Series Overview with Teaching Suggestions

Select Readings, Second Edition is a reading course for students of English. In Select Readings, Second Edition, high-interest, authentic reading passages serve as springboards for reading skills development, vocabulary building, and thought-provoking discussions and writing.

The readings represent a wide range of genres (newspaper and magazine articles, personal essays, textbook chapters, book excerpts, and on-line discussions) gathered from well-respected sources, such as The Wall Street Journal and National Geographic, and approved by experienced teachers.

General Approach to Reading Instruction

The following principles have guided the development of Select Readings, Second Edition:

- Exposing students to a variety of text types and genres helps them develop more effective reading skills. Students learn to handle the richness and depth of writing styles they will encounter as they read more widely in English.

- Readers become engaged with a selection when they are asked to respond personally to its theme. While comprehension questions help students see if they have understood the information in a reading, discussion questions ask students to consider the issues raised by the passage.

- Readers sharpen their reading, vocabulary-building, and language skills when skills work is tied directly to the content and language of each reading passage. This book introduces students to reading skills such as skimming and scanning and vocabulary-building strategies such as learning synonyms and understanding phrasal verbs. Each skill was chosen in consultation with teachers to ensure that the most applicable and appropriate skills were selected for students at the Pre-Intermediate level.

- Good readers make good writers. Reading helps students develop writing skills, while writing experience helps students become better readers.

- Background knowledge plays an important role in reading comprehension. An important goal of Select Readings, Second Edition is to illustrate how thinking in advance about the topic of a reading prepares readers to better comprehend and interact with a text.

Chapter Overview

Each chapter in Select Readings, Second Edition includes the eight sections described below.

1. Opening Page

The purpose of this page is to draw readers into the theme and content of the chapter with relevant artwork and a compelling quotation.
Teaching Suggestions:
- Ask students to describe what they see in the photo(s) or artwork on the page and guess what the chapter is about. Have them read the quotation, restate it in their own words, and then say if they agree with it. Finally, ask what connection there might be between the image and the quotation.
- Call students’ attention to the Chapter Focus box. Give them a chance to think about the content and skills they are about to study and to set their own learning goals for the chapter.

2. Before You Read
The first activity in each Before You Read section is designed to get students to connect personally to the topic of the chapter and to activate their background knowledge of the topic. A second activity or question in this section asks students to further explore their knowledge of the topic by completing a task with a partner. The third activity asks students to complete a Previewing Chart, which provides specific tasks for previewing a text. The purpose of this chart is to encourage students to make a habit of using simple previewing strategies before they read any text.

Teaching Suggestions:
- Make sure that students understand the purpose of the Before You Read activities. Explain that activating prior knowledge will help them to better comprehend the reading passage.

3. Reading Passage
In general, the readings become increasingly long and/or more complex as the chapters progress. To help students successfully tackle each passage, we have provided the following support tools:

Vocabulary glosses. Challenging words and expressions are glossed throughout the readings. In most cases, we have glossed chunks of words instead of individual vocabulary items. This approach helps students develop a better sense of how important context is to understanding the meaning of new words.

Culture and Language Notes. On pages 141–153, students will find explanations for cultural references and language usage that appear in blue type in the readings. Notes are provided on a wide range of topics from scientific information, to geographical references, to famous people.

Maps. Each location featured in a reading passage is clearly marked on one of the maps found on pages 154–157.

Numbered lines. For easy reference, every fifth line of each reading passage is numbered.

Recorded reading passages. Listening to someone reading a text aloud helps language learners see how words are grouped in meaningful chunks, thus aiding comprehension.
Teaching Suggestions:
- Encourage students to read actively. Circling words, writing questions in the margins, and taking notes are three ways in which students can make reading a more active and meaningful experience.
- Play the recorded version of the reading passage and ask students to listen to how the reader groups words together. As they listen to the recording, students can lightly underline or circle the groups of words.

4. After You Read: Understanding the Text
Following each reading, there are two to three post-reading activities that give students the chance to (a) clarify their understanding of the text, (b) practice reading skills previously introduced, and (c) discuss the issues raised in the reading. The first activity in this section is designed to give students practice with the types of comprehension questions used on exams such as TOEFL®, TOEIC®, and IELTS™. Questions are also labeled to highlight the reading skill required to answer the question.

Teaching Suggestions:
- Get students to discuss their reactions to the readings in pairs or groups. The process of discussing questions and answers gives students an opportunity to check their comprehension more critically.
- If time permits and you would like students to have additional writing practice, ask them to write a short essay or a journal entry on one of the questions in the Consider the Issues section.

5. Building Vocabulary
Reading extensively is an excellent way for students to increase their vocabulary base. Considering this, we pay careful attention to developing students’ vocabulary-building skills in each chapter of Select Readings, Second Edition. A variety of vocabulary-building skills are introduced and recycled throughout the book. Each Building Vocabulary section starts out with a short explanation and examples of the skill in focus. In the activities that follow the explanation, students typically scan the reading to gather and analyze various types of words and then use the words in a new context.

Teaching Suggestions:
- View the explanation and examples at the beginning of each Building Vocabulary section before asking students to tackle the activities that follow. Encourage them to ask any questions they have about the explanations or examples.
- Encourage students to keep a vocabulary notebook. Present various ways in which students can organize the words in their notebook: by chapter, by topic, by part of speech, etc.
6. Reading Skill
At the beginning of each Reading Skill section, students encounter a short explanation of the skill in focus and, when appropriate, an example of how that skill relates to the reading in the chapter. The first task following this explanation asks students to return to the reading to think about and use the new reading skill. The new Apply the Reading Skill sections then give students the opportunity to apply the strategy to a new short reading that is related to the topic of the main reading passage.

Teaching Suggestions:
- Review the explanations and sample sentences at the beginning of each Reading Skills section before asking students to tackle the questions that follow. Encourage them to ask any questions they have about the explanations or examples.
- Reflect with students on the ways in which they can apply the reading skills they have learned in each chapter to other reading passages. Then have them apply the new reading skill as they work with the second reading passage in this section.

7. Discussion and Writing
At the end of each chapter, students have an opportunity to talk and write about a variety of issues. The activities in this section provide students with a chance to broaden their views on the topic of the reading and to address more global issues and concerns.

Teaching Suggestions:
- When time permits, let students discuss a question a second time with a different partner or group. This allows them to apply what they learned in their first discussion of the question.
- Choose one or more of the questions in this section as an essay topic for students.

8. Words to Remember
Each chapter ends with a list of Words to Remember. A majority of these words are Oxford 2000 keywords, and many are also highlighted on the Academic Word List. This section provides an efficient means for students to keep track of important new vocabulary by chapter. In addition, the new Mini-Dictionary on pages 158–164 features carefully crafted definitions of each Word to Remember from the new Oxford Basic American Dictionary for learners of English, giving students an alphabetical reference of the words and their definitions all in one place.

Are You Getting Enough Sleep?

What happens if you don’t get enough sleep? Randy Gardner, a high school student in the United States, wanted to find out. He designed an experiment on the effects of sleeplessness for a school science project. With Dr. William C. Dement from Stanford University and two friends watching him carefully, Gardner stayed awake for 264 hours and 12 minutes. That’s eleven days and nights without sleep!

What effect did sleeplessness have on Gardner? After 24 hours without sleep, Gardner started having trouble reading and watching television. The words and pictures were too blurry. By the third day, he was having trouble doing things with his hands. By the fourth day, Gardner was hallucinating. For example, when he saw a street sign, he thought it was a person. He also imagined he was a famous football player.

Over the next few days, Gardner’s speech became so slurred that people couldn’t understand him. He also had trouble remembering things. By the eleventh day, Gardner couldn’t pass a counting test. In the middle of the test he simply stopped counting. He couldn’t remember what he was doing.

When Gardner finally went to bed, he slept for 14 hours and 45 minutes. The second night he slept for twelve hours, the third night he slept for ten and one-half hours, and by the fourth night, he had returned to his normal sleep schedule.

Even though Gardner recovered quickly, scientists believe that going without sleep can be dangerous. They say that people should not repeat Randy’s experiment. Tests on white rats have shown how serious sleeplessness can be. After a few weeks without sleep, the rats started losing fur. And even though the rats ate more food than usual, they lost weight. Eventually, the rats died.

1 experiment a scientific test
2 effects of sleeplessness things that happen when you don’t get enough sleep
3 speech way of talking
4 a counting test a test of saying numbers in order: 1, 2, 3, 4, etc.
5 fur hair on an animal’s body
6 eventually after some time
Has anyone stayed awake longer than Randy Gardner? Yes! According to The Guinness Book of World Records, Maureen Weston from the United Kingdom holds the record for staying awake the longest. She went 449 hours without sleep in 1977. That’s 18 days and 17 hours!

During your lifetime, you will likely spend 25 years or more sleeping. But why? What is the purpose of sleep? Surprisingly, scientists don’t know for sure. Scientists used to think we “turned our brains off” when we went to sleep. Sleep researchers now know, however, that our brains are very active when we sleep. Some scientists think we sleep in order to replenish brain cells. Other scientists think that sleep helps the body to grow and relieve stress. Whatever the reason, we know that it is important to get enough sleep.

