statue will be built.</td>
<td>Lyon, where my dad grew up, is a big city.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>why</td>
<td>Did he tell you the reason why you were fired?</td>
<td>–</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- In defining relative clauses, we can use that instead of when and why (but not where):

  *That was the year when/that my parents got married.*
  *That's the reason why/that I didn't want her to know!*

- In defining relative clauses, we can use a preposition and which instead of a relative adverb:

  *That's the factory where they make chemicals.*
  *That's the factory in which they make chemicals.*
  *That's the factory (which) they make chemicals in.*
Coordinating relative clauses

- In coordinating relative clauses, which refers to the whole main clause.
  She lied to him, which made him furious. (like which refers to She had lied to him.)
- Coordinating relative clauses always come after the main clause, and are separated from it with a comma.
  I decided to join them, which was a bad idea.

whatever, whichever, etc.

We use whatever whichever, whoever, wherever and whenever to talk about a person, thing, place, etc., when it does not matter who, what, which, etc. Whatever usually comes before a noun; whatever, whoever, wherever and whenever usually come before a clause:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Things/Actions</th>
<th>whichever</th>
<th>Buy whatever book you want. (= any book you want)</th>
</tr>

<tbody>
<tr>

<td>whatever</td>
<td>Whatever she can do to help, she will. (= anything she can do)</td>

<td>Come whenever you like. (= any time)</td>

Van Gogh: the sadness will last forever

Van Gogh was a Dutch painter (6) whose work has had a huge influence on 20th century art but (1) was not appreciated during his lifetime. His paintings, (2) are known for their vivid colours, have a very distinctive style. (3), beholds one of them can’t help but be moved. And today, his works are priceless – (4) they come up for auction, they sell for millions of pounds. (5) he painted – self portraits, landscapes, portraits or sunflowers – is worth a lot of money today.

In his early adulthood, Van Gogh travelled between The Hague and Paris, after (6) he taught in England. In 1885, (7) he was thirty-two, he painted his first major work, The Potato Eaters, (8) was quite a dark work. In his next works, he began to use the vivid colours for (9) he became famous.

In 1886, he moved to Paris, (10) he discovered the French Impressionists. The reason (11) they were called this was after a painting by Claude Monet (12) was called Impression – Sunrise. Van Gogh’s brother, Theo, (13) was a great influence on Van Gogh, had a large collection of Impressionist paintings.

On 27 July 1890, aged thirty-seven, Van Gogh shot himself; he died two days later. His brother Theo, (14) was at his side at the end, said his brother’s last words were: the sadness will last forever.

People who live in glass houses shouldn’t throw stones.
Participles

Present participles

We use present participles (the -ing form of a verb):

• to replace a relative clause:
  Anyone who arrives late will not be admitted.
  → Anyone arriving late will not be admitted.

• to replace and + a coordinate clause. The two actions in the sentence may happen at the same time or at different times. Compare:
  She stood there and waited for him to turn up.
  → She stood there, waiting for him to turn up.
  (= actions happening at the same time)

  Laughing and shouting, the children ran out of the room. (= actions happening at the same time)

  He turned off the light and went to bed.
  → Turning off the light, he went to bed.
  (= actions happening one after the other)

  Closing the door behind her, she got into the car and drove off. (= actions happening one after the other)

• to replace a clause beginning with a linker of reason:
  She didn’t go to the party because she knew John wouldn’t be there.
  → Knowing that John wouldn’t be there, she didn’t go to the party.

• to replace a clause beginning with a linker of result:
  He was exhausted, so he went straight to bed.
  → Being exhausted, he went straight to bed.

• to replace a time clause beginning with when, after, before, as soon as, while, etc.:
  When he realised he had left the lights on, he asked the taxi driver to turn back.
  → Realising he had left the lights on, he asked the taxi driver to turn back.

• as adjectives:
  a burning house (= a house that is on fire) falling leaves (= leaves that fall)

Past participles

We use past participles to replace passive verb forms. We use them:

• to replace a passive relative clause:
  She lives in a house that was built in the nineteenth century.
  → She lives in a house built in the nineteenth century.

