The Forty-Eight Satanic Runes:

A magical manual of the Theban alphabet

Introduction

There are forty-eight Satanic runes, conveyed in antiquity as the "Theban Alphabet" or "Alphabet of Honorius". It is said to have been delivered by Honorius of Thebes, the writer of the grimoire known as the Liber Juratus or Sworn Book of Honorius. The runes themselves are called runes in the sense of being magical letters. They should not be mistaken as equivalent to the Germanic runes, though there are parallel uses.

They were revealed by demons.

They possess three primary uses:

- spell-casting
- contemplation
- divination

In spell-casting, they can be used in two ways:

- talismans/amulets
- burning

In contemplation, they are contemplated visually.

In divination, they are answers to questions posed.

Each rune has two states:

- standing
When standing, the room has positive, active or dense energy. When inverted, it has an opposite, parallel or complementary implication. (This is only a general rule, however, and there are specific cases where such does not apply.) The state of how the rune is intentionally depicted defines its use.

Spell-casting is the work of causing changes through magic.

These changes may concern spiritual or material reality.

They are classified as "changes" due to their intentionality. They are directed by will rather than fate.

A spell is defined both by its method and its target. "Method" is the means whereby the spell is accomplished. The "target" is the creature, place, situation or thing that the spell intends to influence.

The forty-eight Satanic runes have two primary methods of magical activation:

- talismans / amulets
- burning

Each method has its own respective virtues.

Talismans / amulets have long-term, indirect influence that is tied to a physical location. They are best for spells that last continually with low-level or middling intensity.

Burning has short-term, direct influence that is not tied to a physical location. It is best for quick, dramatic spells with high intensity, and for causing effects from afar.

A talisman can be created from any solid substance. If the solid substance in question is endowed with magical power, a talisman results. Ideally, the talisman possesses a visual representation of the magical force it is aligned with, but even this is not completely necessary. The endowment, rather, is all that is necessary.

In burning, magical imagery is essential. The magical power is released upon immolation. Prior to immolation, the power is latent and unactualized. The imagery signals and defines the direction of that power.

There are two types of magical imagery: abstract and concrete. Abstract magical imagery resembles nothing specific in the material world. Concrete magical imagery takes forms within the material world and replicates them in a magical context.

As an example, the demonic seals or sigils of the Goetia are abstract imagery, whereas the images made of the degrees of the zodiac or 28 lunar mansions are concrete imagery.

The forty-eight Satanic runes are examples of abstract imagery.

To create a talisman or amulet, draw the rune upon a solid material substance. Present this object to a demon during a summoning ritual. Ask the demon to consecrate the object and endow it with magical power. Ideally, the demon should have powers in harmony with the meaning of the rune. During the ritual, the object becomes a talisman. After the ritual is over, the talisman can be used. The talisman should be kept in close proximity to the target that it is attempting to influence. If the talisman is for protection, the target that it protects should wear the talisman at all times, or have the talisman near them. If the talisman is for cursing or destructive influence, it should also be kept as close as possible to the target, buried nearby or hidden in a location where the target is most likely to frequent.

To perform a spell of burning, choose white, unlined paper and a black heat resistant bowl. Draw the rune on it. Place the paper in the bowl with the rune clearly visible. Stare at the rune for a few moments, concentrating on it intently. Then burn it. Watch it as it burns, not removing your gaze from it until the rune has been made ash. The ashes should be disposed of outside, at night, and at no other time.
Contemplation

Contemplation is the mental act of receiving or conceiving information.

In magical practice, it refers to a deeper form of mental activity than mere thought.

This deeper form is difficult to describe, but may be regarded as above thought or below thought. It is above in the sense that it is superior. It is below in the sense it is fundamental and originative. It is the level of mind which encounters reality directly.

In magical contemplation, imagery, sound or concept is held in the mind silently. It is a passive activity. Information then arises naturally, uninstigated, and not requiring any special application of soft.

There are two forms of contemplation:

with eyes open

with eyes closed

To have open eyes is best if there is drowsiness or fatigue. Closed eyes is best for deeper contemplation.

To perform open eyed contemplation, draw the rune on clear, unlined paper, staring at it with a fixed gaze. Blinking is acceptable, but do not look away. If a thought arises outside your initial intent, banish it, and return to gazing.