About Sleep

Each night, we pass through five stages, or periods, of sleep. In Stage 1, we fall asleep. We sleep lightly in Stage 2. We have deep, or sound, sleep in Stages 3 and 4. Stage 5—REM (Rapid Eye Movement) sleep—is the most interesting stage. This is the time when we dream. These stages last about one and one-half hours. After each REM stage, we return to Stage 2 (light sleep) and begin the cycle again.

Building Vocabulary

Using Collocations
A collocation is a set—or chunk—of two or more words that are often used together. For example, it's natural for native speakers to say sleep schedule, but not sleep timetable or sleep program. Remembering collocations as chunks of words (sleep + schedule) makes it easy for you to recall and use them correctly.

We form collocations by combining different parts of speech. Below are some examples of collocations that include sleep:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Expressions</th>
<th>Verb + Adverb</th>
<th>Noun + Noun</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>go without sleep</td>
<td>sleep soundly</td>
<td>sleep schedule</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>get enough sleep</td>
<td>sleep well</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>go / get to sleep</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>fall asleep</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

A. Use the words in the box below to form collocations and complete the sentences.

  enough  fall  schedule  soundly  to  without
```

1. What time do you usually go __________ sleep?
2. What time did you go __________ sleep last night?
3. How long does it take you to __________ asleep?
4. How long can you go __________ sleep?
5. Do you usually get __________ sleep on weeknights?
6. Do you sleep __________ every night?
7. Do you have a regular or irregular sleep __________?
8. Do you have the same sleep __________ every day?

B. Pair work. Ask a partner the questions in Activity A.

   Example
   A: What time do you usually go to sleep?
   B: I usually go to sleep at 10:30.

2. Discuss your answers with a partner. Then choose one of the topics and write a paragraph explaining your opinion.

Example

What are the effects of using a computer too much?

Computers help us do many things, but they can be bad for you, too. If you use the computer for a long time without a break, your eyes may begin to hurt. You might also get a headache. Computers are good for chatting with friends or sending e-mail. However, if you only talk with your friends on the computer, you can’t do fun things with them. Make sure you have enough time with your friends away from the computer, too.

12 Chapter 2 | Mika’s Homestay in London
Mika’s Homestay\(^{1}\) in London

by Mika Tanaka

Mika Tanaka, a college student from Japan, had a wonderful homestay in London. She lived with a British family and studied English for a month.

“What do you want for your 19\(^{th}\) birthday?” my parents asked me. “A ring,” I replied. However, instead of a ring, my parents gave me a one-month homestay in London.

On February 11, I left Japan. On the plane, I worried about being all alone\(^{2}\) there—a stranger to London. But when I met the Flannery family (my host family), their warm welcome\(^{3}\) made me feel at ease. Both my host father and mother were very kind and treated me like their own daughter.\(^{4}\)

1. homestay period during which a visitor in a foreign country lives with a local family
2. all alone by myself; without someone I know
3. warm welcome friendly greeting
4. treated me like their own daughter were kind and good to me, like I was their own daughter
Getting Ready to Go

Before going to London, I did some research on English schools in London and chose Oxford House College, mainly because it had reasonable fees. Also, there weren’t many Japanese students at Oxford House.

I took my parents’ advice and requested that my homestay family have both a mother and a father, be native-born, non-smoking, middle-class British people, and live near a subway station. I later found that this was very good advice, since some of my friends at the English school were having problems with their host families.

Living in London

Potatoes! It took me a little time to get used to the many kinds of potato dishes served: fried potatoes, steamed potatoes, sliced potatoes, and different-colored potatoes. My host mother was a good cook. She made delicious pasta and chicken dishes and even cooked rice for me.

Nadiege, a French girl, was another homestay student living with us, and we went around London together. On Saturdays, my host family would have a party at home with friends or family. When we returned from touring London, Nadiege and I would join the party. On Saturday evenings, Mr. and Mrs. Flannery would go to their favorite pub to spend time together.

Although I selected a school with few Japanese students, there were still at least two in each class. In class, I tried to speak a lot, but many Japanese students didn’t use their English very much (even if they had large vocabularies), and spoke only Japanese with their friends.

Sometimes, I asked other people their impressions of Japan. “Japanese people work too hard,” said my French friend. My teacher thought that Japanese people were very rich. I did not agree with these points, but I was interested in knowing what foreign people thought. One month in London made me realize that speaking English was very important because it is the language that people from many countries use the most. I would like to be more open-minded about people from different countries, like my host family is.

When you need to find specific information in a text, like the name of a person or a place, or a keyword that is important to the story, you don’t have to read every word. Instead, you can move your eyes quickly over the text to find the information. This is called scanning.

A. Analyze the Reading
Look at the questions below. Then scan (don’t read) the passage and find the answers.

1. What date did Mika leave for her homestay?

2. What was the name of Mika’s homestay family?

3. What was the name of the other student who lived with Mika’s host family?

4. Where did Mika study?

5. How many other Japanese students were in Mika’s classes?

My Homestay in France
by Amy Miller

Last summer, I went to France for a two-month homestay. I left Boston and arrived in Paris on June 15. I met my host family at the airport. My host parents were Marc and Gabrielle Lapierre. They also had a daughter, Sophie, who was 14 years old.

The Lapierres lived in an apartment in Paris. It was very close to a subway station, so it was easy for me to travel around the city. I visited all the famous sites in Paris. I study art history, so the museums were my favorite places. Every evening I practiced speaking French with my host family, and I also helped Sophie practice her English.

The food in Paris was amazing. I tried a lot of different dishes, but the crepes were my favorite. You can buy crepes almost anywhere in the city. My favorite ones had tomatoes and cheese inside, or chocolate. Gabrielle taught me how to make crepes, and now I make them at home.

I was sad when I left Paris on August 12, but I’ll never forget my wonderful time there. Marc and Gabrielle told me that they want to send Sophie for a homestay with my family and me in a few years. I can’t wait!

It's Not Always Black and White.

You can find the names of colors in a lot of English expressions. Many of these expressions, however, talk about colors in very different ways. For example, the expression black and white can have different meanings. If something is black and white, it means it is clear, easy to understand.

However, some people see everything in black and white, which means that they judge everything they see as either good or bad. Some people have to see something in black and white to know that it is true; this black and white talks about seeing something printed, as in a newspaper. If something is printed in a newspaper, it must be true, right?

The color red is often used to talk about things that are hot or exciting. You can listen to red-hot jazz music or eat red-hot chili peppers. If you roll out the red carpet for someone, you are giving them a big welcome. On TV, you may see stars walking on the red carpet at the opening night of a Hollywood movie or at the Academy Awards. After a big night like this, the stars often paint the town red, which means that they celebrate and have fun, going to parties or nightclubs all over town. However, red isn’t always fun.

If you do something embarrassing, like spill coffee on your teacher’s desk, perhaps your face is beet-red. Your teacher’s face might be red with anger, too! Or if you see a person doing something bad on purpose, like taking someone’s wallet, you can say that you caught the person red-handed. Whether it’s good or bad, red usually means something interesting is happening.

Blue is different. When people are blue, or have got the blues, it means they feel sad. They might listen to blues music, which usually tells sad stories. Blue isn’t always a sad color, though. If something good happens to you when you’re not expecting it, like when you get a good idea, or if you run into an old friend, you can say it happened out of the blue.

1 opening night the first night a new movie is shown
2 spill drop something, usually liquid, by accident
3 beet a small, round root vegetable that is often red
4 with anger angry, mad, or upset
5 on purpose intentionally, not by accident
6 run into suddenly meet
Green is another color that can have very different meanings. In the past, being green was almost always something negative. For example, if you ride on a boat and feel seasick, your face may look green. If someone has something nice that you really want, like a new car or an expensive watch, you may also be green with envy. Or if you are starting a new job, your boss may say you are green, which means that you don’t have any experience.

Now, however, green is usually good. Being green more often means doing good things for the environment. People who are good at growing plants have a green thumb. Many companies are going green, which means they are recycling more or are trying to use less energy. In fact, some companies are moving to new, green buildings, which may use solar power or grow plants on their roofs. So if someone asks you how green you are, it probably means they want to know if you do good things for the environment.

Learning new expressions with colors can be fun, but it’s not always easy. As you can see, their meanings can sometimes be very different. Try looking for these expressions in the things you read. If you learn more about how these expressions are used, you may add a little color to your writing, or even pass your next English test with flying colors.

7 seasick feeling sick to your stomach while riding in a boat
8 with envy envious; wanting something that someone else has 9 environment everything around you; it usually means the air, water, and land; the earth
10 recycling using things again, like metal, glass, or paper
11 solar power energy from the sun
12 pass... with flying colors do very well, be successful

Understanding Idioms