• to replace a clause beginning with linkers of reason, result or contrast:
  The cinema is located in the city centre, so it’s very popular.
  → Located in the city centre, the cinema is very popular.

  Although it was released twenty years ago, the song is still very popular.
  → Although released twenty years ago, the song is still very popular.

• to replace clauses of condition:
  If I were given the opportunity, I would move back to Canada.
  → Given the opportunity, I would move back to Canada.

• We can also use past participles as adjectives:
  a broken vase  a haunted house

Perfect participles

We use perfect participles (having + past participle):

• to replace and + coordinate clause, when we want to emphasise that one action happened before another:
  I had finished my work and was getting ready for bed.
  Having finished my work, I was getting ready for bed.

• to replace a linker of reason/result + present perfect/past perfect:
  He’s broken his leg, so he can’t play tomorrow.
  Having broken his leg, he can’t play tomorrow.

  I was furious because I had found out he’d lied to me.
  Having found out he’d lied to me, I was furious.
1 Rewrite the sentences. Use participle clauses.

0 She was doing the high jump and she twisted her ankle.

1 Bill was listening to the lecture and he fell asleep.

2 I wanted to finish my work, so I decided to stay in.

3 He was well-qualified for the job, so he got it.

4 When I realised how rude I'd been, I apologised.

5 He left early because he wanted to catch the first bus.

2 Join the sentences. Begin each sentence with a perfect participle.

0 Anne handed in her script. She had answered all the questions.

1 He sent her an email. He had tried phoning her several times.

2 I had received an invitation. I felt I had to go to the party.

3 He couldn't get in. He had lost his key.

4 She had picked up her luggage. She went to look for a taxi.

3 Complete the story. Use the present or past participle forms of the verbs in brackets.

Eve

She sat at the window (watching) the evening getting darker. She gazed at the snow (falling) gently on the rooftops. She felt tired. The street was quiet. Few people were around, for it was bitterly cold. (exhausted) after a long day's work in the store, she was happy to sit there, (thinking) of the past. In the distance, she could hear children (shouting) and (laughing) as they chased each other. At the end of the road, there was an empty patch of ground (covered) with weeds. They used to play hide and seek there. A strange, bad-tempered man who lived nearby disapproved. He would turn up suddenly, (followed) by a dog and (held) a long stick. (terrifying), they would run away when they saw him (coming). He would chase them off the field, (shouting) words she didn't understand. Now she could hear the children (playing) the same games. Memories.

The houses were old; theirs was a terraced house (built) a long time ago. The house next door was even older and some people said it was (haunted). (passing) at night, she would sometimes hear noises. She shivered. She heard footsteps (walking) along the concrete pavement and (crunching) on the path leading to the (deserted) house. (puzzled) and somewhat (scared), she drew the curtains to get a better look. Who could it be?
To link two clauses that express contrasting ideas, we often use but:

Jack works very hard but he doesn’t have a lot of money.

We can express contrast using other conjunctions such as:

- Although/Though/Even though Jack works very hard, he doesn’t have a lot of money.
- In spite of/Despite working very hard, Jack doesn’t have a lot of money.
- Jack works very hard. Nevertheless, he doesn’t have a lot of money.
- Jack works very hard. However, he doesn’t have a lot of money.
- Whereas Jack works very hard, he doesn’t have a lot of money.
- While Jack works very hard, he doesn’t have a lot of money.
- On the one hand, Jack works very hard. On the other (hand), he doesn’t have a lot of money.

Note the structures that some of these linking words and phrases are followed by:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Word/Phrase</th>
<th>Followed by</th>
<th>Example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>although/though/even though</td>
<td>+ clause + comma</td>
<td>Even though she was invited, she didn’t go.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>in spite of/ despite</td>
<td>+ noun + comma</td>
<td>In spite of her success, she’s very modest.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>+ -ing + comma</td>
<td>In spite of being successful, she’s very modest.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>+ the fact that + clause + comma</td>
<td>In spite of the fact that she’s successful, she’s very modest.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nevertheless/However</td>
<td>+ comma + clause</td>
<td>I was offended. However/Nevertheless, I didn’t say anything.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Whereas/While</td>
<td>+ clause + comma</td>
<td>Whereas/While Kevin was for the idea, the others weren’t.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

We can reverse the order of the two clauses. Note the change in punctuation: when the contrast clause comes first, we use a comma. When it comes second, we don’t use a comma.