To perform closed eye contemplation, re-create the rune in your mind, visualizing it as white on black or black on white, or another color combination that feels sufficiently vivid. Keep it fixed in your mind. If a thought arises outside of your initial intent, send it away, and return to gazing.

over time, the answers will arise in the form of mental imagery, thoughts and feelings.

It is necessary to test the answers, however. Information received in contemplation should be coupled with divination. It is very easy for false concoctions to arise in contemplation, distorting or defacing the actual answers.
Divination

Divination is the magical art of uncovering hidden information. The most common method is through the use of random phenomena to which magical correspondences have been ascribed. Examples are the random shuffling of cards, the flipping of coins, the casting of the yarrow stocks, the dripping of wax into water, or the casting of dice. In the case of the forty-eight demonic rooms, a forty-eight sided dice should be used, or a deck of forty-eight cards should be made. Both ways are equally effective.

There are three types of questions which can be submitted in this form of divination:

- the general question
- the prescriptive question
- the diagnostic question

The general question asks regarding the question's target, "What is it / what is it's nature?" The prescriptive question asks, "What should be done (to solve the problem or remove the obstacle)?" and the diagnostic question asks, "What is the problem?"

The nature of the question should be formulated prior to its asking.

The question's target can either exist in the past, present or as a potentiality of the future. Before asking the question, this should be specified, if specification is required for arriving at a meaningful answer.
The Runes

I will now list all runes and their correspondences. Bear in mind that the "target" mentioned can be oneself, another, a group, or even inanimate objects, depending on the context. It can also apply to something past, present or future.

I have decided to use compact language in describing the runes. Read them carefully, then put them to use. More insight will be gained through practice than mere reading.

In divination, if an answer appears unclear, it should be contemplated.
Part I: Standing Runes
1. Life (A)

Spell: to heal the target of ailments, to imbue the target with renewed vigor, to extend the target's lifespan

Insight: to give insight into the nature of life in the cosmos, to give insight into one's personal destiny, to give insight into the nature of the target's life, to give insight into details of the target's life

Diagnostic answer: protection is/was/will be the cause of the problem or obstacle
The Protection Rune:
11. Memory (L)

Spell: to increase the target's memory, or the vividness of memories

Insight: to give insight into the nature of memory, to uncover memories in a contemplative context, to perceive the memories of another

General answer: the significance of the target is related to memory, and the power that memory holds

Prescriptive answer: the re-arising of memories, memory itself, or a greater grasp of memory is the solution to the problem

Diagnostic answer: the problem or obstacle is due to the power that memories hold, to the nature of memories, to the form of memories (whether they are delusive or true) or to misunderstandings regarding memories
The Memory Rune:
12. Summoning (M)

Spell: to increase the ability to summon demons, to increase the vividness of summonings

Insight: to summon a demon through contemplation, to give insight into the nature of summoning

General answer: the target is related to summoning, or is summoning itself

Prescriptive answer: the obstacle or problem is best solved through demon summoning

Diagnostic answer: the problem or obstacle is related to summon, or has arisen from summoning
The Summoning Rune:
13. Bondage (N)

Spell: to prevent a target's range of motion or potential, to subject the target to restrictions and bondage

Insight: to give insight into the nature of existing restrictions and bondage, to give insight into how best to implement restrictions and bondage

General answer: the target is related to bondage or restriction, or is bondage itself

Prescriptive answer: the problem or obstacle is removed by the implementation of restriction and bondage

Diagnostic answer: the problem or obstacle is bondage or restriction
The Bondage Rune:
14. Reason (O)

_Spell:_ to increase the ability of the target to reason and use logic

_Insight:_ to give insight into the nature of reason and logic

_General answer:_ logical behavior or implication is innate to the target, or the target itself is logical ability or reason

_Prescriptive answer:_ the problem will be solved or the obstacle will be removed through the mental processes of reasoning and logic, or through an increase and sharpening of these abilities

_Diagnostic answer:_ the problem or obstacle is reason itself, or integral to reason
The Reason Rune:
15. Change (P)

Spell: to instigate dramatic change in a target, to prompt a static target to change, to increase the rate of change in a slowly changing target

Insight: to give insight into the nature of change itself, to give insight into the specific nature of changes which will occur to a specific target

General answer: changes define the target, or changes will soon occur to the target or involve the target