There are a lot of idiomatic expressions, or idioms, in English. Idioms are expressions whose meaning cannot be easily guessed just from the words in the idiom itself. The reading on pages 23–24 contains several idiomatic expressions using the names of colors.

Examples
• see everything in black and white (judge people or situations too quickly)
• out of the blue (suddenly)
• going green (trying to do good things for the environment)

A. What do you think the expressions below mean? Read each sentence and match the idiom with the correct meaning. Underline the words that helped you guess the meaning.

1. Carl's business was doing really well, but he lost some big customers and now he's in the red.
   □ losing more money than he's making
   □ making more money than he needs

2. After the car accident, Sarah's nose was black and blue for days.
   □ had too much makeup
   □ was dark and bruised from being hit

3. I thought Max was a nice guy, but yesterday he really showed his true colors. He yelled at Eric for making a really little mistake.
   □ showed what he's really like
   □ showed that he likes to get angry

4. The manager gave us the green light for our new project. I can't wait to get started.
   □ permission to move forward
   □ a lot of money

B. Do you know these idioms? Work with a partner to guess the meanings.
• blue-collar job / white-collar job
• tell a white lie
• once in a blue moon
• raise a red flag

Skimming
When you skim a reading selection, you read it quickly to learn about its content and organization. You don't read every word. Instead, your eyes move very quickly over the selection, trying to find general information. For example, look at the reading on pages 23–24 again. Read very quickly. How many colors does the reading talk about? You don't have to read every word to see the words black and white, red, blue, and green.

A. Analyze the Reading
Take just one minute to skim the Scope and Sequence on pages vi–vii. Then answer the questions.

1. Which chapter(s) might have a reading about technology?

2. Which chapter(s) might be about a famous person?

3. Which chapter(s) might be about student life?

4. Which chapter(s) might be about business?

B. Apply the Reading Skill
First, read the questions below. Then take one minute to skim the article for the answers. Discuss your answers with a partner.

Showing Your True Colors

What does your favorite color say about the kind of person you are? Some people think that you can understand a lot about a person by his or her favorite color.

A person who likes red is usually strong and healthy. Red people like to see the good things in other people and don’t like to feel sad. They like to try new things and don’t like to stay home all day.

For a really fun time, talk to a person who likes orange. They like to be around friends all the time and love parties. Orange people are strong, and they like a lot of drama in their lives. Green people like to be around people, too, but sometimes they are too nice, which is not always good.

People who like blue are also very loving people. They are calm and strong, and they like other people to see this. They are very different from those who like purple. Purple people are funny, loud, and usually like art. They are happy to be different from others.

So, does your favorite color describe you? Try asking your friends and see if their color matches their personality. Have fun!

1. What is the topic of the reading selection?
   - (A) English expressions with colors
   - (B) favorite colors and personality
   - (C) feelings and emotions

2. Which words helped you find the answer to question 1?

3. Where would you probably see this kind of reading?

   - (C) in a magazine, for fun

4. Which words helped you find the answer to question 3?

Helping Others
by Mariko Asano

1. Habitat for Humanity International—or Habitat—is a nonprofit organization that helps people in need build houses. Since 1976, volunteers for Habitat have served more than 600,000 families worldwide. According to Habitat, however, there are still more than 1.6 billion people in the world without decent housing. In the article below, Mariko Asano talks about her experience as a Habitat volunteer. She has traveled to the Philippines three times to help build houses for people who need them.

I am 24 years old, and I grew up in Nishinomiya, Japan. Several years ago, I went to Negros Island in the Philippines as a Habitat volunteer.

This was the first of three trips I have taken to the Philippines as a volunteer. For me, the idea of building somebody’s house abroad was very exciting. The next year I returned to Negros Island as a Habitat volunteer. This time I went as a student leader with 28 classmates from Kyoto University of Foreign Studies.

1. in need: needing help
2. decent housing: housing of an acceptable standard; livable housing
Both the staff and the families on Negros Island became dear friends of the work team I led. Meeting these people was wonderful for each of us. Their lifestyle reminded us of the meaning and value of life. The people also helped us appreciate the more valuable things in life, such as spending time with your family, friends, and neighbors; developing close relationships; helping each other; and appreciating what you do have. These things are sometimes forgotten in an affluent country like Japan.

We thought we came to the Philippines to help the Filipino people, but they helped us to see something valuable. They generously offered their food, space, and hearts in a way we were unaccustomed to. (Would you give up your bed for a stranger and sleep on the uncomfortable cement floor at your own house?)

When I took my third trip to the Philippines as a Habitat volunteer, I was assigned to a house with young people from around the world. In my group, there were Filipinos, Americans, Indians, Koreans, and Japanese. We worked together to complete a house for a family we met on the site. On the last day, all of us stood inside a room we had built in just a week, feeling a sense of fulfillment. Even now we keep in touch across the world. Some of us are actively involved in Habitat in different countries.

Habitat brings people together and helps us realize that people all over the world care about each other. Habitat sends the very important message that we can all be friends. Being involved with Habitat for Humanity has changed my life. I’ve learned that I can make a difference in the world.

3 the work team I led  the group of workers I was responsible for 4 affluent  wealthy
5 offered their food, space, and hearts  gave us food, a place to stay, and kindness
6 assigned to  was sent to work in; was given a job in 7 on the site  at the place (where they built the house)
8 sense of fulfillment  feeling of accomplishment
9 make a difference  do something important

1. ORGANIC FOODS
   To Buy or Not to Buy
   Many people believe organic food is better for your health than food grown the “traditional” way. It is also more expensive. Farmers who grow organic food do not use chemicals like pesticides (chemicals used to kill insects). But the U.S. government says that organic food is not really healthier than food which is grown in the traditional way. Many people disagree. In this article, you will read an interview with people on both sides of this issue. Then you will have to decide for yourself: is organic food really better or not?

2. Beauty begins at the Supermarket
   Some people spend a lot of money on lotions, makeup, and hair products to make themselves look more beautiful. Here's something they may not know: scientific studies show that beautiful skin begins with what we put in our mouths—not what we put on our faces or hair. Read this article to find out which foods can make you more beautiful. Forget the lotion, and try some broccoli instead!

Generation Z: Digital Natives

1 In Istanbul, Yesim Yilmaz is getting ready for class. Her mother brings her some breakfast, which Yesim eats while looking at her e-mail on her phone. She has forgotten to read a chapter for her biology class. No problem—she opens up her laptop and downloads a chapter from her online textbook to read on the train.

On Sunday afternoon next to his apartment complex in Seoul, Min-ho Park is waiting for the bus. At lightning speed, he types a text message to let his friend know he’s on his way. Min-ho is never without his phone. In fact, he’s already bought a ticket on his phone for a movie he and his friends will see this afternoon. Min-ho laughs as he checks some funny photos his friend Jae-song has just posted online. His bus soon arrives. Min-ho gets on, sits down, opens a game app on his phone, and puts his earphones in his ears. Most of the other people on the bus who are Min-ho’s age are doing exactly the same thing.

Yesim and Min-ho are members of Generation Z. They are sometimes called “digital natives” because they have grown up with the Internet, mobile phones, and social media since they were children. In fact, many have never seen a VCR or a telephone with a dial. Members of Gen-Z are people born between the mid-1990s and the early 2000s. They are also sometimes called Generation C, where the C stands for content, community, or creative.

Their parents spent most of their teenage years listening to cassette players, watching VHS tapes, playing early video games, and calling friends on their families’ telephones. Generation Z, however, is connected to its music, videos, games, and friends online all day, every day. Recent surveys show that young people in Asia spend an average of 9.5 hours per day online. And marketing companies know this.

1 apartment complex: a group of several apartment buildings together
2 at lightning speed: very fast
3 posted: uploaded; put onto a website
4 app: application
5 social media: applications and websites that connect people and let them share content with each other
6 content: information, like texts, images, music, and videos
7 teenage years: the years a person is 13 to 19 years old
Every time they open their page on a social networking site, Gen-Z members don’t see only friends’ updates⁸ and photos. They also see ads for products they might want to buy. Marketing companies work with social media sites to find out where their customers live, what movies, books, and music they like, and who their friends are. The companies use this information to show their customers the advertisements they want them to see.

What does this generation think about marketing companies knowing so much about them? Are they worried about losing their privacy? Not many seem to be very worried about companies knowing how to sell things to them. Many Gen-Z members are more concerned about keeping their private information from their parents. For example, Valerie Chen in Kaohsiung is upset because her parents want to watch everything she does online. But her parents’ eyes are not enough to make her stop using social media. Valerie knows how to limit what her parents can see about her on the social networking sites she uses.

However, keeping information private from parents may not be the only challenge. Many people are now finding out that posting funny pictures on the Web can be a problem when they finish school and start looking for a job. In fact, some studies show that more than 70% of companies reject people who are looking for jobs because of what they can see about them online. Because they grew up using social media, maybe Generation Z will be better at protecting their personal information online than the generation before them. Only time will tell.

⁸ updates: information that people put on social networking sites to say what they’re doing, where they are, etc.

Finding Supporting Details
Writers usually provide details and examples to support their ideas and opinions. Details give more information about what the author wants to explain. Finding these supporting details will help you understand the writer’s ideas.

Example
Yesim and Min-ho are members of Generation Z. They are sometimes called “digital natives” because they have grown up with the Internet, mobile phones, and social media since they were children. In fact, many have never seen a VCR or a telephone with a dial. Members of Gen-Z are people born between the mid-1990s and the early 2000s. They are also sometimes called Generation C, where the C stands for content, community, or creative.

A. Analyze the Reading
Look back at the reading on pages 43–44 and find at least one detail that supports each of the ideas below.

B. Apply the Reading Skill

Seniors⁹ Are Going Digital

In the age of a new generation of “digital natives,” what are the “older” generations doing to learn about the online world? The oldest of the American baby boomers (the generation born between 1946 and 1964) learned how to use new media at work. But for the generation born before 1946, getting used to computers and the Internet has been a bigger challenge.

Several cities across the country have started to offer new programs for senior citizens to teach them web skills. “At first, I wasn’t sure if I would like it,” says Agnes Stein, a 78-year-old student at the Wayne Senior Center in Orrville, Ohio. “But now I understand my grandchildren when they talk about what they do every day.”

The number of seniors online is definitely increasing. In 2005, only five percent of senior citizens had Internet access¹⁰ in their homes, but as of 2009, the number had gone up to 30 percent.

In fact, some seniors have become famous around the world for their use of the Internet. The world’s oldest person on Facebook, Ivy Bean, joined the site in 2008 when she was 102 years old. Sadly, she passed away in July 2010, at the age of 104, leaving behind 5,000 Facebook friends and thousands of followers on Twitter.

How to Be a Successful Businessperson
adapted from The Wall Street Journal

1 Have you ever wondered why some people are successful in business and others are not? Here’s a story about one successful businessperson. He started out\(^1\) washing dishes, and today he owns 168 restaurants.

Zubair Kazi was born in Bhatkal, a small town in southwest India.\(^5\) His dream was to be an airplane pilot, and when he was 16 years old, he learned to fly a small plane.

At the age of 23 and with just a little money in his pocket, Mr. Kazi moved to the United States. He hoped to get a job in the airplane industry in California. Instead, he ended up working\(^2\) for a company that rented cars.

While Mr. Kazi was working at the car rental company, he frequently ate at a nearby KFC restaurant. To save money on food,\(^3\) he decided to get a job with KFC. For two months, he worked as a cook’s assistant. His job was to clean the kitchen and help the cook. “I didn’t like it,” Mr. Kazi says, “but I always did the best I could.”\(^4\)

\(^1\) started out = began his career
\(^2\) he ended up working = after much effort, he got a job
\(^3\) to save money on food = to spend less money on food
\(^4\) did the best I could = did as well as I was able; worked as hard as I could
One day, Mr. Kazi’s two co-workers failed to come to work. That day, Mr. Kazi did the work of all three people in the kitchen. This really impressed the owners of the restaurant. A few months later, the owners needed a manager for a new restaurant. They gave the job to Mr. Kazi. He worked hard as the manager, and soon the restaurant was making a profit.

A few years later, Mr. Kazi heard about a restaurant that was losing money. The restaurant was dirty inside, and the food was terrible—greasy\(^5\) and undercooked. Mr. Kazi borrowed money from a bank and bought the restaurant. For the first six months, Mr. Kazi worked in the restaurant from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., seven days a week. He and his wife cleaned up the restaurant, remodeled\(^6\) the front of the building, and improved the cooking. They also tried hard to please the customers. If someone had to wait more than ten minutes for their food, Mrs. Kazi gave them a free soda. Before long the restaurant was making a profit.

A year later, Mr. Kazi sold his restaurant for a profit. With the money he earned, he bought three more restaurants that were losing money.
Again, he cleaned them up, improved the food, and retrained the employees. Before long\(^7\) these restaurants were making a profit, too.

Today Mr. Kazi owns 168 restaurants, but he isn’t planning to stop there. He’s looking for more poorly managed restaurants to buy. “I love it when I go to buy a restaurant and find it’s a mess,” Mr. Kazi says. “The only way it can go is up.”\(^8\)

5 greasy: with lots of oil; oily
6 remodeled: fixed, changed, and painted
7 before long: after a short amount of time
8 the only way it can go is up: it can only get better; it can’t get worse
A. Comprehension: Sequencing
Number these events in Mr. Kazi’s life from 1 (the first) to 9 (the last).

   ___ He sold his first restaurant at a profit.
   ___ He got a job as a cook’s helper.
   ___ He bought his 168th restaurant.
   ___ He moved to the United States.
   ___ He got a job at a car rental company.
   ___ He learned to fly a plane.
   ___ He bought his first restaurant.

A Good Idea that Gives Back to Others

After university, Kyle Berner tried many different jobs. He tried producing music, selling computers, and even selling hot dogs from a cart on the street. His dream was to travel overseas. One day, he bought a ticket to Thailand.

Kyle traveled to a small village called Phitsanulok. Kyle worked as an English teacher and studied the local culture. After a year, he went back to the United States and got a job at Tulane University, but he couldn’t forget about Phitsanulok.

He returned to Thailand one year later, and during this trip he bought a pair of flip-flops made from natural rubber by a local family. He loved the shoes, and then he got an idea. He wanted to sell these shoes in the United States. So he started his own company called Feelgoodz.

The goal of Feelgoodz is not only to make money, but also to do good things for others. Feelgoodz gives one percent of its profits to groups that help people, one percent to help grow new rubber trees, and one percent to groups that help the earth. Kyle’s company has become successful, and he is now selling his flip-flops around the world.

62 Chapter 7 | The Growth of Urban Farming
The Growth Of Urban Farming

For most people living in cities, buying fresh vegetables and fruits means a trip to the supermarket. But how far does the produce have to travel to get to the store? In the United States, the average American produce has to travel 2,400 km to reach the supermarket where it is sold. And many other kinds of produce in the supermarkets are imported from other countries, especially in the winter. It isn’t hard to find fresh strawberries in the middle of January in Chicago. They have been flown in from South America.

The United States isn’t the only country that imports food. Most countries do. In fact, in Japan, 60 percent of supermarket food comes from overseas. In the United Kingdom, some studies say that 40 percent of food is imported. The city of London alone imports 80 percent of its food from as close as Europe and as far away as South Africa and New Zealand. If your bananas traveled 5,000 km to reach you, are they still “fresh?”

A lot of oil is used to grow and ship the food you find in the supermarket. Many studies say that ten calories of carbon energy

1. produce fresh vegetables and fruits
2. imported brought in from another country
3. flown in brought in by airplane
4. studies reports
5. ship send, transport
6. carbon energy energy from oil or oil-based products are used to make and deliver every one calorie of food we eat, and not everyone is happy about this. Some people want to use less energy because it’s better for the environment. Others want to use less energy because they are worried that oil prices will rise in the future.

Recently, the answer for more and more people is to grow their own food—even if they live in crowded cities. This trend, called urban agriculture, or urban farming, can be found all over the world. In Tokyo, Japan, for example, the recruitment company Pasona has been growing food inside its office building for several years. They started with a rice paddy inside their building. Recently, they moved their urban farm, called Pasona O2, to a new building, where they are growing not only rice, but 200 other kinds of plants, including many vegetables. In other parts of Tokyo, some restaurants are growing food in roof gardens, or even on the outside walls of their buildings.

In Frankfurt, Germany, there is a popular community-based group that rents small pieces of land for people to grow their own food. Office workers can now become “farmers” by coming to take care of their plants once or twice a week and enjoy eating their own fresh produce as well.

Another community-based group, called Brooklyn Grange, grows vegetables on New York City rooftops and sells them to people and businesses around the city. Brooklyn Grange welcomes people to volunteer with them and learn more about farming. In addition to learning some useful skills, they say volunteering is a good way for people to get to know other people in their neighborhoods.

How much food can people grow in small spaces? In the city of Pasadena, California, the Dervaes family grows almost all of the food it eats in an area that is only about 400 square meters. They started this project in the 1980s because they wanted to live their lives using very little or no carbon energy. They also have an online journal and blog to teach other people how to grow their own food.

In fact, it’s easy to find blogs by urban farmers who are sharing their stories and farming tips with people all over the world. Urban farming isn’t just helping people grow fresh food. It is also helping communities to develop and grow in city neighborhoods and online around the world.

Understanding the Author’s Purpose
Authors write texts for different reasons. Some texts are supposed to teach or give information about a topic. Others are supposed to entertain the reader, or make them feel happy, sad, or even scared. Finally, some texts are supposed to persuade, or make readers agree with something that the author believes. Often, an author combines two or more of these purposes in one text.

A. Analyze the Reading
Look at the two versions of the same information below and answer the questions.

A lot of oil is used to grow and ship the food you find in the supermarket. Many studies say that ten calories of carbon energy are used to make every one calorie of food we eat, and not everyone is happy about this. Some people want to use less energy because it’s better for the environment. Others want to use less energy because they are worried that oil prices will rise in the future.

1. The author’s purpose in this passage is mainly to:
   □ inform        □ entertain    □ persuade

   A lot of oil is used to grow and ship the food you find in the supermarket. Many studies say that ten calories of carbon energy are used to make every one calorie of food we eat, and not everyone is happy about this. Many people don't realize that less oil is being produced every year now, and soon oil prices will be rising. When oil prices rise, the cost of food rises. If people don't start to grow their own food, they may quickly find that they cannot afford to buy food at the supermarket.

If you’re interested in knowing more about how to choose the best chickens for your environment, you’ve come to the right place! Believe it or not, different kinds of chickens have different kinds of personalities. Just like with dating, you have to find a good match. Vegetarian for Life

Many people think that becoming a vegetarian is a difficult thing to do, but it’s actually easier than you think, especially when you know some basic facts:

1. Studies show that, on average, vegetarians live up to two years longer than meat-eaters.
2. More people get sick from eating bad meat than they do from eating bad vegetables.
3. Eating vegetarian is much cheaper than eating a meat-based diet.
4. It is easy to get enough protein and all the other things your body needs without eating meat.
5. Vegetarianism is growing every year around the world, and more and more restaurants offer delicious vegetarian items on their menus.

Can You Live Forever?

There's an old saying: An apple a day keeps the doctor away. Certainly, apples are good for you, but can eating them really help you avoid getting sick? Could they even help you live forever? Eating apples may not be enough, but there's at least one man who thinks that living forever is possible.

Ray Kurzweil: Inventor and Futurist
Ray Kurzweil was born in 1948 and grew up in New York City. Kurzweil is an inventor and is well known for his work in technology. Many of his inventions have been in the area of artificial intelligence, or AI for short. Kurzweil is also well known as a futurist—a person who has strong ideas about how the future might be, or perhaps should be, based on his knowledge of science.

Kurzweil’s View of the Future
Kurzweil believes that by 2050, there will be a new technology called nanobots, tiny machines that will be so small that billions of them will be able to travel inside your body and fix problems in each cell. Kurzweil also believes that by then, computers will be able to think just like a person’s brain. He just has to live long enough so that he can take advantage of these inventions. He believes that diet and exercise are the keys.

Kurzweil’s Plan: Diet and Exercise
Besides all of his famous work in technology and futurology, Kurzweil may be best known for what he eats and drinks. Kurzweil and his personal doctor, Dr. Terry Grossman, have created a special diet and exercise program. Using these tools and a few others, Kurzweil hopes to live forever.

Kurzweil drinks very large amounts of water every day. He believes that a lot of water is needed to get all of the toxins out of his body. He never drinks soft drinks or coffee, but he does drink green tea. He thinks it does many good things for his body.

1. inventor person who makes, or creates, new things
2. artificial intelligence (AI) machines that can “think” like a person’s brain does
3. tiny very small
4. billions one billion = 1,000,000,000
5. cell the smallest living part of an animal or plant
6. take advantage of make full use of something
7. diet what you eat and drink
8. toxins things that are bad for your body; poisons
Kurzweil also believes that certain kinds of foods are unhealthy. Instead of eating foods like white bread, potatoes, and white rice, he thinks people should eat foods like whole wheat bread and brown rice. For many years, Kurzweil has not eaten any food that has sugar in it. He eats mostly vegetables, lean\(^9\) meats, and tofu.

Kurzweil also does a few other things for his health. He tries to have very little stress in his life, and he makes sure he gets enough sleep every night. He exercises daily and meditates\(^{10}\) regularly as well. Kurzweil also takes special vitamins and other supplements\(^ {11}\) that he feels will help slow the aging of his body. In fact, he takes over 150 different supplements every day.

The Race Between Age and Invention

Will this routine help him live until 2050? Maybe. Kurzweil regularly takes tests to check the “age” of his body. When he was 40 years old, the age test said his body was like a 38-year-old’s. In 2009, at age 61, the same test said that his body was like a 40-year-old’s. He feels that if his body only seems 2–3 years older after 20 years, living until 2050 may be possible.

“Plan B”

What if his body dies before nanobots can save him? Kurzweil is already planning to have his body frozen\(^ {12}\) by a company called the Alcor Life Extension Foundation. They will keep his body frozen until they feel that the technology is ready to bring him back to life.

Many scientists believe that Kurzweil’s ideas about living forever are not really scientific at all. But Kurzweil thinks that as long as he waits for enough technological inventions, both his mind and his body may be able to live forever.

Understanding Headings
A heading is a small group of words that serves as a title for a paragraph or several paragraphs. When a reading is long or complicated, authors often use headings to divide a reading into smaller parts. You can use headings when you read to find specific information quickly. For example, when we read the heading below, we can tell that this paragraph is going to be about what Kurzweil thinks about the future.

Kurzweil's View of the Future
Kurzweil believes that by 2050, there will be a new technology called nanobots, tiny machines that will be so small that billions of them can travel inside your body and fix problems in each cell. By then, he also believes that with new AI technology, computers will be able to think just like a person's brain. He just has to live long enough so that he can take advantage of these inventions. Diet and exercise, he believes, are the keys.

A. Analyze the Reading
Look back at the reading on pages 73–74 to answer the questions below.
1. How many headings does the author use?

2. Under which heading does the author talk about who Ray Kurzweil is?

3. Under which heading does the author talk about what Kurzweil eats and drinks?

4. Under which heading does the author talk about what happens if Kurzweil's ideas for keeping his body alive don't work?

5. Why do you think the author used different headings in this article?
B. Apply the Reading Skill
Read the headings for the article “Three Secrets to Less Stress.” Then complete the chart.

THREE SECRETS TO LESS STRESS

If someone asks, “How are you?” do you always say, “Fine,” but really want to say, “Busy, unhappy, or stressed out?” Everyone wants to be happy, but with our busy lives, full of study, work, family, home, and friends, it’s hard not to be stressed out. In this article, I will share with you my top three tips for staying stress-free.

Sleep: Nature’s Best Medicine

The first ingredient in a stress-free life is to get at least eight hours of sleep every night. The average person gets only between six and seven, and that’s just not enough. Scientific studies show that without at least eight hours of sleep a night, people cannot concentrate for long periods of time. This is a big cause of stress.

Working Out or Just Working?

Exercise is another key part of lowering your stress. Whether you go to a gym, run around your neighborhood, or just take a walk in the park, doctors agree that people should exercise at least three times a week, for at least 20 minutes each time. After a few weeks, you’ll feel a huge difference!

Good-bye Coffee, Hello Water

Drinking too much coffee, tea, and soda with caffeine is another cause of stress. For many, it’s linked to not having enough sleep. When some people wake up, they’re still tired. The problem is, caffeine stays in your body for at least five hours. The answer is simple: try to have only one coffee, tea, or soda each day, and for the rest of the day, drink water. Lots of it. People should drink at least eight glasses per day.
Discussion & Writing

1. Choose three items from the box and write a prediction about what each will be like in the year 2050.

   computers   entertainment   books   population
   phones      education       food    transportation

   Example
   In 2050, the population of the world will be over nine billion.

   a. In 2050, ____________________________________________

   ______________________________________________________

   b. In 2050, ____________________________________________

   ______________________________________________________

   c. In 2050, ____________________________________________

   ______________________________________________________

2. Ask three classmates about your predictions. How many people agree with you?

   Example
   A: In 2050, do you believe the population of the world will be over nine billion?
   B: No, I think it will be less.
   A: What do you think it will be?
   B: I think the population will be less than now—around four billion.

Baseball Fans Around the World

Baseball is a very popular sport in Asia, North America, South America, and even Europe. While the rules of baseball are similar from country to country, the behavior of baseball fans is very different. Here’s a look at some of the differences in fan behavior around the world.

5 In Japan

Baseball fans in Japan are loud—really loud. The sound of chants, cheering, drums, and trumpets continues nonstop throughout a baseball game in Japan. When a team goes to bat, their fans sing a different song for each batter at the plate. And even when their team is losing badly, Japanese fans continue to yell and scream. Foreign baseball players in Japan are often surprised that the fans never boo a player. According to the American pitcher Brian Warren, baseball is more fun in Japan. “When I used to play in Venezuela,” Warren said, “fans threw things at me when I didn’t pitch well.” This never happens in Japan.

15 When a Japanese player hits a home run, the fans give the biggest cheer of all—a banzai cheer. That’s when the fans yell with both of their arms above their heads.

1 goes to bat takes their turn hitting the ball
2 boo make the noise “boo!” to show disapproval
In Korea

Baseball fans in Korea are just as loud as the fans in Japan! In Korea, many fans use thundersticks to cheer their team on. Thundersticks are long plastic tubes that are sold in pairs. A fan hits the two thundersticks together to make a loud noise, encouraging their favorite players (or distracting the team they don’t like). Cheerleaders are also a big part of baseball games in Korea. They lead the fans in songs, chants, and dances. When a player does well, the cheerleaders and the fans celebrate by doing a special dance created just for that player.

In the United States

Asian visitors to the United States are often surprised and disappointed by how quiet American baseball fans are. “When I went to a baseball game in San Francisco, everybody was just sitting there watching the game. It was kind of boring,” says Barry Iwasa, a Japanese student at the University of California, Berkeley. “Baseball was invented in the United States,” Iwasa says, “but Americans don’t seem very excited about their game.”

It’s true. Baseball fans in the United States are some of the quietest in the world. It’s common to see baseball fans eating hot dogs and popcorn, and chatting with friends. “When I go to a baseball game,” says Ginger Hanson from San Francisco, “I want to have fun with friends and catch up on3 their lives. The real reason I go is for the social experience.”

In the Dominican Republic

Like the fans in Japan, the fans in the Dominican Republic cheer loudly throughout the game. They also sing and dance! Since music and dancing are an important part of Dominican culture, you might even find a merengue band moving through the stands at a baseball game.

Despite the music and dancing, many Dominican fans are very serious about baseball. Carol Parmenter, an American living in the Dominican Republic, says, “At Dominican games, you see groups of men drinking small cups of sweet coffee, carefully analyzing every pitch, every hit, every play. American fans don’t usually follow the game that closely.”

Example
By looking at the title, proper names, headings, and key words on pages 83–84, you can predict the topic of the reading: the behavior of baseball fans in Japan, Korea, the United States, and the Dominican Republic.

A. Analyze the Readings
Look ahead to Chapter 10 (page 91), Chapter 11 (page 101), and Chapter 13 (page 121). Based on the picture and title at the beginning of each chapter, complete each prediction below.

1. I think Chapter 10 is about:
   □ the rising cost of using a mobile phone
   □ mobile phones and health
   □ cool new mobile phones
   because

2. I think Chapter 11 is about:
   □ the history of the violin
   □ the history of music
   □ a famous musician
   because

3. I think Chapter 13 is about:
   □ whether people believe in love at first sight
   □ how to find your ideal partner

Mobile Phones: Hang Up¹ or Keep Talking?

More than two billion people use mobile phones today. In many places, it is more common to use a mobile phone, or cell phone, than a landline. Mobile phones are especially popular with young people. They find that the phones are more than a means of communication—having a mobile phone shows that they are cool² and connected.

The explosion³ in mobile phone use around the world has some health professionals worried. Some doctors are concerned that in the future, people may suffer health problems⁴ from using mobile phones. Even now, there are people who claim that their mobile phones are making them sick. In one case, a young salesman had to stop working because of serious memory loss. He couldn’t remember even simple things. He would often forget the name of his own child. The man used to talk on his mobile

² cool  doing things that are popular
³ explosion  sudden increase
⁴ suffer health problems (from)  have health problems caused by phone for six hours a day, every day of his working week, for a couple of years. His family doctor blamed his mobile phone use, but his employer’s doctor disagreed. Of course mobile phone companies are worried about the negative publicity of such stories. They say that there is no proof\(^5\) that mobile phones are bad for your health.

While there still isn’t any proof that mobile phones are bad for your health, neither is there any proof that mobile phones aren’t bad for your health. Research has shown that using mobile phones affects brain activity, but it isn’t clear why or what effect it might have over the long term.\(^6\)

What is it that makes mobile phones potentially harmful? The answer is radiation. Radiation happens when one object sends heat or energy to another object. Heat radiation from the sun, for example, is heat sent from the sun to the earth. High-tech\(^7\) machines can detect very small amounts of radiation from mobile phones. The amount of radiation from mobile phones falls between the lower amount that radio waves produce and the higher amount that microwaves make. It’s a fact that some radiation comes from mobile phones. While mobile phone companies agree with this fact, they say the amount is too small to worry about. Some scientists, however, disagree. They say we still don’t know if small amounts of radiation over a long period of time can cause health problems.

As the debate about the safety of mobile phones continues, you might want to take some advice from scientists. Use your mobile phone only when you really need to. Keep your telephone calls short. Turn your phone off when you aren’t using it. When you do use it for long calls, try using earbuds\(^8\) instead of holding the phone to your ear. In the future, mobile phones may have a warning label that says they are bad for your health. So for now, be careful.

B. Apply the Reading Skill
Read the letter to the editor. For each numbered sentence, write fact or opinion below.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Is the Mobile Phone Industry Being Honest?

Dear Editor,

1. My name is Dr. Karl Nussbaum, and I work at a scientific research laboratory in Kansas City, Missouri. I believe that more research needs to be done about the potential health problems caused by mobile phones.

2. Although we have been told by the mobile phone industry that their products are not dangerous, I don’t agree. It is well known that mobile phones give off a lower level of radiation than many other electronic products. However, a new study by researchers in Sweden shows that even these low levels of radiation have killed brain cells in rats.

3. As scientists, we should be doing more research on this topic. Mobile phone use has grown to over 2 billion customers around the world. If we don’t do something about this problem, we could see an increase in certain kinds of cancer and other diseases in the future.

4. We are currently doing research in our lab, trying to copy the results of the Swedish study. Our study will be completed next May, and we will publish our results then. In the meantime, if any other scientific groups are doing research on mobile phone use, please contact me at knussbaum@lab*tech.org.

Vanessa-Mae was born in Singapore in 1978. Her mother was Chinese, and her father was from Thailand. At the age of four, Vanessa-Mae moved to London, England, with her mother and stepfather.

As a young child, Vanessa-Mae was already a talented musician. She took her first piano lesson when she was three years old and her first violin lesson when she was five.

Developing Skills

Vanessa-Mae studied music at the Central Conservatory of China in Beijing. She was the youngest student the Conservatory had ever accepted. She also took lessons at the famous Royal College of Music in London. The director of the college described Vanessa-Mae as “a true child prodigy” — like Mozart and Mendelssohn.

When Vanessa-Mae was just eight years old, she had to make a big decision. She was equally gifted at both the violin and the piano, but she had to concentrate on just one instrument. Although she had just won a prize at a famous piano competition, Vanessa-Mae chose the violin.

At the age of nine, Vanessa-Mae went to Germany to take violin classes for advanced students. The best students were usually chosen to be a part of the recitals just once or twice. Vanessa-Mae was chosen four times. These were her first performances in front of an audience.

By the time she was ten years old, Vanessa-Mae had studied the violin at some of the best schools in the world. She made her first professional appearance in 1988 with the Schleswig-Holstein Musik Festival in Germany.

Vanessa-Mae often played Mozart concertos. A concerto is a piece of music written for one or more solo instruments accompanied by an orchestra.

Accomplishments

By the time she was twelve, Vanessa-Mae had played with orchestras all over the world as a soloist. She had also released three classical recordings. Soon, however, Vanessa-Mae wanted to try playing other kinds of music as well.

1 prodigy genius; person with great ability
2 gifted talented
3 recitals performances by music or dance students
4 accompanied by along with; together with
5 released made available for sale
Although she loved classical music, Vanessa-Mae wanted to experiment with other kinds of music. At 14, she began to combine the traditional sound of her acoustic\(^6\) violin with the sounds made from her new electric violin. She called this music “techno-acoustic fusion.” Vanessa-Mae loved the music that the two types of violins made together. Her first album with techno-acoustic fusion music was called The Violin Player. It was instantly successful and sold in over 20 countries. It was even a hit on the best-selling music charts.

No longer just a classical musician, Vanessa-Mae was asked to perform at international rock concerts. At a concert in Switzerland, the audience of 50,000 people gave her a 20-minute ovation.\(^7\) The crowd did not want her to stop playing.

Vanessa-Mae has sometimes been criticized for not just playing classical music. However, she feels it is important to introduce violin music to a new audience, and that her style of music has been helpful in reaching that goal. “If, as a result [of my music], people see the violin as a fresh, up-to-date\(^8\) instrument, that’s fine with me.”

Understanding Suffixes: -able, -ous, -ful, -less
Suffixes come at the ends of words. They help you know if a word is a noun, verb, or adjective. For example, many adjectives end with these suffixes:

<th>Suffix</th>
<th>Sample Adjectives</th>
<th>Meaning</th>

</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>-able</td>
<td>portable</td>
<td>can be carried</td>

<td>-ous</td>
<td>famous</td>
<td>having fame</td>

<tr>
<td>-ful</td>
<td>helpful</td>
<td>full of help</td>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>-less</td>
<td>homeless</td>
<td>without a home</td>

<tr>

A. Underline the suffix in each word below. Then tell what you think each word means.

1. countable
2. washable
3. readable
4. dangerous
5. spacious
6. hopeful
7. sorrowful
8. loveless

B. Pair work. Use a dictionary to check your meanings above. Were you able to guess correctly? How did the suffixes help you to guess each meaning?
Dealing with Unfamiliar Words
When you are reading a paragraph in English, many of the words may be unfamiliar. However, stopping to look up every word in a dictionary can make it more difficult to understand the paragraph.

Instead, try to get the general meaning of the paragraph from the words you already know. Then use context to guess the meanings of other important words.

   A. something like “old”
   B. something like “classical”
   C. something like “new”

Chang Jae-Hyuk wrote this story when he was a university student in Seoul, Korea. Approximately 24.5 million people live in Seoul and its surrounding areas.

Wednesday

7:00 a.m.: I get up about seven o’clock in the morning. Since my friends and I have a group blind date with students from a women’s university tonight, I take extra time to look my best. My mom calls me to eat breakfast, but I don’t think I can. It’s already 7:30, and I don’t want to be late for my 9:00 class. It takes me about an hour and a half to get to my university, so I hurry out.

8:00–9:00 a.m.: I take the bus to the subway station. There are so many people on the bus that I can’t breathe. There is so much traffic that the bus can only crawl along. Finally, the bus arrives at the subway station. Unfortunately, there are a lot of people on the train, and the air is stuffy. We finally arrive at Shinchon station, and my university is now about a ten-minute walk away. I run to my philosophy class so I won’t be late again. I have already missed this class four times.

9:00–11:00 a.m.: Thank goodness, I’m safe. The professor comes in just after me. But now I’m so tired from running that I can’t concentrate.

Then the person next to me asks what the homework is for our English class. That’s right, there was English homework, but I forgot to do it! So I spend philosophy class doing my English homework.

English class is next. It seems like English is one big mountain that we all have to get over in our university days. If we want to get a decent job, we have to be really good in English.

11:00 a.m.–2:00 p.m.: After two classes it’s now 11:00, and I decide to go to my club room. Our club members spend their free time hanging out in that room. I chit chat with my friends for a while and then go to one of our school cafeterias for lunch.

2 surrounding nearby, around
3 crawl along move forward very slowly
4 philosophy the academic area related to the study of beliefs, values, and reason
5 just after me a very short time after me
6 club room a room where members of the same club meet on campus when they’re not in class
2:00–5:30 p.m.: Now it’s 2:00, and I have one more class at 3:00. My friends and I decide not to go to our 3:00 class. I shouldn’t do this, but we don’t want to hurry to the women’s university after class. Instead, we go to play some billiards until it’s time to go.

5:30–10:30 p.m.: It’s 5:30 in a coffee shop in front of the university. All four of us are excited and wondering what the girls will be like. About ten minutes later, four girls come in. Then the awkward time begins. We ask some questions and so do they. I find my dream girl sitting in the corner, but I don’t have the guts to speak to her. After 20 minutes, it’s time to choose our partners. We decide, at the count of three, to point at the partner we would like to have. If a boy and a girl are pointing at each other, they become partners. One, two, three! My dream girl is also pointing at me!

I spend the evening with my partner having a wonderful time. Right before we part, I ask for her phone number. If she gives me her number, that means she also likes me. And she does! I get home about 10:30. I’m very tired but really happy, hoping that things go well with her.

Building Vocabulary

Understanding Phrasal Verbs
Some verbs have two words. For example, put off, look after, and look up are called two-word phrasal verbs.
The meaning of a phrasal verb is different from the meaning of each word separately.

Examples
- Our club members spend their free time hanging out in that room. (hanging out = relaxing)
- You should say goodbye before hanging up the telephone. (hanging up = putting the telephone down or turning it off)
- Hang on for a minute while I look for my glasses. (hang on = wait)
- I can’t hang out the clothes because it’s raining. (hang out = put wet clothes outdoors to dry)

A. Read the sentences below and guess the meanings of the boldfaced phrasal verbs. Fill in the correct circle.

1. I have to drop off my paper at my professor’s office.
   - [ ] leave
   - [ ] get
   - [ ] ask for

2. Alex dropped by my dorm room after class today.
   - [ ] called
   - [ ] lost something
   - [ ] came to

3. All my grades were missing, and I don’t know why. Can you look into it for me?
   - [ ] see
   - [ ] find out what happened
   - [ ] tell someone about it

4. I need to look up the name of the book I need to buy for my class.
   - [ ] search for
   - [ ] read aloud
   - [ ] type
Using Context Clues
You can often guess the general meaning of a difficult word by looking at the context—the other words in the sentence or nearby sentences. In the examples below, the underlined words help you guess the meanings of the boldfaced words.

Examples
- I chit chat with my friends for a while and then go to one of our school cafeterias for lunch.
- I find my dream girl sitting in the corner, but I don't have the guts to speak to her.
- Right before we part, I ask for her phone number... I get home about 10:30.

A. Analyze the Reading
Underline the information that helps you figure out the meanings of the boldfaced words.

1. The bus can only crawl along because there is a lot of traffic.
2. I can’t concentrate on what the professor is saying because I’m so tired from running to class.
3. Since my friends and I have a group blind date with students from a women’s university tonight, I take extra time to look my best.
4. It takes me about an hour and a half to get to my university, so I hurry out.
5. Unfortunately, there are a lot of people on the train, and the air is stuffy.
6. I’m safe. The professor comes in just after me.
7. It seems like English is one big mountain that we all have to get over in our university days.
8. If we want to get a decent job, we have to be really good in English.
B. Apply the Reading Skill
Read the blog and use context to match each boldfaced word with the correct meaning below.

Terrible Times on the Train

My commute is the worst. I really can’t stand it. Every day I get on the train at 7:15. The train is packed with people—there’s no place to sit, and there’s hardly even room to stand. Believe it or not, I can let go of my bookbag and it won’t even fall to the ground. In the summer it’s even worse. Some people have even fainted because the train is so hot and stuffy. It’s not unusual at all.

It’s worse during the rainy season. Those days, it’s so hot and humid, and everything is wet. Just imagine all those people getting on the train, but with their soggy umbrellas, too! Sometimes I feel like I can’t breathe, like I’m really suffocating. But no one ever complains. People just leaf through their newspapers, play with their phones, or, if they’re lucky, fall asleep. I’ve even seen people sleep standing up! Finally, we reach our destination, the doors open, and thousands of people empty out onto the platform. Now I can say goodbye to my terrible commute—until this evening, at least.

1. ___ commute
2. ___ packed
3. ___ let go of
4. ___ fainted
5. ___ humid
6. ___ soggy
7. ___ suffocating
8. ___ leaf through
9. ___ destination
10. ___ platform

Love at First Sight

1  It was love at first sight. It’s always exciting to hear those words. But do people really believe in love at first sight? We asked 40 Americans this question—18 men and 22 women. Thirteen people (32%) said they believed in love at first sight; 27 people (68%) said they didn’t.

5  Next, we wanted to find out who believed in love at first sight and who didn’t. We were surprised to find that both younger and older people believed they could fall in love in a few short seconds. We also learned that people from many different professions had love-at-first-sight experiences. These people included a scientist, an artist, a dancer, and a computer programmer.

What was the most interesting thing we learned in our study? More men than women believed in love at first sight: 44% of the men believed in this kind of love, while only 27% of the women did. Here’s what some of the men and women in our survey said about love at first sight.

15  Name: John
Occupation: Artist
Age: 30

“Yes, I believe in love at first sight. It happened to me. I was at a party several years ago when I saw Luisa. I knew she was the one for me when her eyes flashed back at me.¹ It was like they looked into my heart, read my life story, and said, ‘I like what I see, and I want to be with you.’ That night at the party, I went over to Luisa and asked her to dance. She said, ‘Of course, I was waiting for you to ask.’ That was three years ago, and we’re still together.”

25  Name: Mark
Occupation: Salesperson
Age: 35

“I didn’t use to believe in love at first sight, but now I do. About four years ago, I was giving a sales presentation when this amazing woman walked into the room. We made eye contact,² and my heart started beating faster.³ After my presentation, I introduced myself, and she and I went out for dinner the next night. We talked and talked, and by the end of the evening, I was truly in love with her. That feeling of love at first sight was like nothing else. In just a few seconds, I was filled with intense energy and passion. Anne and I got married a year later.”

Name: Emily
Occupation: College student
Age: 23
“No, I don’t believe in love at first sight. Love comes later in a relationship. When I met my boyfriend, I felt something tingly. I guess you could call it puppy love, but it wasn’t true love. It took about a year for true love to develop between us.”

Name: Carol
Occupation: Writer
Age: 37
“Do I believe in love at first sight? No, not really. Love is based on trust and shared experiences and values. Love takes time to develop. You fall in love slowly by talking to a special person, writing him love letters, fighting, making up. The key to love is staying excited about the other person, month after month, year after year.”

Name: Sarah
Occupation: High school senior
Age: 18

Choosing Definitions in a Learner’s Dictionary
If you find a word you don’t know in a paragraph, you may be able to guess its meaning from context. Other times, you may want to look up the unknown word in a dictionary. Instead of using a bilingual dictionary, try using a learner’s dictionary. This is a dictionary with definitions that use easier words than other English-English dictionaries.

To choose the right definition:
• Find the word in the dictionary. Scan the definitions, and choose the ones that are the same part of speech (noun, verb, adjective, etc.) as the word you’re looking for. Read the definitions you chose.
• Look at the sample sentences and phrases with the definitions. Even if you don’t understand every word in the definition, the context of the sample sentences and phrases can help you understand the meaning.

A. Read the sentence and the dictionary definitions. Then answer the questions below.

The key to love is staying excited about the other person, month after month, year after year.

key /ki/ noun [count] 1 a piece of metal that opens or closes a lock: Have you seen my car keys? 2 something that helps you achieve or understand something: A good education is the key to success. 3 one of the parts of a computer, a piano, or other musical instrument that you press with your fingers: Press the escape key to exit the program. Pianos have black and white keys. 4 (MUSIC) a set of musical notes that is based on one particular note: This piece is in the key of A minor. 5 answers to questions: Check your answers with the key at the back of the book.

_from the Oxford Basic American Dictionary for learners of English_

1. Which dictionary definition matches the meaning of key in the sentence above?

2. Write your own sentence using this meaning of key.

3. What part of speech is this meaning of key?

4. How many of the other definitions of key did you know? Which one do you use the most?

Summarizing
When you summarize something, you retell the most important information in your own words. Summarizing something you read can help you remember information.

Summary of paragraph 1, lines 1–4:
A survey asked 40 Americans if they believed in love at first sight. About one-third said yes. The other two-thirds said no.

A. Analyze the Reading
Complete these summaries of the reading on pages 123–124. (Different answers may be possible.)

3. Summary of “About the Survey:”

At What Age Do People Get Married?

Do people around the world get married at the same age? The age that people get married for the first time is, on average, around 28 for men and 26 for women. The marriage age in most of Europe and East Asia is usually a bit higher than average—around 30 for men and 28 for women. Men and women in the United States usually get married a little earlier—around 27 for men and 25 for women. In Canada and Australia, the average marriage age is closer to that of Europe.

According to several studies, the age that people get married for the first time is rising around the world. In the United States, the average age rose from 22.8 for men and 20.3 for women in 1960 to 27.5 for men and 25.6 for women in 2007. In Japan, the ages have risen from 27.2 for men and 24.4 for women in 1960 to 30.2 for men and 28.5 for women in 2008. In Korea, the average age in 1960 was 25.4 for men and 21.5 for women. This has increased to 31 for men and 28 for women in 2008.

Great Places to Visit

Each month, National Geographic magazine asks an editor from one of its international editions to answer the question, “What are the best places to visit in your area of the world?” Yung Shih Lee, the editor of National Geographic Taiwan, thinks the sights below are some of the best places to visit. Would you like to visit these places?

Shih-lin Night Market

“This market is the center of Taiwanese nightlife on the north side of Taipei. It’s very different from the morning markets where people shop for food to cook at home. At the Shih-lin Night Market, people show up to have a snack or drink, buy a few things, and just hang around. Life really begins around 6 p.m. and can go on until three in the morning. On weekends the market is open even later.”

Taroko Gorge

“The word taroko means ‘beautiful’ in the language of the Atayal people, and that’s exactly what the Taroko Gorge is. Visitors can take a train or a 30-minute flight from Taipei to visit this natural wonder. A 12-mile (19-kilometer) bus tour takes passengers through the gorge, making stops for riders to walk through man-made tunnels or enjoy the scenic views.”

---

1 show up arrive at a place
2 hang around stay in one place without doing anything
3 gorge a deep, narrow opening between two mountains
4 natural wonder something in nature that you admire
5 tunnels holes through mountains for cars or trains
Lan Yu (Orchid Island)

“This small island about 40 miles (60 kilometers) southeast of Taiwan is home to the native Yami people. It is one of the few places in Taiwan where the traditions of native people are still well preserved. Tourists can stay in island hotels or arrange to stay in a Yami family’s home. Lan Yu is also home to many species found nowhere else in the world. Its beautiful coral reefs are also great for scuba diving.”

Taipei 101

“Taiwan is not just a traditional place—it’s very modern, too. In 2004, work was completed on Taipei 101, now the second tallest building in the world. This massive skyscraper was the first building ever built over half a kilometer tall—it is 509 meters. Taipei 101 is also a symbol of Chinese culture, and its design features Chinese plants and pagodas. Even though Taiwan sometimes experiences earthquakes, Taipei 101 is safe because of the way it was built. Taipei 101 houses offices and shops, and even has parking for cars. It is an impressive and exciting sight.”

6 massive very, very big
7 features shows
8 pagodas traditional Chinese buildings
9 impressive wonderful; extraordinary

Building Vocabulary

Using Context to Recognize Word Forms
Many nouns and verbs in English have the same form, so sometimes it can be difficult to know which form you are seeing when you read. For example, the word house can be both a noun and a verb. You must use context to know if the word is a noun or verb.

Example
They decided to house the treasures at the National Museum.
“House” is a verb. “They decided to” helps you know that “house” is part of an action, and not a noun.

Would you prefer to live in a house or an apartment?
“House” is a noun. “Live in a” helps you know that “house” is a noun, and not a verb.

Here are some other words that you can use as a noun or a verb:
- cook
- drink
- e-mail
- place
- request
- shop
- sleep
- stop
- tour
- treasure
- visit
- walk

A. In each question below, is the word in italics a noun or a verb? Circle noun or verb.

1. Which of your possessions do you treasure the most? (noun / verb)
2. What shouldn’t you place on your desk during a test? (noun / verb)
3. Where would you house ten students visiting from another country? (noun / verb)
4. Did you make any stops on your way to class today? (noun / verb)
5. How often do you go for a walk? (noun / verb)
6. How much sleep do you get? (noun / verb)
7. Would you like to take a tour of the city today? (noun / verb)
8. Where do you shop for clothes? (noun / verb)
9. What foods do you know how to cook? (noun / verb)
10. What do you usually drink in the mornings? (noun / verb)

B. Pair work. Ask a partner the questions in Activity A.
Reading Skill

Reading Words in Groups
We don't usually read a sentence word by word. Instead, we read words in small groups, or “chunks.” Reading words in groupings like this makes it easier to understand the ideas in a sentence.

Example
- Reading word by word: It’s / very / different / from / the / . . .
- Reading in chunks: It’s very different from / the morning markets / where people shop for food / to cook at home.

Here are some common chunks of words:
- article + adjective + noun
  the morning markets
- dependent clauses
  where people shop for food; that everybody likes
- infinitive + noun
  to cook food; to make a mistake
- prepositional phrases
  in a restaurant
- verb + adverb
  walked quickly; left quietly

A. Analyze the Reading
Read aloud each pair of sentences one chunk at a time. Check (✓) the sentence that sounds more natural to you.

☐ 1a. Even / though Taiwan sometimes / experiences earthquakes, Taipei 101 / is safe.
☐ 1b. Even though Taiwan / sometimes experiences earthquakes, / Taipei 101 is safe.

☐ 2a. Visitors can take a train / or a 30-minute flight / from Taipei / to visit this natural wonder.
☐ 2b. Visitors can / take a train or a 30-minute / flight from Taipei to / visit this natural wonder.

☐ 3a. Life really begins / around 6 p.m. / and can go on / until three in the morning.
☐ 3b. Life really begins around 6 / p.m. and can go on until / three in the morning.
B. Apply the Reading Skill
Read aloud the paragraphs below. Where do you pause or take a breath? Mark each group of words with a slash (/). Use the first paragraph as an example. Different answers are possible.

If you’re looking for adventures / in a unique vacation place, / try Dubai. / Located south of the Persian Gulf, / on the Arabian Peninsula, / Dubai is one of the seven emirates / of the United Arab Emirates. / It enjoys sunny days / and warm temperatures / year round, / though the best time to visit / is between November and March / when the sun is not so strong.

Every year, millions of visitors come to Dubai. The beautiful architecture, creative theme parks, sunny beaches, surrounding desert, and outstanding hotels and restaurants are just some of Dubai’s many attractions. There are also many activities to enjoy. Some of the most popular activities in Dubai are scuba diving, camel racing, and, of course, shopping.

Shopping in “the Shopping Capital of the Middle East” can be an adventure, especially in January. The month-long Dubai Shopping Festival brings 3.3 million shoppers to the special events, the nightly fireworks, and the huge sales on luxury items.

If you’re not interested in shopping, there is still plenty to do, like sand skiing. This unusual sport is increasingly popular with tourists and locals. A jeep will take you to the high desert dunes between Dubai and the village of Hatta, where you can sand ski or sand board.

But one of the coolest things to do in Dubai is to play in the snow. Yes, snow! Ski Dubai is an indoor ski resort with artificial snow where you can ski, snowboard, or just make a snowman. The temperature is always −1° to −2° C. It is the largest indoor snow park in the world.

So, if you plan to visit Dubai, pack carefully. You’ll probably need your wallet, your sunscreen, and a winter coat and hat!

Compare your ideas with a partner.

Chapter 2 | Culture and Language Notes

Japan  Japan is an island nation in northeast Asia. The capital of Japan is Tokyo. About 25 million people live in and around the city. The population of Japan is about 127 million. Japan has the second largest economy in the world after the United States. People from Japan are called Japanese, and the language they speak is also called Japanese.

Potatoes  In England, the United States, and other Western countries, many people eat potatoes with dinner every night. French fries, baked potatoes, and mashed potatoes are the most popular potato dishes in the United States. People eat potatoes with meat, chicken, and fish.

Pub  In the United Kingdom, pubs are casual places to eat, drink, play games, and talk to friends. A favorite pub meal is fish and chips. This is a meal of fried fish and potatoes. In the United States, pubs are not common. Many American adults meet their friends at a restaurant for dinner.
Jazz music

_Jazz music_, or _jazz_, started in the southern part of the United States, in African-American communities, in the early 20th century. It began as a mixture of African and European music and has grown into its own form of music over the last hundred years. The 1920s and 30s in the U.S. were known as the _Jazz Age_, and some of its leaders included famous musicians such as Louis Armstrong, Count Basie, and Duke Ellington.

Academy Awards

The _Academy Awards_ ceremony, also known as the _Oscars_, is a ceremony that recognizes the work of actors, directors, producers, editors, and other people involved in making movies of all kinds. The first Academy Awards were held in the Hotel Roosevelt in Hollywood, California, in 1929, and they are currently held every spring in the Kodak Theatre in Hollywood. Each person who wins an Academy Award receives a small, golden statue, which has been known as “Oscar” since 1939.

Blues music

_Blues music_ came from similar roots to jazz music but is very different in many ways. Blues music, or _blues_, has very specific kinds of bass parts and lyrics. Usually blues songs are very sad in both their lyrics and the way the music itself sounds. Blues music has grown from its origins in the American South in the late 19th century to a popular music form that has influenced many other styles of music today. Famous blues artists have included Bessie Smith, Muddy Waters, and B.B. King.