- In spite of the cold, we went to the beach.
- We went to the beach in spite of the cold.
- Although it was cold, we went to the beach.
- We went to the beach although it was cold.

Even though is often more emphatic than although or though. We use it to emphasise the contrast:

I can still remember that day, even though it was a long time ago.

However and nevertheless can be used in the same way. Nevertheless is considered slightly more formal:

What you said was true. However/Nevertheless, it was a little unkind.

We use whereas to say that although something is true of one thing, it is not true of another:

Why are some cancers curable whereas others are not?
Match 1-6 with a-g to make sentences.

0 Even though she set off early,
1 I like holidays in the mountains
2 Despite public protests,
3 In spite of high prices,
4 She works in a hospital
5 The economic situation has been quite difficult.
6 Even though I don’t really like going to football matches, a whereas my wife loves the seaside.

b while her husband is a taxi driver.
c it’ll be better than staying at home.
d she still arrived late.
e consumer goods are selling well.
f However, it is getting better now.
g the government decided to build a road through the wood.

Choose the correct answer.

0 Even though / Nevertheless she joined the company only a year ago, she has already been promoted twice.
1 Fast food is cheap however / whereas food in a proper restaurant is more expensive.
2 We went out even though / despite the rain.
3 Yet / Although he was only twelve, he won first prize in the competition.
4 They loved each other, yet / in spite they decided to part.
5 The children are very clever. While / However, they can be very noisy at times.
6 In spite of making / that she made a lot of mistakes, she still passed the test.

Complete the article. Use one word in each gap.

Retail therapy

Retail therapy makes us feel better. In spite of the fact that we have hit hard times, people still find money to go shopping. Even though they can’t afford to spend too much, they keep up the habit.

In some cases, they don’t buy anything at all, they still get pleasure from window shopping. The main point of this ‘retail therapy’ is to cheer ourselves up. In spite of struggling to make ends meet, people still find ways of practising this ‘hobby’. Though it’s popular, it’s a really strange kind of habit. On the one hand, people are worried about the contents of their wallet and on the other, they waste money on things which they can do without. And the fact that we are going through a global economic crisis, prices are still going up.

Retail therapy may seem to be a harmless hobby, it can become an addiction, and is particularly serious in young people. The addiction itself is not treated as seriously as other addictions. People can get professional or medical help for many other addictions, serial shoppers are simply encouraged to get more retail therapy.

(NB: to nouns ending in -y, we add -ical: history → historical, surgery → surgical; But: industry → industrial)

Some adjectives ending in -al do not have a first part that can exist on its own: abnormal, diagonal.

Some words ending in -al are nouns. They are formed from verbs: approve → approval, propose → proposal, survive → survival.

Some adjectives ending in -ive are formed from verbs: act → active, create → creative.

Some adjectives ending in -ous do not have a first part that can exist on its own: anxious, curious, enormous, generous, obvious, precious, serious.

Some words ending in -ist are nouns formed from verbs:

- arson + -ist → arsonist
- bigamy + -ist → bigamist
- novel + -ist → novelist
- piano + -ist → pianist
- race + -ist → racist
- science + -ist → scientist
- terror + -ist → terrorist
We can also add the suffix \(-ism\) to some of the nouns in the last table on page 240, to form other nouns. Nouns ending in \(-ism\) usually indicate a belief or principle:

\[ \text{race} \rightarrow \text{racism} \]
\[ \text{terror} \rightarrow \text{terrorism} \]

We can also add the suffix \(-ist\) to nouns to form adjectives:

\[ \text{sex} \rightarrow \text{a sexist attitude} \]

Science or Art?

As a student, my dream was to go to university and study to become a scientist. The fact that I became a musician was quite surprising.

It all started when my parents bought me a second-hand piano when I was twelve years old. It was old and not very pleasant. I must admit I had no idea how to play it and I was absolutely furious at my dad for not getting me that bike I wanted! The piano wasn’t even my favourite instrument. I much preferred the guitar, like most teenagers.

My ability was discovered by my first teacher, who was very encouraging. She had been a musician and I must say she was a very inspiring and charming teacher. She was a very talented musician, and in her youth, she had played in many orchestras. She was very patient and cheerful, even when she was critical of my mistakes. When the time came for me to decide on what to do at university, my parents gave me complete freedom to choose what I wanted. In the end, I followed the footsteps of my great teacher.

And they told me...

Internet: for and against

Recently, there has been a huge increase in the number of people using the Internet. At the same time, there has also been much debate about the influence of the Internet on our lives. The World Wide Web has connected people across cities and continents but in other ways it has adversely affected relationships between people. It has indeed succeeded in making contact between people quick and easy but it is important to also remind ourselves of the dangers, especially in the area of security and privacy. We need to find a solution to this problem. Nowadays, we hear a lot about cybercrime and hackers, and everyone agrees we must deal with these kind of threats. Internet users, which discourage many people from using the net at all. And, of course, parents also worry a lot about children being exposed to material that isn’t suitable for their age group.

However, the advantages of using the Internet are also numerous. For example, online shopping has made buying and paying for goods so much easier.

it as a preparatory subject

- We can use it as a preparatory subject, when the real subject comes later in a sentence. We often use it in the following structures:
  -
    - it + be + adjective/noun + to-infinitive:
      - It's useful to know how to use a computer.
      - It's easy to buy what you want in a big city.
      - It was a surprise to see him there.
    - it + be + adjective/noun + (that) clause:
      - It was amazing that no one was hurt.
      - It's a pity that he didn't get the job.
    - it + be + adjective/noun + -ing form:
      - It's no use trying to change her mind.
- We often use it with be to emphasise that we are talking about one particular person, thing, place, etc. and not any other:
  - It was Jim who stole the money.
  - It was Milan they went to, not Madrid.

there

- We use there + be to say that something exists or happens:
  - If you're not busy, there's something I'd like to ask you.
  - There's some milk in the fridge.
  - There are some very good films on this week.
  - There's been an accident at the crossroads.
  - There's going to be trouble.
- We can use there with all tenses of be, as well as with modal verbs:
  - There was no money in her wallet.
  - There will be someone waiting for you at the airport when you arrive.
  - There must be a solution to the problem.
  - There may be life on other planets.
- We often use there with the verbs seem, appear, happen and tend before be:
  - There seems to be a bit of a problem.
  - There appears to be a traffic jam further up the road.
  - There happens to be a lot about me that you don't know!
- We can also use a to-infinitive or a gerund after there:
  - I don't want there to be any trouble.
  - What's the chance of there being an election this year?
- There is also often used in the following structure:
  - There is sure/likely/bound/certain to be ...:
    - If there's discussion, there is bound to be disagreement.
    - There is sure to be trouble when he finds out about this!
- In spoken and informal English, there and the auxiliary are usually contracted:
  - there → there's
  - there will be → there'll be
  - there has been → there's been
Choose the correct answer.

Is there life on other planets?

Many scientists believe (0) it is possible that (1) is life elsewhere in the universe, but actually finding it is the difficult part.

First of all, we don't know exactly what form of life (2) might be on planets outside our solar system, so (3) is difficult to know how to search for it. Second, the universe is a big place and (4) takes space vehicles and even radio signals too long to reach the kind of distances where other life forms might exist.

(5) is easier to find out about conditions on Mars, the planet in our solar system where (6) is a possibility of finding signs of life. (7) is now known that conditions on Mars are similar to the conditions in Antarctica, except that (8) is a lack of oxygen! So we can guess what forms of life might be able to survive there, and (9) are projects under way to send machines to Mars to look for these kinds of life. Any life that we find might be very different from life on Earth.

Of course, (10) is possible that there is another dimension in our universe that we don't know about. Remember, (11) are billions of galaxies and we inhabit just one of them! (12) would be small-minded to believe that we are the only planet with life in this universe.
We often use prepositions in fixed phrases, where little variation is possible. Some prepositions go with groups of similar words:

- at: at breakfast, at lunch, at dinner, at supper
- for: for example, for instance
- on: on the phone, on my mobile

Sometimes we use more than one preposition in phrases:

- out of date
- out of fashion

Words with related meanings often go with different prepositions:

- in cash
- by credit card
- on earth
- in the world
- by accident
- on purpose
- at the bottom
- in the bottom left-hand corner
- by car
- on foot
- on holiday
- at work
- in a loud voice
- at the top of my voice

Below are some common prepositional phrases:
at the beginning or in the beginning?

- At the beginning is usually followed by of + noun:

  We’re leaving for France at the beginning of the month.

- In the beginning is not usually followed by a noun (or of):

  In the beginning, I really enjoyed my job; now I don’t.

at the end or in the end?

- At the end (of) refers to the final part of a period of time, event, activity, story, etc.:

  He’s leaving at the end of October.

- In the end means ‘after a period of time or after everything has been done’:

  We waited and waited. In the end, we decided to go back home.

on time or in time?

- On time means ‘at the planned time’:

  Was your train on time?

- In time means ‘early enough for something/to do something’:

  If we hurry, we’ll be there in time for lunch.

- In time can also mean ‘after a period of time, when a situation has changed’:

  In time, things will get better.

by bus or on the bus?

- By bus refers to the way you travel, to using a bus as a means of transport:

  I usually go to work by bus.

- On the bus refers to where you are while travelling:

  There were a lot of people on the bus.

made of or made from?

- We use made of when something keeps its nature, character or attributes after the process of making.

- We use made from when something changes during the process of making. Compare:

  The shirt is made of cotton. (Cotton is still cotton after the shirt is made.)

  The box is made from plastic. (Plastic is still plastic after the box is made.)

  Wine is made from grapes. (Grapes are not grapes any more after wine is made.)

  Bread is made from flour, water and yeast. (The ingredients change form during the process of making.)
1 Choose the correct answer.
0 In / From my point of view, there’s little advantage in buying shares now.
1 His health is going from / in bad for / to worse.
2 Your report was excellent: brief and on / to the point. Well done!
3 She accepted the award in / on behalf of her husband.
4 Would you please be quiet? I’m at / on the phone!

The way we listen

New technology is always ... at the news. Developments are taking place so quickly that new devices quickly go ... of date. When the cassette tape first appeared, it made records look very clumsy. To use a record player, you had to listen to music ... at home but cassette recorders were portable and allowed you to listen to music ... at your own, all times and wherever you chose: you could listen ... at work, in the park or on a picnic. Then came the Walkman. The Walkman was ... at first a huge success, allowing you to listen to music ... at your own, while you were out taking the dog ... at a walk, for example. Next came the CD along with the CD Walkman, and the sound quality was excellent.

But even that went quickly ... of fashion with the appearance of MP3 and MP4 files, which can do everything CDs can and much more. So in a short space of time, we have gone ... at using records to MPEG files. ... at time, CD sales will disappear completely – ... at the moment, most people only buy CDs when they want to get someone a nice present for their birthday or for Christmas. Before you know it, MP3 and MP4 files will be ... of favour as well. What is next?

Exam practice 7

Part 1
For questions 1-12, read the text below and decide which answer (A, B, C or D) best fits each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

ON YOUR BIKE!

If you’re getting fed up (0) time looking for parking space, my advice to you is to consider the bicycle as an alternative means of transport. Cycling is probably the cheapest and healthiest way of getting about in our congested city centres. (1) it is convenient and environmentally desirable, it can be an unattractive choice (2) a cold wintry morning. It is much easier (3) on a nice warm bus or jump into your car, (4) the sight of cyclists as they weave their way in and (5) the traffic may fill you with envy as you sit (6) in yet another traffic jam. In spite of the (7) that worsening pollution is getting many people (8) , causing more and more health problems, and (9) it is fashionable to express one’s approval (10) the environmentally safe bicycle, (11) hard to deny the danger cyclists face in sharing the road with cars. (12) cycling is not as risky as it looks at first sight, there are more and more accidents involving cyclists.

SCORE / 12
Part 2
For questions 13-24, read the text below and think of the word which best fits each gap. Use only one word in each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

OUT OF WORK
The best time to visit Switzerland is in the summer – effect, this means sometime between June and September. It is a great place to relax and away from it all and if you are interested in winter sports, a trip to Switzerland during the winter months will satisfy even the most demanding. As far as the weather is concerned, is a good chance of snow at least till June, especially high altitudes and, in some places, all year round. can get quite hot in the summer the rest of the year, you should be prepared for cold weather.

The biggest expense while Switzerland is likely to be long-distance transport, accommodation and eating out, none of are cheap. Switzerland is a notoriously expensive tourist destination, so unless you choose to get around car, you will be using Swiss public transport, may pinch your pocket, and even staying in a modest hotel will not be cheap. In of the cost, which is synonymous with quality, Switzerland has something to offer everyone. And don’t forget to pick up some cheese and chocolates the end of your stay!
Travel has been made much easier by modern means of transport and for the majority of people, flying to a holiday destination is reasonably expensive. Even flying across the globe is not as expensive as it used to be. Thus, even in times of crisis, the international tourism industry continues to be profitable. Moreover, people still travel to other countries for various reasons, in spite of the growth of the Internet and online communication.

In theory, all this travel should be making us more knowledgeable and tolerant of other cultures. But how true is the saying that travel broadens the mind? Does getting to know how other people live widen our cultural horizons or does it confirm us in our narrow beliefs about others? What effect does it have on us to experience the effect of other nations first hand? Does it make us more positive towards other cultures or just more critical?
Part 4

For questions 35-42, complete the second sentence so that it has a similar meaning to the first sentence, using the word given. Do not change the word given. You must use between two and five words, including the word given. Here is an example (0).

anniversary best engage fall get go honeymoon in know marriage meet stranger to to wedding

Last August, Tony and Julie were complete strangers. They hadn’t even heard of each other. They first met at Michael’s twenty-first birthday party and they took an instant liking to each other immediately. As they got to know each other, they realised they had many things in common. After the party, they began to go out together. Before long, they had fallen in love. They decided to get married and then, if all went well, they would get married a year later. Julie said she didn’t believe it was a good idea before they had both found good jobs. In the end, the wedding took place in August, on the first of their meeting at Michael’s party. Their honeymoon man was Michael, who had invited them to his party a year before. For their anniversary, they went on a two-week cruise of the Aegean islands.

Friendship

Study the word web and complete the sentences. Sometimes more than one answer is possible.

0 She’s cheerful and friendly, the whole time.
1 The new student in the class is upset because we’ve been unfriendly, towards him.
2 Our friendship developed quickly over the weeks that followed.
3 She’s not a very close friend – she’s just an acquaintance.
4 The two boys become friends very quickly.
5 I’ve just bought a new computer but the manual is not very user-friendly – I can’t understand a word it says.
First read the text and underline four phrasal verbs. Then complete the sentences. Use the particles below. You will use some of them more than once. Some of the phrasal verbs in the sentences appear in the text.

Stuck-Up
Kelly's a really difficult person to get on with - she's already fallen out with her best friend. The way she looks down on everyone else really puts people off her - many people think she's a bit of a snob but I think it's just the way she's been brought up. You see, she was an only child in a very well-off family, so she's probably been spoilt.

I don't get .......... very well with my boss because he thinks I don't work hard enough.
1 She fell ............... with her boyfriend but after a while they made up again.
2 He looks ............. to his father and always listens carefully to his advice.
3 Just because she's got more money than her neighbours, she looks ........... on them.
4 She's very popular with colleagues because she's always ready to help them .......... if they have problems.
5 She was born in France but didn't grow ............... there - she was brought ............. by her grandparents in Spain.
6 She used to go ............. with a boy called Jack but they've broken ............. for good now - what put him ............. her was her arrogance.

Occupations

Complete the words in the text.

And a good job, too!
There is a lot of .......... nowadays, so it is getting more and more difficult to get the kind of .......... you really want. Then you have to decide what is more important to you - how much you .......... or job satisfaction? Do you want to work with your hands (called .......... work) or do you prefer to work in an office (called .......... work)? Do you prefer to work indoors or ..........?

Whatever you decide, when you are thinking about a career or applying for a job, you will find the following vocabulary useful:

- apply for a job
- make a lot of money
- belong to a union
- dismiss someone from a job
- make an application
- have a large income
- join a union
- employ someone
- earn a good wage
- retire from work

4 Complete the words in the text. They are all connected with the theatre.

The most difficult role

They say Hamlet is the most difficult role for an actor to play and one of the most difficult parts to direct. Laurence Olivier gave one of the best parts of his career as Hamlet. There are always several performances of Hamlet being put on all over the world at any one time. The irony is that although we know more about Hamlet than almost any other character in literature, we hardly know anything about the author of the play, William Shakespeare.

When planning a holiday, you must first decide where you are going. Next, you need to decide where you’re going to stay and how you’re going to travel – by plane, car, train or boat. You may need to visit a travel agent who will organise your tickets. If you are flying abroad, it’s best to book in advance to make sure you get the flight you want and a good hotel. Don’t forget to arrange to have some foreign currency and to have enough cheques.

Complete the second sentence so that it has a similar meaning to the first sentence, using the word given. Use between two and five words. Do not change the word given.

3 Complete the words in the text.

The British are well known for always chatting about their weather. This is because the weather in Britain is so you never know what it will be. A popular greeting is ‘Isn’t this weather?’ If it’s raining, they might say ‘Great weather for ducks!’ You will often hear people add ‘permitting’ when they say they plan to play golf, garden or put out the washing. Most postcards from a holiday in Greece or Spain begin: ‘It’s hot here.’ even when local people think it’s just a normal and sunny day. There are many expressions in English which show the importance of the weather in people’s lives. For example, feeling the weather means feeling slightly ill. If you ‘make weather of a job’, it means you make it seem more difficult than it really is. and if you ‘keep a weather eye on something’, you give it your full attention – as the British do with their weather!

4 Complete the phrases. Use the words in the box. You can use some of the words more than once. Sometimes more than one answer is possible.

9 It was a freezing hot morning, so we decided to go for a swim.
10 ‘It’s snowing!’ he said, wiping the snowfall that had landed on his nose.

Choose the correct answer.

A Greece enjoys a Mediterranean weather /climate most of the year, with warm to hot days and mild /changeable nights. However, in the middle of summer, it can be lightly /unbearably hot and stuffy, and winter can be chilly /humid. December and January can be very cold and in February it is often rainy. April can be changeable /smokey, with sunny days interrupted by windy showery /bucketing weather.

B Most of Spain is always warm from April to October, though it can occasionally be cold and rainy /scorching in the north, especially in the mountains. The south is amazingly /bitterly mild throughout the year – it hardly has a winter.

C Britain has a very changeable climate. Although long periods of fine /overcast weather occur each year, it is not easy to forecast /cast the weather accurately, while you can get soaked /bucketed during any season! The north of the country is much colder and bright /windy in winter, often with quite heavy snowflakes /snowfalls. The southwest has milder weather.
7 Match the situations (1-10) with the expressions (a-k). You can use a dictionary to help you.

0 Because bad luck isn’t repeated in the same place, I parked where my car had been stolen.
1 Don’t spend all your money now – you might need some later.
2 No one trusted her after she was caught stealing from the toyshop.
3 I’m not feeling too good today. I think I’ll stay in bed and rest.
4 I think a lot of fuss is being made over something very unimportant.
5 The report was far too detailed – we needed only the basic information.
6 I never receive complaints but now I have had ten in a row!
7 He’s out playing tennis whatever the weather.
8 I can’t think clearly about what happened just before the accident.
9 This good luck is too good to last – something is bound to go wrong.
10 When I was in hospital, I lost a lot of weight – something good came out of it!

Save it!

In recent years, the number of environmental problems has increased dangerously. One of the most serious problems is changes to the atmosphere, which has led to the greenhouse effect; this is making most climates warmer. It is already affecting several areas of the world with unusual weather, causing droughts or heavy storms. Cutting down on exhaust fumes from vehicles would help solve the problem. Natural resources such as oil and coal are not endless, so using other forms of energy such as wind, sun, water and even sea waves would help preserve our planet. Very soon we will be able to drive cars in cities and towns that run on electricity – a much cleaner fuel than petrol. And we can also help to conserve finite resources by recycling things made of glass, aluminium, plastic and paper.

5 Complete the sentences. Use words formed from the words in CAPITALS at the end of the lines.

0 The article talks about renewable sources of energy such as solar power. RENEW
1 What can we do to reduce the pollution of the atmosphere? POLLUTE
2 The change in the climate has produced disaster floods. DISASTER
3 Many rare species are threatened with extinction. EXTINCT
4 Many of the gases produced by factories are harmful to our health. HARM
5 Exhaust fumes have damaging effects on the environment. DAMAGE
6 Many countries must try and control the growth of population. POPULATE
7 Protecting the environment is essential to our survival. SURVIVE
8 The protection of the environment is everyone’s responsibility. PROTECT 9 While some countries get richer, the poverty in others gets worse. POOR
10 Millions of people in the world are threatened with starvation. STARVE

One of the two greatest inventions of the last millennium was the printing press in the 15th century. This changed the way people obtained information but also the way they saw the world. There is a difference in how we see things in print and, for example, on an electronic screen. Watching TV has a hypnotic effect that goes beyond what happens to be on. And today there are so many TV channels to choose from that TV can be really addictive, just as the Internet can be.

This brings us to the second greatest invention of the millennium: the computer. Marshall McLuhan said that the new computer change us and the world. We see this principle at work in every kind of technology. When films started to talk, we started to talk like them. When computers started to link up on the Internet, we too started connecting and interacting with people all around the world, through social networking websites and groups of ‘friends’ – or strangers.

Crime

Complete the words in the text.

Thieves have been around for centuries, probably for as long as humans, but armed robbery is a more recent phenomenon. Unfortunately, women have always been the victims of rape and domestic violence. Organised crime has been around ever since printing has been used to make money or produce documents. Rich people or their children are sometimes kidnapped and are not set free until a ransom has been paid. The twentieth century saw the appearance of organised crime - hijacking, drug-smuggling or drug-trafficking, for example. Statistics show an alarming increase in the rate of violent crimes and crimes to do with the sale of arms across the world. Perhaps the most recent crime of all is hacking into computers to access information that helps competitors in industry. This increase in international crime makes one wonder whether it is still true to say 'Crime doesn't pay'.

2. The Romans invaded Britain in 43AD and chasing the ancient Britons along the Thames, they came to the first place that was easy to cross. They built a garrison there - and London was born. They also built a bridge over the river. The garrison became a major trading post. Later, the bridge suffered neglect and the whole area was raided by the Vikings.

In 886AD, Alfred the Great drove out the raiders, the bridge was repaired and the city prospered again. A hundred years later, the Vikings returned but King Ethelred sailed up the Thames, attached ropes to London Bridge, headed downriver and pulled it down.

- Can be used to accompany an exam preparation course or on its own for grammar reference and practice

Grammar for Cambridge First
- Thorough review of key grammar points tested in the exam with thousands of corpus-based example sentences showing natural English in authentic contexts
- A wealth of practice exercises for specific grammar points targeted on the exam

Vocabulary for Cambridge First
- Focus on essential words and phrases that you need to know to write about a wide range of topics
- Word Store at the back of the book focuses on topics and lexical areas that are important to know for the exam

Comprehensive practice and continuous testing in exam format
- Entry Tests lead students clearly to appropriate practice of specific language points
- Comprehensive practice in each unit focuses on the grammar and vocabulary points presented
- Exam Practice tests every two units test your knowledge of the grammar and vocabulary studied in the previous two units