Prescriptive answer: the problem or obstacle will be removed by incidental changes, or the problem or obstacle will undergo changes on its own

Diagnostic answer: the problem or obstacle is inherent to the inevitabilities of change, or the problem or obstacle is inevitable to change itself
The Change Rune:
16. Body (Q)

Spell: to benefit a target's body, either through enhancing metabolism, health, adrenaline or through healing ailments and infirmities

Insight: to give insight into the nature of the body itself, to gain insight regarding matters involving a particular target's body

General answer: the target is the body, the fact of embodiment or the body is its most significant aspect

Prescriptive answer: the problem or obstacle will be solved through the body, or when matters of the body are sufficiently dealt with

Diagnostic answer: the problem or obstacle is the body itself, or something which is occurring to the body
The Body Rune:
17. Truth (R)

Spell: to reveal the truth of a target, to reveal the truth to a target, to make the truth regarding a target publicly known

Insight: to give insight into the nature of truth itself, or to give insight into specific truths

General answer: the target is truth itself, or relates specifically to the truth of the matter in a way where truth, and its knowing, is primary

Prescriptive answer: the revelation of the truth will solve the problem or remove the obstacle

Diagnostic answer: the problem or obstacle is the truth itself, or the fact that the truth is known
The Truth Rune:
18. Harmony (S)

_Spell:_ to establish concord or harmony between two targets, to incline a target to concord and harmony rather than disharmony and conflict

_Insight:_ to give insight into the nature of harmony, to understand its origin, what strengthens and furthers it

_General answer:_ the target is harmony itself, defined by harmony or necessary to the existence of harmony

_Prescriptive answer:_ the problem or obstacle will be solved when harmony is established

_Diagnostic answer:_ the problem or obstacle is due to harmony, or the problem or obstacle is inherent or necessary to the harmony inevitable in the target
The Harmony Rune:
19. Blessing (T)

Spell: to positively benefit to target through a specific or general blessing

Insight: to give insight into the nature of blessing itself, to give insight into the ways blessings can be achieved, or how positive benefits can be obtained

General answer: the nature of the target is a blessing in itself, or integral to blessings and positive effects

Prescriptive answer: the problem or obstacle will be solved through the presence of blessings or positive effects (a magical solution is implied)

Diagnostic answer: the problems or obstacles are themselves necessary to blessings or positive effects, or will inevitably lead to such
The Blessing Rune:

The Chaos Rune:
45. Losing (X)

Spell: to cause a target to be lost, to lose a target, to bring the target to a position where it will be lost

Insight: to give insight into the nature of loss itself or a lost target

General answer: the loss of the target is indicated, or the target implies loss

Prescriptive answer: the problem will be solved or obstacle will be removed in conjunction with the loss of the target, or the loss of something inherent to the target

Diagnostic answer: the problem or obstacle is due to loss or will cause a loss
The Loss Rune:
46. Enemy (Y)

Spell: to cause a target to be an enemy, to cause two or more targets to become enemies

Insight: to give insight into the nature of enemies, known or unknown

General answer: the target is an enemy, or an enemy is implied in the target or related to the target

Prescriptive answer: the solution to the problem, or the removal of the obstacle, will occur when an enemy has been sufficiently dealt with

Diagnostic answer: the problem obstacle is an enemy, or is related to an enemy/enemies
The Enemy Rune:
47. End (Z)

Spell: instigates the target to end, or to begin its ending, pushing it on the path of decline

Insight: to give insight into the nature of what will end the target, its condition of ending and the implications of its ending

General answer: the target is ending, the target is defined by or with its ending, or an ending is otherwise indicated

Prescriptive answer: the problem or obstacle is in the process of ending

Diagnostic answer: the problem or obstacle is innate to the ending of a situation, being or thing
The End Rune:
Spell: causes the target to lose its immutability and unchangeability, making it changeable and inclined to influence

Insight: to give insight into the nature of the immaterial (the spiritual), its operation and significance

General answer: the target is defined by mutability and the changeable nature of spiritual laws, and therefore lends itself to easy influence, and is quite capable of being influenced

Prescriptive answer: the problem or obstacle is solvable, or can be solved with ease

Diagnostic answer: the problem or obstacle is due to the presence of the immaterial, or the immaterial nature of the target
The Immaterial Rune:
